Urge Menon Removal from Cabinet

Failure Covered All Aspects of India's Defence

Both Armies Prepare For Renewed Fighting

Both sides were preparing for a new round of fighting along the Himalayan border. The Chinese are expected to resume the drives that have carried them into India at 13 points since they attacked Oct. 20.

All New Delhi newspapers today hailed Prime Minister Nehru's denunciation of Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, and new demands were made that Menon be ousted from the cabinet entirely.

The 72-year-old prime minister took over defence ministry himself Wednesday and demoted Menon, his closest associate, to the second post of minister of defence production.

The independent Hindustan Times, which has been campaigning for Menon's removal, said the minister's "failure" covered all aspects of defence, including production.

Demonstrators Wednesday set fire to the New Delhi offices of the Indian Communist party in protest against Chinese aggression.

REGRETS GENERAL

Nehru met with his military commanders today for the first time in his new capacity as defence minister. He actually had moved Menon into the background ever since the border fighting started and had been dealing directly with the military himself.

Official sources said Menon would have no role in procuring arms from the United States, Britain or Canada.

American officials have long resented Menon's outspoken criticism of U.S. policies and his avowed friendliness with the

Durham Man Disguised Beef As Horsemeat

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A 38-year-old Durham, Ont., man pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court Wednesday to charges of illegally importing 463,653 pounds of frozen beef into the United States by covering it with horsemeat.

Customs officials charged that on 20 occasions between March 26, 1961, and Nov. 20, 1961 Lorenz trucked frozen beef from Durham to Allentown, Pa., without paying duty by declaring the beef as horsemeat.

Luxury Liner Strikes Barge

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 45,000-ton luxury liner Canberra, bound for Australia with 1,500 passengers, struck a large steel barge near the entrance to Vancouver harbor in heavy fog early today and halted momentarily to inspect for possible damage.

The signal tower stop Vancouver's Lions Gate Bridge near where the collision occurred said it had no information to release except that some time after the collision the Canberra radioed that she was "under way," presumably continuing her voyage.

Riots Marred Hallowe'en Celebrations Across Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada was bewitched from coast to coast last night as wave of flesh-and-blood rioting outdid Hallowe'en demons.

Excited crowds caused havoc in at least two cities—Kamloops, B.C. and Kingston—while a number of towns ganged to the terror of pranksters and marauders.

In Kamloops, police officers and firemen were pelted with eggs and fireworks as a taunting mob of about 1,000 joined in a melee. Firemen dispersed the crowds with fire hoses.

In Kingston, a mob estimated at from 300 to 700 stormed the police station, smashed it through windows and refused to disperse until tear gas was used.

Police fired the gas pellets into the mob and called for federal troops nearby from the barracks. Provost corpsmen arrived to marshal servicemen involved in the riot. Twelve persons, including eight soldiers were arrested.

Teen-agers were blamed for the riots. Others rioting in Kamloops, Kingston and in Strathcona, Ont., where some 300 filled the main street and hurled insults at the local constabulary.

Police officers were struck by rocks from New Haven, P.E.I., to Vancouver. A blockade of burning tires was set up on the Trans - Canada Highway near New Haven, eight miles south west of Charlottetown.

Vancouver police took half an hour to break up one gang involved in a riot which sent a woman crashing through a store window and gave a man a heart attack.

Hallowe'en erupted in the Ontario town of Ingersoll as students set off an air raid siege.

In Ottawa, three men wearing Second World War Gas masks escaped with $1,500 cash when they held up the Holy Family Credit Union Tuesday.

In Chatham, three youths got $1,800 when they accosted a Montreal man at knifepoint as children in costume scurried by on the city's main street.

Fires struck at least three Ontario centres. In Ottawa, a blaze in the lower town, forced some 30 persons to flee a rowhousing section.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A northerly flow prevails over most of Ontario this morning. Temperatures are not very cold since the air has circulated over the North Atlantic and the waters of Hudson Bay and James Bay, which are relatively warm at this season. A strengthening of the northerly flow may bring a air of a more arctic nature Friday night.

NEW SENATORS APPOINTED TO PRAISE P.M.

-- Hayden

Liberal Calls Them Special Task Force

By ALE XMORIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Newly-appointed members of the Senate were pictured Wednesday as the "orchid boys" sent to the upper chamber to sing the praises of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Senator Salter Hayden (Liberal-Ontario) called the new senators a special task force sent to "see to it that the rule of the prime minister is put on the highest pedestal that human ingenuity could possibly construct."

Their second duty was to point out to Canadians that "whether they feel it or not, and whether they believe it or not, they are having the best time of all their lives now."

These senators — and seven have been appointed so far this year by the government—"got into orbit faster than anything ever has at Cape Canaveral," he said.

"Having established a position," at least on cloud nine, they then looked down from that lofty eminence and told us of the wonders of the world so far as Canada is concerned," the Liberal senator added.

He was especially critical of the maiden speeches delivered by senators Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, Allister Grosart, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, and M. Wallace McCutcheon, minister without portfolio and former Toronto businessman.

KNIVES SCRAPPED'

Senator Hayden, himself a Toronto participant in numerous party business courses, said the ge ground rules of the Senate seem to have been completely scrapped."

The type of oratory offered by the fledgling Conservative senators "is not kind enough and there had to be an attempt to state fact.

While Senator Hayden attacked the government in the Red Chamber, Works Minister Fulton was telling the Commons that the Liberals were showing no "sense of restraint" in their accusations against the administration.

He accused them of refusing to recognize all evidence of Canadian economic well-being.

Mr. Fulton was expressing an ee to study the Sons of Free-

Drag Lake For Body of Missing Man

BARRIE (CP)—Three army scuba divers today started dragging Lake Simcoe for the body of Frank Barrett, 34, of Barrie, who was presumed drowned after a boat containing four men capsized.

Boat owner, Al Snider, 40, and Roger Newton, 38, both of Barrie, and Bruce Mayes, 22, of Cookstown, 20 miles southwest of Barrie, are in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Shouts of the men in the water were heard by Thomas Varley, 17, who saw the boat about 200 feet offshore and took out a rowboat while his father called police.

Varley said the men were so weak that it was impossible to climb into the rowboat. They clung to the sides while he rowed to shore. The temperature was in the mid-30s.

12 Arrested After Attack On Kingston Police Station

KINGSTON (CP) — Twelve persons were arrested here Wednesday night following an attack on the Kingston police station by a mob which was finally controlled by use of tear gas.

An estimated 200 rioters—many of them soldiers—pelted rocks through the station windows and scuffled with 30 police officers in protest of the earlier arrest of two soldiers for creating a disturbance.

The mob, some of them clad in gaudy Halloween costumes, trailed two police cruisers eight blocks from a college hangout to the station in City Hall.

They taunted police and rushed within 10 feet of the main entrance.

Canadian Army provost Corps men surrounded and a police officer shot a medium range tear gas shell into the midst of the crowd, backing it 50 yards from the building.

An order then went out from army headquarters for all military personnel to return to barracks.

The trouble started at a downtown restaurant at 9.30 p.m. A group of teenagers and their girl friends became involved in a fracas with soldiers in front of the restaurant.

Minutes later, police were summoned to answer a call at a hotel more than a block away. Two soldiers, unidentified, were arrested for fighting.

Police had to restrain one of them and the crowd began to follow the cruiser, hampered by heavy traffic, down the street.

They pulled ornaments off parked cars along the way, picked up stones and pulled rear-view mirrors off car windows.

The two cruisers carrying the prisoners were blocked as they attempted to enter the police garage and were forced to circle the building and rush the prisoners through another door.

Thirty police officers were summoned from other parts of the city and arrived in cruisers, paddy-wagons and on motorcycles.

After the tear gas was fired, the crowd tried a half-hearted second rush and threw rocks through side windows. Police inside remained covered and them narrowly escaped injury.

Eight of those arrested were military personnel at Kingston, two were civilians and two are still unidentified.

Two soldiers charged for drinking while under age and causing a disturbance are Arthur James Bomes, Terance

Canada Submits Surprise Amendments to Test-Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada has surprised and pleased publicly into the task of turning the new smiles of great-power leaders into resolutions and a surprise series of amendments submitted by Canada late Wednesday.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's disarmament delegate, said the crisis - easing statements of Soviet, American and British leaders "should provide a fair gives fresh opportunity for making headway on disarmament.

Premier Khrushchev, President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan all urged a broad settlement of the nuclear disarmament in their conciliatory exchanges of messages on the last weekend.

Burns introduced his proposal in the form of amendments to a 36-country resolution condemning nuclear tests and asking that all such experiments "cease immediately and not later than Dec. 31."

One amendment urged the U.S., Russia and Britain "to settle the remaining differences between them" to achieve a test ban and to issue instructions to their representatives now studying this matter in Geneva.

But considerable gloom pervaded the committee after speeches by Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, Arthur Dean of the U.S. and Joseph Godber of Britain, reiterating their countries' views.

The U.S. and Britain have submitted their own resolution offering Russia a total ban with verification. As an alternative it offers a ban on tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under the sea—but with no moratorium on underground experiments.

India's Arthur Lall accused Burns of confusing the situation when the Canadian announced he would vote for Anglo-American draft as well as for the small - nation version, whose sponsors are all non - nuclear countries, provided the amendments were accepted.

Burns told a reporter after Wednesday's meeting Canada had not yet decided how it would vote on the non-nuclear resolution if its amendments were defeated.

Red Scientist Awarded Nobel Peace Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The 1962 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to Soviet theorist Lev Davidovich Landau, whose probes into the mysteries of the universe helped pave the way for the launching of the Soviet sputniks.

The 1962 prize for chemistry went to two scientists at Cambridge, England, whose work unfolded secrets in the human blood. Dr. John Cowdery Kendrew and Dr. Max Ferdinand Perutz share the $49,656 prize for their studies of globular proteins.

Landau, 54, is one of the few Jews to win a Nobel Prize in Soviet science. He was awarded the $49,656 physics prize for his pioneering theories for condensed matter, especially liquid helium."

Landau's research was halted Jan. 7 by an automobile accident. His car skidded on ice and crashed in Dubna, 75 miles from Moscow. He lapsed into a coma and was still unconscious in March when a Canadian neurosurgeon, Dr. Wilder Penfield, flew to Moscow from Montreal to join French, Czech and Russian specialists working to bring him around.

Landau is reported making progress but there are doubts in Moscow he ever will recover fully.

Misses Aim, Hits Girl Partner in Eye

MILAN, Italy (AP) — The "cowboy sharpshooter" acting Darik Tognl circus missed his aim Wednesday and shot his girl partner in the eye before thousands of terrified spectators.

TRADE SURPLUS IN AUGUST IS $32,500,000

Deficit Trimmed To $104,100,000

OTTAWA (CP)—With export sales in the United States booming, Canada rolled up a $32,500,000 trade surplus in August, trimming the deficit for the first eight months of the year to $104,100,000.

But a report today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed U.S. sales were virtually the only strong point in this year's trade picture.

August exports of $355,500,000 were up 6.5 per cent from $321,800,000 a year earlier, thanks largely to a 15.7-per-cent hike in sales to the U.S. The month's imports rose 6.7 per cent to $253,000,000 from $400,000,000, with gains in purchases from all areas except Britain.

Over the eight months January-August, exports rose to $4,130,500,000, up 10.6 per cent from $3,733,000,000. But imports advanced by 14.1 per cent to $4,234,600,000 from $3,712,200,000.

CONTRASTS STRONGLY

The eight-month trade deficit reversed quarterly over exports of $104,100,000 was in contrast to a surplus of $20,900,000 a year earlier. In August last year there was a $31,800,000 surplus.

Exports to the U.S. in January-August were 22.4 per cent ahead of last year. Exports to Britain were up on per cent but there were percentage declines of 6.4 to other Commonwealth countries and 9.2 in all other countries including the Common Market.

On the import side, the only decline in the eight months was from purchases from Britain, down six per cent, from $1,000,000 to port gains of 13.7 per cent with other Commonwealth countries, 17.7 per cent with the U.S. and 13 per cent with all other countries.

Trade figures by areas for the January-August periods of this year and last, in millions of dollars:

Exports	1962	1961
United States	$2,471.3	$2,019.2
United Kingdom	596.0	590.3
Other Cmwlth	207.8	221.7
All others	855.3	901.8
Total	4,130.5	3,733.0
Imports
United States	2,953.1	2,509.1
United Kingdom	392.2	417.4
Other Cmwlth	207.3	179.3
All others	655.4	606.5

Statue Worth $800,000 Is Stolen

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — A priceless, almost life - sized bronze statue of Hermes, the fifth century B.C. has been stolen from the Gastelvetrano city hall, Mayor Giovanni di Paola announced today.

Professor Iole Marconi Bovio, superintendent of antiquities of western Sicily, said the bronze statue of Aphebus—a handsome youth—"is of inestimable value." The city of Castelvetrano, where the statue was kept in the mayor's office, gave it a nominal value of 500,000,000 lire (roughly $800,000).

Thant Informed Russ Missiles Down By Friday

U.S. Navy Resumes Cuba Arms Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. warships resumed their arms blockade of Cuba at dawn today and air surveillance was ordered renewed after Premier Fidel Castro evidently refused to agree to United Nations inspection of Soviet missile withdrawals from the Caribbean island.

U.S. officials probably wanted to verify with aerial photos a report by U. Thant, UN acting secretary-general, that all Russian missiles would be dismantled by Friday and removed from Cuba soon afterward.

Thant said he was reliably informed Wednesday that Havana that this would be done.

But the White House Wednesday night announced the resumption of the blockade after President Kennedy reviewed the situation with the National Security Council.

The blockade was suspended for two days at Thant's request while negotiations between Thant and Castro were under way.

DATE UNSPECIFIED

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger left vague just when aerial surveillance was to resume after the 48-hour break. Apparently, this was intended to avoid tipping off Cuban antiaircraft batteries that fired on unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes at the height of the crisis last weekend.

Relmposition of the blockade was ordered to prod Castro, the foot-dragging on UN inspection has injected a note of uncertainty in proceedings which had seemed to be moving smoothly since Sunday when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev agreed to dismantle the bases and bring home his missiles.

The flow of arms in Havana may have prompted Kennedy to call off a press conference, originally set for today, until the situation is clarified.

Mikoyan Offers To Sell Fish To Smallwood

Shortly after the Russian aircraft touched down at Gander Airport, Premier Joseph Smallwood and Highways Minister R. Rowe met the Russian and boarded the plane to meet Mr. Mikoyan.

Mr. Smallwood and Mr. Rowe were about to leave for St. Anthony, 300 miles north, when it officially open a new highway, when the Russian plane arrived. They delayed their flight since they were invited aboard Mr. Mikoyan's plane.

Mr. Smallwood told reporters after his chat with Mikoyan that they had talked about industries in Newfoundland. When Mr. Smallwood said Newfoundland was a "depressed" industry, Mr. Mikoyan said: "So do we. Can we sell you some fish?"

Mr. Smallwood said they didn't touch on international affairs.

Mr. K. Sold Castro Down River Cuban Told U Thant at Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic informants said today that Cuban Premier Castro, in a bitter tirade at his Havana meeting with Thant, accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev of having sold him down the river.

The high-level sources said Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, reported he had a most unpleasant trip to Cuba Tuesday and Wednesday.

Castro, these sources said, volunteered his bitter remarks at the outset of his first conference with Thant. He stated repeatedly that he was not consulted about Moscow's decision to dismantle the Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

At the United Nations in New York, a spokesman said Castro spoke throughout the negotiations. The spokesman said the meeting was on a cordial basis.

Another source at the UN said the information was that there was no Castro tirade.

Hallowe'en Vandalism Said Limited in City, District

City public works department employees have a few traffic and stop signs to put back up and the window washers today are having a field day, but allowe'en vandalism in Belleville and district was very limited last night.

This was the story today from city and provincial police who reported Hallowe'en activities last night as being "very quiet".

"We had a few traffic signs pulled out and a few windows were broken, but otherwise things were very quiet", reported a city police department official.

And the same story came from the provincial police who reported very little Hallowe'en activity in the townships.

The tear-agers apparently even stayed away from the schools last night.

In the city a couple of windows were broken at the still un-occupied Parkdale School, and a window in a building office on East Bridge Street was broken.

Also a few motorists found their car radio aerials had been broken or damaged.

But activity was confined mostly to giving store windows a good soaping, with results that the window washers were out early this morning to erase what in some instances was not too savory language.

In the residential areas the younger fry had a field day calling at neighborhood houses and returning home loaded with loot.

The local armouries was the mecca for upwards of 800 teenagers who turned up to enjoy the annual Hallowe'en Howl.

Trouble Fails To Erupt At Strathroy

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP) — Trouble that plagued residents of Strathroy for the last 12 weeks failed to erupt into a destructive free-for-all despite a boisterous Hallowe'en atmosphere.

Firemen extinguished one fire. Scuffles broke up four youths who complained they were "just standing around, doing nothing," and vegetables were buried at passing cars.

Outside of that, no serious incidents marred Wednesday evening's activities, although the mood of the southwestern Ontario town of 4,200 was uneasy with anticipation.

Firemen extinguished a fire in a small wooden barn used to store straw. Pranksters were believed responsible.

Raiders set a fire Tuesday night, their 19th, which Police Chief George Tanton termed a "wee little fire." Police, on the prowl, believed to be youths, had ignited a shed.

POLICE MOVE GROUPS

There was no serious incidents on Front Street, the town's main thoroughfare. Small groups of youths gathered on the street, moving to other locations as police arrived at the scene. In residential areas, "tricks" were confined to costumed youngsters soaping windows.

A 16-year-old complained that his shack was raided by another youth after two cars bumped in a parking lot, scene of Tuesday night's fire. It was the only reported assault.

A group of youths standing on the corner of Front and Head Streets objected to rocking a car owned by a newspaper man and hurling obscenities at him. "I'm a reporter they had no grudge against the "cops," that they just "wanted to have fun with them."

The Strathroy police force, equipped with walkie-talkies and assisted by three auxiliary policemen and 14 volunteer firemen, patrolled the streets.

Chief Tanton said he had his "own opinion" about Mayor Ralph Westgate's statement Tuesday that he was too old to cope with the current situation. The mayor said Chief Tanton deserves an easier job after serving Strathroy well for 31 years.

Mayor Westgate said he will request a militia unit be sent here if police cannot curb the trouble. Reeve Harold Jones says the problem was caused mainly by Strathroy youths, with some coming from out of town.

Plea of Guilty Not Accepted By Magistrate

Five youths, Peter Reginald Campbell, 19; Carl Ralph Enman, 19; Dennis Michael O'Neill, 19; Anthony Schell, 18 and Robert Robinson, 19, all of Trenton, appeared in magistrate's court here this morning charged with assault, causing bodily harm.

The five youths pleaded guilty but after hearing evidence, Magistrate Wills rejected their pleas and remanded them for three weeks on their own recognizance.

They were charged with assaulting Douglas J. Leger and John F. Walsh, of the Trenton RCAF Station.

Constable W. Willis of the Ontario Provincial Police told the court that the five youths accompanied by two girls, Gloria Swanson and Nancy Strand, were driving just east of Trenton when the girls were let out near Loblaws.

The girls walked across the road and a service station where Leger and Walsh were getting their car attended, the youths spoke to them. The girls entered the Walsh car while proceeded west on No. 2 highway and turned north onto the 6 R.D. road.

The constable said the five youths followed in their car and passing the Walsh car forced it to stop.

Statements were taken out of the car and two of the accused youths, Enman and Schell, struck Walsh and Leger, the officer testified.

The air force men were admitted to the RCAF hospital where they were kept for observation. Crown Attorney John Pringle said a full medical report had not been received from the hospital.

Battle in 100 Districts Will Decide Majority in House of Representatives

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nov. 6 election battle for control of the United States House of Representatives will be fought in 435 congressional ridings but probably will be decided in fewer than 100.

It's on these close districts that the political pros are concentrating their fire, and in which overturns are most likely.

Most of them are classified as marginal districts because the winners in 1960, as well as in many previous elections, barely squeaked through. Congressional redistribution since then has added areas to the key list and has removed others.

In more than 300 constituencies, the politicians have counted their chickens in advance on the assumption that the outcome will follow traditional patterns.

The mathematical situation is that the Republicans must score a net gain of 44 seats to obtain a bare majority of one in the New house. Only the optimists in the Republican high command expect that to happen. The pre-election claims of Democrats are for as many as 13 "sure gains;" chances "excellent" for a 25-seat pick-up, and a "possibility" of 40. Publications if there's a landslide of now unexpected proportions.

WINNING CONCEDED

Democratic strategists contend the Republicans are way off the mark. While conceding that the party not in control of the administration usually picks up seats in the presidential election year, the Democratic pros aren't conceding anything more than that.

Their predictions are that Democratic losses will not exceed 15 seats and they see good prospects of coming up with a net gain of several House votes.

Democrats redistrilled the last House 263 to 174. Because of the redistribution, there will be only 435 seats in the next House.

A major battleground will be California. Six districts in that state were in the "marginal" group in 1960, but the state gained eight House seats through redistribution, and boundaries have been changed.

Complicating the California picture is a torrid contest for governor between Democrat incumbent Edmund G. (Pat) Brown and Republican challenger Richard M. Nixon, the former vice-president. The winner, it is said, may pull some House candidates into office.

Democrats are hopeful of picking up as many as nine seats in California. Republicans see just as hopeful of scoring gains.

Sewer, Water Extension Plans Heard by Council

Board Approves Sale of Town Debentures

TRENTON — Clerk-comptroller C. W. Larry said today that Ontario Municipal Board approval for the sale by the town of debentures, amounting to $35,000, less $900, for road reconstruction work within the town, had been received this morning at the town office.

A few months ago, the town advertised its intention of raising the needed money by the sale of debentures. Almost immediately, 21 town citizens let it be known, by means of a petition, presented to council that they were not in favor of the sale of debentures for this purpose. The upshot of this objection, was that a formal hearing before OMB representatives was made necessary. At the hearing in Trenton last week, Douglas Hyde, an owner of five members of the Trenton Ratepayers' Association, pointed out that some of the work on the project had already been undertaken, (Fin Street). It was explained that the money for this work had been taken out of current funds, but the final OMB decision on the proposed sale of debentures allowed for the cost of the work on Fim Street, hence the substraction of $900 from the final approval of the debenture sale.

Meanwhile, town engineer Earl Armstrong, has claimed that the town's road work has been held up for months because of delays in installations, has men at work on the project today.

Mr. Larry said that the sale of the debentures would be delayed, perhaps as much as two months and that all the work planned may not be undertaken at this time.

Believe Arson Cause of Fire

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said yesterday that investigations, conducted by an official from the Ontario Provincial Marshal's office in Belleville had confirmed a theory that the Oct. 31 fire in the girls' gymnasium section of the high school, had been set deliberately.

Fire Chief Ellis said that the investigator had other information on the matter, but that this would not be made public at this time. Investigations are continuing. Smoke damage, estimated at $200, was caused by the fire.

All Quiet On Hallowe'en

Provincial police at Brighton tell a similar story, with perhaps a little more activity in the prank department, but nothing serious.

IN MEMORIAM

HOWARD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frederick Howard, who passed away November 1st, 1958.
Those who love us live on out of sight.
But never out of mind.
Their face cherished in the hearts,
Of those they left behind.
Loving and kind in their ways,
Upright and just in all his days.
Sadly missed by Mary, Jack and Isabel.
Beautiful memories he left behind,
Sweet memories remain.
Isabel, daughter and son-in-law Ross and John Allison.

T. G. Tom Lowery Ends 52-Year Newspaper Career

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — This Saturday T. G. (Tom) Lowery will start in his last working day at the Ottawa Journal, winding up a 52 - year newspaper career likely to leave an indelible mark on Canadian journalism.

For upwards of 43 years, as The Journal's city editor and then managing editor until two years ago, this self - effacing man had a major voice in deciding what news from home and abroad items of thousands of Ottawa Valley people would read in his newspaper.

The news decisions of the breezy little newspaper man, now stooped, silver-haired and 70, were based on an unswerving honesty and standards of taste that marked his career from the day he started work in 1910.

"I started on the old Ottawa Free Press in 1910 at $8 a week and I was overpaid. In 1917 The Journal took over the paper and continued to publish it in the morning as The Journal Press. I became city editor of both papers and in 1927 I became managing editor. That's about it."

HATED SLANTED NEWS

But that isn't the whole story. "TGL" or "The Chief," as he is known at The Journal news room, is an articulate, exacting man, a dogged worker from the old school who expects the same performance from his staff.

He hated slanted news — "it made him positively vicious," says Associate Editor L. Norman Smith—and he had no use for "fluffy spelling and clutered story construction.

But touches of temper were never TGL's trademark. His strongest weapon was a smile that revealed the genuine warmth so well known to beginners and veterans alike.

TGL worked under three renowned Journal presidents—P. D. Ross, E. Norman Smith and Senator Grattan O'Leary—and delighted them all.

"He was a master of his craft," says Senator O'Leary, who joined The Journal as a reporter in 1911.

When TGL started in the business, world news clacked in over one telegraph wire in the corner. Now half a dozen modern teletypes bring it in.

TALENTED ON ICE

"The changes haven't been all that great," says Tom Lowrey. "One thing newspapers now have is good women reporters — in the old days we might have had one sob-sister, that's all."

He cites the birth of The Canadian Press as a national news-gathering organization in 1917 and the development of picture transmission by wire as the biggest changes.

Old-timers say Tommy could have become a professional hockey player as did his brothers Ed, Fred and Gerry. Robert, now a priest at St. Michael's College in Toronto, and Bill and Frank are top-notch players too. Once the seven Lowery brothers took on the Ottawa Shamrocks—hottest team in the then powerful City League—and whacked them.

When he started as a reporter on the old Free Press, Ottawa had 83,000 people — compared with 300,000 today. One night city council was arguing about a name for a new suburban street. When the councillors saw Tom Lowrey in the press gallery they decided on Lowrey Street. The suburbs now are miles beyond it.

He has a wife and five children.

Retail Price Bottled Milk Is Unchanged

Contrary to expectations, the retail price of bottled milk did not go up in Belleville this morning.

Last week it was announced from Toronto that the price of fluid milk sold by farmers would be increased by 10 cents per cwt., and dairymen said that the delivered price on November 1st would be increased by one cent a quart.

But yesterday the Ontario Government declared a moratorium on a price formula for milk producers until the industry can study the effect of a price increase.

Premier John Roberts said the moratorium does not prevent price increases from taking place but local dairymen said today there would be no increase for the moment.

Belleville dairies had sent out cards notifying customers the delivered price of milk would be increased on November 1st.

Belleville district dairy operators were notified of the change in plans by Sherman Graham of Trenton, chairman of the Belleville District Milk Distributors Association.

Gets CNR Gold Pass

Born in the Austrian Tyrol in 1897, Edward Schrieder will retire after 50 years service with the CNR, in Belleville, at the end of this year. He began work as an engine wiper in the Motive Power Department, in Belleville on May 13, 1912. In July, 1913, he was appointed to boilermaker's assistant, to boilermaker second class in 1918, and boilermaker in 1919. He was presented with a 50-year pass June 28, 1962, and with a lifetime "Gold Pass," yesterday. With the Gold Pass he received a personal letter of congratulation from Donald Gordon, president of the CNR. J. A. Pollock, district manager of the railway, is presenting the pass in the above picture.

Hallowe'en Eve At Armouries Great Success

"Tremendous" is the only word that can be used to describe the success of last night's "Hallowe'en Howl", held at the Belleville Armouries. Receipts showed there were 858 paid admissions, but a look at the large crowd, indicated well over 700 people were in attendance. During the evening many prizes in compliments of the local merchants were given away and at 10:30, the fancy dress prizes were presented with best dressed girl — Susanne Muncey; best dressed boy — Dave Rosenplot, best dressed couple — Louise Brown, Jim Langton; most original — Peter Cliff-Phillips; funniest — Gary McMillan.

Net proceeds from the dance will go to U.N.I.C.E.F. A great deal of thanks are due to constables Parker and Yearwood, the Belleville Police Department, who looked after the prizes and also aided in the costume Parade.

Thanks goes to radio station CJBQ for the loan of records, also to merchants of Belleville who so generously donated prizes. The tremendous success of this dance is due only to the hard work of many people, and it is hoped that next year's dance will attract an even larger percentage of ghouls and goblins.

C.A.S. Enjoys Well-Presented Two-Act Play

Some fifty foster parents, staff members and members of the Board of Children's Aid Society met in Education Hall at the Belleville General Hospital Tuesday night to enjoy a two-act play entitled "Present Pleasure," written by Mrs. G. S. Wonnacott, a member of the board. The play was directed by Nora Stirling, in co-operation with the Child Welfare League of America, endeavored to tell the audience what a foster family may encounter during a child's adjustment in a foster home; to help them understand that children have problems which affect their behavior—that their parents remain important to them, and influence their reactions to the foster parents.

The role of the foster mother was taken by Mrs. Wonnacott, the foster father by Linton Read, the foster child by Justin Wonnacott and the social worker, "Miss Page," by Mrs. Janette Thompson. Mrs. H. R. Grainger acted as stage manager. Both Mrs. Wonnacott and Mr. Read are members of the board of directors of the C.A.S., and Mrs. Thompson is a member of the agency staff.

The play was exceptionally well presented and stimulated the discussion which followed under the direction of J. D. Adamson of the agency staff.

British Travel Association Staff Answers Questions

"Can you suggest a resort that's never windy?"

"What will the temperature be on May 17?"

Questions like these are normal fare for the staff of the British Travel Association, the U.K. tourist information bureau here.

The association, which has just moved its information centre to 151 Bloor St. West, has a file of some of the weird and wonderful questions received during the last year.

"I am in search of a church window I saw in one of the small parish churches that border the Thames but I don't remember which parish. This window showed St. Peter at the top with dozens of little devils with forked tails and pitch forks, forking the sinners into the flames of hell."

A few days of research by the BTA reception staff and the window was located in a church in the Thames-side village of Lechlade, Gloucestershire.

No fewer than 20 letters were exchanged between a clergyman in Nova Scotia, BTA in Toronto and London and a hotel in England's Cotswold Hills.

ALLERGIC TO CATS

The clergyman, who was to visit Britain in late August, wrote:

"We are willing and able to pay for good accommodation but we have one problem which, on past visits to England, has been insuperable. We are unable to find a hotel which is absolutely free of cats and dogs. I am extremely allergic to these animals and each attempt at a holiday in England has ended quickly.

"Surely there is someone in England who doesn't like pets around."

In three weeks, BTA found a hotel in the Cotswold Hills which did not have animals on the premises and which, more important, agreed to refuse any reservations for the period of the minister's stay from other guests with pets.

The final blow came when the minister refused the accommodation because "the hotel will not guarantee that no dogs, cats, etc., have been in the public rooms or bedrooms during the preceding part of the summer."

Earlier this year, a Quebec schoolboy wrote asking for a picture of the Common Market! A family of would-be visitors wanted "to live like the gypsies" but had no past experience of caravanning. An agency hiring out genuine gypsy-style caravans complete with horses was found. BTA even supplied instructions regarding harnessing, driving and "paddocking" of the horses at night.

A Montreal woman wrote asking where she might buy a copy of The Barbarians, by Ian MacLaren, see cat shows and participate in a seance.

Only three days elapsed before this inquirer received detailed advice. Dates and places of cat shows were pswvided, a book dealer was recommended (The Barbarians was published in 1901) and the Spiritualist Association of London was recommended for information on current activities.

City Doctors Organized, Form Academy of Medicine

Belleville medical doctors have formed an organization to be known as the Belleville Academy of Medicine, the purpose of which will be to promote the advancement of professional standards and ethics and to allow them as a professional group to take an active part in community affairs.

Membership in the organization will be confined to medical doctors who have offices in the city although there are provisions for associate members without local offices.

Dr. J. S. Loynes has been named the first president of the Academy with Dr. P. C. Loder as vice president and Dr. Nolan MacDonald as secretary.

Thirty local doctors attended the organizational meeting held at a dinner get together on Tuesday evening. Anticipated membership of the Academy including associate members, is expected to be in the neighborhood of 40 or 45.

The organization will allow local doctors to hold meetings to hear special speakers and also allow them as a group to take a public stand on health and other matters.

New Type Testers To Check Your Radio, TV Tubes

In keeping with the "do-it-yourself" trend, Booth Radio have installed a modern, up-to-date tube tester for those who wish to test their own radio and television tubes. This tester is easy to use and shows the condition of tubes on a large, easy-to-read scale.

An additional feature of this tester is that it may be used to check radio and TV fuses as well as car radio virbators. A great many people are taking advantage of this free service and are making considerable saving by bringing in their tubes and testing them themselves.

Mad Dogs at Midnight

A recent story out of Strathroy, a Western Ontario town of 4,900 people relates the history of an incredible run of wanton vandalism and juvenile delinquency which has kept the local police force and volunteer fire department literally running in circles for the past two weeks.

The latter group have been answering an average of four to five false and real alarms each night with the source of these alarms being directly attributable to a group of youths' rather macabre sense of humor and activity. This nonsense has literally worn the volunteer firemen down to the point where they must keep dimes and thus are not able to perform their normal livelihood.

Despite all night vigils these so-called pranks are perpetrated right under the noses of the police. For instance, whilst maintaining a watch from the roof of a supermarket building a number of gasoline filled water bombs were dumped onto the parking lot and set fire to. The police claim they didn't see the activity leading up to this incident nor the people involved in it.

It is amazing that such activity can take place in a modern community on such a wholesale scale. Yet, from the publicity given the Strathroy affair, we read reports of such. They indicate a lack of leadership and discipline on the part of the elders in the community when their offspring turn, figuratively, into mad dogs.

There is a most effective measure which has been tried and not found wanting on previous occasions.

This involves citizens taking an active part as is their duty when the normal forces to preserve law and order appear to the inffective. Such was the case when, about a decade ago, there was a gang of motorized delinquents who terrorized local village dances in the district around Brantford.

After a month or so of activity in which dances were broken up and anyone who protested was ganged up on, the citizens of the district organized a special dance. True to form, the motorized hoodlums appeared intent on perpetrating their idea of entertainment and good clean fun.

Once they had landed and made their initial moves they suddenly found themselves surrounded, their vehicles' tires were slashed and several citizens attended with a sound and long due thrashing to them before turning the group over to the police. As we recall there were close to 30 youths collected in the harvest.

It would seem that in Strathroy the citizens might well give a little bodily support to the four policemen who are expected to stop the score of youths who are turning into mad dogs at midnight.

It would be taking a course of action not unknown to responsible citizens in a free society.

Changing Britain

Hard upon the heels of information to the effect that one seemingly unchangeable aspect of English life, to wit the squarish radiator of the Rolls Royce implacably buttressed by a single pair of headlights, was to undergo modernization (i.e. two pair of headlights and a renovated radiator shell) comes another interesting fact.

In London workmen have commenced to clean the exterior of St. Paul's Cathedral, unchanged since it was originally erected under the artistic eye of its architect Sir Christopher Wren in 1710.

The former incident has been attributed by some interpreters of such important events to the fact that Britain was about to enter the Common Market and was changing her automotive styling accordingly.

Could it be the latter incident is due to the possibility that the English have finally succumbed to the high pressure program of American soap advertisers?

"To demonstrate the weakness of basing all judgments on statistics, Lionel Forsyth (former president of Dosco) told the story of the lumber camp in Northern Quebec, staffed by 50 lumberjacks and two women cooks. When one of the loggers seduced one of the cooks, the statistics showed that 50 per cent of the women had been seduced by two percent of the men."—Peter Newman.

How times change. During the war when RCAF planes were sent to Alaska to beef up U.S. defences, an over-zealous U.S. customs man tried to collect import duty. Now, a Canadian air marshal commands all U.S. army, navy and air force elements attached to NORAD's joint continental command when the American chief is absent.—Brantford Expositor.

Douglas' Crisis Attitude Disappoints Loyal Citizens

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — It is going to take some time for people to forgive and forget the way the New Democrats rallied to duty 'round the flag in the long, heart-thumping hours of the Cuban crisis.

It was bad enough, a great many Canadians will think, that newly-elected New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas should have said of the Russian threat to the United States, Canada and the world peace . . .

". . . we are not at all get too excited (about the Soviet missile bases in Cuba) we should recall that for 15 years the Western Powers (that is us and the rest of the Free World) have been ringing the USSR with missile and air bases from which the American Strategic Air Command could destroy almost any city in Russia . . ."

It did not matter, apparently, that the Soviet missile bases in Cuba, to borrow Tommy Douglas' own words, "could destroy almost any city" in the United States and Canada from the Maritimes to the Prarie mid-west.

It did not sound like Tommy Douglas as Parliament knew him more than 15 years ago . . . but he has done nothing to disown those words attributed to him in the first nerve - straining hours of the Cuban crisis.

MOSCOW LATCHES ON

Now it is far from easy to think about retracting or even explaining.

For Mr. Douglas is being quoted by the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa as a Canadian authority. Yet, from a publicity angle, the Free World should lower its defences and remove the bases around the USSR that have so far policed the peace.

For when asked what the Russians might think of a suggestion that had come out of Washington for a "trade-off" of Soviet bases in Cuba for American bases in Turkey, Mr. Ivan I. Mironov, counsellor and press secretary of the Soviet Embassy, allowed it was "a start" — good as far as it goes — excerpt from Moscow's viewpoint it had not even begun going far enough.

What might suit the Russians, purred Mr. Mironov, would be to have down the Cuban bases if the United States would dismantle its rocket sites in countries all around the Soviet.

(These bases in Turkey, Greece, Italy, North Africa, West Germany, Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands long have been considered as one of the prime factors of decision which so far have persuaded the Russians that it would be extremely bad business to start anything.)

But remove the whole works,

"Nice, lan! it? Five hundred dollars and three months cold whining."

The alterations and improvements to Holloway Street Methodist Church are nearing completion. Work has been in progress since June. Mr. William Alford is doing the carpenter work; Mr. W. J. Carter is doing the electrical installations; Mr. W. A. Cornelius is doing the interior decorating; the Ritchie Company is putting down the beautiful pews this week, and in a few days the new seats will be in place. It is expected that the church will be reopened on November 17th.

Here Are Several Reasons for Not Smoking

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please give me reasons for not smoking. My 16-year-old son smokes a lot. He tries to exercise and eat to develop his body but he remains thin though muscular, and doesn't think his smoking can harm him now or later.
— Mrs. S.

Kind of a loaded question, ma'am, but there are several good reasons for not smoking.

The anti-cancer organizations have been waging a vigorous if not very successful war against it, pointing to the convincing statistics that cigarette smokers have many times as much risk of dying of lung cancer.

This doesn't seem to have much influence on young people because middle age is the peak of lung cancer seems such a long way off.

If they want to smoke now, they want to smoke now! They have scant interest in what may happen to them several years later.

Also, do they want to smoke now? Because it seems "grown up," or "because everybody else does," or even because their parents do, so they take it for granted.

Do you smoke? Or does your husband? A fairly recent study of young people showed that 46 percent of the girls of smoker and of girls smoke if both their parents do. If only one parent smokes, 25 per cent do so. Even if neither parent smokes, it's 29 and 16 per cent.

At age 40 or 50, a lot of them will desperately wish they hadn't started, of course, but it isn't easy to make them realize this now.

So what other reasons are there? I know doctors and other people who have quit cigarettes at age 50 and 60, not because of the cancer risk but for other reasons. One stopped because of a persistent cough that kept him from getting enough sleep. Another quit because of trouble with his circulation.

Smoking dries out the nose and throat and lung surfaces. It irritates. It causes discharges and cough. It interferes to a real degree with efficiency of breathing. It dulls the taste for food. It causes spasm of small arteries. It quickens the heart rate. It stains the teeth and makes the breath smell bad to non-smokers.

Your son is misinformed in plain language, just plain wrong — when he doesn't think smoking can harm him now or later." It can.

I wish I had never started to smoke, because it wasn't easy when I finally accepted the fact that I ought to quit. I did so.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a ganglion? My doctor says I have one on my right wrist and that it should be removed but there is no big hurry. He says it is caused by an injury. Can it become cancer? — Mrs. H.H.

A ganglion is a cyst or tumor involving a tendon. It's probable that an injury, or the same one, some repeated strain or irritation caused it. It is not a cancer. tion. It doesn't turn into cancer. If it becomes annoying, the solution is to have it removed, which is a simple surgical procedure.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal for a girl of 15 to have a period every four or five weeks and for it to last for two to two and a half weeks? Should she see her doctor or will this soon stop? — Mrs. B.K.

She should see her doctor, as this is excessive. Some irregularities are quite common when the menses are beginning but usually in the direction of prolonged intervals instead of frequent and long periods. This sort of thing often corrects itself automatically, but in today's case, action is called for.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Enclosed Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. BOX 138, Dundee, Ill. enclosing a stamp, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25¢ in coin to cover handling.

Strictly Personal

Strength, Weakness Confused

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The people who know exactly what they want are able to travel in a straight line and therefore arrive at or miss their goal; the people who don't know what they want are able to get only a little almost through their lives; but it is the people who want opposite and irreconcilable things at the same time who can never be satisfied with fate. (This, by the way, is why actors and performers are perpetually discontented: they want both notoriety and privacy in the same measure.)

I think it is not without some deep significance that man stands halfway in size between the atom and the universe, that, in physical terms, each atom within us bears the same ratio in size to the whole human body bears to the total universe thus, man is truly "in the middle," the very fulcrum of creation.

If you don't return home from a foreign city with the feeling that your own country has some odd habits and peculiar customs, the chances are that you "broadened" you — it has merely flattened you.

Whenever we have an argument with ourselves, the side that usually wins is the one that shouts, "You should " and the side that usually wins is the one that whispers, "You deserve it."

Not to suggest that soft-voiced people are always right, but it generally true that the louder the voice the lower the level of intelligence.

Husbands who tend to-be extremely critical of their wives in public are often quite dependent upon them in private; and the public treatment is simply a way of expressing resentment of the private dependence.

No problem that man has been able to say, more tersely or convincingly, what Napoleon said in summing up his career of conquest and collapse: "The more I study the world, the more I am convinced of the inability of brute force to create anything durable."

The ordinary people are duped by their simplicity, and the extraordinary people are duped by their sophistication; each type fails in the direction of its own special weakness, which it thinks to be a strength.

Women are unjustly accused of babbling a great deal, but that is how the feminine process of logic works; unlike a man, a woman cannot tell what she thinks until she hears what she says. The female mind is an exquisitely engineered "feedback" system.

From birth until 25 or so, we shape our lives; from 25 to 50 or so, our lives shape us; and we spend the years from 50 until death wondering how this curious reversal came to be.

British investigators announced that Lee Harvey Oswald, as conclusively as possible without bodily proof that Adolf Hitler was dead 17 years ago today—in 1945. It was found the pistol dictator died April 30, 1945, in the chancellery bunker in Berlin as the end of a siege run by Allied forces. The inquiry reported it was not definitive whether Hitler died by his own hand or was executed on his own command. The body had been burned in a gasoline pyre.

Prompt Action Needed Here

The Unconscionable Transaction Relief Act, after being in effect for 50 years, should be declared invalid by the Ontario Court of Appeals. It is interpreted as interesting a matter beyond the jurisdiction of the province and wholly within that of the Federal Parliament.

This will open the way, unless remedial action is quickly taken, to all the sharers and like gentry to victimize the public. The Act has been a deterrent, even if by no means an entirely effective one, in the past.

Letter To the Editor

Cites Advantages Of Fluoridation

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer;

May I through your column to reply to the very thoughtful letter of October 29, written by William G. Bowlsby.

I would refer you to the report of the Fluoridation Investigating Committee, appointed by the Government of Ontario, as submitted in January, 1961.

This committee was a non-partisan, non-political group composed of the Honorable Mr. Justice Gale, Chairman of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Dr. G. E. Hall, president and Vice-President of the University of Western Ontario, and Mrs. Grace McKeough, of Beaverton, Ontario. They did a long and thorough study, listened to all the evidence, heard both sides of the story, authenticated all the research and finally submitted a lengthy report covering all their findings. Most of the dentists in Belleville have the full report in their offices. I submit a summary of conclusions and recommendations from that report and paragraphs six to twelve are self explanatory.

Para. 6—"We are convinced that it has been conclusively proved that the presence of fluoride, either naturally occurring or mechanically added in a municipal or communal water supply in concentrations of approximately one part per million strikingly reduces the incidence of dental caries when such water is consumed during the period of tooth development and that the effect in reducing effect of fluoride extends into adult life.

Para. 7—"We are also convinced that the long-term ingestion of fluoride at approximately one part per million over a very wide range of water intake is not harmful to bodily health and that no fluorosis of esthetic significance is specifically associated with it.

Para 8 - "We are satisfied that the equipment in the new municipal water systems for the addition of fluoride to the water supply is mechanically adequate for this purpose and that the concentration of fluoride is and can be controlled within the limits of optimal effectiveness and safety.

Para. 9 - "We are also satisfied that the presence of fluoride in the recommended concentration does not cause corrosion of water mains, pipes and fittings nor does it affect adversely in any way industrial processes.

Para 10 - "We find that the cost of fluoridation of a municipal water supply is very reasonable in relation to the health benefit to the community.

Para. 11 - "We believe that the province is there is no practical alternative to the fluoridation of municipal water supplies in the case of those where the water does not contain approximately one part per million of fluoride.

Para 12 - "We hold the firm opinion that the fluoridation of municipal water supplies by the authority of appropriate legislation would not be a denial of any fundamental or basic civil right or liberty which the legislature of Ontario should protect and preserve."

Now as this problem concerns Belleville specifically, our water supply is reported to already have a small amount of fluoride present so we would only be adjusting this material to the optimum amount.

The cost in communities of comparable size is between 2 and 6 cents per person per year, irrespective of any amount that will be wasted. The cost of the original equipment might run as high as 25 cents per person.

There is presently in the planning stage a new addition to the pump house which will be required whether this health procedure is carried out or not, so the cost of this addition can in no way be chargeable to fluoridation.

The present number of dentists in Belleville is unable to meet the demands for dental services as has been evidenced by some of the complaints on Radio Station CJBQ.

The adjusting of the fluoride content of our water supply would reduce the incidence of dental decay in our children in very appreciable amount and could benefit adults directly as well as financially. This would, in turn, be the equivalent of another available the services of several dentists to the community, and at the same time provide better dental health for us all at a lesser dollar outlay. In conclusion I quote from the report of the Fluoridation Committee.

Is effective
Is safe
Costs little
Gives lifelong protection
Has no health hazards
Gives two-thirds less tooth decay
Saves you money on dental bills
Is approved by Dental, Medical and Public Health organizations everywhere. The sooner fluoridation is started the sooner your children get the lifetime benefits."

Devil to Pay Texas Way

St. Catharines Standard

Down in Georgetown, Texas, a clergyman told his flock that the community's dry weather might be because they had not been "paying the preacher," and urged them to drop more in the collection plate. The next week it rained Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and on Friday lightning struck the church steeple. The preacher undoubtedly received his pay.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

Kidnappers Given 20 Years In Versailles

VERSAILLES, France (Reuters) — Raymond Rolland, 28, burst into tears and Pierre Larcher, 19, tried to kiss his girl friend Wednesday night after a Versailles assize court sentenced them each to 20 years hard labor for the 1960 kidnapping of four - year - old Philippe Peugeot.

Larcher leaned from the prisoner's dock to kiss his girl friend but the sentence was announced but police guards hustled him, protesting, from the courtroom.

The two were accused of kidnapping the grandson of the head of the French auto-making family and extorting a ransom of 500,000 francs (about $99,960). They were given maximum sentences.

Eric was held for 56 hours and then released unharmed after the ransom was paid.

The court ordered restitution to the Peugeot family of what remained of the ransom. The unspent portion of the ransom was estimated at about $24,000 including a bank account, a farm house and four cars.

The two men told the court they spent their rest of the money on high living, gambling, travel and jewels for Rolland's fiancee, Lise Bodin.

Little of Money Reaches Fund Says Paper

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says that thousands of candy, peanut and bubble-gum vending machines across Canada bearing the slogan "Your coin helps mend Canada's muscle" do not return benefits to Canadians.

The newspaper says the machines are a fund-raising device for the Mend Fund, a project of the National Foundation for Neuromuscular Diseases, Inc., which has its headquarters in New York City and chapters in eastern states.

In Toronto, Kenneth McPhail, president of McPhail Vending Services Limited, said his firm is responsible for co"·cting 20 per cent of the gross sales and forwarding the amount to Buymore Vending Inc., the foundation's United States agent.

Mr. McPhail said Buymore in turn forwards the collections to the foundation. He said the Canadian firm receives no percentage from the collections but a profit by selling machines to operators.

The Globe and Mail says only 15 percent of the proceeds from the machines ever reaches the foundation, and half of this goes for expense.

Eighty per cent is pocketed by the operators who own, run and maintain the machines. Another five per cent is taken by Buymore for accounting services.

Small Arsenal Found in Room In University

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A surprise Hallowe'en night search by soldiers unearthed a small arsenal in a men's dormitory at the University of Mississippi. University officials vowed swift disciplinary action against students involved.

The sudden action followed the wounding of a military policeman by a firecracker, apparently tossed from a window of Lester Hall—adjoining Baxter Hall where James H. Meredith is housed.

The 29-year-old Meredith began his second month of classes today as the first Negro ever knowingly admitted to the 114-year-old university.

University officials co - operated in the dormitory search. Student Affairs Dean L. L. Love commented: "We just can't have things like that going on here. That soldier could have been seriously hurt."

The search turned up at least one dismantled M-1 rifle, a dismantled pistol, several tear gas grenades, a full five-gallon can of gasoline and a large quantity of noisy firecrackers known as cherry bombs.

The soldiers turned over to university officials the student identification cards of at least a half-dozen persons. But no one would disclose the exact number or the specific charges.

Communist-bloc nations.

Observers here noted that the United States, Britain and Canada were consulting together on the arms aid they will send to India. Some British infantry weapons have already arrived and American arms are expected within a few days.

Informed observers said this consultation was necessary to avoid confusion among the nations aiding India since the Indian defence ministry itself was not adequately organized to order what it needed—and probably had only a vague idea of its needs.

Some senior officials of the external affairs ministry were reliably reported to have been surprised to read in the newspapers that Canada had been asked for and had promised help.

It developed that Menon had made a direct approach to the Canadian high commissioner, Chester Ronning, here without filling in the rest of the Indian government.

The Daily News Of N.Y. Workers Out on Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News—largest circulation newspaper in the United States—was shut down by strike today.

Mediation efforts proved fruitless and the strike, called by the New York Newspaper Guild, threatened to spread to the other six major dailies in this city of 8,000,000.

The Guild, finding itself in a deadlock over wages with all of the publishers, has vowed to strike each of the newspapers, one by one if no settlement is reached, and it picked The News as its first target.

Contracts between the guild, a unit of the American Newspaper Guild (AFL-CIO) and all seven newspapers expired at midnight.

The publishers vowed to stand together and to make their facilities available to The News so it could keep publishing.

Doris Helped Turn the Trick

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Your letter was so positive! I knew more or less what I shouldn't be doing but this has given me the right direction as to what I should be doing. Just last night my husband said I seem to be understanding him better and I felt so grateful. I just had to thank you.

Ironically, I had read both the books you recommended, but alway with the result—"This doesn't seem to apply to me. It's my husband's fault." And somehow never realized that I could be doing something; nor did I have the encouragement that it was possible.—GRATEFUL.

DEAR GRATEFUL—I'm grateful too. That you were able to make a change. And for your letter.

DEAR DORIS—Regarding answer in your column "The Worm Has Turned," you stated that "to register a child under his name in these circumstances a statement had to be made that you were his wife," which made a false declaration, therefore, a criminal offence. When an unmarried mother registers a child in these circumstances the child can be registered under the father's name—as long as the father gives his written permission. Then a birth certificate of the child is made in his father's surname. Please correct this.

I'm sure there are many questions mothers would like answered in these same situations. If you were sent a stamped envelope, would you give personal replies?—AN INTERESTED READER.

DEAR INTERESTED—Right. She could have obtained a written statement from the father, permitting her to register the child in his name. It was the declaration that she was his wife, when in fact they had not been married, that was a criminal offence under Canadian law.

Yes, I send personal replies to all who request them, when they enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TORMO QUEB—If you would care to identify yourself with name and address, I will be glad to answer your question.

TO MARIGOLD—I have written leaflets on twelve different occupations for girls. These include nursing, dressmaking, telephone operating, social work, occupational and physical therapy, secretary, teaching, librarian, dietetics, waitress, saleslady, hairdresser. Are these what you want?

If you would like copies of all of them, as well as my article on Choosing a Career, write in, enclosing one dollar to help with the cost of reproduction and mailing. Individually, they are ten cents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WAITING AND WANTING — If you "treated him like dirt" and dropped him five times, how do we know there won't be a sixth time? But if you now think it's the Real Think, swallow your pride and tell him so.

If he comes back, hang on, and behave yourself. This takes self-discipline and consideration.

This department may also be able to direct you to a Business Administration course.

DEAR DORIS—There are as many girls too thin as there are too fat. I have thin legs and knobby knees.

Please give some information on how to get some meat on my legs. You see, I plan to be in fashions, modelling and styling hair. And, of course, to be in modelling your legs take a great part.—A FAITHFUL BUT KNOBBY KNEED READER.

DEAR KNOBBY KNEES—We tend to grow up unevenly, both the fat and the thin. Work to put on weight all over—fattening foods, nibbles between meals, milk shakes before bedtime. And plenty of fresh air and exercise. Part of all this lovely nourishment will go to your knees and calves.

'Preparedness' Topic of Talk At Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Col. Fray Wills Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion for Ex-servicewomen, held in the Legion Hall, recently, Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy was guest speaker.

Mr. Duffy serves the Quinte Area as Emergency Measures Co-ordinator. He told of the Federal government's preparedness, which receives little publicity. Being prepared and willing to face the facts are the best ways to ward off a potential nuclear war was the speaker's opinion.

During World War II Mr. Duffy spent a period of time as a Regimental Sergeant Major in command of 160 C.W.A.C. While serving in France and Belgium, the girls gradually earned his respect and he spoke of them as "good soldiers."

The Branch president, "Billie" Kirby, thanked the speaker, who then answered the questions from the audience.

BURSARY PRESENTED

The annual bursary was presented to a Quinte Secondary student, Alan Hilchon, as announced by the president.

The nominating committee, which is to be chaired by Clare Jamieson with Mrs. Doreen Burney and Mrs. Hilda Olsen assisting, was set up as elections take place in December.

Mrs. Ina Rollins spoke on behalf of the dance committee stating arrangements had been made for the Legion Hall at the end of November and that an orchestra had been hired.

As chairman of the Poppy Fund, in Belleville, Mrs. Kirby explained that the profits from the sale of poppies remains in this city, while the proceeds from the wreaths are used in Toronto to assist the veterans who make them. She asked for volunteers to sell poppies either Friday evening or Saturday.

ARMISTICE PARADE

The Armistice parade will fall in at the Armouries on Sunday at 10:20 to proceed to the Cenotaph. Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson was elected to carry the Branch wreath and to be escorted by Mrs. Ina Rollins and Mrs. Janet MacDonald. The president asked for a good representation and if over 12 are on parade the Branch will be able to march as a separate unit.

Several members of the Branch attended the Zone Rally held in Wellington on Sunday.

U.C.W. Meeting

BEULAH U.C.W.

The October meeting of the Beulah U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Mills.

The president, Mrs. M. McMillan opened the meeting with a poem and prayer.

It was decided to use the study packet and the Bible Study Book and Guide.

The nominating committee is to bring in the slate of officers at the November meeting for next year.

Mrs. Don Reid had charge of the program: Prayer by Mrs. M. MacMillan; responsive reading, Psalm 31; a reading, "My Times Are in Thy Hand" by Mrs. E. Rollins; a poem, "The Perfect Will of God," by Mrs. C. Wood.

Mrs. J. Stephen gave a reading, "His Carath for You." Bible reading, 2 Cor. 11-12, was taken by Mrs. C. Mitz and comment on the chapter by Mrs. D. Reid. A reading by Mrs. G. Wood, "The Judgment Seat of Christ."

Lunch was served by hostess and thanks expressed by Mrs. E. Rollins.

Friends Honor Octogenarian On Birthday

ST. OLA — Many friends and relatives called on Mrs. Thomas Ham on the occasion of her 85th birthday celebration recently.

A special birthday dinner prepared by Mrs. Ham's daughter, Mrs. Duncan McNabb of Toronto was enjoyed by Mrs. Ham, her sister Mrs. Gordon King, her brother, Mr. G. Baragar and her daughter Mrs. McNabb.

During the day many called to extend best wishes. Mrs. Ham is one of two surviving daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baragar. She was born in Limerick and has resided at Lake St. Peter, Foxboro and for many years in Steenburg. There are two sons, Harry of Petawawa and Merton of St. Ola; also four daughters, Mrs. Michael Zepping (Emma); Mrs. Duncan McNabb (Laura); Mrs. Gordon Lake (Luella) and Mrs. Leslie Gibson (Cora) all of Toronto.

Mrs. Ham is most active considering her age and she expects to spend the winter in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McNabb.

"I Mischanged My Money"

by Mary Moore

Most of us have been guilty at one stage of our lives of spending too much before our next cheque was due. A voice came over long distance to me saying: "Mrs. Moore, I've mismanaged my money. The price of meat has me so frustrated I could cry. My husband is patience itself and quietly asked 'Why don't we ever have heart and kidney and organ meats like that?'

"Will you please write a column telling us how to prepare them nicely like a chef would?"

Despite the cost of the call this girl had to know what to do to work herself out of her losing battle with a budget.

So Mary went to work. I bought four organ meats: One 1-lb. veal tongue for 49c; 1 lb. of chicken giblets (gizzards and hearts) for 25c; 3 lambs' hearts at 45c per lb; 1 beef kidney at 35c per lb.

I have yet to work on the different livers that are available at low prices.

Today I will give you the recipes for the veal tongue and chicken giblets. Next week I will give you my methods with the lambs' hearts and beef kidneys.

I jellied the veal tongue. Because it is such a delicacy I have doubled the recipe for I know it will be popular with you for slicing for luncheon and sandwiches.

JELLIED VEAL TONGUES:

To 2 1-lb. veal tongues (40c per lb.) add 3 cups water, 2 cloves garlic chopped, 1 bay leaf, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Boil gently, covered, until tender — about 2 hours. Let stand in liquid in which it was boiled for ¼ hour. Strain and measure ¾ cold. There should be 3 cups. Measure out ½ cup and soak 1½ tablespoons plain gelatin in it. (Boil down remainder, if necessary, until it measures 1½ cups.) Strip skin from tongues. Cut them sidewise in a bowl of small diameter that will hold them curled snugly, overlapping. Add soaked gelatin to 1½ cups hot liquid and stir to dissolve. Pour over tongues, weight down with small saucer and clean stone and chill until firm. Slice cold and serve with mustard pickles.

CURRIED GIBLETS:

Buy 1 lb. chicken giblets (hearts and gizzards at 25c per lb.) and trim off fat, wash and pressure cook in 1 cup water with ½ teaspoon salt at 5 lb. pressure for 2 hours. (Or boil, covered, in water to cover until tender.) Measure liquid. There should be 1 cup. Cut each gizzard into 4 pieces. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in large frying pan. Add 1 teaspoon curry powder (or less) and 1 medium-size cooking onion, chopped coarsely. Saute 2 or 3 minutes over medium heat. Add 2 tablespoons flour. Stir to blend. Add meat and liquid and stir until thick. Serve in ring of fluffy boiled rice on preheated platter garnished with parsley or rings of green pepper. A popular and delicious buffet item.

New Residents Honored by Neighbors

MADOC JUNCTION — On Wednesday evening a number of ladies from the community here, assembled at the home of Mrs. Gordon Nelson and Mary, who had recently moved to their home in Stirling.

The early part of the evening was spent in social conversation, then several games and contests were enjoyed.

Mrs. William McMullen read an address of appreciation and Mrs. Harold Chambers on behalf of friends in the Madoc Junction community, made the presentation of a carpet-carrier, ring size TV snack table set and a boxed bath towel ensemble, also a toy TV to little Miss Mary.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, on behalf of the Eglinton U.C.W. also presented Mrs. Nelson with a lovely China cup and saucer.

Mrs. Nelson and Mary each graciously expressed their thanks.

A dainty lunch was then served.

White Shrine Sponsors Fine Hallowe'en Tea, Bazaar

Pretty intricate cutout scroll work plaques, and colorful oak and maple leaves adorned the walls of the IOOF reception room, augmented by a Hallowe'en glow shed by an attractive table lamp made an enticing centrepiece for the many guests visiting the White Shrine Hallowe'en tea and bazaar yesterday afternoon.

Receiving at the door was the Most High Priestess, Mrs. N. MacDonald, and the overall conveners, Mrs. Kay Bushell, past Worthy High Priestess, and Mrs. Glenna Black, Noble Priestess, whose ladylicious smiles augured well for what was to be found just beside the spacious auditorium.

Here, roundabout were the delightful booths, each decorated in the Hallowe'en motif of entwined ropes of black and orange, caught up at intervals by colored oak leaves and bright autumn flowers.

PRETTY APRONS

The first booth, a miscellaneous one, convened by Mrs. R. Cooper and Mrs. L. Grey, assisted by Mrs. Percy Kerr, Mrs. C. R. Clapp, Mrs. Roy Brickman and Mrs. Peck, Sr., displayed a variety of pretty aprons, in a host of all-over sizes; tea towels nicely embroidered; hot pad holders, baby bootees, lace-edged bath towels, dainty crochet-edged handkerchiefs, and a host of pansy dish cloths. The highlight of this miscellaneous table was a purple French Poodle dog, sitting upright, and containing a bottle of bath salts.

Next in order was the candy booth, loaded with enormous tasty apples, red and luscious looking, maple creams, vanilla creams in white and pink; strawberry-colored creams, popcorn balls, stickily sweet; peanut brittle, chocolate and divinity fudge, buttercotch bars in pink and green, as well as cups of mixed confectionery. This booth was in charge of Mrs. A. Williamson and Mrs. G. Storey.

DELICIOUS HOMEBAKING

The homebaking table occupied the west end of the auditorium and was filled with luscious pies of pumpkin, in large and individual sizes; apple pies with golden crusts and lemon piled high with meringues; a delightful looking cake was a white square one edged in orange-colored icings and topped with blackhooded witches in each corner while a black cat occupied the centre; date loaves, cabbage and pineapple salads; and fluffy tarts were but a few of the confections offered. Convening this were: Mrs. Jean Bell and Mrs. Rebecca Carman assisted by Mesdames, Cynthia Wright; Dorothy Jones; Ada McMullen and May Black.

A parcel post wicket drew many curious patrons for the parcels of mystery contents, all of which were overseen by postmistress, Mrs. B. Prindle and Mrs. Nan Cathcart.

GROCERY DRAWS

That men were not omitted from this project, was evidenced by Mr. George Pound and Mr. W. M. Adams, who were looking after the filled-to-overflowing grocery baskets and hampers of canned goods including jellos; canned milk; cherries; cake mix; jams and sugar. These hampers would go to the holders of lucky tickets.

At the flower table, with its colorful foliages, African violets and pink begonias, Mrs. Adams of the green thumb held sway, perfectly at home with her beloved plants.

A special drawing card was the wooden cradle with blankets and a lovely little doll dressed in white crochet outfit, who also had a complete wardrobe. This also would go to the holder of a lucky ticket. Mrs. Black was in charge while Mrs. B. Nicholls sold the tickets.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tearoom, which occupied the upper auditorium, was attractively adorned with a white picket fence with gates-ajar, sentinelled by tall staggered Jack-O-lanterns and tall white standards topped with pumpkin faces smiling from ear to ear.

Each little guest table also contained the season's motif — a tiny pumpkin with peanuts for hair, sitting on a black lace doily.

The long tea table was superb with its Hallowe'en centrepiece of a simulated pumpkin topped by an old black-hooded witch, the whole surrounded by black cats with arched backs and tiny kittens, tall crystal candelabra with tall black and orange candles, and the silver services made a most alluring setting.

TEA ROOM HOSTESS

The tea room hostess was Mrs. D. Elvidge, and those who poured were included: Mesdames R. Fleming; O. Adams; H. Darvell; E. Stevens; M. Elliott; N. Barnes; H. Barager, Jr.; Johnson; Ida Ashly and D. Elvidge. Those who served: Mesdames, Roselle Clancey; Mary Fisher, Mae Black; Lois Dawson; Pat Nicholl; D. Jones; L. Vallean; Jack Oliver; J. Gardner; Jan Stevenson; M. Stoliker; M. Cross and L. Brickman.

Those who replenished were: L. Adams; M. McKay; M. McKinnet; Mrs. Ker Cottrell; Mable Welch and Z. McGee. Mrs. M. Gill had charge of the tea services, while those convening the kitchen were D. Middleton, D. Caverley and Irma Clancy.

The overall conveners were: Mrs. Kay Bushell, P. W. H. P. and Glenna Black, N.P. to whom appreciative thanks are tendered for an exceptionally fine tea and bazaar.

St. Andrew's CGIT Names 62-63 Officers

St. Andrew's CGIT meeting opened in the usual manner followed by a short worship service, including the Bible reading and the Lord's Prayer.

A discussion on uniforms and registration, part of old business, took place. Other business included the election of the 1962-63 officers, which are as follows:

President, Heather Woods; vice-president, Patsy Mumby; secretary, Jane Morton; treasurer, Hertha Grunsoe; press secretary, Janet Downey.

Mrs. Mar and Miss Perry were guests for the evening and took part in the discussions.

A Hallowe'en party was planned and a few games played.

Miss Perry is to be the new assistant leader.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A Hallowe'en party was held last Saturday at St. Andrew's Church with games played, and also dancing and lunch. Everyone attended with a male friend.

The October 29th meeting opened with a few games, led by the new leader, Miss Perry. Following the Bible reading, a short business meeting included a project for the basement. The meeting closed with "taps."

Neighbors Aid Hear Talk On Cancer

2nd THURLOW — The October meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held last Wednesday night at the Aid hall, with a fair attendance.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. G. Stratton was in charge. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Dent. A book of rules was discussed regarding the amount to be paid for flowers, and fruit. This was satisfactorily settled. Mrs. A. Mitchell gave the financial statement. Mrs. Ker Cottrell thanks for card at time of her father's death. A discussion took place on what to send for the child, adopted by the N.A. from Austria for a Christmas gift. It was decided to have Mrs. Robert Atkins write a letter to the child in care of its guardian for suggestions to see if books, clothing, a toy or what a child of 11 years needed. The Aid president, Mrs. B. Pratt is to contact the hydro regardings switch box outside light, and outlet.

The business meeting, election of officers will be held in the Aid hall on the fourth Wednesday of November. Mrs. H. Thomson, Mrs. E. Leeming are to audit the books and Mrs. J. Chumbley and Mrs. S. Ray to bring in slate of officers.

Mrs. Harry Thomson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Hall, of the Cancer Society, who showed slides on the importance of self examination periodically, for breast cancer. Nine out of ten can be cured if treated when detected in its early stage. She also showed a journey through Canada showing many important cities and Canadian Cancer centres from Nova Scotia to Vancouver.

Mrs. Thomson moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Hall for the interesting talk and pictures, and presented her with a donation to the Cancer fund.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. S. Ray, hostess for the meeting, and the baking committee, Mesdames M. Dent, D. Howard, Kant and G. Stratton. Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Next euchre will be conducted by Mrs. G. Stratton and Mrs. R. Pratt on November 2nd and Mrs. C. Howard and Mrs. S. Ray to convene a euchre on November 16.

TOURISTS INCREASE

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A total of 818,50 tourists registered at government information centres in the first nine months of this year, an increase of 77,182 over the same period last year, Bryan L. Cathcart, travel and publicity minister, said Wednesday.

WEDDING

HAZARD—DICKEY

Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent lovely fall wedding when Evelyn Joan Dickey, of Belleville, became the bride of John Allan Hazard of Plainfield, in a ceremony performed by the Reverend C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, before a background of baskets of white 'mums, gladioli and white-tipped fern. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dickey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Stanley S. Hazard of Plainfield and the late Mr. Hazard.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Audrey Elgie, of Belleville, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Arnold Dilts, of Plainfield, in his rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Love, Thy Perfect Gift."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her silk organza bridal gown accented by all-over embroidery, having a fitted bodice with scoop neckline and long sleeves. The full-length skirt was caught up in a bustle effect with tiny bows. Her headdress, in simulated pill-box effect, held her beautiful shoulder-length veil of silk illusion tulle and she carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses, white stephanotis and Adiantum ferns.

Miss Shirley Ackerman, of Belleville, was maid of honor, and Miss Grace Sheppard, of Belleville, was bridesmaid. Both were gowned in silk chiffon in deep aqua shade featuring fitted bodices, and flying back shoulder panels. They carried bouquets of white carnations mingled with ivy, and wore matching pillbox hats with over-the-face veils, matching shoes and white gloves.

Mr. George Sinfield, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom was groomsman, and Mr. William Dickey, of Belleville, brother of the bride and Mr. Irvine Moore, of Foxboro, ushers at the bridegroom ushered the guests.

The reception, which followed the ceremony was held at Club Canara, where the bridal table was appointed with white damask linen and centred by an all-white, four-tier round pedestal cake topped by a pair of dove ornaments and two white doves bearing wedding rings. White tulle encircled the base.

The bride's mother, wearing a mink brown gown and jacket of silk crepe, with brown accessories, aqua hat and corsage of white carnations and white stock, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in printed brown silk with jacket and brown accessories and corsage of yellow Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allan Hazard are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Evelyn Joan Dickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dickey, of Bellyville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Stanley S. Hazard, of Plainfield, Ontario, and the late Mr. Hazard.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, thence to Virginia and Washington, D.C., the bride chose a copper-toned two piece knitted ensemble with matching pillbox hat of velvet and feathers, with brown accessories and corsage of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Guests attended from Belleville; Plainfield; Toronto; Foxboro; Orillia; Ottawa; Oshawa; Rochester, N.Y.; Glasgow Station; Marysville; Point Anne; Thomasburg and Cobourg.

The bride was the honored guest, previous to her marriage, at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Schwager of Thomasburg, with the girls of the staff of Stephens-Adamson present; also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Clifford Ackerman, with Miss Shirley Ackerman and Miss Grace Sheppard as cohostesses. She was also presented with a beautiful mirror by the staff of the Stephens-Adamson.

Mr and Mrs. Hazard will reside at 212A Herchimer Ave., Belleville.

Shower Held For Bride-to-Be

DESERONTO — On Monday evening Mrs. James McVicker Jr. was hostess at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Dolores Dorey who is to be married this Saturday at St. Vincent de Paul Church. During the evening a number of games were played for the entertainment of the guests. A goodly number of gifts were presented to the bride-to-be before lunch was served and Miss Dorey thanked her many friends for their consideration. Attending from out of town were Mrs. G. Horrigan of Read and the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. H. Parks of Napanee.

RICE ESTIMATE

Pakistan's estimated rice crop for the 1961-62 season was 22,964,000 acres and production of cleaned rice 10,375,000 tons.

On Tuesday, the Canniffon C.G.I.T. held its Hallowe'en party. The night of fun commenced with a parade of costumes.

Prizes were won as follows. Carol Walker, funniest costume; Mary Lou Davidson, and Wendy Windsor, funniest couple; Alana Day, best costume; Sharon Urch, second best costume; Isabel Harrison and Donna Walker, best couple; Beth Putman and Joyce MacPherson; second best couple.

Following the parade, a time of recreation was enjoyed by all. Games including such old favorites as musical chairs, and apple bobbing, were enjoyed.

The evening was completed by a delicious lunch which was thoroughly enjoyed.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Our deceptive hearts often short-change no one but ourselves. Suspicious of our neighbor's intentions we sometimes fall all over ourselves in defences. When we distrust the good intentions of others, by trying to outguess them when they should be taken at face value, we can be too cagey" can trip us up.

Some children are literally spy. Our "smart-lecky sass-forced into mischief by parents who are incapable of trusting them. Accusing them of things they never thought themselves to do, may very well induce them to venture. Children, the experts say, will do the natural thing. They will tell the truth, unless they've been wrongly accused or frightened by the threat of warranted and unjust punishment. When children cheat, may it not be the result of witless parents who have discouraged truth-telling by their suspicious, fear-monger-ing attitudes?

We cheat ourselves, too, when we conspicuously shut out the possibilities of getting to know our unknown neighbors. When all we know is ourselves — we cannot even know ourselves, for so much of us is inevitably a part of others. Discrimination against men of different creeds and colors, does not destroy them; often, the oppressed is strengthened from within by the wanton attacks of others. Ignorant prejudice does, however, diminish the lives of the oppressor; it robs him of the opportunity of growing up to his fullest human stature. Suspicion and prejudice mock us. When we are prey to this petty pursuit, we cheat ourselves.

Dishonest propaganda boomerangs, too. Governments which trumpet the big lie in the imaginary race to win international friends, influence few, in the long run. By causing them to concentrate on the wrong targets, they often cheat their own people. When the West competes primarily with the East by picturing bigger pie-in-the-sky, instead of concentrating on social improvements on earth, in the end they cheat themselves. The race for space is not only an optical illusion, it is a deceptive deviation from our real duty. The wrong battle at the wrong time.

Once, as the tale goes, a good man wanted to do something very special. He was in the habit of making charitable contributions to large philanthropic institutions. This once, he decided to go directly to the source. He knew a poor carpenter who lived in miserable conditions. Being of delicate nature, he decided to perform his good deed in roundabout fashion. He summoned the carpenter and commissioned him to build a beautiful house. "This house," he ordered, "is to be a thing of beauty. Use only the best of materials and craftsmanship." Then he left the carpenter on his own, advising him that he was about to leave for a far-away trip. He hoped that upon his return the house would be completed.

With no one to oversee, the carpenter seized upon this "job" as a great opportunity. He skimped on materials, hired inferior workmen, cut corners throughout the job.

When the wealthy man returned, the carpenter came to see him, keys in hand. "The house has been finished — and built according to your orders," he advised.

"Good," the rich man responded, "keep the keys — they are yours! I wanted you to build this house as my gift to you!"

We can almost hear the silent groaning of the carpenter. In the years that followed, hardly a day passed that he did not say to himself: "Had I known that I was building this house for myself, I wouldn't have cheated!"

Others have the same reason to groan. But they who should be listening cannot hear it. They are too busy fighting the wrong battle to take notice of the real loss. They, who think that they are winning, are often losing — losing to themselves.

Y.P. Club Elects 62-63 Officers

ROSLIN — On October 26, in the church the Young People met for their meeting.

Opening prayer, led by Sarah Cross was followed by the Scripture taken from St. John 2:1-25 read by Eleanor Hart.

Thirteen members were present. Key word for next meeting, "Love". Suggestions of having the Salvation Army on November 23rd. Also carol singing near to Christmas. A new name for the Young People's was voted on.

The election of new officers took place at the meeting. They are as follows; president — Sarah Cross; vice-president — Gail Ann Burns; secretary — Eleanor Hart, treasurer — Eric Wannamaker; program committee — Jo - Ann Sherwin, Judy Whitehead, Darlene Burns and Gary McGlaughlin; flower committee — Brenda Sherwin.

Topic by Gail Ann Burns called, "Whatsoever He Saith".

Lunch was served.

'Getting Through' Topic at Area "C" H-S Meet at Moira S.S.

"Getting Through" was the theme for the Area "C" Conference of Home and School held on Saturday at Moira Secondary School in Belleville.

About 150 delegates from over 30 associations in the area attended the opening session.

The original one-act play "Getting Through" written by Mrs. S. McKelvey of the Peterborough Counties was presented by the executive of this council in the mid-morning. The purpose of the play was to demonstrate the many common faults of Home and School sessions in the field of internal and external communications. The short presentation sparked the lively discussion groups which involved everyone.

PANEL PRESENTS SUMMARY

An interesting summary of the discussion was presented by a panel composed of representatives of the various groups.

Mr. H. J. A. Brown, business administrator, South Peel Board of Education, spoke on public relations before the close of the morning sessions. Mr. Brown emphasized the importance of the role of the individual citizens in a free democratic society. The effectiveness of this role is dependent on two things, the intelligence of the individual, and education.

"Home and School plays an important part in this development. We should be interested in Home and School from our children's point of view" he stated.

Home and School should establish its worthwhile purposes clearly.

FUNDAMENTAL H—S PURPOSES

Purposes which Mr. Brown felt are fundamental include: (1) ensuring good parent-teacher relationships;
(2) ensuring adequate health for the children;
(3) raising the standards of the school, and
(4) promoting good community relations.

"How can we do this he asked?" By translating our programs to achieve the purpose: To do this we must understand and accept the new concept of "meet with a purpose - meet to fulfill a purpose."

Mr. Brown suggested dividing the area's programs in four general topics:

(1) thorough presentation of the school program; (3) study of the community program; (3) stretch educational horizons, and (4) special services.

He cautioned delegates against pitfalls of programming and stressed various means of program promotion.

DON'TS

In closing he stated "Don't hound parents for money. Do not infringe on individual freedoms. Do remember that your main purpose and function as a Home and School Association is the Child."

At an informal noon luncheon, served in the school cafeteria, Mrs. A. F. Toogood, executive vice-president of the Ontario Federation was in charge of the theme "Getting Through" and emphasized the need for improved communications and understanding throughout the organization. She also mentioned briefly the coming "new look" for Home and School.

The afternoon was given over entirely to a session of "Programming" for elementary and secondary schools in the urban and rural areas.

PROGRAMMING

The session was presented through three techniques of program presentation, namely: speaker presentation with question cards by Mr. G. Blackford, director of the Gifted Child Studies at Forest Hill Guidance Department, Forrest Hill Collegiate; role play presentation with buzz groups for discussion—Mr. Vern Trott, director of council and psychological services, Forrest Hill Schools; film presentation with panel of resource persons—Mr. D. M. Graham, director of education, Forrest Hill.

Many aspects of programming were involved in these presentations including: techniques of audience participation; principles of program planning, role playing techniques and discussion skills.

Mrs. D. W. Maddocks, district representative, Communities programs branch of Ont. Dept. of Education, in his role as conference evaluator, emphasized the need for evaluation at the association level.

General chairman for this successful conference, was Mrs. A. R. Carlisy, of Peterborough, vice-president (Area "C") of the Ontario Federation.

Rebekahs Hold Installation Ceremony

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening, October 23, Sister Lavina Farrow, Madoc, deputy president of District 4, and her installing staff, from Oakdale Lodge, paid their official visit to Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, Stirling, in the I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall, Charlotte Street.

Noble Grand Hilda Rose was in charge of the lodge proceedings and welcomed the visitors. A large basket of chrysanthemums, the gift of Sister Mary Pitcher, was placed in front of the dais.

Sister Nora Wannamaker, J.P.N.G., escorted the deputy district president to the centre of the hall and graciously introduced her to the sisters and brothers. Sister Mary Hollis, past deputy district president, presented Sister Farrow with a corsage on behalf of the lodge. Members and Sister Nora escorted her to a seat on the dais.

The guard of honor of Laurel members included Sisters Neva Vandervoort, Bessie Patterson, Helen Bailey and Lillian Johnson. They were gowned in floor-length shades of pink and carried nosegays of lace handkerchiefs and flowers. These were presented to the deputy district president as a memento of the occasion.

Sister Marjorie Stapley was musician and Sister Annie Warren contributed a vocal solo.

After the business was concluded, deputy district president, Sister Laurie Farrow, took charge of the installation ceremonies. Sister Vera Hill was district deputy marshal and took the Madoc sisters, who head up the installation team, to be seated in their various stations.

The incoming Noble Grand, Sister Joyce Richardson, was presented with a corsage of red rosebuds from her husband and family by past district deputy president Marion Hollis. Later that evening Past Noble Grand Sister Edith Bradshaw presented Sister Joyce with a gift from a friend in Belleville.

At the close of the impressive ceremony district deputy president Farrow gave an informative address on "The Work of the Order" and stressed the thought of sharing one's blessings with other less fortunate folk.

Sisters Violet Rose and Dorothy Flindall, on behalf of the Laurel Lodge presented Sister Farrow with a gift.

J. P. Noble Grand Sister Hilda Rose was escorted to her station and the deputy district president joined in the past grand Jewel on behalf of the Laurel Lodge. The retiring Noble Grand voiced appreciative thanks to officers and members for their support during the year of office.

The incoming noble grand sister Joyce Richardson conducted the business. In her brief address she complimented Sister Installation and the Adeline Bush; I. Guard — Ilene stood for co-operation to carry on the lodge work as in days uerite Sine.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Does the rule of "ladies first" always apply? Here are some leading questions on this delicate subject. Answer True or False to each.

1. A woman always alights from a car before her escort.

2. A woman always alights from a car before her escort. In a restaurant, a woman precedes a man to the table.

4. If wine is ordered, the woman takes the first sip as a taste to her escort.

5. A woman precedes a man going up a stairway, and, again coming down.

6. In rainy or cold weather, a man leaves a building before his companion to open his umbrella or hail a cab.

7. A man usually precedes a woman to and from the dance floor to run interference for her.

8. If there's no usher available, a man usually precedes a woman down the aisle in a darkened theatre.

9. When a couple has to go through a revolving door, the woman usually waits for the man to enter first.

10. A man always opens a door for a woman and holds it while she precedes him through.

ANSWERS:

1. True.

2. False. The man gets out first, and then helps the woman to alight gracefully.

3. True.

4. False. The man samples it first to make sure it's the vintage he ordered, that the temperature is right and, in case any specks of cork dropped into the bottle, that they would land in his glass as the first to be poured.

5. False. She precedes him going up the stairway, but he precedes her coming down to protect her in case she slips.

6. True.

7. False. The woman leads to and from the dance floor, but not on it, of course.

8. True.

9. False. The woman lets the man give it a healthy push to get it started, but she sets it first.

10. True.

Refreshments were served in the banquet hall and the tables were decorated with "mums". The conveners were sisters Mary Pitcher and her assistants.

Bethel U.C. Marks 88th Anniversary

RAWDON — On Sunday, October 21st Bethel United Church on the Rawdon circuit observed their 88th anniversary. The pedestals were adorned with lovely potted chrysanthemums and made the attractive setting for the service.

Mrs. Harold Elliott R.M.T. was in charge of the anniversary music and chose for the morning prelude a selection by Peery, "Offertory in A" flat and postlude, "The Pilgrim's March". The choir rendered an anthem by Wilson "Stand Up for Jesus". Miss Donalda Heath contributed a vocal selection by Rathbun, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say".

The service opened with "Lord of the World's Above" with the "Church's One Foundation" previous to the sermon and closed on the theme of fellowship. The Rev. R. G. Nicholls B.A. of Plainfield based his morning message on "Clues to Christian Character". He stressed that a church is far more than a building and that a Christian should be totally involved in the world around him. He must be aware of individual people and he must be responsible for helping his fellow man. The use of time, talents, wealth and activities was stressed and the speaker suggested that anniversary time was a good time to put into practice his message to all.

In his evening sermon he chose as his topic "No Excuse" and stressed that Christian living and God's will leave us no excuses. People can readily find excuses for not obeying God's will but a Christian must follow the command and thus give service in the best way possible.

The congregational hymns were "Bless the Lord," "Lead us Heavenly Father" and "O Jesus I Have Promised".

Miss Lois Morton of Wellmans with Mrs. Craig Wannamaker as accompanist rendered "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

The Stirling-Rawdon District High School choir under the direction of Mr. Edgar C. Hay-Ellis with Miss R. Morrow as accompanist rendered "Tell us the Stories of Jesus".

The anniversary closed on the theme, "O Give me Grace to Follow My Master and My Friend."

Women's Activities

WELLINGTON UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

WELLINGTON — The October meeting of the United Church Women was held in the Sunday School room of the church with an attendance of 30 members. Opening music by Mrs. C. Burr at the piano was followed by a prayer for peace and unity by the president, Mrs. H. Pierson.

The minutes of the August meeting were read by Mrs. A. Foster and the treasurer, Mrs. G. Parks, presented her report. She presented a summary of the budget to date, showing that $600 more is needed before the end of the year.

Anyone wishing to donate jellies or jams for the Rev. T. Poulier of Toronto may leave same at the home of Mrs. B. Bishop.

It was decided to place "In Memoriam" cards in Ainsworth undertaking parlors for the convenience of members or groups who wish to honor a deceased member. A bale is being packed in November for relief and anyone who wishes to donate clothing in good condition is welcome to do (papers intact) may leave same at Mrs. B. Bishop's home. A letter of thanks was read from the United Church Relief Depot in Toronto for a recent shipment. An executive meeting is called for Thursday evening at nine o'clock in the Centennial parlor to complete plans for the tea and bazaar being held on November 28, in the evening.

On Wednesday, Nov. 7th, at 2.00 p.m. in Bloomfield United Church a workshop for study groups and a question period will be held. Miss Marion Thomson of Toronto will conduct the session. Members are urged to attend.

Mrs. C. Cleave was in charge of the program and as a prelude to the thanksgiving service a film "Man on the Door Step" was shown by Mr. R. Lane.

It depicted the tragedy and desolation of refugees entering Hong Kong under present conditions.

With Mrs. C. Burr at the piano, a quartet consisting of Mrs. H. East, Mrs. S. Yourt, Mrs. Pete Springell and Mrs. B. Head led in song. Mrs. S. Foster led the devotion and was assisted by Miss V. Valleau, who read the Scripture taken from Ephesians 1: 3-14. With the singing of "Come Holy Ghost Our Souls Inspire," the meeting closed with the benediction by the president.

A social hour followed during which and fellowship followed and the social committee served refreshments.

Local 171 O.F.U. Lists New Officers

BONARLAW—The October meeting of Local 171 of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held in the hall at Springbrook. The meeting started with a pot-luck supper, supplied by the ladies of the Union. After the supper the meeting was held upstairs.

Murray Bateman was chairman. Jeanne Williams gave a report of the Hasting County annual meeting and of several other county meetings which she had attended as lady vice-president of the Ontario Farmers' Union.

The Ontario Farmers' Union convention is to be held in Lindsay again this year and members of the Local were urged to try to attend for at least one day.

Murney Bateman gave a brief account of the Local's activity during the year.

It would seem that as in a lot of other organizations some of the members are content to sit back and let a few do most of the work. In order to have a successful Union every one must pitch in and do their share.

Murney Bateman declared all offices vacant and Wes Finch was appointed chairman and Mrs. Carl Spry, secretary for the election of officers.

The officers for the next year are as follows: president, Murney Bateman; 1st vice-president, Bill Heath; 2nd vice-president, Delbert Mumby; secrary-treasurer, Morton Reid; directors, Harper Bateman, Wes Finch, Glen Heath, Percy Reid and George Williams; auditors, Wes Finch and Delbert Mumby.

Mrs. Percy Mumby offered her home for the November meeting. It was unanimously decided that the meeting should start at 8.30 sharp and leave the business over at 10.30. It is hoped that this will increase attendance at the meetings.

I.O.O.F. Lists New Officers

STIRLING—On Wednesday evening Heath Jones, Tweed, district deputy grand master and his installing staff, officiated for the installation of the officers of the Stirling I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 239 at the Lodge Hall in Stirling.

The noble grand of Campbellford Lodge presented a gavel to the newly elected noble grand of Stirling. He will carry it to Thomasburg lodge on Friday evening and present it at their installation ceremony. The gavel is a gift of D.D.G.M. Heath Jones.

Visitors were in attendance from other lodges in the district and several dignitaries gave brief addresses.

At the close of Lodge, refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

The new slate of officers is as follows:

Jr. Past Grand, Bro. Roy Tucker; Noble Grand, Bro. Basil St. Pierre; Vice-Grand, Bro. Glenn Rush; rec.-sec, Bro. Chas. Carter; fin.-sec. Bro. Earl Wallace; treasurer, Bro. Guy Bradshaw; warden, Bro. Parley Parnell; conductor, Bro. Orno Sharp; O. Guard, Bro. Gordon Richardson; I. Guard, Bro. Donald Walker; R.S.N.G., Bro. Robt. Hulin; L.S.V.G., Bro. Ray Sine; R.S.V.G., Bro. E. R. Carlisle; L.S.V.G., Bro. Mac Sharp; R.S.S., Bro. Lindsay Tanner; L.S.S., Bro. Garth Joslin; chaplain, Bro. Glenn Clarke; color bearer, Bro. Karl Sine and musician Bro. Ralph Jeffs.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government started paying off some of the international debts incurred last June in its emergency program then to bolster the shaken Canadian dollar.

Repayment was announced Wednesday of half the $550,000,000 in U.S. dollars obtained in currency swaps with United States and British central banks. The Bank of Canada said $125,000,000 was repaid to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York and $50,000,000 to the Bank of England.

The new move signals a further roll-back of the emergency measures announced June 24 to stem a critical drain of foreign exchange reserves and to bolster confidence in the pegged exchange rate on the Canadian dollar.

The government recently removed special five-per-cent import surcharges on some $250,000,000 of imports—about one-twelfth of the total of imports affected by the surcharges—and said that others would be removed "as soon as circumstances permit."

LOWER RATE

Another step towards easing the emergency program has been the sharp reduction of the Bank of Canada interest rate to two per cent from nine per cent where it was pegged June 24.

There has been some speculation as to end a freeze on salary increases for some 50,000 civil servants imposed last spring.

Wednesday's repayment of $175,000,000 to U.S. and British central banks reduces to last May 3.

The original $475,000,000 the amount owed from the special borrowings made last June. No payment has been made on $300,000,000 owed to the International Monetary Fund.

In the June currency swaps, Canada obtained $350,000,000 in U.S. dollars by giving the other central banks an equivalent amount of Canadian dollars. On Sept. 26 this arrangement was renewed for a three-month period.

The government is keeping a claim on the $125,000,000 repaid Wednesday to the New York Federal Reserve Bank. The announcement said the funds will be available on "a standby basis" and the currency swap can be reinstated if Canada needs it.

Wednesday's total repayment of $175,000,000 will be reflected in the statement, due at the end of the week, on the amount of U.S. dollars and gold held in the official exchange reserves at the end of October.

But other debt repayment has been offset by two special payments into the exchange reserves—a $100,000,000 representing half of a special government bond issue sold in New York and $22,500,000 received early in October when the Netherlands repaid its advance half of its debt owing on a post-war loan from Canada.

Throughout the month the exchange rate on the dollar has remained strong — a tiny fraction below 93 cents in U.S. funds and well above the 92.5-cent level which it was pegged at May 3.

Political Storm Brews Over Cuts To Colombo

OTTAWA (CP) — A political storm is brewing over the Canadian government's decision to cut Canada's plan allocations in the current fiscal year by some-nine-$ata.

An opposition outcry against the proposed slash has been partially muted thus far by the noise of overriding issues such as the Cuban crisis.

However, informed observers predict that it will be given full expression when the government's 1962-63 spending estimates come up for debate later in the parliamentary session.

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties have indicated their dissatisfaction with the proposal to cut $8,500,000 out the Canadian contribution to the plan for economic development of Colombo and Asia.

Revised estimates introduced by Finance Minister Nowlan last month placed the Colombo plan allotment at $41,500,000 in the current fiscal year ending March 31, 1963, compared with $50,000,000 in the previous several years.

ECONOMY MOVE

This reduction formed part of the government's over-all drive to reduce expenditures and thereby hold down the budgetary deficit.

It was chiefly emphasized by critics in their attack on the government proposal is that the decision was made in the face of Asian countries which should not have to suffer the consequences of Canadas' domestic economic situation.

The feeling is summed up by Paul Martin, Liberal foreign affairs critic:

"It is regrettable that the government's economy policy should be so unimaginative in meeting the problem of domestic austerity it should ignore desirable retrenchments in Canada 'with the glaring need that faces underdeveloped countries."

Mr. Martin says Canada was already "way down at the bottom of the list" of donor countries in respect of the size of its foreign aid effort, and that this is all the more unfortunate in the light of India's threatened Chinese invasion from Communist China.

'Something Seen' by 'Reccy' Pilots Starts Action Chain Over Missile Bases in Cuba

By REUMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 15, a general of intelligence picked up the "hot line," a security telephone in the Pentagon, and put through an urgent call.

He said he had "seen something."

swift and fearful train of events. That call was to unleash a war and raise the spectre of nuclear war.

In between were the days that shook the world.

It was Gen. Joseph Carroll, director of the defense intelligence agency, who made the call. He told Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell Gilpatric he had seen something disquieting in a new set of photographs of Cuba. An intermediate ballistic missile had flown over the island on the previous day.

Minutes after Carroll's report, the alarm was being headed across Washington to Gilpatric's home. It carried two experts in photo analysis.

They did not take the pictures with them. But they described the scars in the earth, details of the Cuban terrain, not previously seen.

Work on them some more and be ready to brief the boss (Defence Secretary McNamara) and the rest at 7:30 in the morning," Gilpatric told them.

The experts worked all night.

TELLS OF FINDINGS

Gilpatric went to a dinner at the home of Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

By coincidence, Taylor's guests included most of the men who later, meeting with the decision-making conferences leading to the "quarantine" of Cuba by warships, the invasion alert, the interim committee of the National Security Council and authorities from the defence and state departments.

Gilpatric told them about the photographs.

At 7:30 Tuesday morning, three same men met at the Pentagon with Secretary Rusk. Photo analysts reported their findings. The first evidence of construction of actual Soviet missile-launching sites still was not reported as conclusive.

McNamara did consider it sufficiently "hard," and disquieting, to call the White House. About an hour later, the information was in President Kennedy's hands.

Later that day, Kennedy examined the photographs himself.

His first step was to order a redoubling of reconnaissance flights over suspected points in Cuba.

In the next few days, "recce" pilots shot more than 32,000 feet of film over the suspicious sites. They recorded swift and baleful changes.

Soon, the evidence became incontrovertible. Soviet missile launchers were rapidly rising near the cities of Guanajay, Remedios, San Cristobal and Sagua la Grande. There were some eight or 10 bases with about four launchers to a base.

Russian light bombers also were marshalling on the island. In his report to the country Oct. 22, Kennedy called this "the Soviet military buildup' on Cuba.

He spoke of "this urgent transformation of Cuba into an important strategic base—by the presence of these large, long-range and clearly offensive weapons of sudden massive destruction." The "quarantine" on further shipments of offensive weapons to Cuba was ordered.

"And these actions may be only the beginning."

CRUCIAL WEEK

The week that preceded this decision is pretty much of a blur to those who participated in it. One describes it as a "nightmare."

They can provide only a sketchy picture of Kennedy during this high-energy, high-tension period. There was a day-to-day basis of the international situation with respect to counter-action.

Fake Money Shows No Signs Of Decreasing

By JOHN E. HIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—A member of the RCMP's central bureau for counterfeits' said Wednesday that the circulation of counterfeit Canadian bank notes shows no signs of decreasing.

Corporal James Nisbet of the RCMP's crime detection laboratory told the Canadian Society of Forensic Science that counterfeiting first became a serious problem in Canada in March, 1959, with the appearance in quantity of phoney $10 bills.

Since that time a total of 51,000 counterfeits with a value of $630,000 have been turned over to the force's central bureau. The 31,000 counterfeit bills include 19 different series of fake bank notes.

"The activity of this particular type of criminal endeavor shows no signs of decreasing," Cpl. Nisbet said.

COULD HARM ECONOMY

Cpl. Nisbet said that if counterfeiting remains unchecked it can seriously undermine the economy of the nation.

Counterfeit United States bank notes had also appeared in Canada in increasing numbers since 1959. The bureau's records indicate that in the last four years a total of 51 different series of counterfeit American bills have been introduced in Canada.

Cpl. Nisbet said the RCMP also co-operates with the secret service and Interpol in tracking down counterfeiters. The bureau keeps in touch with them on a day-to-day basis of the international situation with respect to counterfeiting.

Pearson Proposes Meeting Of NATO and Warsaw Pact Powers to Ease Tensions

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson Wednesday night proposed a meeting of the NATO powers and the Warsaw Pact powers to help ease the increasing of East-West tensions.

In a nationally-televised address on the CBC, Mr. Pearson also said the time has come for NATO—and for Canada as a member of NATO — to re-examine its whole defence strategy.

Western Europe was now much better able to look after its own defence, he said. Mr. Pearson, "showed our inability to play the part in continental defence we had, rightly or wrongly, accepted."

"But it did something else. It showed the danger of extending bases beyond countries which now possess them."

USES NEW POLICY

Canada should find a defence policy "that makes more sense," while still maintaining its contribution to collective Western security or to that continental defence which is necessary for the Western Hemisphere."

Mr. Pearson advocated a select committee of Parliament through which to work out a defence policy for Canada's most possible national basis.'

"Let's try to take defence and foreign affairs out of the arena of party controversy," said Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Pearson said the Cuban crisis re-emphasized the danger in no additional war. But western alliance acting without first consulting the other members.

The United States did not consult its allies over the quarantine of Cuba—perhaps because there was not time, said Mr. Pearson.

But surely such situations as that should be kept to the irreducible minimum."

Lesage Accuses Opposition Of Fraudulent Propaganda

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage has accused the Union Nationale opposition of issuing fraudulent propaganda for the gulag of public opinion polls.

He also said Wednesday the population would get rid of the Quebec Upper House if it tried to block the expropriation of private power companies following a Liberal victory in the Nov. 14 provincial election.

The Liberal government called the snap vote to "get a clear mandate from the people" to take over the hydro-electric firms.

Meanwhile, Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson has stepped up his appeal to Social Credit supporters to help his party win.

The federal Social Credit party is not contesting the election and has not declared its support for either the Liberal or Union Nationale provincial parties.

TWO FULL SLATES

When nominations closed Wednesday, the two major parties had each entered full slates of 95 candidates. Quebec's third party, Republican, Inc., entered only 11 although it had announced it would run 48 candidates.

There was a total of 226 candidates, two fewer than in the 1960 election.

Among the 25 independent candidates was Marcel Chaput, leader of the Rassemblement Pour l'Independance Nationale, Quebec's most-publicized separatist group. He is running in Montreal Bourget.

He said this was done through taped broadcasts prepared by l'Institut de Recherche et d'Opinion Inc. (Bureau of Research and Opinion Inc.) for broadcast on radio stations in the province.

"Union Nationale organizers or, apparently, persons using fictitious names" made up the majority of persons interviewed for the programs advertised as neutral.

The programs have been banned temporarily by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Mr. Johnson made his appeal to Social Credit supporters Wednesday night in a speech at La Sarre, an Abitibi town in an area with a heavy Social Credit vote in the June 18 federal election.

The opposition leader quoted Premier Lesage as saying he would see to it that Social Credit was swept out of Quebec in the next federal election.

"If the Liberal government is beaten," Mr. Johnson said, "one of the reasons—perhaps the most important reason—will be this accumulation of injustices based on the hypocrisy of a party that has practised vice and practised vice."

Post Offices Plan to Speed Newspapers

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department is introducing a new system to speed up the handling of newspapers at its Toronto terminal involved eventual abandonment of weighing the papers, Postmaster-General Fairclough said Wednesday.

Traditionally, newspapers are weighed by the publisher in the post office where they were weighed, sorted and sent on their way.

This involved tremendous bulk volume and created a huge bottleneck in places such as Toronto when the mail editions of the Saturday dailies arrived at postal weigh scales for immediate handling, Mrs. Fairclough told the Toronto Women's Press Club of Ottawa.

The new system involves using the publisher's records to arrive at the amount of postage to be paid and verifying these records through a post office audit as well as by reports from sales agencies such as the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

WILL SAVE TIME

"It also involves the abandonment, over a period of time, of the weighing of newspapers as they arrive at the post office—a process that will save us thousands of man-hours and which at the same time, will save publishers many hours in the delivery of their periodicals.

"In some cases, newspapers handled in this way will never even reach the post office building. They will be delivered directly from the publisher to the railway station, go directly into mail cars and be delivered to the city of destination in record time."

Mrs. Fairclough described the system as "one of the most exciting innovations in recent postal history."

"The new system has been enthusiastically received by the vast majority of publishers and is proving to be more efficient, more economical and more satisfactory to the publisher, to the post office and . . . the patron".

In large centres, the former system had threatened to interfere with the timely distribution of other types of mail.

Mrs. Fairclough said that next year the post office took in more than $6,600,000 for handling newspapers and magazines and more than $8,800,000 from catalogues, books, circulars and printed matter.

This represented a revenue increase of more than $175,000 for the single year, evidence of how this handling job was increasing in size.

Two Arrested Charged With Armed Robbery

PORT LAMBTON, Ont. (CP) Two men were charged Wednesday with armed robbery after the sub-branch of the Royal Bank of Canada was robbed of $4,100.

Provincial police said the two men Bronson Perrett, 29, of Wheatley, Ont., and Clifford Fairbairn, 23, of RR 2 Kingsville, Ont., a pair were arrested near Forest.

Two hooded, armed men forced bank manager John Paulin, 23, and clerk Peter Burtch, 18, both of Wallaceburg to open a safe.

Provincial police Const. Ronald Smith spotted two men driving a car which answered the description of the getaway car used in the bank holdup.

He stopped the men, and searched their car, finding $4,100 in bills hidden under the dashboard.

WINS THIRD TERM

REGINA (CP)—Mayor Henry H. P. Baker was re-elected by a landslide Wednesday night to his third consecutive term. He polled 17,907 votes to 7,577 for Ian Forbes.

Woman Charged With Theft of $228,873.76

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Mrs. Delores Clow, 37, of Prescott, Ont., was arraigned in magistrate's court Wednesday and freed on $100 bail to appear Nov. 19 to face a charge of theft of $228,873.67.

The platinum blonde was charged with theft after an auditor with Canada Packers Ltd., Montreal, where she held an executive position for eight years, called the police.

Mrs. Clow, a former fashion model, was arrested Oct. 26 by Ontario Provincial Police as she drove into Plattsburgh in her 1962 Cadillac from a 10-day visit to Newburgh in the southeastern part of the state.

She was released on $5,000 cash bail on a fugitive-from-justice warrant on which New York police had held her since her arrest.

Mrs. Clow, who has a four-year-old adopted daughter, is being represented at the trial by Ottawa lawyer Royden Hughes.

Crown Henderson, Brockville lawyer representing Billings Motors, said he and the auto agency—the third largest general Motors agency in Canada —"will not attempt" to recover the firm's losses.

Nuclear Blast Touched off

A powerful Thor booster shot the device to an estimated height of from 30 to 40 miles.

A brilliant fireball lighted the sky above Honolulu 750 miles northeast of the test zone. A white, then a green, flash belched from the explosion and turned into a red glow, followed by a huge mushrooming ball.

The sky blackened less than a minute after the glow first appeared.

Task Force 8 officials said the blast was in the sub - megaton range, meaning it packed a wallop of less than 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Immigration to Canada Shows First Increase Since June '60

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada in the first nine months of 1962 showed an increase for the first time since June, 1960, the immigration department said Wednesday.

Arrivals in the nine months rose slightly to 56,568 from 56,-468 in the corresponding period a year ago. The last time immigration increased was in the nine months ended June 30, 1960, when it rose to 58,041 from 57,089 a year earlier.

However, the flow of immigration to date this year is well below last post-war years since arrivals totalled 64,-127. It is now expected that total immigration for the year will be only slightly higher than last year's 71,689 arrivals.

Figures for the first nine months of 1962 also show immigrants from British countries to outnumber those from Italy. Arrivals from Britain totalled 11,947 in the period, up from 9,559 a year ago, while newcomers from Italy declined to 10,138 from 10,-

Prior to 1959, British immigrants headed the list. However, in that year and also in 1959, 1960 and 1961 Italians formed the largest group of newcomers.

This trend was reversed in March of this year and is expected to continue.

Immigrants from the United States were in third place at 8,822, up slightly from 8,788 in the first nine months of 1961. Figures for the two countries have remained constant for the last few years.

Arrivals from Germany were in fourth place in the nine months at 4,415. They were followed by 2,714 from Greece, 2,289 from Portugal and 2,146 from France.

Immigration from Europe in the nine months rose to 41,629 from 40,829. Newcomers from Africa declined to 691 from 788, while those from the Middle East rose to 1,663 from 823.

Arrivals from Asia declined to 1,238 from 1,328 and those from South America fell to 702 from 1,093.

Two Sentenced To Prison Terms At Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Donald P. Bates, 25, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary and Peter Papastavros, 29, to four years for armed robbery of a service station Oct. 23.

U.S. Labor Lawyer Quits Federal Marine Inquiry, Says SIU Being Pre-Judged

MONTREAL (CP) — American labor lawyer Victor Hanson quit the federal marine inquiry Wednesday, charging that the Seafarers' International Union of North America has been "pre-judged" before all evidence was presented.

The Detroit attorney who had been assisting lawyers for the SIU of Canada,said he would not return to the federal hearings presided over by G. Norris. There was no indication that lawyers for the SIU of Canada would also withdraw.

Mr. Hanson's complaint that a series of comments on the SIU by Commissioner Norris placed my client in the position of being pre-judged in regard to many of the unsavoury charges made during the hearings" brought a speedy response.

Said Mr. Justice Norris:

"I am not interested in what interest whether Mr. Hanson ,stays or goes. He is not a counsel before me. He was retained by the firm of counsel for the SIU of Canada."

'TOTALLY UNFAMILIAR'

The British Columbia Appeal Court judge, investigating interfront labor violence and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes, said he was not aware he had appeared in the Pacific today.

Mr. Hanson is "totally unfamiliar with the manner in which hearings of this sort are carried out and is totally unfamiliar with the principles of British and Canadian jurisprudence."

Maurice Wright, lawyer for the 1,070,000-member Canadian Labor Congress and four CLC affiliated unions, said:

"Who is Hanson? How can he withdraw from something he hasn't been in?' Mr. Hanson's petulance is typical of the kind of administration of justice are of no interest to me."

J. A. Geller, lawyer for Upper Lakes Shipping Company, which broke with the SIU of Canada last April and signed a contract with the new Canadian Maritime Union, said:

"I am really amazed at Mr. Hanson's failure to grasp what a Canadian judicial inquiry is all about. I am quite sure that his Canadian counsel do not support his position."

EIGHT 24 WHOOPERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interior department reported Wednesday that 26 whooping cranes have been counted on the wintering grounds of the Southeastern Texas Coast. All of the birds observed so far are adults.

Herridge Gives Up Seat But Not Retiring

OTTAWA (CP) — "Bertie Willie"—the honorable member for Kootenay West—wants it known that he is still a true Democratic Party member of Parliament and intends to remain so.

Mr. Herridge, who has been House leader of the old CCF group and then of the NDP in the Commons, told the House Wednesday that he is giving up his front-row seat to David Lewis, MP for York South.

But, Mr. Herridge is remaining as the MP for Kootenay West.

He was cut off by Speaker Marcel Lambert when he tried to explain the shift.

The NDP's national leader, T. C. Douglas, former premier of Saskatchewan, expects to take his seat in the Commons Friday following his byelection victory. This displaces Mr. Herridge as House leader. Under normal circumstances, Mr. Herridge might revert to being deputy House leader, as an elder statesmen of the party.

FAVORS YOUNGER MAN'

Mr. Herridge, however, who is 67, said he feels the job should fall to a younger man. "Who is better than Lewis labor lawyer and national vice-president of the,NDP,"was first reported in the Commons last June.

The other reason—which Mr. Herridge did not allude to pat on the record because Mr. Lambert interrupted him—is that Mr. Herridge believes that two British Columbia members should be leader and deputy House leader of the party.

Mr. Douglas was elected Oct. 18, in the Burnaby-Coquitlam byelection, after having been defeated in June by Conservative Ken More in Regina, his home province for many years.

Mr. Herridge rose Wednesday to complain about a report that "Bertie Willie" was dead. This newspaper heading appeared above a story by The Canadian Press last week about Mr. Herridge's imminent retirement from the House leadership.

Mr. Herridge has no complaint about the story. But he felt the heading inaccurately implied he was not remaining in the Commons.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

GILDA C. — He plans to buy a rifle and I'm perplexed.

LEWIS C. — I was to go hunting. How own I, without a gun?

Gilda C.: It seems that all the tragedies in the world are caused by a car or a gun. We have the first, and now Lew wants to get the second. We've had a few narrow escapes in the car, and I don't want to have to add worries about the gun to my other anxieties.

All I see before my eyes is that line in the newspapers, "He didn't know the gun was loaded." It's such a dangerous object. Why look for new headaches? I know Lew wants to join his uncle and cousins on their hunting trips, but they're old hands at it. They grew up in the Canadian Rockies and really know all about guns. I'd rather have Lew put the money into good fishing gear. Fishing is fun, too, and much safer.

Lewis C.: Because of Gilda's hysterics, I've missed out on some wonderful he-man sport. Each autumn my uncle invites me to come along. He and my cousins rent a hunting lodge in the Adirondacks and go after wild ducks and rabbits. Once in a while they bag a reindeer.

Last year I joined them as a spectator, a tag-along. I tended the fire, made coffee, cleaned up and poured the drinks. It wasn't much fun. This time I want to join in and to do so I must buy a good rifle.

Gilda lets her imagination run away with her. A gun is just a tool and it's not dangerous if you know how to handle it. I've watched the boys and I think I know what to do. But to make sure I'll have them show me all over again, from A to Z, before I pull a trigger.

Lewis's reasoning, anything — even a cake of soap — can be dangerous if it isn't handled correctly. Used according to the rules which channel its use along the path for which it's intended, a gun — and a car and a cake of soap, too — can be a safe implement and an accessory which opens the way to wholesome experiences.

Since Gilda's plaint was the first, we've received along this line, we made some inquiries among licensing agencies, gun dealers, rifle associations. We were surprised to learn that one out of every seven men in the United States (and one out of every twelve women) pursue hunting as a sport. And that millions of young children are taught shooting as part of camp and school sports programs. One authority we consulted said that his 12-year-old son owns a rifle and a shotgun, and had her own .22 rifle since age 8.

The big word with children is of course, Supervision. And the big word with an adult like Lewis is Responsibility. The same gun which provides the thrill of knocking down a target can also kill. And the lethal blow, in careless hands, can kill or maim human beings and pets, as well as the birds and animals which are pronounced "fair game."

So if Lewis understands that by the very face of becoming a gun-owner he must become a responsible gun-controller who obeys all the rules, then Gilda needn't worry. Those mishaps she reads about come from those who flout the safety regulations. She can review them regularly with Lewis. Here are the main ones as formulated by the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Mfrs. Inst.:

1. Know what you're firing at.
2. Don't climb or crawl with a loaded gun. Unload first.
3. Don't shoot at a hard surface. Bullets ricochet.
4. Never leave a weapon unattended without unloading it.
5. Store ammunition beyond reach of children, preferably locked.
6. Carry gun with muzzle direction always under control.
7. Keep safety catch on until ready to shoot.
8. Guns and alcohol don't mix. Wait till weapons are unloaded and in cases.
9. Despite precautions, guns may be loaded. Never point them unless shooting.

SPEED CHANNEL FLIGHTS

LONDON (Reuters) — British European Airways will start a new London-Paris daily service Thursday using Comet jet airliners. The 580-mile-an-hour Comets will leave London at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. and reach Paris 80 minutes later for the fastest scheduled flight yet between the two capitals.

Soviet Policemen to Have Day Named in Their Honor

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet policemen this year are going to have a special national holiday in their honor. The "day of the Soviet militia" will be celebrated Nov. 10, the militia's 46th anniversary.

This appears to be another step in the Soviet regime's stubborn effort to brighten the public image of its men in blue.

Ever since the anti-Stalinist reaction set in, authorities have been trying to re-educate the guardians of public order as well as the generally hostile public.

Judging from day-to-day relations, the campaign still has a long way to go.

Cars brazenly jump traffic lights in full view of the policeman on duty or whiz past his motionless baton as the road well above the speed limit.

One Western resident was stopped because his car was dirty—there is a strict rule against dirty cars.

DISORDERLY DRUNKS

The Westerner, having listened patiently to a lecture on his duty to keep his car clean, calmly walked around the policeman, carefully looking him up and down, and finally announced: "Your boots are dirty."

One evening four policemen found two drunks making a disturbance. One of the drunks punched a policeman. Three cops loaded him onto a motorcycle sidecar and rode off to the police station.

The fourth policeman remained behind with the other drunk, waiting for the paddy wagon. The drunk's piteous cries quickly attracted a sympathetic crowd.

Even when reinforcements arrived, the crowd refused to disperse. It formed a sullen wall. A fight to get the prisoner through appeared inevitable. Finally the police let the drunk go and hastily retreated.

MARSH HILL — Several from here attended the Institute social evening Saturday night which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mayell, Oak Lake. There were also guests present from Belleville and Stirling.

This Orlon lining makes sheep obsolete

It looks and feels like sheepskin. But it's Orlon—lighter, just as warm and a lot less expensive. The young man's Suburban is finished in Duplan 'Canadian Mist' nylon and cotton (to keep him dry in a drizzle) with button-up cuffs and side vents and a wool knit collar that stands high and handsome. It's practical enough for anything short of a Himalayan Expedition. Another practical thought: you can buy it now at $17.99 and save more than $3.00 on the regular price. Sizes 8 through 18 exclusively at Tip Top.

Manitoba Hydro Project At Grand Rapids Costing $140,000,000 Half Way

By KEN CLARK

GRAND RAPIDS, Man. (CP) Manitoba Hydro has passed the halfway mark in its difficult project of creating a $140,000,000 hydro-electric power project near this historic fur trade centre, 250 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Massive earth dikes, a concrete spillway dam 70 feet high and a 450,000-horsepower generating station are taking shape on the swift-flowing Saskatchewan River.

When it is completed in 1963, three giant generators will provide 330,000 kilowatts of electricity to keep up with the growing demand. Two 230,000-volt transmission lines will carry the output to Winnipeg to be fed into the province's southern power system.

The cost of this wilderness project equals the total spent on all provincial power development in the decade of 1950s.

DIFFICULT SITE

The almost inaccessible site forced soaring expenses almost from the outset. When preliminary work began in 1956, Grand Rapids was a tiny, isolated Indian settlement on the northwest shore of Lake Winnipeg. The only approach was by water or air, and supplies were shipped in by barge and boat from Winnipeg via the Red River and the lake.

The voyageurs of old travelled a similar route in canoes to make Grand Rapids a focal point of the fur trade.

Here the Saskatchewan River flows into Lake Winnipeg, stretching to within 30 miles of Winnipeg. To the west, canoes could travel almost to the Rockies on the 1,200-mile river, or north to Hudson's Bay.

The site is a natural one for hydro power. At its outlet it drops 75 feet in a three-mile stretch of rapids providing the power potential for modern turbines.

COUNTRY RESHAPED

Men and machines mounted a massive assault to reshape the rolling bush country and the river channel. The glacial till gouged out of countryside provided the raw material for 16 miles of dikes, now half completed. The dikes, mostly 18 feet wide at the top, will form a wide V to enclose the river.

At point of the V the dikes will rise to a height of 90 feet to meet a reinforced concrete structure through which the water will rear toward the turbines in the power house below.

The dikes will act as a dam backing up the river waters into an artificial lake stretching 75 miles to the west.

At present the intake structures and the powerhouse are dry-land projects, nestled in the crook of the curving river. The river enters the wide end of the V and passes out through one arm on its way to the lake.

But nearing completion is the spillway that will dam the river. Steel gates 42 feet high in the spillway, at the head of the rapids, will play a key role in creation of the new lake.

IN WILDERNESS — A $140,000,000 hydro-electric project is being built in the wilderness of central Manitoba where the Saskatchewan River flows into Lake Winnipeg. Transmission lines will carry power from the Grand Rapids stations 250 miles to Winnipeg into the province's southern distributing system.

Sometime in the spring of 1964 these electrically operated gates will clang shut and the reservoir will start to form. It may take two years to fill up.

Later in 1964 two generators will go into action, and third will start the following year. There's room for a fourth when needed.

REGULATE LEVEL

After the artificial lake has been formed the spillway gates will be adjusted periodically to regulate its level.

One technical problem being met and overcome is the prevention of seepage from the artificial lake under the dikes. In a process called "grouting," holes are drilled in the ground along the dike line and mortar forced into the ground, filling cavities to an average depth of 200 feet.

Manitoba Hydro has also contributed to the cost of construction of a 112-mile gravel road and a $1,300,000 bridge across the Saskatchewan River to link Grand Rapids to the south. A 4,300-foot airstrip also went up on the construction site.

Minor strikes, and the threats of larger ones, plagued the early construction work but pay grievances were settled and a total of 1,900 men worked around the clock before onset of winter curtailed operations.

Most of the workers are employees of five major sub-contractors, banded together to handle the project under contracts with the government hydro authority.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This weekend in Toronto's King Edward Hotel some 400 men, dedicated to a great purpose, meet in convention. They are the voluntary "slaves" to the present and future well-being of the province's hockey-playing youngsters.

They are the often unsung heroes whose unselfish work is usually blanketed under the achievements of their youthful proteges. They are the men who give time, effort and oftimes personal finances to the development of minor hockey in their communities.

If my long-time presidential friend will excuse the alleged pun, these men meet in the shadow of the Elmes under the aegis of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the greatest sports organization of its kind in the world.

And if these men who hail from Windsor and Sarnia to the lonely stretches of Lower Canada east of Peterborough to Cantoupoe preen and strut a little, it is understandable.

For didn't they, as the ever-reaching tentacles of the OMHA stretched out to encompass more "side" and territory, set an all-time record last season?

Excluding the Toronto Hockey League, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association last season had 51,449 young players under its official wing, an increase of 4,746 over the previous year.

Entered into OMHA group play or playdowns were 620 teams or 12,390 players. Competing in town or local leagues were 1,953 teams or 39,160 players. Engaged in minor hockey in the province were 2,573 teams or 51,449 players.

And while that sports-writing patriarch in Stratford points a typewriter-scarred finger to the fine record of the congested areas of Western Ontario we didn't do so badly here in the sprawling ranges of Lower Canada.

They have rallied a goodly number of men, tried and true to the cause and the result has been another record-breaking season for this part of Ontario, said by the envious, to be attached to the main body for discipline and duty.

Messrs. Watkins and Patterson are not averse to taking off their coats, rolling up their sleeves and going to work. Their reward this year, as you can't bank it, is a new record of 9,160 youngsters playing organized hockey in the district that ranges from Port Hope and Peterborough to, Gananoque. This is an increase over last year of some 1,800 boys.

Over the passing years this part of Ontario has not been glutted with minor hockey championships. This is mainly due to the fact that Western Ontario teams have better ice facilities and a plenitude of artificial ice arenas. Most of our suburban teams have to depend on natural ice.

But we entered the charmed circle last season. Wilson "Dutch" Ainsworth, the Wellington hockey maestro, took his hard-fighting bantam D's to an Ontario title, the first minor hockey crown for the lakeside village and Prince Edward County.

Back to the convention. The OMHA and its delegates will deal with some important matters, including the compulsory wearing of helmets for players ranging from squirt to midget. I have no doubt it will be passed. In fact it should have been in effect years ago.

Boomer Blasts Winner, Helps 2 More

By BRUCE STOVEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Age and extra-curricular activities show no sign of mufti-Mal Montreal's Boom Boom.

At 31, Bernie Geoffrion has taken 12 seasons—including two season scoring titles—out of his stocky legs. And this is a sport where leg-power is supposed to start to falter after 10 gruelling 70-game seasons in the National Hockey League.

But Geoffrion continued his flying performance so far this year, when he scored the winning goal and assisted on two others Wednesday night in Canadiens' 4-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Wednesday night's production lifted Geoffrion into a tie for second place in the league scoring race with Chicago's Ab McDonald. Geoffrion has four goals and seven assists for 11 points, one less than team-mate Henri Richard, who added an assist Wednesday night.

HAVE 10 POINTS

The victory gave Montreal 10 points, one less than second-place Chicago Black Hawks and two less than unbeaten Detroit Red Wings. Leafs remain in fourth place with seven points. New York and Boston are tied in the cellar with five points.

Canadiens fell behind 1-0 in Wednesday night's game as they have in every one of their nine games this year. Leafs' captain George Armstrong was the marksman, moving into a tie for the most goals this season with his fifth goal.

Montreal took a 2-1 lead by the end of the first period on goals by Claude Provost and Gilles Tremblay, his fifth.

Geoffrion's goal in the first minute of the last period gave Montreal a 4-1 lead. But Toronto's Dave Keon and Billy Harris followed with a goal each.

Montreal's two first - period goals were scored on power-plays, and Johnson's second-period goal came as Leaf defence man Bob Baun was returning to the ice after a bolding penalty. Canadiens had scored only three times in 37 power-plays going into the game.

The two teams meet again in Montreal tonight. Also playing tonight will be New York at Detroit and Chicago at Boston.

Kent Douglas, the Leafs' lone defenceman, tussled with Bill Hicke in the first period and both got minors. Late in the third period, he and Geoffrion traded punches in a corner scuffle. Each got a major.

Douglas comes to the NHL with a reputation for being hot-tempered and aggressive in the American Hockey League.

He says his temper, and his unquenchable thirst for water, kept him out of the NHL until he reached his present age of 28. He says he used to drink between two and three gallons of water a day—six or seven glasses at a sitting — and weighed 200 pounds.

This year, he says, he has cut down to three glasses of water a day. The result, the native of Cobalt, Ont., says, has been a drop to a more effective 170 pounds.

Reds Blank Barons 2-0, Bears Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Playing against his former Cleveland mates Wednesday night, Providence Reds goalie Gil Mayer turned in a brilliant performance, kicking out 33 shots—almost twice as many as his opposite number—for a 2-0 American Hockey League shutout of the Barons.

In the only other game played Wednesday night, Hershey rallied for two last period goals and a 4-2 triumph over Rochester.

While Mayer was turning aside 33 shots, Barons' goalie Lee Binkley made only 18 saves —but two first period goals did the damage. Fred Mazur, another ex-Baron, gave Mayer the only goal he needed in opening period and Larry Leach connected later for insurance.

Veteran Willie Marshall scored the clincher for the Reds at 4:18 of the final period, snapping a 2-2 tie when he fired a hard shot past Americans' goalie Don Simmons. Myron Stankiewicz scored into an open net at 19:37 to wrap up the scoring.

BACK IN ACTION

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Green Bay Packer halfback Paul Hornung, National Football League scoring champion the last three years who has been sidelined with a knee injury for two weeks, returned to the practice field Tuesday. The workout was the first since Hornung was hurt in a game with the Minnesota Vikings.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league announced Wednesday night the signing of Real Cheverville, former National Hockey League left winger.

Cheverville, 30, performed eight seasons with Boston Bruins before being sent back to minor professional ranks. He played for Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League last season, scoring 32 goals.

The Bulldogs also announced that Jean Marc Assalin, a 26-goal scorer for Woodstock Athletics last season, has signed a Windsor playing card.

GALT (CP)—Galt Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Hockey League are negotiating for the hockey services of Ron Howell, a two-sport star currently playing with the British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference.

Terriers have gained permission from Toronto Maple Leafs, who own Howell's hockey rights, to approach the Hamilton native and have offered him a contract.

Terriers also expect to return left winger Lloyd Mercer to the active list soon. Mercer led the club with 20 goals in 30 games last winter before being sidelined with a damaged knee cartilage which led to an operation this fall. He's been skating for the past week.

Defenceman Bruno Talbot and winger Claude Guay have been released. Both were sent here by Providence of the American League as part of a working part between the clubs. Talbot didn't play in Galt's opening 2-1 win over Woodstock and hasn't secured a release from Windsor, N.S., Seniors, with whom he played last winter.

Quebec Yields Big Trout

MONTREAL (CP) — An 11-pound, eight - ounce speckled trout caught in the Lake Assinica district of northern Quebec apparently is the second largest of the species ever known to have been taken by rod and reel.

The record speckled trout was caught in the Nipigon River in Northern Ontario in 1916. It weighed 14 pounds, eight ounces.

The 11½-pounder was taken about Aug. 20 at the headwaters of the Broadback River, the outlet of Lake Assinica in the Chibougamau area 250 miles north-

Yearling Brings Top Of $35,000

The 221 trotters and pacers in go on the block brought a total of $907,850, an average of $4,108 each—the second highest average for a third day in the sale's history. The record third-day average was $4,599 in 1960.

Five yearlings sold for more than $30,000 and it went for more than $20,000.

Top price of $35,000 was paid by the Eagle Stable of Kitchener, Ont., for Eagle Ambro, which was consigned by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont. Seventeen yearlings consigned by Armstrong brought a total of $129,700.

Charlie Keller, former New York Yankee outfielder, received $20,800 for 18 yearlings bred on his farm at Frederick, Md., including a top of $30,000 for a yearling bought by Don Huff of Rochester, N.Y.

Angered By Defeats

Steelers Fire 3 Vets

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Angered by two successive crushing defeats, Pittsburgh Steelers coach Buddy Parker has fired three veterans in an attempt to get his team back into the National Football League title race.

Parker dismissed defensive halfback Johnny Sample, offensive end Harlon Hill and defensive tackle - end John Kapele Wednesday.

"We just got rid of some guys that we couldn't use this year or any other year," Parker said.

Parker said he plans to add three more men to the Steeler roster, including veteran offensive halfback Tom Tracy, formerly with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Conference, who was released by the Steelers prior to the start of the season.

WANT REPLACEMENT

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins are dickering with Dallas-Fort Worth of the American Association to replace Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League which has been dropped from the Twins' farm system, Sherry Robertson, Twins farm director, said Tuesday.

RYAN FINED $75

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Ryan, 61, general manager of the Edmonton Eskimos football club, was convicted and fined $75 here Wednesday on a 1961 charge of driving while impaired.

he trial was delayed because Ryan, a former resident of Toronto, was in the West. His lawyer, Fred Malone, said the conviction will be appealed.

Ryan testified his car was hit by another as he was turning into a driveway.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was advertised as a hockey game at Spokane Wednesday night—but it turned into a rousing fight card.

Managers, coaches, officials, police, fans and players took part in a brawl that halted a Western Hockey League game between Spokane Comets and San Francisco Seals.

It happened late in the third period with Spokane leading 4-0. Before it was over, eight players had received major penalties and game misconducts. Referee Lloyd Gilmour couldn't regain control and the game was stopped with one minute and four seconds remaining in regulation time.

Comet manager Roy McBride charged out on the ice but was felled by a punch to the stomach and had to be aided to the sidelines.

BUCS TAKE LEAD

In other action, Portland Buckaroos took the Southern Division lead by belting the second-place Los Angeles Blades 7-4 at Portland. At Edmonton, the Flyers beat Calgary Stampeders 4-2.

Gordie Stratton was a two-goal man in the Comet win. Max Marshall and Ber Bell added singles.

Arnie Schmautz got two goals for the Bucks. Bud Anderson, Tommy McVie, Arlo Goodwin, Ken Laufman and Orv Tessier added one apiece. Leo LaBine, Bud Solinger, Bruce Carmichael and Jack Bowman scored for Los Angeles.

Flyers Nip Stamps 4-2

EDMONTON (CP)—Forward Forbes Kennedy monopolized the limelight Wednesday night as Edmonton Flyers defeated Calgary Stampeders 4-2 in a Western Hockey League game before 1,931 fans, one of the smallest crowds here in years.

The win consolidated Flyers' hold on second place in the WHL's Northern Division. The loss left Calgary in a tie for third place with Seattle Totems.

Kennedy, a 27-year-old former major leaguer, scored two first-period goals and tangled with Calgary goalie Roy Edwards in a fight that highlighted thescoreless second period.

Als Next Year May Gather No Moss

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Perry Moss seems unperturbed over speculation that he must win Saturday to hang onto his job.

When the issue was raised by a reporter Wednesday night, Moss lost none of his composure.

But before he could reply there came an interjection by M. E. (Ted) Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes.

"No ifs or buts about it," snapped Workman. "We're going to win Saturday. And that's as far as our thinking goes right now."

Workman hired Moss as head coach and general manager three years ago. No terms of the contract have ever been disclosed officially. But it is believed to run for another two years.

SEEK PLAYOFF SPOT

Saturday's game pits the Als against Toronto Argonauts in a scramble for the last playoff spot in the Eastern Football Conference.

Montreal would make it even with a tie. A setback would knock the Als from post-season play for the third consecutive year.

Moss talked freely about what's ahead for Saturday.

"They won the last time out and with better kicking and a muddy field probable that would slow down our rushing and not hurt their passing as much, they look better going in from the psychological point," he said.

"But the thing is going to be decided between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon."

INJURIES MODIFIED TF

Moss plans to toss a modified T-formation against the Argos—a move he says George Dixon, Dick Clark and Larry Hickman in the lineup simultaneously.

Offensive tackle Milt Crisp and defensive end Don Paquette both fresh from te injury reserve list are to dress Saturday.

Moss said defensive tackle Bobby Jack Oliver and offensive centre Joe Sracina are doubtful starters.

"He's going at half speed and he's not in good shape," said Moss.

Siracina reinjured his knee the last time out after missing three games.

Meanwhile, a 30-man work force has been ordered to get Molson Stadium in shape for the game and arrangements have been made to have two helicopters hover over the field to help blow off the moisture.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of the Montreal Canadiens regained the lead in the National Hockey League scoring race Wednesday night by chalking up two assists as Montreal downed Toronto 4-3.

Richard now has five goals and seven assists for 12 points, one more than Chicago's Ab McDonald and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal, tied for second place with 11 points.

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and Cliff Pennington of Boston are tied for fourth place with 10 points.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Richard, Montreal	5	7	12
McDonald, Chicago	5	6	11
Geoffrion, Montreal	4	7	11
Delvecchio, Detroit	4	7	10
Pennington, Boston	3	7	10

Oliver, Boston	2	6	8

Pro Soccer For Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—Spokesmen for two Vancouver soccer clubs said Wednesday night they are exploring the possibility of creating a professional soccer league here.

Bill McGee, president of St. Andrews Club, and Frank Craig, president of Westminster Royals, said the league would be affiliated with the Eastern Canada Pro Soccer League and the ultimate aim was to create a Canadian professional league.

St. Andrews and Royals both dropped out of the amateur Pacific Coast League this year following a dispute over the admission of Vancouver Filcsers to the league.

'Cookie' Bad? Ask The Bills

By PAUL RIMSTEAD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Is Cookie Gilchrist as bad as they say?

"No!" is his emphatic reply. "I never lied, never cheated and never stole from anybody. . . . The majority of the publicity I received in Canada was unwarranted and unnecessary. I was paid to play football and I always gave 100 per cent on the field."

When Gilchrist, 245 - pound Negro fullback, lost his job with Toronto Argonauts this season it was stated he was let go because of his after-hours antics.

Buffalo Bills snapped him up and today he's the leading rusher in the American Football League, with 618 yards in 114 carries. The 26-year-old native of Tarentum, Pa., also is fourth in scoring with 60 points in seven games. And he's the best property in the AFL.

Buffalo averaged 19,000 fans a game last season and so far this year is over the 24,000 mark.

"Cookie is the reason," says Buffalo general manager Dick Gallagher. "The people love him and he's become our team leader. We haven't had any trouble with him at all."

USED TO WORRY

Cookie graduated from the Ontario Rugby Football Union to Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the CFL in 1956. Two years later Ticats pawned him off and Regina Roughriders picked him up. He lasted at Regina for only one season, then joined Toronto in 1959.

Despite his impressive scoring and rushing records Cookie was canned because they said he was unmanageable.

"If all these things they said about me were true it would take three lifetimes to do them," Cookie says. "We all like a little fun but I'm no worse than anyone else.

"I started reading the papers and believing them. Once it affected me so much I thought I'd never be able to lead a normal life. I would sit down and psycho-analyse myself and was beginning to think I was some kind of a freak.

"But the turning point came when Regina gave me a chance to prove I still belonged in society. They gave me a job and I haven't looked back since. I left Hamilton in 1958. Since then I've made nothing but money and progress."

Cookie says he was offered "a fantastic three-year contract" by Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League last season but turned it down for five one-year Toronto contracts ranging from $18,000 to $20,000.

He doesn't want to go to the NFL. "Up there I'd be a big fish in a big pond. Here and in Canada I'm a big fish in a little pond."

He says he's making more with the Bills than he would have in Toronto, and is enjoying it more.

"There are a lot of internal problems on the Toronto club. There's interference from the top. And there's a big clique on the club—always has been."

Gilchrist doesn't hold a grudge against Argos for letting him go. He says it was a case of former coach Lou Agase trying to protect his job.

"Our problem originated with the top brass. Agase's job was on the line at the time and he felt if he reprimanded me it would help him gain full control as head coach. As it happened, it backfired and he lost his job.

"But if it had been left up to Agase and general manager Jake Gaudaur, I'd still be in Toronto. They helped me get my five-year contract. It doesn't sound reasonable but I say would fire me a year later."

AFL IMPROVING

Gilchrist was fired when Agase caught him leaving his hotel in Edmonton well after the curfew.

"That happens 10,000 times during a football season," said Cookie. "You know athletes."

But all this is behind him. He feels he's found his place at Buffalo. He likes the AFL. It is still young but should be on a par with the NFL in two years. The Canadian league had more established stars and might still be a bit stronger but "it's not as professional from the management standpoint."

Cookie's home is still in Toronto and he says he hopes to continue living in Canada because "I like the Canadian way of life." But he added:

"I went to a banquet the other night and I was offered six jobs with leading Buffalo business firms and four people approached me about going into business. I was in Canada eight years and was never offered a job. People must have believed what they read about me.

"And, you know? I never took a drink, even socially, before I went to Toronto in 1960."

Atlanta Hopes Slim For 1963

ATLANTA (AP) — Prospects for the Little World Series champion Atlanta Crackers defending their International League crown in Atlanta next season appear slim, the Atlanta Constitution says.

Sports Editor Jesse Outlar wrote in his column that Bill Macdonald, owner of the franchise, has cancelled his 1963 lease of Ponce de Leon Park, where the Crackers play.

Atlanta's general manager Joe Ryan, also speaking from Miami, said, "I hope something can be worked out. We'd like to stay in Atlanta. We haven't given up."

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

For almost a quarter century the four-minute mile stood on sport's Mount Everest, a beckoning objective that remained defiantly impregnable. Then, on May 6, 1954, at Oxford, England, Roger Bannister was clocked in 3:59.4.

The athletic Everest had been conquered. Bannister, then a 25-year-old London medical student, was the marvel of the track. The world was still saluting the blonde Englishman when John Landy of Australia ran the mile in 3:58.0.

Four men did it in one race—July 19, 1957, at London. The same day, at Stockholm, Dan Waern of Sweden also broke the barrier. By the time the 1958 British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, rolled around, 19 men of 10 nationalities had broken it 39 times.

BREAKS SWIM BARRIER

The 60th four-minute mile was run at Cardiff by Herb Elliott of Australia. Now, at any big-time outdoor meet, it's a crashing flop if one, two or more men don't get under the one-time magic four minutes.

This week another athletic Everest was beaten and it was practically ignored.

Dawn Fraser of Australia, a self - described "athletic old woman" of 25, thrashed through the Olympic swimming pool at Melbourne in a 60-second clocking for the 110-yard freestyle, two-tenths of a second faster than her recognized record.

Remarkable? Well, the 60-second plateau over 110 yards had been sought by the world's outstanding female swimmers in much the same way as the runners had set their eyes on the four-minute mile. The top male swimmers regularly bust the 60-second mark over the distance, some by as much as three and four seconds, but never a woman until Miss Fraser accomplished it on Tuesday.

Her performance certainly sets the dark-haired, laughing-eyed Australian apart as the greatest female swimmer the world has known. And it is all the more remarkable, considering the age of this five-foot-8½-inch woman in a sport where champions retire at age 16 or 17.

TWICE OLYMPIC CHAMP

But Miss Fraser has been confounding the aquatic world and rewriting the record books for years. At nine she was an asthmatic and, although she still has a little difficulty catching her breath, she has been ruling the world in the short sprint since 1955 when, at 18, she was a rookie in competitive swimming.

There's nothing boastful about this tall Adelaide office clerk. Every time she enters a meet she has what she terms "a great compulsion to break a world record." Since 1960 she has been out after the 60-second mark, always fearful that some teen-aged phenom would beat her to it.

She went to the 1960 Olympics in Rome as world record holder in the 100 metres, 110 yards, 200 metres and 220 yards free-style and 110-yard butterfly. She is the first woman ever to win the Olympic 100-metre title twice, in 1956 at Melbourne and 1960 at Rome.

Her butterfly mark has been eclipsed by 17-year-old Mary Stewart of Vancouver, the world record holder with a time of 1:07.3 set last July 28 at Vancouver.

Misses Stewart and Fraser likely will clash at the Nov. 29-Dec. 1 British Empire Games at Perth, Australia. They just might send statisticians scurrying for the record books.

Coach Is Sorry For Trick Play

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Coach Wayne Hardin of Navy apologized Wednesday for a sneak play on which the Middies scored their first touchdown against Pitt last Saturday.

Hardin said that Navy did not consider it had violated any football rules. On the play, flanker back Jim Stewart pretended to leave the game for a substitute but actually went out on the flank undefended to take a touchdown pass. Hardin said the play was cleared with game officials beforehand.

Hardin said, in light of criticism of Navy since then, he regrets having used the play and "I'm not sure we would do it again." He said there was no intention to "deceive, connive and cheat" Pitt, although it was intended that the play should be a gainer.

At the time Pitt was leading 7-0 but went on to lose the game to Navy 32-9.

Lanes Now Not Alleys, Gutter Stays

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Consider alleys.

The bowling people are. They don't like the word.

The men who own them apparently feel taht alleys are things in which you meet people with whom you disagree.

The proprietors of those spanking, chrome - plated emporiums where bowling is conducted these days apparently feel that the term bowling alley" conjures up images of the less respectable, smoke-filled joints of the old days.

Hence a campaign to call them "bowling lanes."

The proprietors have taken to fining each other a quarter every time the word "alley" slips over a tongue.

They probably use the money to build more alleys. And call them lanes.

Meanwhile, what about gutters?

Gutters are filled with snipes, cigar butts and soured chlinens, according to traditional belief. And bowling balls

It is going to be pretty hard to sell a slicy word for gutter, especially to anyone who has recently thrown a bowling ball into one when he was aiming down the alley, er, lane.

Edna's Counsel, driven by John Millman, collected the winner's share of a $400 purse and paid $3.30, $3.20 and $2.70.

Bettors risked $36,003 as the horses raced over the track in deep fog. Races were cancelled at Rideau Carleton Tuesday night because of snow.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Miss V. R. Grattan combined with Vern Song in the ninth race Wednesday night for a quinella payoff of $463.50 biggest feature race return of the season at Western Fair Raceway.

Miss V. R. Grattan crossed the wire in the time of 2:12 2-5 to pay $40.90 to win, the longest price on the board at 24 to 1. Vern Song was 7 to 1.

Melina Mercouri Has No Desire to Stay in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Con- I asked about her future cerning Hollywood, Melina Mercouri has two feelings:

"I am like a bobbysoxer when it comes to the movie stars here. I would give anything to be able to meet Marlon Brando."

"I do not want to work here because the studios offer me the same part—the harlot with a heart of gold."

Ah, Hollywood, will it never learn; because Mercouri flashed to stardom as the beneficent babe of Never on Sunday, producers figure she's good for a string of such characters.

But they figured without Mercouri, one of the new international stars who can get along without Hollywood well, thank you. And so she was here this week not to discuss scripts, but as part of her journeys with her boon companion and mentor, Jules Dassin, to promote their new film Phaedra.

"How can I stay here?" the volatile Greek asked. "There is no work for me. I am not rich. It costs a lot of money to stay in this hotel (the Beverly Hills)."

plans. She said she was returning to London to play a role in The Victors, then would appear with Danny Kaye in Five Pieces of Marta—"if they fix the script for me; it was written for Sophia Loren, and she and I are not the same."

This prompted the question: How do they differ?

"She is Italian; I am Greek," said the actress. "She has an oscar; I have not. I am this. . ."

She didn't finish the sentence. But she added: "She has (producer Carlo) Ponti; I have Dassin. And that is the only way in which I am better off than Loren—because Dassin is a writer and director, not just a producer."

Mercouri is Greek, all right, and proud of it.

"I am getting to be like a Greek Chamber of Commerce," she sighed. "I cannot help it."

What are the qualities of the Greeks?

"We are terribly hospitable; that is why people like Greece when they visit us," she said.

Picton Will Serve As Missionaries In Uganda

PICTON—Rev. Calvin Bombay, minister of the Pentecostal Church at Wellington and Mrs. Bombay, are leaving at the end of November to serve as missionaries under the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada in Uganda, East Africa.

They are one of three couples from Canada chosen for this work and both are keenly anticipating the future. They have been asked to reach Kenya not later than Jan. 2.

Rev. and Mrs. Bombay plan to travel by air, from Malton to New York and then to England and the continent. At Limuri, Kenya, he will attend a meeting of all Pentecostal Missionaries from Jan. 4 - 6.

Visits to Rome, Zurich, Athens, Nicosia and Nairobi will precede their locating in Uganda.

The couple has been advised that they can best purchase household furnishings at Nairobi as many people leaving the country offer their goods for sale there.

Rev. and Mrs. Bombay came to Wellington in April, 1950 and their ministry has been an unusually successful one, most department of the work having doubled or tripled. This year, an addition to the church was completed. Farewell services are planned for Nov. 25.

Cars Collide In Rain Storm, Four Injured

Robert Ferguson, R.R. 2, Bloomfield, suffered severe concussion and was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. He was a passenger in a car driven by George McNally, Picton.

Douglas Gray, Glenora road, was released from hospital after treatment for lacerations on the forehead. He was a passenger in a car driven by Douglas Allan Wilson, Washburn Street, Picton.

The front corners of the two cars collided and both vehicles were wrecked.

O.P.P. Constable Arnold Bestieman investigated.

Many Communities Getting Chance to See Live Opera

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Until four years ago thousands of Canadians had never had a chance to see live opera. Today there are opera audiences in small cities and towns from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Corner Brook Nfld.

The cultural emissaries responsible for this development are members of the Canadian Opera Co.'s touring itinerant troupe who, jammed into a 41-passenger bus with seats, props and costumes, take small chamber opera productions from coast to coast.

"Audience reaction is 100 per cent better than it was during our first tour," says Ernest Adams who has cut out, arranged and managed but sung (he is a baritone) in the company's tours since they began in 1958.

"During the first tour, many audiences would not laugh and were afraid to applaud for fear they would miss something but now they just relax and enjoy themselves."

ATTRACT YOUNGSTERS

The increased interest in opera is especially evident among school children, says Adams. Last year the company did a program of excerpts in a Wingham, Ont., school, the soprano had to stop in the middle of a song and ask for silence. Last year, in the same town, all but 12 of 700 students voluntarily attended the company's performance with rapt attention and response were good.

Until this year, only comedies had been produced for the tours "to sell opera and develop audiences." But now, with its more sophisticated following, the company is performing the serious and dramatic La Boheme by Puccini.

La Boheme is performed in English as was the Barber of Seville in the 1958-59 season. Merry Wives of Windsor in 1960 and Orpheus in the Underworld in 1961.

Herman Geiger-Torel, general director of the company, had stressed acting to make the characters believable and to get lots of action on the stage. This too has helped to create audience interest, Adams said.

REPEAT VISITS

The company is encouraged by the fact that it is invited back to the same communities year after year and this year's Western tour began Oct. 29, two days after the Canadian Opera Company completed its two-week engagement at Toronto's O'Keefe Centre.

On the tour are 16 singers, a stage manager, a costume director and three technicians. They will travel as much as 300 miles a day, returning to Toronto Dec. 22.

Combatting colds is a big problem for the cast, whose members describe their bus as "a travelling drug store." The company has at least two members able to handle each role.

"We just play everything by ear, especially the weather," says Adams. One year the tour hit Moose Jaw, Sask., in 20-below-zero weather and the following year in the teeming rain. Two years ago, the troupe arrived in Nelson, B.C., in the worst storm that town had had in 40 years.

Adam's biggest headache is the lack of stage facilities since half the time the company performs in high school auditoriums.

STAGE HANDICAPS

One year in Gander, Nfld., there were no flats on stage and the back curtain was sectioned and had to be pinned together. The following year, the dressing rooms were flooded with four or five inches of water and performers had to dress standing on chairs.

One night they played on a 50-foot stage, the next night the stage might only be 20 feet, so that the first night it takes five steps to get from one position to the next while the second night it takes only one.

Members of the company regard the touring experience and many female members think touring is even easier than being at home. "You just have to eat all you can, sleep all you can and sing all you can," says Constance Fisher who sings the part of Musetta in La Boheme.

All admit that when travelling in a small, crowded and smoky bus it isn't easy to stay healthy. "As soon as we step on the first night of the season and the first lousy cold we're going to get is over."

Before 1958, no opera singer in Canada was lucky to get five weeks (three of which would be rehearsal) in a year. Now with the Toronto season and the tours, many get close to six months of singing.

SOLOMON'S MINES

Israel is again working the copper and iron deposits of the Negev Desert where King Solomon's slaves once toiled.

Fallen leaves are harmless to youngsters when spread on the ground, but enticing and potentially dangerous when left in an-attended heaps on the side of busy streets.

Child Safety and Fallen Leaves

By Matthew B. Dymond, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

The arrival of Autumn weather presents parents of small children with some safety problems not encountered during the summer months. Not least among these are the fallen leaves in which youngsters love to romp and play.

The Ontario Safety League advises drivers that the piles of leaves they see when driving along a residential street may conceal small tots, playing hide-and-seek, so extra driving care is called for to avoid running into these leaves when at all possible.

Most municipalities prohibit burning leaves on street property, for very good reasons. Such fires cause damage to the road, constitute a possible fire hazard to cars parked or passing nearby, and add greatly to the pollution of the air in the community.

Homeowners, then, have a definite responsibility when disposing of fallen leaves. While it is permissable to rake them onto the road to be picked up eventually by street cleaning departments, these leaf piles do create a traffic hazard by tempting children to play in them. Carefully tended fires on private property, far from buildings or flammable materials, may sometimes be safe, but where such fires present any danger to property, which they might well do on a windy day, they are again prohibited by law in most municipalities.

The simplest, most sensible way to solve the disposal problem is to pack leaves into cartons or other containers, to be picked up by refuse collectors.

Parents in particular are advised to teach their small children never to play in the road-way, and explain to them the danger of hiding in leaves. Disposal in cartons rather than burning leaves is especially sensible in this case, as it lessens the chances of children being burned or imitating their parents and lighting their own fires. Most important of all, of course, is parental watchfulness over tiny children to see that they play in safe places away from the street, and that matches do not fall into their hands.

These suggestions are offered by your Department of Health to remind you that with a minimum of forethought, you can help to prevent an innocent-looking bundle of leaves from becoming both a traffic and a fire hazard.

Astrological Forecast

For November 2
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take the reins. Lead the way, when you can achieve wonders by expressing self-confidence. Fine for writing, reading, communicating, travelling . . . romance, too.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Rich, new experiences possible. Good lunar aspect denotes clear vision of immediate future. Trust judgment. Look beyond immediate indications. Friend could help promote plans.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Refuse to be "stampeded" into decisions. Take your time, especially where finances are concerned. Seek the best. The best may not be the first thing offered. Look. Examine. Perceive true meanings.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Pressure from legal sources indicated. You are able to come out on top in nearly all endeavors. But you should be patient, and generous. Permit your intuitive intellect to guide you.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be moderate. Might be wise to say no to second helpings. Emphasis on employment, service, opportunity to attract new clients. Lend helping hand to underdog. Permit Leo flair for drama to shine.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Monday could be received. If so, be gracious in accepting. Time to forget old grudges. Strive for the new. Enlarge your horizons. Be independent of those who want you to go backward.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Much thought of change but there are details which must be closely examined. Tonight would be fine for attending theatre, quiet dining place. Avoid big parties.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Favorable Moon aspect today promotes opportunity for new contracts. Good for short trip, for writing and for expressing views. Don't scatter forces. Instead, conserve energy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be with friends. Avoid extravagance. Be candid in giving opinion. Don't become involved in deception. State views clearly, objectively. Excellent day for improving speech.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Moon in your sign encourages greater independence, originality. Make public appearances. Good night for attending social affair. Show off talents. Impress loved one.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be a good host. Put out "welcome sign," and mean it! Much pleasure indicated through contact with special person. Home entertainment could divulge hidden talents of friends, associates.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may receive proof of love, affection. Could be one of your most satisfying days. Be willing to keep mind and heart open. Stand by convictions. But realize others have points of view.

If Today is Your Birthday . . you are attracted to the arts. You are often moody, but this tendency vanishes when you find constructive, creative outlet for energies.

What The Marriage Manuals DON'T Say

Did you know that almost every marriage manual written since 200 B.C. has judged women by masculine standards? A forthright article in November Reader's Digest reveals that in all the discussion of marriage and sex some fundamental facts about the relationship between men and women are being overlooked. Get your copy of Reader's Digest and read how you can explore a completely new road to true compatibility.

NEW SENATORS

expansion and buoyancy seldom if ever enjoyed before in its history, Mr. Fulton said.

As the Commons went into its seventh day of economic debate, the Senate tackled a suggestion to establish a commission Doukhobor problem.

A committee composed of 20 senators was proposed to the Senate Oct. 10 by Liberal Senator David Croll of Ontario. It was opposed Wednesday by Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia) who said it would have no effect.

"They (the Freedomites) would think of it as government. In my opinion, there would be trouble.'

SEEKS WIDER GROUNDS

In the Commons, a bid by a New Democratic Party member to gain approval of his motion to broaden the grounds for divorce got favorable response but not vote of approval.

Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth) took advantage of the private members' hour to seek approval of desertion, legal cruelty and incurable insanity as grounds for divorce in addition to adultery.

The real problem is that the marriage ceremony had both religious and legal aspects, he said.

"The real opposition comes from these individuals who regard the religious aspect as everything and take the view that civil rights cannot override the insolubility of the religious tie.

"If we deal with the matter on this very narrow basis, their view is unanswerable," he said.

Yet there was a growing body of "enlightened Individuals' who wanted to modernize laws dating from the 19th century.

He advocated broadening the grounds to give leadership, hope and help to those who looked to the government in their "hour of need."

DESERONTO

Indian Band Enrolled in P. S. I. Program

DESERONTO—On October 24th a general meeting of the Mohawks of the Tyendinaga Reserve was held at the council house in connection with the Band enrollment in the Physicians Services Inc. The meeting was addressed by Dr. Wilbe of Ottawa, Dr. Springer of Toronto, M. Mathes representing the P.S.I., Dr. Boyce and Miss McAlpine of the Indian Health Services and the Agent, M. W. McCracken. Chief Hill and the four members of the council were also in attendance. About 65 members of the Band were present.

Following a lengthy question and answer period—relating to the P.S.I. a vote of those present was taken and 52 voted in favor of the enrollment of the Band in the Physicians Services. Only seven voted against the proposal.

A committee of five was then appointed to assist the members of the council in the preparations for the enrollment. This group will meet again concerning the census of permanent residents of the reserve, the cost to individuals and the amount to be contributed by the council from Band funds and the amount to be paid by the Department.

The consideration of the enrollment of Band members in the P.S.I. was instituted some months ago by the Indian Affairs Branch as their plan of cancelling the appointment of a permanent physician for Tyendinaga Reserve. The services of the nurse will still be available for the members of the Band, but Dr. Boyce, who was to retire October 31st will not be replaced. However Dr. Boyce has signified his willingness to continue on a monthly basis until the P.S.I. plan is put into operation which it is assumed will be shortly after Christmas.

In sharp contrast to the waste of pumpkins, Newfoundland reported a shortage. Bad weather stunted the crop and most of the scary faces in windows were either paper of imported pumpkins.

DESERONTO

Fire Causes Damage to Boathouse

DESERONTO — Shortly after the noon hour on Thursday afternoon the fire department were called to the boat house of C. E. Metcalfe on the Bay front. A tent pitched against the wall of the boathouse had caught fire from a hot plate and the resultant fire burned a portion of the boathouse wall.

Using small lines the firemen made short work of the fire but the damage was estimated at some $500. The two occupants of the tent lost most of their clothing and belongings and the wall of the boathouse will have to be rebuilt. The hot plate had been left on and the high wind bulged the canvas into the red hot element.

UN Votes For Boycott Of S. Africa

Also Expulsion If Racial Policy Is Not Changed

Measures Will Now Go To General Assembly

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—South Africa took its worst hammering in the United Nations Thursday night when the special political committee endorsed by a wide margin a measure for sanctions against the land of apartheid (racial separation).

The 110-member committee voted 60 to 16 with 21 abstentions—and 13 absentees—for a demantry resolution which also asks the Security Council to consider, if necessary, expulsion of South Africa unless it changes its racial policies. The measure now goes to the General Assembly.

The triumphant African nations led the committee in its strongest action in 17 years in dealing with the South African question. Ghana engineered a voting procedure that helped the resolution by throwing some delegations off balance.

Canada, the United States and Britain were among countries which denounced apartheid in debate but voted against the draft because they opposed sanctions as a measure and expulsion as dangerous for the UN.

VOTE ON WHOLE

On Ghana's motion, the committee decided by a ballot of 46 to 36, with Canada in the negative, that the whole resolution would be voted on, rather than separate paragraph votes, as was the past. Countries thus were deprived of the opportunity of taking a formal stand on various aspects of the measure with some abstaining rather than vote against apartheid demonstration.

Heath MacQuarrie, parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Howard Green, commented: "Canada has said that Canada planned to support a clause calling for a special committee on Black Africa.

The committee, to be appointed by Assembly President Sir Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, would keep South Africa's racial policies under review and help bring the "full pressure of

FARM CREDIT BILL APPROVED WITHOUT VOTE

More Farmers Will Be Able to Get Loans

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to increase the flexibility of the Farm Credit Act and its lending capacity was approved in principle Thursday night by the Commons.

The bill, commended by Agriculture Minister Hamilton as one that will permit an "even better job" to be done for farmers in many parts of Canada, was given second reading without a recorded vote and went on to clause-by-clause study.

It provides for a one-third increase — to $400,000,000 from $300,000,000—in the lending ability of the Farm Credit Corporation.

Mr. Hamilton told the House that the bill will allow greater flexibility in the purposes for which farmers may borrow from the corporation, and help expedite agricultural readjustment.

At the current rate of outflow, money made available under the amendment, combined with money repaid on loans, will be adequate until the end of the 1964-65 fiscal year. He hoped that eventually the fund will reach a level where loan repayments will cover all new loans.

"We are just getting rolling," said the agriculture minister, adding that farmers in British Columbia, Northern Ontario, eastern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes stand especially to benefit from the proposed changes.

He expressed hope that with

Nikita's Secret Letter Showed Man in High State of Agitation

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's unpublished letter of last Friday night to President Kennedy was "the product of a man in a high state of agitation, overwrought by the prospect of atomic war," the New York Herald Tribune says.

A Washington dispatch by Rowland Evans Jr. says the Oct. 26 letter, "according to several officials here who have studied it set a new high in emotional content." The story continues:

"For that reason, it will not be published in the foreseeable future, if ever. It now bears a 'top secret' label. As described by one well-informed source, it caused surprise here 'bordering on disbelief.' It revealed the Soviet leader in an unnatural fever of excitement and dismay over the prospect that President Kennedy's hard determination to dismantle the missile bases in Cuba might actually lead the world—and the U.S.S.R.—into nuclear war."

Khrushchev's second letter, imposing the condition that the Cuban missile bases would be dismantled if the U.S. withdrew missiles from Turkey, was broadcast by the Moscow radio Saturday.

The first Khrushchev letter, the newspaper says, was a high-pitched emotional appeal from a man who suddenly saw the world perched on the lip of Armageddon, the precipice of atomic war and was quite frankly fearful of what might ensue.

"One of the basic reasons why the administration has no intention of publishing this first Khrushchev letter . . . is concern that it could be a bank direction to the Communist right wing, the old hard-line Stalinists, against Mr. Khrushchev at this still dangerous time of tension.

"No one pretends to know the full story of Mr. Khrushchev's political strength in Russia today, but the circumstances of the first letter, followed so quickly by the demand for new conditions in the second, have led to a good deal of speculation."

LEADERS TRADE ANGRY PUNCHES IN HOT DEBATE

Students Hear Socreds, Liberals

By RON LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec federal leaders of the Liberal and Social Credit parties traded angry charges from the same platform Thursday night, with 400 university students jeering and cheering like a football crowd.

Bringing about 20 Quebec MPs with them, Lionel Chevrier and Real Caouette clashed in a gloves-off "assemblee contradictoire" (contradictory meeting) sponsored by the University of Ottawa. Such debates were common in old-time Quebec politics.

BRUSHES OFF CRITICS

Mr. Caouette brushed off criticism of special Creditors record in keeping the minority Progressive Conservative government in power through four votes of non-confidence.

In a rare reference to the Conservatives, he said: "The Conservative program is to continue the Liberal program."

Both speakers were applauded and booed at various points of the two-hour debate. The antagonists spoke for 20 minutes each, then had 10 minutes for a rebuttal. Students were invited to ask questions afterward but most of the time was taken up by capsule speeches instead.

Mr. Caouette, deputy Social Credit leader, said the party holds the balance of power in Parliament and is using it to force changes in "this grossly thunderous boss from the students.

"We have the balance of power . . ." Mr. Caouette shouted before being drowned out by jeers.

". . . and with the balance of power we are obtaining more than the Liberals did in five years of talking."

Both parties' rou feers greeted this remark.

Mr. Caouette said he and the other Social Credit MPs from Quebec have done more for the "French fact" in two weeks on Parliament Hill than the Liberals had in the previous five years.

He said his colleagues at ways spoke in French in the House. They had achieved a bilingual menu in the parliamentary cafeteria and Commons restaurant, creation of the late Arthur Beauchesne's book on parliamentary procedure.

Mr. Chevrier said Social Credit fortunes are declining everywhere. "Even the Creditiste Quebec and there the party's leader had "deceived" the voters," he said Mr. Caouette "lacks intellectual integrity" and that Social Credit had a "muddled philosophy."

"They are against everything. They are against nationalization, labor unions, planning, crown corporations, even Confederation, the established order. And they are in favor of Social Credit."

Mr. Caouette said chartered banks should be curbed. This would not be accomplished by the Liberal party. Mr. Chevrier himself was a bank director.

"If I had been president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority I could be a bank director too."

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru has vowed India will not compromise its honor in the search for a solution to the undeclared border war with Communist China.

He told visiting Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios Thursday night India would try to find the way to peace, but added "a peace whose price is the giving away of our honor is not a peace."

Meanwhile, the Indian defence ministry reported that the Chinese Communists had fired on an Indian patrol in the Jangarea east of Towang in the Northeast Frontier Agency area. The Indians suffered no casualties, he added.

The communique reported no change on the western front in Ladakh, Kashmir. A spokesman reported some snow in the last two days in the Leh area of Ladakh and slight snowfalls in the Towang area.

The communique reported 11 Indian soldiers had been killed and 10 wounded in fighting at Demchok, southern Ladakh, which was captured by the Chinese earlier this week. Chinese casualties were described as considerably higher.

U.S. Govt. Maintains Silence On Soviet Bombers in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — All of the discussion about the removing Russian missiles from Cuba has obscured the significant question of what is to happen to more than 20 Soviet jet bombers known to have been sent there.

That far, United States officials have given no clear answer.

These IL-28 light jet bombers can carry up to four tons of bombs, either nuclear or conventional. They exceed Quebec and there the party's leader had "deceived" the voters," he said Mr. Caouette "lacks intellectual integrity" and that Social Credit had a "muddled philosophy."

Parliament Told Public Demands State Lottery

OTTAWA (CP)—There is an "overwhelming" public demand for a state lottery in Canada, the Commons was told Thursday.

The demand comes from all segments of the population, Art Smith (PC—Calgary South) said in arguing for the establishment of such a lottery "under strictly supervised conditions."

The Calgary oil executive's bill calling for a hospital sweepstakes board to administer a state lottery was supported by all three other speakers in the debate—one Conservative, one Social Credit and one New Democrat.

But it failed to come to a vote in the time set aside for private members' business.

Mr. Smith said that probably $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 is sent out of the country annually in the form of bets placed by Canadians on foreign sweepstakes.

This drain on the country's exchange reserves could be largely eliminated if a lottery were established in Canada, the proceeds being directed to social and public welfare.

Mr. Smith said a public opinion poll in 1956 indicated that 82 per cent of Canadians sup-

Russian Rocket On Way to Mars Working Well

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Russian rocket today was hurtling through space on a 35,000,000-mile mission to Mars aimed at giving man his first close-up look at the mysterious "red planet."

Moscow radio said all systems aboard the Mars probe, which was launched Thursday for a satellite "parked" in orbit around the earth, were functioning according to plan.

Soviet scientists said / the rocket now is more than 150,000 miles on its long journey through space, which will take seven months.

N. M. Sissakian, a member of the presidium of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said in Paris Thursday night that the Mars probe might return to land on earth if it does not burn up first.

Moscow radio said that "at 6:33 a.m. (Moscow time) communications were opened with interplanetary station Mars 1, data was received from the station about the normal functioning of all its systems, and the element of its trajectory was measured.

"Telemetry data shows that the scientific equipment of the station is functioning in accordance with the set program."

TRANSMITTERS WORK

The radio said the rocket's radio transmitters, working on 922.8 and 1924 megacycles, were working and "the orders sent to the station were well received and obeyed."

The rocket is equipped with solar batteries which pick up power from the sun and recharge its conventional batteries.

There will be no further report on the rocket until Sunday night, radio said.

If everything goes according to plan, the rocket will relay back to earth the first close-up pictures of Mars, earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Sissakian, in Paris for an international space symposium, said the rocket will look for "interesting details about the possibility of life" on Mars — a question that has intrigued astronomers for centuries.

The probe may possibly solve the mystery of the true nature of the Martian canals," the lines which criss-cross the surface of the planet, he said.

Erectors Down Launching Pads Are Broken Up

Aerial Reconnaissance Still Being Maintained

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary analysis of photographs shows clear indications that dismantling of missile bases in Cuba is proceeding, Defence Secretary McNamara said today.

A defence department spokesman told reporters that the pictures show that missile launcher erectors have been removed, the spokesman said, and cable conduits between control points and launching pads have been broken up.

The erector pads for the launch erectors appear to have been broken up with an air hammer. Certain areas of the sites have been plowed and bulldozed, the spokesman said.

Aerial reconnaissance over the island was resumed Thursday after a two-day recess for the visit of U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, in efforts to arrange for UN inspection of the dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

DISCONTINUE FLIGHTS

Authoritative sources disclosed that high altitude U-2 flights over Cuba have been halted after the loss of a U-2 and the watch is being kept though low level photographic missions.

There government sources stressed there has been no scaling down in the degree of aerial surveillance.

The U-2 missions over Cuba were scrubbed after one of the U-2s and its pilot were lost last weekend, according to informants.

Low flying reconnaissance planes—coming in swiftly below radar—are considered less vulnerable than the U-2s which go into a slow glide when they are taking pictures.

Officials are virtually certain that the U-2 piloted by air force Maj. Rudolf Anderson Jr., Grenville, S.C., was knocked down by a Russian anti-aircraft missile.

THEY BELIEVE

They believe the rocket was launched by Soviet missilemen manning the 24 anti - aircraft rocket bases known to be operational in Cuba.

TRANSMITTERS WORK

This information developed as the U.S. Navy patrolled the Caribbean in search of Russian

If there have been any ship inspections since the arms blockade was resumed again on Thursday, they have not been announced.

The defence department said late Thursday that a reconnaissance mission had been conducted by the air force earlier in the day and that "the planes returned without incident."

TRANSMITTERS WORK

Defence Secretary Secretary Arthur Sylvester said no analysis of the photos was expected before today—and he did not promise to disclose what the analysis may show about any progress in dismantling bases for Russian missiles.

MISSILES OUT OTHER WEAPONS STAY — CASTRO

K. Wants Red Cross To Inspect Ships

By GEORGE ARFELD

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro Thursday night rejected outright foreign supervision of the dismantling of Soviet missile bases in Cuba and again called for the United States to give up its naval base at Guantanamo.

The Cuban prime minister said "strategic arms," presumably the missiles, were being removed by the Russians from Cuba, but the rest of the weapons stay in our country."

His mission apparently was to try to remove the deadlock Castro threw up after being excluded from U.S. - Soviet arrangements for removal of the missiles under UN supervision.

Castro acknowledged that "we have some motive for discontent" with the Soviet Union. But he reminded his people of all the Russians had done for them and asserted, "We are friends of the Soviet Union."

WILL 'HUMILIATE'

Castro said UN inspection of Cuban soil would be "one more attempt to humiliate our country" and would violate Cuban sovereignty.

Sources at UN headquarters in New York felt that Castro either would soften his stand or would announce the Soviet Union had completed dismantling its bases if inspection therefore no longer was necessary.

U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, said after his conference Friday and Wednesday with Castro he had been informed the dismantlement of the bases would be completed by today. U.S. aerial observation, resumed Thursday along with the naval patrol, was expected to shed light on the dismantling progress.

Castro, in a two-hour speech taken up largely by reading a transcript of his talks with Khrushchev, revealed the Soviet Union had proposed that the International Red Cross inspect Cuba-bound Soviet ships to verify that they were not transport-

Hard-Pressed Himalayan Army Getting Arms From United States

NEW DELHI—A U.S. arms airlift got under way from West Germany today to give India's hard-pressed Himalayan army better weapons to use against Communist China.

The first of 10 U.S. Air Force C-135 jet transports took off from Main air base near Frankfurt and was due in Calcutta Saturday.

A round-the-clock airlift was planned, and relief crews were flown to Calcutta to bring the big planes back to Germany for reloading.

A four-man U.S. mission arrived here to co-ordinate future supplies and deliveries. Small arms from Britain also are due to arrive shortly.

U.S. Ambassador John K. Galbraith announced that the Turkish government has offered India mountain howitzers and American aircraft were in Turkey to pick them up.

Light mountain howitzers are among the military equipment most urgently needed by Indian troops fighting Chinese in the difficult, mountainous terrain along the long China-India Himalayan border.

Galbraith warned the Indians against expecting American arms alone to "work magic" against the Chinese.

"The great task remains with the Indian Army," he declared. "We are happy to help with equipment to stop aggression but equipment is only part of the problem."

Galbraith, who was born near St. Thomas, Ont., told a press conference American instructors would not be coming to demonstrate the weapons, which he described as "standard stuff."

Asked if American soldiers would go to the frontier to supervise delivery of the weapons, he said: "I would not think so immediately. We are not eager to have American military personnel distributed' any more widely over the world than at present."

DOCTORS WALK OUT

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)— A walkout by 32 doctors in a salary dispute has left this capital city's main hospital with only half their medical staff. The doctors walked out at midnight Wednesday after failing to win pay comparable with that of private practitioners. The hospital doctors earn the equivalent of about $230 a month.

Although the "wets" picked up a fraction of a percentage point in votes, cocktail lounges still remain a defeated issue in Belleville following this week's recount of the liquor plebiscite ballots cast in September.

Both sides picked up votes in the recount when Judge Marsvall Strange of Kingston allowed ballots marked with a tic instead of an x to be counted. The recount gave the "wets" 8,215 votes on the cocktail lounge question as compared with 8,033 at the time of the original count. The recount total of "no" votes on the same question was 4,187 as compared with 4,143.

A sixty per cent vote is required to carry any liquor referendum.

The totals of the recount differed from the original only by the number of the "tick" marked ballots which had originally been counted as spoiled.

Without exception the recount on ballots in every polling sub division was the same as that handed in by the deputy returning officers following the election.

Under provincial law another liquor vote cannot be held in the city for three years.

Contributions To Brigade Are Used Locally

Many persons are aware of the financing of St. John Ambulance Corps, still all contributions are used locally, since no dues are paid to the Corps, donations used to send people to conferences or on training. No member receives any pay for his or her public duty regardless of who it is done for. When Brigade members serve at fairs, hockey or rugby games, public gatherings, races, etc., neither the person treated nor the sponsor of the occasion ever pays for this service. The members are purely volunteers, proud of the motto "For the Faith - For the Service of Man-kind". It has been such since the First Crusade in 1099 A.D.

Records have now been compiled of work rendered during the summer months. This year the Ambulance Division members have treated over 150 injuries in the course of doing their public duty.

Training continues under the Provincial Superintendent Division, Dr. K. M. Douglas, FRCS. The members are conscious of the important role they would play in this community either in the event of a national disaster, explosion or crush of train or aircraft. Arrangements for such eventualities have been made known to the Emergency Measures co-ordinating staff in the R.C.A.F. at their request. The local unit is pleased to be able to announce that there is now as its members train, grow in numbers and equip themselves to serve better they can be a valuable asset in the protection of our community.

Any man or woman who has had First Aid training is also welcome to inquire about the Ambulance and Nursing Divisions. Cadet Ambulance and the award winning Cadet Nursing Divisions are always eager to enroll interested early teenagers.

United Appeal Close to Mark Of Last Year

The Belleville - United Appeal's total campaign returns reported at close of Thursday, November 1st, amounted to $56,058.12 and compares favorably with $56,982.27 for the same period last year. However, there still remain unreported for this year sizeable donations that are included in the previous year's figures so prospects for a substantial increase over the 1961 campaign total appear very favorable.

The payroll giving division, now two-thirds complete, continues with its better than 30 percent increase over last year.

Returns in the business division have been coming in a little better, however, there still remains some 40 per cent unreported and canvassers are again asked to complete their assignments with as little delay as possible. At the moment, total contributions are running slightly in excess of last year.

The professional division's canvass is nearly complete and appears headed for improvement over 1961, as is the special names division also.

The residential division reports over $5,000 now received from donations still coming in. Any person wishing to make a contribution to this year's campaign may leave mail it to the Belleville United Appeal at P.O. Box 42, or hand it in at the office in the Kiwanis Centre, 118 Dundas St. East.

At the regular monthly meeting of the directors early this week an additional distribution to the participating agencies of 10 per cent of their allotment for 1962 was approved. This brings the total distributed so far this year to 77 per cent.

October Little Colder Than Last Year

The community has experienced a somewhat cooler October than the year past, according to the monthly report of the records keepers at the city Filtration Plant. This year the high for the month was 73 degrees as compared with 76 degrees for October of 1961. The low and mean temperatures were also lower than compared with 30 degrees and 50.1 degrees compared to 33.1 degrees respectively.

This year there was almost three times as much rainfall as last with 3.21 inches recorded this October as against 1.17 inches for 1961. There was also more snow with 1.6 inch for 1962 as compared with just a trace for last year. Total precipitation for the past month totalled 3.41 inches whilst for 1961 it was 1.17 inches.

The ten-year averages are: maximum temperatures — 74 degrees; minimum temperatures 37 degrees; mean temperatures 50.3 degrees; rainfall — 2.99 inches; snow — 5 inches; total precipitation 3.0 inches.

Farm Credit

passage of the bill many farmers in this district will be better able to meet the criteria for loans will be able to qualify.

Mr. Matheson said he believes Farm Credit Corporation loans have been discouraged in all areas where dairy producers have been anxious to increase production.

WANT TO EXPAND

"We are interested in expansion," Mr. Matheson said. "We are also interested in what happens to our dairy farmers with regard to raising income under to produce more dairy commodities."

H. W. Herridge, NDP House leader, suggested that consideration be given to extending benefits of the credit act to such groups as these farmers and fur farmers.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson praised the government bill and chided the Liberals' farm critic, Hazen Argue of Assiniboia, for not "facing up to its merits. However, he agreed with Mr. Argue that small loans should not be subject to the $50 appraisal charge.

To an earlier request from J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) advocating similar legislation to help fishermen obtain loans, Mr. Hamilton pointed out that such an act had been passed by a Conservative government in 1956 but was disallowed in 1955 by the Liberal government of which Mr. Pickersgill was a member.

PRAISES BILL

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) praised the bill as "a very important step" as agriculture is concerned."

The important part of the legislation was the one that gave the Farm Credit Corporation the right to assist transfers from one type of farm economy to another and help the farmers financially to live through the difficult time of change.

However, there should be some assurance to the government that farmers would not be forced in any way to make changes they did not wish themselves.

Because of the importance of this consideration, Mr. Peters said the bill should receive detailed study from the Commons committee on agriculture.

Fund's Drive To Be Held for Retarded Ones

Dr. J. Nelles has accepted chairmanship of the 1963 retarded children's financial campaign, it was announced at a special meeting of The Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children by the president, Mr. A. Parkhurst.

The campaign dates were chosen to coincide with the National Retarded Children's Week, November 11th to the 22nd. It was explained that the household canvas would take place like usual, but rather that the local industries, businesses and professional people would be approached as only a few of these were given the opportunity to participate in 1961. Next year's campaign will take the form of a residential 'billsnight' omitting the above mentioned groups.

COMING YEAR'S NEEDS

Dr. Nelles and the vice-chairman, Mr. R. Cockburn discussed the operational needs of the Retarded Children's School for the coming year. They announced that the teachers' salaries transportation and classroom maintenance would require an estimated $12,000 for the current school year, and that the sum of $8,000 would be the goal set for the present campaign.

IN MEMORIAM

BUCK — In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Pearl Buck who passed away one year ago today.

BUCK — In loving memory of a dear husband, dad and grandad, who passed away 2 years ago, November 2, 1957.

Sadly missed, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever near,
Though he suffered days of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf,
And there we find him dear and true.
Sunshine days and memories too.
Lovingly remembered by her wife, daughter, son-in-law Fred and grandchildren.

BUCK — In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Pearl Buck who passed away November 2, 1961.

Some day we know we will meet,
Some day we know not when,
In a place that is fairer and kind.
Never to part again.
—Lovingly remembered by her husband A. W. Buck.

BUCK — In loving memory of a dear husband, dad and grandad who passed away one year ago today, November 2, 1961.

We little knew when we woke that day
We would bring
The sad message that would bring
Our world such sorrow.
The shock and the pain
To part with one we loved so dear.
—Always remembered by Ron and Family.

BUCK — In loving memory of a dear husband, dad and grandad who passed away one year ago today, November 2, 1961.

Sadly missed by LaRoy, Gale, Donna and Husband.

CARDS OF THANKS

Lectures Based on Nuclear Weapons Given at Meeting

Just over 100 persons attended the Emergency Measures Organization meeting held in the auditorium at Belleville Collegiate Thursday evening.

The meeting was chaired by Mr. George Hutchinson, District Director for Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization.

The lecture was conducted by Flying Officer G. S. Parks of RCAF Station Trenton, assisted by Corporal F. B. Seaside.

Two films were featured, "Effects of Nuclear Weapons" and "Characteristics and Effects of Nuclear Weapons".

Flying Officer Parks' lecture was based on nuclear weapons and their effects. He said some of the information given in the papers about nuclear weapons and radioactive fallout, were absolute nonsense. "Reporters like to write these things the way they think they see them," he said.

The speaker went on to explain various types of nuclear bombs, and the difference in immediate flash of light. When the flash occurs, it is important that you shield yourself from it as soon as possible, by falling to the ground, holding a piece of paper in front of you or getting behind a building."

However, he said, "the light waves bounce," and you have to make sure that when you get behind the light that there are no larger buildings behind you, as the light will bounce off this "larger building."

If you are any distance from the flash, he said, it usually takes for one to fifteen seconds before you can cause temporary blindness and possible eye injury.

Heat from the nuclear explosion travels at a rate of 186,000 miles per second. Serious heat burns are caused up to two miles away and small fires, 30 miles away. Exposed skin can be burned at 13 miles away, exposed skin blisters at 18 miles and is sunburned at 25 miles away. The important thing is to get substantial shielding between you and the light" he said.

The radioactive fallout from a large nuclear bomb will affect an area of 7,000 square miles. The amount of radiation from the bomb is determined by the time elapsed since the explosion occurred, length of time exposed, distance from fallout and amount of shielding provided.

Flying Officer Parks said that a fallout shelter was a protection from radioactive fallout and not a protection against blast.

He said nuclear radiation was able to cause sickness and as there are only four types of radiation. The four types are Alpha, Beta, Gamma and Neutrons.

He said if a bomb were exploded in Trenton, they would know in Trenton, when, and where the fallout would reach the radio, and when it would be over.

High School Activities

B.C.I.V.S.

By STEVE FORRESTER

This year's commencement was as usual a stately and impressive affair with streams of students filing across the stage to receive diplomas from bedgowned teachers. Three of these students, Nick Quichert, Beth Taylor and Vicki Wheeler, received Ontario Scholarships (the number unfortunately has slightly declined from last year's four) and th. latter student, Vicki Wheeler, gave a brief, concise valedictory aptly captioning the nostalgia of the moment. Dr. Hays, the speaker for the occasion, offered a challenge to the student of today. The Grad Ball later in the evening was also a success with Jim Hurst as M.C. The Grad Commodore combo was excellent and the decorations by the Art Club were bright, gay and vivid, well-depicting their theme 'Le Mardi Gras. Congratulations go to the staff, the Student Council and the graduates for making this a meaningful and memorable evening.

Last week's assembly was handled by the General Motors and gave us an inkling of the progress in scientific engineering, particularly dealing with automotive production and offered a challenge to the student to enter the engineering field and make present ideas future realities.

This week's assembly dealt with the student who does not finish his Grade 13 year and is unable to get ahead in the world. It offered the suggestion that the thought of leaving school, though doubtlessly pleasant, is not really practical.

On Wednesday the Hallowe'en Howl was held for the 8th consecutive year. Formed with the idea of activating teenagers some other amusement besides tearing-or-treating, robbing little boys' and little girls' bags of candies, soaping windows or as a last resort, studying. It was a noisy, colorful and diverting occasion (chief diversion being the prevalence of sheepsly girls in black leotards) and one can only hope a successful one so that in future years the student body will have some other amusement on Oct. 31 besides destroying people's property, writing nasty words on store windows with soap, or furthering one's education.

Charles Keeble Heads New P.C. Body

Well known Parkdale resident, Mr. Charles Keeble, has been named the first president of the Belleville East Hastings Progressive Conservative Association.

Formed several weeks ago, the new association saw its first executive inducted last night at the Top Hotel. Fred Mitchell, past president of the East Hastings Conservative Association, was the installing officer. Mrs. Dorothy Howell is secretary.

The area, formerly in Thurlow, and now annexed by the City of Belleville, was well represented at the meeting by party supporters. Clarke T. Rollins, M.A., East Hastings, spoke briefly, together with guests, Elmer Sandercock M.L.A. West Hastings, and Jack Ireland, president of the Federal Riding of South Hastings. Two minutes silence was observed in respect to the memory of Joseph O'Leary, active member of the party who passed away since the organizational meeting.

Entertainment was provided by Miss Betty Banon, Miss Elizabeth Young, and Mr Richard Minion.

Chairman for the meeting was Gerald W. Joyce, public relations officer for the East Hastings Progressive Conservative Association.

17 Properties Still on List For Tax Sale

Although there are 17 properties still on the list, less than a dozen city properties are expected to be included by this year's treasurer's sale of land for taxes.

"The picture looks pretty good," noted city treasurer C. J. Bridge today. "There are 44 properties listed on the warrant, but this has been whittled down to 17 and I expect at least another half dozen or so will be in to settle up before the date of the land sale next Thursday."

Last year there were 27 properties in the land tax sale of a few Sunday noted large and small properties were included in this year's list with a few of the owners owing up to $400 to $500 in tax arrears.

Officer Stood on Dynamite

Misses Bear Booby Trap

A two-pound fish, a piece of wire, two batteries, two sticks of dynamite and cap, apparently rigged to kill a bear, could easily have resulted in rocking conservation officer Robert Ramsbottom of the Bancroft Ranger Division into orbit.

This weird and most dangerous trap was discovered by Officer Ramsbottom during an investigation at a site on the west shore of Kamaniskeg Lake. The officer picked up the fish that hung from the limb of a tree by a wire before he discovered the wire holding the fish was attached to batteries and trigger-circuit.

Fortunately he let go of the fish before he pulled on the wire as he was standing upon two sticks of capped dynamite hidden among the rocks and leaves at the base of the tree.

O.P.P. officers along with Mr. Ramsbottom dismantled the trap and later tested the device for efficiency after the dynamite was removed. The test left no doubt that the device was in operating condition as a pull on the wire set off the cap.

The investigation is continuing and charges for setting this dangerous trap are expected to be laid.

Public Works Requirements Same as Other Communities

TRENTON—Speaking to the Trenton Kiwanis Club last night, town engineer Eric Aldersey said that while Trenton's water requirements in the area of public works are "formidable," they were no more so than those in average municipality throughout the province and indeed the country. But he said that if was the duty of councils and various appointed public officials to have a real concern for the taxpayer who has to foot the bill" and he asked the club members, who represent a segment of the taxpaying public, to express to him why certain needed public works are not carried out immediately the need for them becomes apparent.

In a town report, Mr. Alderesey referred to a second town bridge, which he said traffic consultants, hired by the town, had said was a "must" within the next five years. Plans are for approaches, will cost in the neighborhood of a half million dollars, he said, and since council doesn't know at this time what sort of grants might be forthcoming for the project from the provincial government and the federal department of transport, planning at this point is rather hazy.

For the past few years, said Mr. Alderesey, Trenton councils have been operating within the confines of a five-year capital spending budget, which sets out the amount of money which can be borrowed during the five years, without unbalancing Trenton's financial structure. The provincial government, he said, has asked the town to submit a new 5-year capital budget by Jan. 1, 1963, hence council must set out a program of works for the period 1963- to 1967.

The traffic consultants have recommended that $750,000 be spent on public works over the first five year period. This period extended from 1960 to 1964. The five-year plan was formulated by clerk-comptroller O. N. Larry and the members of the then council, and was submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval. While approval of the entire budget structure as such was never officially "approved", as a whole, the OMB let it be known that it had been closely scrutinized, unofficially approved and set aside for reference whenever the town requested approval of individual projects contained within the budget. To date, no project has been turned down, by the OMB. Now, said Mr. Alderesey, the provincial government has requested that a new five-year capital spending budget for the town be set up, or that the former budget be revised to bring important and (in 1960) unforeseen needed public works into the picture. One item contained in the "old" budget figuring, was road reconstruction and curbing. Some of this has already been done. The sum of $350,000 had been earmarked for this purpose in the old budget. This year, two miles of curbing has been done. By the end of next year, another three miles will have been completed and in ten years time, the 30 miles of Trenton's 35 miles of street, of which only seven miles had been curbed up until this year, will, have been completed.

Another item on which a great deal of money could be spent is the reconstruction of Sidney Street, now that the new sewer on it has been widened by 1967, but Mr. Alderesey said that he would like to see this done by the "bottleneck" at the CPR subway should be eliminated by widening the subway, so that a repair is necessary, at least and a new sidewalk along almost the entire street is indicated. The consultants also recommended that Dufferin Ave. from Dundas to Wragge be widened; Dundas St. East from Gilmour Hill to Campbell St. be widened and that Front St. be resurfaced between Dundas West and Mill-dle Road. Mr. Alderesey said that he would like to see these three projects completed within the next six years.

Mr. Alderesey said that he would also like to see many of the town's old trails which had served their purpose, replaced within the next year.

The engineer said that while between 15 and 20 per cent of Trenton's population was now served by sanitary sewer facilities, connected to the sewage treatment plant, the remaining areas, and open vacant serviced land, must be served in the future, and that the treatment plant would have to be enlarged. The plant is working now at almost full capacity and the Ontario Water Resources Commission could possibly come to the town and ask that the plant be enlarged. This would cost around half a million dollars, to meet, the need, but would serve the town for the next 20 years.

Mr. Alderesey was introduced to the club by Frank Miron and thanked by Nick Fraser.

Guests at last night's meeting were Ed Bentley, Cliff Lacrau, Russ Ferguson and Paul Somers, of the West Rouge Kiwanis Club and Vern Nutley of Trenton.

So-Ed Club To Observe Anniversary

The seventh day of November has been set as the date for the septennial anniversary of the Belleville So-Ed Club at the Y.M.C.A. The celebration will be in the form of a reunion party for which preparation has now been going on for several weeks. Invitations to past members have been graciously acknowledged from across the province.

The guest master-of-ceremonies for the evening's program will be Don Simpson, a former So-Ed member who was very active as chairman of the social committee during the early years of So-Ed in Belleville.

It is expected that all past presidents of the club will be on hand, according to current president, Jo-Anne Hall. A bulletin board featuring photographs of past activities, plus letters and activities, will be displayed.

The evening is not only expected to be one where old members and friends renew acquaintances but also one where new members and anyone interested in finding out about So-Ed's activities will have a chance to meet new friends and find out about the social and educational facilities which the club has to offer the young adults of the community, says publicity chairman Colin Wilcox.

SO-ED SEPTENNIAL REUNION PLANNED — Jo-Anne Hall, president of the So-Ed Club of the Belleville YMCA, confers with publicity director Colin Wilcox on plans for the reunion celebrating the seven years that So-Ed has been going in this community. The reunion is being held at the YMCA next Wednesday evening.

Basketball At the 'Y'

This week's double header in the YMCA Youth Basketball House League saw the Satellites defeat the Celtics by a score of 52-35 whilst the Globetrotters have maintained their record of no wins and no losses by tying the Steelers 73-72.

Leading scorer in the first tilt was Satellite/ Murray Swan with 24 points whilst Terry McCabe of the Celtics and Dave Templer of the Satellites shared second spot in the scoring honors with 18 points apiece.

Rick Graham led the scoring in the second set with 33 points for the Globetrotters followed by team-mate Wally Clare with 29 points. Top scorer for the Steelers was George Pugh with 23 points.

Currently the Satellites lead the league with two wins followed by the Globetrotters with two ties. Tied for final spot are the Celtics and the Steelers with one loss and one tie each.

The league's individual scoring race for the top five shows Satellites' Murray Swan on top with 61 points followed by Celtics' Terry McCabe (58), Globetrotters' Rick Graham (57) and Wally Clare (49) and Satellite Ron Walsh (38).

Lineups:

First Game:

Second Game:

Globetrottes — Jury (8), Clare (29), Graham (35), R. McCabe, Stairs — Anderson (18), J. Hurst, Schwindt, Pugh (23), J. McKibbon (14), B. McKibbon (4), McCormack (13).

2,000-Population Increase When Guards Land in Town

PICTON — Population of Picton and district will be increased by two thousand when members of the First Battalion Canadian Guards comes to Camp Picton. The nine hundred men and dependents, now in Germany, have been delayed in arriving due to the unsettled situation in Cuba and Germany which has held up rotation of troops.

Some interesting facts concerning the 1st Bn. Canadian Guards were given by Capt. J. C. Hayter, one of the officers who has already arrived here. He was guest speaker at the Rotary Club.

Of the 900 men, 363 are married. Of these, 150 families are to be accommodated in houses at Picton Heights. Others will find accommodation in town and district with over 100 available places already listed, while children average two to a family.

MOSTLY ALL YOUNG

The members of the Guards are mostly all young Canadians, and according to Capt. Hayter, form "Canada's finest infantry unit."

H.M. the Queen is Colonel-in-Chief of the Canadian Guards Regiment and Colonel of the Regiment is Major-General D. R. Smith, Commanding Officer of the 1st Bn. is Lieut.-Col. H. W. Mulheron, D.M.,C.M., who has been noted for personal bravery in pulling a pilot from the cockpit of a burning aircraft.

Capt. Hayter said that of 247 children of school-age, the majority will attend the Centennial's at Camp Picton but many will attend town and district schools and some the collegiate.

That the Canadian men found European girls attractive is indicated by the fact that eighty W.D's and other ranks married within a year.

Capt. Hayter said the standards of dress and discipline of the Canadian Guards is extremely high, not only when in uniform but when in civilian clothes. He said the Battalion feels fortunate in being posted to Picton.

The Canadian Guards was organized in October, 1953 and has won many honors since that time.

Many Windows Soaped but No Damage

PICTON — The use of soap and removal of signs formed most of the local damage on Hallowe'en, police report. In town, eight stop signs were pulled out but not damaged. Windows of stores, also glass on cars were literally soaped. Prinyer's Marina at Cressy reported to OPP that a large sign had been torn down.

Householders were kept busy entertaining costumed folks. Skating at the County Centre was popular and there were many private parties.

Picton Wins Over Napanee

PICTON— Picton Merchants, led by their top scorer of last season, dumped the Napanee Red Wings 8-5 in an exhibition Senior "B" hockey game here last night.

Harold Haddock scored three goals and set up his mates for four more to spearhead the Picton attack. The Merchants outshot the Red Wings 41-30, giving Mercer, in the Napanee nets a busy night.

Gurney scored twice for Picton with singletons going to Pero, who also had three assists, Bulgleywell and McDonnell.

Napanee marksmen were Davy, Dowdell, Valentine, Galt and Loyst. The teams drew five minor penalties apiece.

Canadian Cars Can't Compete

Recently, the Windsor Star raised a financial storm over Canada's trade deficit caused by the importation of automobile parts. Automatic transmissions, $40 million worth of them for the coming year, are among the goods imported. The Windsor Star suggested that they be made in Canada.

The Vancouver Province, possibly thinking of the cost of limited production of complex machinery, has suggested an arrangement whereby some car parts be manufactured in Canada for both American and Canadian markets, and some manufactured in the U.S.A. Under a limited reciprocity agreement, such a system might ease the trade balance, and lower the cost of automobiles at the same time, in both countries.

The Vancouver Province also suggests the possibility of some patriot putting a truly Canadian car into production. The newspaper contends, with obvious justification, that the so-called-Canadian cars are just collections of American designed, and often American made, parts.

But Canada, with fewer than 20 million people, some of whom have never exhibited a real trust of Canadian products, is not a place to begin automobile manufacture. There are enough potential customers in the country to support one auto manufacturer on the modern scale, but it would be impossible for a new manufacturer to collar the total market, as would be required for efficient mass production.

There is room in Canada for manufacture of specialized vehicles, and some are manufactured. In snowmobiles and swamp buggies, for instance, a Quebec-based firm has long produced the best available. A Toronto man has designed and built, for all purpose personnel carrier so efficient that his first year's production was sold out long before the prototype was fully tested. Canada's bush aircraft are writing legends into the folklore of some of the most remote parts of the world.

But for automobiles, designed to impress the neighbors and run on roads, Canada cannot compete. Perhaps the best Canada could hope for would be more internationalization of the American industry, so they could carry the Canadian market more efficiently.

Develop Canadian Car Could Be Crown Corp Project

Vancouver Province

The Windsor Star has raised a financial storm in the East by pointing out the huge ($472 million annually) foreign exchange deficit caused by importing automotive products.

As a step toward solving the problem, the newspaper suggests that the estimated $40 million worth of automatic transmissions to be imported this year from the U.S. be built in Canada instead.

The Star challenges the duty-free entry of the transmissions and urges that the now-waived 25 percent tariff be levied as soon as a corporation can be set up to supply the parts in Canadian auto plants.

It is a worthy point, and one that raises many others. The American automotive parts deficit is almost half of Canada's total foreign exchange imbalance, and so vitally affects Canadian economy from coast to coast.

If, as some experts suggest, manufacture of the transmissions would be a profitable one in Canada, then why not produce another part, or parts, in Canada?

Why not some selective free trade deal with the United States whereby Canada would make all the fittings, or car steering wheels, or generators?

For that matter, perhaps it is time for the possibilities of manufacturing a distinctive, all-Canadian car is considered. Surely the $472 million trade deficit is a solid enough reason not to continue the present policy of a home-owned industry.

Probably the greatest tragedy in the industrial history of Canada was the failure in postwar Liberal days to permit automobile the manufacture of an all-Canadian automobile instead of dissecting Canada's aircraft industry toward what was to be a colossal fiasco.

As a constant reminder that we failed to sell our CF-100s, Arrows and jet transports, we now find our Canadian highways bumming with automobiles from Italy, France, Sweden and Germany while our so-called Canadian motor cars are nothing more than a collection of parts that are not assembly the product of U.S. factories.

With the continuing demand for automobiles in Canada, perhaps it is high time that we think that Canada too could have its own Volkswagen.

Caveat Emptors!

An outstanding revelation was made by a spokesman for the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) regarding seat belts the other day. Mr. Desmond Dymond, managing engineer for the certification department of the CSA, stated that of all the seat belts manufactured in Canada up to a few weeks ago there was not a single one which met the CSA's minimal safety tests.

A tale of belts ripping at stresses well below those which they were advertised as being capable of standing up of, buckles which literally exploded into shrapnel under similar stress, of snapping webbing, of popping anchor bolts and of excessive wear under hard usage was told.

It would seem apparent that any person with seat belts now in his car is driving under a delusion of safety and anyone who wishes to put seat belts in his vehicle had better double check just what he is buying.

The CSA will be putting its label on such models of seat belts as do pass their minimum safety standards. At the present moment there appears to be none available but three of the 18 Canadian manufacturers are reported to have changed their design in accordance with CSA findings. These new belts are currently undergoing tests by the CSA and it is anticipated that Canadians will be able to buy reliable, safe belts in the near future.

It would seem highly desirable, in view of the above circumstances, that the provincial government make it mandatory for all safety belts sold in the province to meet CSA's minimum standards and to bear the association's label.

This could well save lives by eliminating the chance of a person unknowingly trusting the lives of himself and his family to substandard products.

Nothing is more perplexing than the power, but nothing is more durable than the dynasty of doubt; for he reigns in the hearts of all his people, but gives satisfaction to none of them, and yet he is the only despot who can never die while any of his subjects live.—Colton.

Something new under the Sun! British atomic scientists spiked their Scotch with isotopes and came up with a liquor that matures while you wait. We will continue to wait.—St. Catharines Standard.

Strictly Personal

Uniform Speed Rates Urgently Required

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I made an experiment in driving last week that fascinated and frightened me. And it fully confirmed some vague idea I had had for a long time.

On my way from Chicago to a suburb northwest of Milwaukee, I deliberately realized that I had given myself an hour's more time than I needed to get there in.

So I decided to use that time for an experiment. For the full 100 miles of the trip, I would drive precisely within the speed limits: never 5 or 10 miles over the speed, and so on down the line.

Rigidly adhering to the limits everywhere, I found out just about the slowest car on the road. Autos honked their horns and tore around me, and I had the jogging on a mule — even when I was doing 63 in a 65-mile zone. I passed only a few vehicles on that whole 100-mile stretch, and one of them was a combine that barely crawled along the shoulder.

Obviously, something is very wrong here. Either the posted limits are unrealistic, or the motorists are irresponsible about rules. I happen to believe that 65 miles an hour is fast enough for any car and that the "safe - intoxication" of driving at high speeds constantly soon makes us lose all sense of proportion.

For instance, if you are driving at 65 miles an hour, and slow to 50, it feels as if you are in first gear. All speed is relative, of course, and if you needed our cars to 90 then "slowing down" to 65 would seem intolerably irksome. And what happens on the highway is that our cars are inculcated from childhood for long stretches, but we aren't aware of it.

Stirling Moss and other top racing drivers have said again and again that they would rather drive at an hour on the track than drive 60 miles an hour on the public highways, for the safety factor on the track even at double the speed, is incomparably greater. Top racing drivers also say, "you know what the other driver is going to do; on the highway, you have no idea, and neither does he."

We desperately need uniform speed laws governing, from state to state and town to town, to condition motorists to an acceptance of limits. We automatically stop at a red light, as an instinctive reflex action; only when we observe limits with the same spontaneous reaction will we cut our shocking rate of fatalities on the highway.

Open Colleges Chance to All

Montreal Gazette

Principal Rae of Sir George Williams College had a very good reminder in his inaugural address. He said that he is dismayed at the snobbery which universities that the way to deal with the great numbers of applicants who will soon be seeking admission is to become more selective, to raise the standards of admission."

The difficulty in this policy as he says, is that many a student who will make his difficulties at the beginning may do extremely well in the end. This may be particularly true in a large city, where many may have had language difficulties in learning English, or may have had their schooling interrupted and have had to try to "catch up."

It may be true that these, and many other students may have their poor entrance qualifications may yet have the greater ambition. We more emphasize and often also the higher potential ability.

What these students need and deserve is a chance to prove themselves. If a severe line is to be drawn at the threshold to university, so that they are barred from entrance, this may mean an irreparable loss to the community and the country, and something near to tragedy for the student concerned. Such a policy of high entrance requirements may, in effect, favour those who have had the great opportunities for preparation rather than those having the greatest capacity for learning.

It is just because it realizes this situation that Sir George Williams University has been able to play so constructive a part. It has believed in and practiced a standard an opportunity to prove that what may seem like a poor beginning may only mean that it was a hard beginning. Many of the most distinguished citizens of those who have had the hard beginnings, but who also had the opportunity to prove what was really in them.

The city police station was virtually turned into a chicken coop early Wednesday morning when 31 White Leghorn pullets were released in the cell block. The occasion was necessary after police had apprehended a Frankford couple for questioning regarding R.C.M.P. violations. Later two bags of the White Leghorns were found in the rear of the car of the accused.

Pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf are busy with their war effort. This includes the knitting of sweaters, sewing of layettes and children's clothing and many activities which will be sent overseas by St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E. and the Red Cross. The ages of the pupils are from eleven to sixteen and the young workers are most enthusiastic over their war project.

Sharp criticism of the complacent and apathetic attitude evident in the people of Ontario in general and Belleville in particular, in regard to the ability to protect their homes in the event of an air raid, was levelled yesterday by Captain McIntyre Hood, secretary of the Ontario Civilian Defence Corps. He said that Britain was saved from invasion by the heroic work of the Royal Air Force, but her cities and towns were saved from Goering's awful destruction by the work of her civilian defence units.

Three of the largest wild ducks that have ever been shot in this district were shot by William Ruttan near Massassaga Point yesterday. They were northern black ducks and the average weight was nearly four pounds, the largest weighed four and a half pounds. Approximately the largest of the county ducks are on the lakes and for this reason the ducks came south earlier than usual. Many ducks were sighted on the bay yesterday but also many hunters.

Do Not Try to Stunt Growth of Big Boy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have an adopted son, not blood related. He is 13 years old, six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds.

Do you think something should be done to check his growth, or do you consider it wise to tamper with nature? I don't want him to be enormous. It seems that tall, thin people are weak and unhealthy.

He is a nice looking and intelligent boy but not particularly sports minded. He would rather read or watch TV.

His mother was five feet 11 inches and we were told his father was tall. — Mrs. P.B.

He's going to be big, all right. But no, don't try to stunt his growth. You can't do it without wrecking his health, and probably even then you couldn't control his height.

I don't arbitrarily object to "tampering with nature." Plastic surgery such as repairing a cleft palate, could be considered "tampering," but it's one of the things we do. But we do them only when we can see sure benefit and no harm.

I'm glad you called him "son." It's a sign of an adoption working out when they're accepted completely as blood relatives. Don't worry about his not being athletic. Many a big boy is awkward, boys can have growing spurts at different ages. At 13, he's sure to grow some more, but perhaps not as much as you think.

Put out of your mind, though the idea that height implies being "weak and unhealthy," that isn't true. For a few examples, how about professional basketball players? A man of my size who is only an inch less than seven feet. And a couple of radio and TV announcers of different ages. At 13, he's sure to grow some more, but perhaps not as much as you think.

Put out of your mind, though the idea that height implies being "weak and unhealthy," that isn't true. For a few examples, how about professional basketball players? A man of my size who is only an inch less than seven feet. And a couple of radio and TV announcers of different ages. At 13, he's sure to grow some more, but perhaps not as much as you think. You have to duck their heads getting out of the elevator, but are personable, intelligent and have excellent livings.

If your big son isn't especially interested in sports, that's all right. Reading is fine. But I hope he'll grow enough that a certain amount of daily exercise all his life is going to make him healthier and happier and probably longer-lived.

With a mother who was five-eleven, it's entirely possible that he should be several inches taller than that.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please advise me as to a cure for bleeding caused by hemorrhoids. Can it be diagnosed by X-ray? H.B.

It can be cured by surgery. For details, send 25 cents and self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 138, Dundee, Ill., and request my booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." which answers related troubles. Also, you can't diagnose it by X-ray, but there's no need to. Direct visual examination is possible and, of course, preferable. For bleeding higher in the colon, X-rays can help diagnoses.

Dear Dr. Molner: How often should a woman have a Pap smear test? — Mrs. E.S.

Every six to 12 months after age 40. Oftener if there is abnormal bleeding or any suspicious appearance of the cervix.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read recently that it is healthful to drink vinegar before meals, but have never tried it. What do you think? — Mrs. P.B.

If you had tried it, I don't think it would have hurt you. But if you haven't tried it, I don't thing you've missed anything. Medically, it has no more (and probably no less) effect that painting your toenails green. Or bowling at a full moon. Or giving the tribal witch doctor 12 clam shells. In short, vinegar isn't a medicine. It's a condiment. Appreciate its flavor. Remember that as an acid (dilute acetic acid) it can irritate membranes.

Liquid Faculty Lost Facility

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

University life in Vancouver has suffered a grievous blow, and it may be that it will not recover. A pub beloved of students since 1927, third among has it that poems have been written and examining for examinations pursued, has been forced to close. The charge against it was that minors were found on the premises.

Now few people would rise to the defence of the general run of Canadian hotel "beverage rooms," but there was something about the pub called the Georgia Hotel which is rare in this country.

The report of its demise suggests it had that air of homeliness and respectability which is common in European drinking establishments, but seldom found in Canada. If it disappears forever, is it too irreverent to suggest that the universities — or some of them — have lost an important faculty?

Canucks Now In the Picture

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Canadians are among the most photographed people in the world. It would be an interesting study for a psychologist to explain why, but the figures prove the fact, nevertheless.

The great bulk of all this picture taking is done by amateurs. Photography is among the most popular and fastest-growing hobbies and the industry caters largely to the needs and demands of the 20,000,000 professional photo-bugs rather than the professional photographer. Nevertheless the latter continues in business on a larger scale than ever before because he is able to fill specialized requirements.

Some idea of the scale of the industry is given by the reported fact that Canadians produce $35 million worth of photographic supplies and equipment annually and import another $35 million worth more. There are some items manufactured that most photographic equipment is imported, while film, paper and other supplies are largely manufactured at home and imported.

There is no doubt that the sale of color photography, plus the use of moving picture equipment by amateurs contributes immensely to the revenue the industry derives from the latest developments. They have given it. If shortage of supplies or some other factor should be necessary to move back to still cameras and plain black-and-white film, the trade would be severely pinched.

It would be interesting to know if there is any other industry of similar size and complexity so dependent on the pursuit of a hobby or avocation. Some of the larger sports and the pleasure boat industry may come close. But they hardly match the universality of appeal to picture families and friends and, perhaps, at the same time achieve a result of sufficiently broad interest to have some of the attributes of a work of art.

A great deal of photography is not related to art, but it does have a claim to be the folk art of our generation," as a German writer put it. If we accept this definition, then Canadian writers prepared to spend a lot of money, effort and time pursuing it.

THE PACKSACK

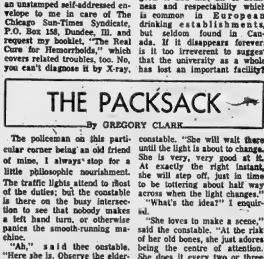
By GREGORY CLARK

The policeman on this particular corner being an old friend of mine, I always stop for a little philosophic conversation. The traffic lights attend to most of the duties; but the constable is there on the spot to use discretion to see that nobody makes a left hand turn, or otherwise panics the smooth-running machine.

"Ah," said the constable. "See that lady in the pink hat, standing over there on the corner."

She was poised on the edge of the curb, like a bird about to take wing. The light was in her favor, and doubtless had scores, of pedestrians were already streaming across.

"Now, watch her," said the constable. "She will wait there until the light is about to change. Then she will dash it. At exactly the right instant, she will step off, just in time for the loitering crowd of way across when the light changes."



"What's the idea?" I enquired.

"She loves to make a scene," said the constable, with the risk of her old bones, she just adores being the centre of attention. She does it every day. Some days, I will rush out and rescue her. And she will have something to talk about for hours..."

Off she loitered. The light changed. My friend, trouble out, with upraised hand countermanding the lights, and ushered the flutter old lady safe ashore.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

All sections gained on indexed, with industrials climbing more than a point.

Walker-Gooderham paced the main list, gaining 1¼. Interprovincial Pipe Line advanced ¼ and Abitibi, Aluminium and Canadian Breweries all ¼.

Rises in a ¼ to ½ range went to Consumer Gas, Moore Corporation, Calgary Power, Algoma Steel, Shawinigan and Atlas Steel.

Losers included Canadian Oil, off ¾, Trans-Canada Pipeline, down ¼ and Bank of Nova Scotia, down ½.

Canadian Husky continued to trade heavily, rising to a 1962 high of 8½ before easing to 8, down ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials gained 1.23 to 238.15, golds .55 at 88.76, base metals .73 at 175.28 and western oils .55 at 116.74. The 11 a.m. volume was 528,000 shares compared with 671,000 at the same time Thursday.

Among base metals, Falconbridge and Noranda each rose ¼ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¼.

Western oils saw gains in a ¼ to ¾ range to Home A, Home B and Hudson's Bay. Pacific Petroleum declined ¼, while Bailey Selburn gained 15 cents to $9.35.

Sluggish action turned into brisk last-hour buying Thursday.

After wandering through most of the session, industrials jumped more than a point on the index in the final hour, closing with a gain of almost two points.

Industrials leaders included Interprovincial Pipe Line, ahead 1¼ at 77, Distillers Seagrams, up ¾, Atlas Steel and Canadian Celanese, each up ½, and Abitibi and Bell Telephone, both ahead ¾.

Algoma Steel declined ½, Steel Company of Canada ⅜ and Dominion Foundries and steel ¼.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, Nov. 1

Health Minister Monteith said more money will be spent to develop the Banff-Lake Louise area as a suggested site for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

A letter in a newspaper from Bernard Dumont (SC—Bellechasse) criticizing the Speaker was referred to a committee for possible action.

Art Smith (PC — Calgary South) called for a national hospital lottery but his bill was "talked out" without a vote.

Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) introduced a bill which would force retailers to spell out credit terms in annual interest rates.

A bill amending the Farm Credits Act was given second reading and went on to the committee-study stage.

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. to resume the committee debate on budget proposals. The Senate stands adjourned until Tuesday.

South Hastings Liberals Will Name Candidate

A nomination convention has been called by the South Hastings Liberal Association for November 27th, it was announced this morning by Douglas Stork, association secretary. The early convention was favored at a meeting of the association's executive held yesterday evening with President Roy Sills presiding.

The nomination for Liberal candidate for the next federal general election is expected to be "hotly-contested," according to an astute political observer at the scene. It is expected that several potential candidates will be tossing their hats into the ring for the convention.

The location and time of the convention will be announced at a later date, said Mr. Stork.

Beck Acquitted Of Accepting $200,000 Loan

NEW YOR K(AP)—A federal jury Thursday night acquitted former Teamsters union President Dave Beck of charges that he violated U.S. labor law by accepting a $200,000 loan from truckers. Also acquitted were his trucking industry co-defendants.

Only 45 minutes before returning the verdict, the jury of seven men and five women had tried to report itself deadlocked. But Judge Wilfred Feinberg sent them back into deliberation.

The former head of the Teamsters was temporarily released from prison to stand trial here with two trucking company officials and three corporations.

Construction began on the pumphouse for Wellington's new waterworks Tuesday, and is now well under way.

The pump will be housed over the more westerly of the two wells drilled by the OWRC, on the beach.

The pumphouse, of reinforced concrete is being built in a hole, so when it is finished, only the top will show above ground level. In this picture, George Seames, of Belleville, is at work preparing the forms, for the pouring of the concrete.

Wellington Project Under Way

Construction Is Started On Village Water Works

Construction began Tuesday, on Wellington's controversial water works project. Employees of the Tatham company are now building a pumphouse, over the more westerly of the two wells developed by the Ontario Water Resources Commission, along the beach area of the village. The installation of the mains will begin about November 12.

Water has been a controversial subject in Wellington for years. The supply now comes from private wells, most of which are contaminated. Several surveys were made on the cost of providing water from the lake, but because the lake bottom slopes off gradually from the town, the intake from the lake to any municipal water system would be prohibitively expensive. But during 1960, the OWRC developed two wells along the village beach which could supply water to the whole village. With these wells, the estimated total cost of a village water works system dropped to about $300,000.

After a municipal vote, a by-law was passed during the spring of 1961, authorizing an agreement with the OWRC to build the system, followed by approval at an Ontario Municipal Board hearing during the summer of 1961. After a further survey, tenders were called on the job during the summer of 1962, and opened September 4th.

Under the contract issued, construction is expected to take about 36 weeks, which would indicate completion of the job to supply water to the whole of the built-up area of the village, by late June of next year. About 1,000 of the 1,400 acres of land within the village area is farmland and will not be supplied with water by the system.

The total estimated cost of the project is approximately $295,000, of which the village expects about $20,000 to be covered by a Winter Works grant. A $50,000 grant has been approved for the project, if enough of the work can be completed during the winter months.

ing arms. Thant said the Red Cross had agreed to the proposal, provided Cuba agreed, and he had communicated the proposal to the U.S. government.

There was no immediate comment from Washington.

In addition to insisting on U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo, Castro repeated his previous demands for cessation of U.S. economic measures against his regime, attacks by Cuban exiles, and "violations of our aerial and naval space by North American (U.S.) planes and warships."

VOICES 'DISCONTENT'

Castro said there had been "some discrepancies" between the Soviet Union and Cuba and "we have some motive for discontent" with the Soviet decision to withdraw the missile bases.

This apparently referred to Castro's reported displeasure that Premier Khrushchev had not informed him in advance of his pledge to President Kennedy. But Castro told his people Thursday night:

"It is well above all to remember what the Soviet Union has done for us."

He cited Soviet backing "before each Yankee blow," the civilian and military technicians sent by Russia to Cuba, and the arms furnished his regime. He noted that just two months ago the Soviet Union decided to cancel the whole arms debt of our country."

Mikoyan, a Kremlin troubleshooter and old friend of Castro arrived in New York Thursday and conferred Thursday night with the U.S. delegate to the UN, Adlai E. Stevenson, and John J. McCloy, chairman of Kennedy's coordinating committee on Cuban policy.

McCloy said Mikoyan and other Soviet diplomats who met with them had made no new proposals.

"There is no doubt in my mind that he (Mikoyan) is going down to placate Castro," McCloy said.

Recreation Highlights

E. JARVAH
Assistant Director

"Always do better" is the slogan which explains, in large measure, the success of Bobby Rousseau of the Montreal Canadiens, the best recruit in the National Hockey League last winter.

Following that yardstick, Bobby has moved through Junior and senior amateur ranks into the National Hockey League in the course of only a few seasons.

Bobby once said, "for myself, I always try to do better, always better. One must never be satisfied for there is always room for improvement."

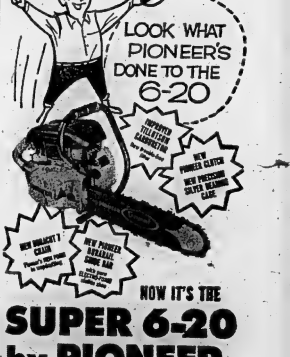
This is one of the main themes carried through in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association. This, and the idea that every boy, whether he is in the squirts or the midgets, whether he is expert or not, whether this is his first season, should be given an equal opportunity to play in each game and have the opportunity to prove himself and increase his hockey skills.

This Tuesday, November 6, will see the beginning of another fast-moving season for the Belleville Minor Hockey Association. Tuesday night the Squirts and Midgets will commence their season and on Saturday the Pee Wees and Bantams begin. The opening date for the Juvenile is Sunday, November 11.

Although some of the fathers who will have to take their sons to the games, which in some cases begin at 6 a.m., will have their doubts about the advantages of Minor Hockey, a closer examination will reveal many interesting facts worth noting.

Minor hockey does much to create a "feeling of belonging" in a boy. He feels as if he is "part of something and that is important to him. When he scores a goal, he feels the admiration of the entire team, and when he receives a penalty, he realizes he has let the team down and could even be responsible for the loss of a game.

Hockey is an invigorating game. It can be dangerous, but so much more important is the fact that it helps these boys to grow up. They meet new friends, learn methods of team work and may in some cases, become interested enough to make hockey their career, as the outstanding Bobby Hull has done.



The volunteers, coaches, managers, conveners, and all those associated with Minor Hockey feel just as proud as the boys do when they win a game. So parents, help those men who are interested in your son's welfare. Go to some of his games with him. Watch him play his choice of winter sports, and encourage him to do his best—always.

And parents, when your son finds it tough, because he lost an important game, remind him of this short poem:

"For win when the One Great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He marks—not that you won or lost—
But how you played the game."

Thirteen and in Love?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I just had to write you. I am nearly thirteen and I like a boy fourteen. He always talks to me and says, as well as shows me, that he likes me.

One problem is that I am Anglican and he is Roman Catholic. Another problem is my mother. She wants me to know boys, but doesn't like me to hang around with them. I agree. This boy must know this as he always is saying maybe he had better leave in case my mother sees us.

Doris, I can hardly live when he isn't around. How can I overcome this?—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING—It's growing pains you're having. Suddenly the boys are surprisingly attractive. Next month it'll be another.

Enjoy them, but let mother set the limits for a while yet. And it's better to mix with boys of the same faith as you are.

DEAR DORIS—I've been told by many that I have a talent for writing. I always did love poetry and spend most of my nights thinking up poems and writing them. Doris, I am sending you two which I think are my best poems.

Please tell me whether I'm wasting my time or not. It's not that I would like to make money. It's just that I would like my work to be appreciated (if it's good).—MAE WEST.

DEAR MAE WEST—Your poems are warm and appealing. But not ready yet for publication. Have you thought of furthering your education at night school? A girl with your feeling for words should study until she matriculates.

DEAR DORIS—Would you please answer these questions about a wedding:

1.—If we wear waltz length dresses, white shoes, should we wear white hats and gloves or can we wear the same color as our dresses (the bridesmaids I mean)?

2.—If the bride and bridesmaids wear corsages, what does the flower girl have—a bouquet or a corsage? Or should we all carry a bouquet?

3.—What flowers should you have in church, or is it necessary to have flowers at all? The wedding is in the evening.—SISTER OF BRIDE.

DEAR SISTER OF THE BRIDE—

1.—Either is proper.

2.—The flower girl should carry something similar, but smaller, or a bouquet of rose petals. Corsages are acceptable when the gowns are not long.

3.—Church flowers are often white, although not necessarily, and they may be chosen according to what is most beautiful at the season of the year. They may be limited to suitable altar flowers or even to attractive green plants such as ferns, palms and other such decorative greenery.

TO MISS M. McD. AND MRS. M. K.—If you would care to send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope with a note repeating your request, I will be glad to send you the leaflet you are asking for.

DEAR DORIS—My girl friend and I have been friends ever since kindergarten. But now we are in Grade 7 and she has started to be conceited and snobbish. Every time she has higher marks than I, she starts bragging about it to everyone.

She is always or usually teacher's pet. Is that what causes her to do this, or isn't it?—FORGOTTEN.

DEAR FORGOTTEN—It hurts when your childhood pal acts childish. Fact, is, she is heady with her own importance, which spoils it all.

Just smile and tell yourself she'll grow out of it. Then make some other friends; the kind that know better than to gloat over others.

DEAR DORIS—I am at my wit's end. When my husband goes on a drinking spell, he bawls me out for hours. The favorite of his is to ask me for something to eat and then no matter what it is, he says it is no good. Then he raves on and on at me.

Now when he is sober and in good temper I don't like him anymore. I am no milk-toast and keep quiet when he is raving not because I am afraid, but because I don't want to destroy everything we have worked so hard to own. However, I am at the point where I can hear his voice in my head raving on and on against me, even when things are pleasant.

I wouldn't mind staying up all night with him if it would make him happy. I can't go to Alcoholics Anonymous in the city as we live in the country. I am always with him when we go to the city; he never lets me out of his sight at all. He seems to like my company but I am getting mighty tired of him, the way he is acting.—TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED—Well, you are acting like milk-toast and he doesn't know the difference. Would probably faint if you turned on him.

Stern measures are called for. No food when he's drunk; nobody present to listen if he rants. Walk out on him. Figure out a trip to town without him (it can be done) and visit A.A. or a family counsellor.

DEAR DORIS—Last June I went around with a boy I liked very much. I only saw him a few times during the summer and now he doesn't call me any more. I know he's not going around with any other girl, so how can I get him interested again?—FORGOTTEN.

DEAR FORGOTTEN—Forget him too. Running after him won't bring him back. Take a second look at some of those boys who are interested in you and are wishing you would be friendly.

DEAR DORIS—Our family relations are strained and not getting any better. I know I am at fault too, perhaps more than I realize, but where can an out-of-towner turn to talk things out with, someone?—ALL MIXED UP.

DEAR ALL—There aren't nearly enough social workers to go round. But child care agencies exist in all provinces. They carry the burden of family counselling in most rural areas.

In your case apply to the Children's Aid Society of Belleville, Hastings County and Trenton, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville.

day be called "the acts of a weak people."

"This is not the time for these manifestations," he said, urging his countrymen "to keep your heads cool and not be carried away by anger or emotion."

Police estimated 10,000 people —most of them university men and women—marched through the streets of the capital all day Thursday, destroying signs marking Chinese business houses and shouting for expulsion of the Red Chinese forces on the border. Police guarded all Chinese business houses and the headquarters of the Indian Communist party, which a mob looted Wednesday.

As the mobs demonstrated outside Communist party headquarters, the party council concluded two days of heated debate with a strong pro-Nehru resolution denouncing the Chinese Reds as aggressors and calling on all party members to support the government during the national emergency.

port the principle of a national sweepstake.

At the present time, he said, little attempt is made to enforce the Criminal Code provisions against games of chance "and this is understandable." Yet there still was no official recognition of the advantages of a state lottery.

On the morality of taking part in a lottery, Mr. Smith said this is a matter for the individual conscience. However, he suggested it would be no more immoral to operate a sweepstake for welfare purposes than it is to collect taxes from alcohol and horse-racing.

George Valade (PC—Montreal Ste. Marie) said there was a definite need for the lottery and that various surveys showed more than 70 per cent of the population in favor.

The lottery ticket at one dollar was less of a gamble than the $200 a hunter might invest in his gamble to kill a deer on a hunting trip.

He also thought it was ridiculous to legalize betting on horse races while refusing to allow a controlled lottery.

Bert Leboe (SC — Cariboo) suggested the best way to gain approval for the plan was to put it to the electorate in the form of a plebiscite at a general election.

Canada Savings Bonds are good to keep

Canada Savings Bonds pay 4½% interest for each of the first three years; 5% for each of the next three years; and 5½% for each of the final eight years—an average interest to maturity in 14 years of 5.11% per year. In dollars and cents this means that every $100 you invest will grow with accumulated interest to $172.50 at maturity.

No wonder they're good to keep—for education, travel, retirement or planned purchases of some of the things that add to life's enjoyment. Yet if you have to cash them before maturity, they're always worth their full face value plus earned interest.

You can buy a $100 Canada Savings Bond for as little as 29¢ a day, through the convenient Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Canada Savings Bonds are also available at any bank, investment dealer, stock broker, trust or loan company in convenient amounts from $50 to $10,000. Pay cash, or choose easy instalments. And remember, any Canadian resident, adult or child, may buy. Estates too, can buy.

with a range of about 1,200 miles and on fixed bases for 2,500-mile - range intermediate missiles.

Work was being rushed on bases for both types, and the U.S. government believed the mobile missiles in particular were near firing readiness.

The United States admittedly has no defences against such missiles, which could strike at cities and military positions in the U.S. within about five minutes of launch.

A reading of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's message to Kennedy last Sunday turns up no mention of the IL-28 bombers.

In what seems a clear reference to missiles, Khrushchev said he had ordered "discontinuation of further work on weapons construction sites" and that these were to be dismantled and their rockets returned to the Soviet Union.

"NOT MADE PUBLIC"

Replying to an earlier letter to Khrushchev, not made public, Kennedy said, "the first thing that needs to be done . . . is for work to cease on offensive missile bases in Cuba and for all weapons systems in Cuba capable of offensive use to be rendered inoperable. . . ."

Here, Kennedy obviously was including jet bombers. But, although Kennedy has had removal of bombers in mind, it is far from clear whether the Russians have agreed to pull them out.

For four days, a reporter pressed the U.S. defence department for clarification on this point. He got nowhere.

At a briefing Thursday, a defence spokesman was asked whether there is any doubt that the United States is insisting on removal of the IL-28 bombers as well as the nuclear rockets. He replied:

"There is no doubt in my mind that there has been no deviation from what the president has always listed . . . I have always followed and taken as my guidance what's on the president's list and what he has proclaimed."

This response did not go to the heart of the question—whether the Russians would go along.

'Electrolyte Balance' Discussed At "Nursing Education" Meet

The first of five lectures in the fall series of "Nursing Education" was held at the Belleville General Hospital Education Hall, Monday evening. The topic of "Electrolyte Balance" was presented by Dr. Donald Cronk, internist and medical consultant.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all those present. Mrs. Doris Morrison, assistant director of the Registry, introduced the guest speaker.

The fine audience listened with interest as Dr. Cronk clarified the basic principles of "electrolyte and fluid balance of the human body."

A set of slides was prepared to simplify this complicated subject, but due to technical difficulties, was not used.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENTS

The internist stated that as early as 1832, Dr. Latta, of Leith, made successful experiments by injecting normal saline into persons with cholera. Nevertheless, little interest was shown in chemicals of body fluid until 20 years ago. The main difficulty was applying technical knowledge to practical application, using a practical working terminology.

He explained how osmotic equivalent power preserves fluid balance and how chemical equivalent power preserves the acid and base balance within the human body.

Dr. Cronk stated that a space battery which generates energy from solar heat, is crude when compared with the fine metabolism and release of energy in one cell of the body.

The doctor offered to elaborate further on this vital subject, using slides, at a later convenient date.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Margaret Hutt.

Next Monday the speaker will be Dr. Harold Williamson, on "Orthopaedic Nursing Care."

Any nurse interested is welcome.

Evangelist Missionaries Attend Rally

FRANKFORD—In Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle last Tuesday evening a special missionary service was held.

The Rev. Fred Spring opened the service with a hymn and prayer was given by the Rev. B. Donnan of Stirling. The Full Gospel choir sang "Christ Returneth."

Mr. Spring introduced the guests of the evening, the Rev. and Mrs. Clare Fox, evangelist missionaries. Mr. Fox rendered two organ selections, "Wonderful Peace" and "Christ In My Heart." He and his wife sang the duet, "The King and I." After which he played as a piano solo "The Storm of Galilee" and wedding with the hymn "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me" with Mrs. Fox as vocal soloist.

Mr. Fox told of the missionary work in Kenya, Africa, and showed colored pictures of the work in that land.

Mr. Spring led in prayer and while the missionary offering was received by Mr. Watson and K. Wright. Mr. Fox played another organ solo.

The guest brought a stirring message from St. John 5, speaking on "The Miracle Worker." He also told of his left arm and hand being healed in Africa, last year.

The service closed in prayer.

'Investments' Topic at Ladies Day Out

H. P. Wills, prominent local investment broker, was the guest speaker at the recent "Ladies' Day Out" at the YMCA to give a talk on "Investments." Also featured on the afternoon portion of the program was a discussion on clothing styles led by Mrs. Kay Shannon.

The morning session featured the usual program of alimnastics and swimming.

Next week's program will feature the topics of budgeting and millinery.

St. Andrew's W.G. Enjoys Travelogue

The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held on Tuesday last, with president, Mrs. Ruth Bly presiding. Plans were discussed for the forthcoming bazaar.

Members were thanked for the work done at recent sylnod.

Mrs. Allan read a charming letter from Mrs. MacLean now residing in Scotland.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Mary McCreary introduced Miss Irene Weir. Miss Weir showed slides taken during their recent trip to Scotland and England. The economentary was such that one felt she had shared in the pleasant holiday vacation.

Mrs. Weir was thanked by Mrs. Elizabeth Helm.

Refreshments were served by the Harmony Group.

Guide Receives All Round Cord Award

TWEED — At the annual dinner of Quinte Area Guide Association at Trenton, Miss Elizabeth Ann Tweed, was awarded her All Round Cord Certificate, designating that she has already received her first-class certificate, her Efficiency Badge, and five additional badges.

This is the second highest Guide badge, only superseded by the Gold Cord. Miss Marshall had previously received her cord as a special ceremony at the Tweed Salvation Army citadel in May of this year and the certificate completes the honor.

Donna Chase of Frankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chase (the former Jean McCrea of Tweed) earned her Gold Cord during the past year and is now a member of group of Ontario Guides to tour England this summer. She will receive her Gold Cord certificate at the Ontario Provincial Guide meeting to be held in Toronto next spring.

Accompanying Miss Marshall to Trenton were: Miss Esther Sinclair, S.M. Guide leader, and Mrs. Dora Sedore, S.A. Brownie leader.

The installation ceremony was followed by lunch and a social hour.

WEDDINGS

DAFOE — BRENNAN

Parkdale Baptist Church, Belleville was the setting for a recent fall wedding when Carol Lou Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leonard Brennan, R.R. 1 Plainfield was united in marriage to Barry Francis Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Francis Dafoe, Foxboro, R.R. 1. The Rev. Robert Snyder, former pastor of the church officiated at the ceremony assisted by the pastor of the church Mr. Chase Tinling.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Marian Foster who played the Lord's Prayer and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was lovely in a full-length bridal gown of white lace over taffeta enhanced with long lily-point sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a sparkling rhinestone tiara and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses interspersed with lily-of-the-valley and stephanotis.

Miss Helen Sarik was the bride's only attendant and she also wore white with matching tiara and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses interspersed with lily-of-the-valley.

The groomsman was Mr. Wallace Atwell and Mr. Arnold Barry were the ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony. Approximately 60 guests attended the occasion, with the bridal table presided over by a three-tier pink and white mesh cloth and the traditional wedding cake. The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a blue orlon street-length dress with pink corsage. The bridegroom's mother also received the guests, attired in blue satin street-length dress with pink corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry will reside at R. R. 1, Chatham, Ontario.

Alpha Lambda Welcomes Ten New Pledges

Members of Alpha Lamba Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi are enthusiastic about their ten new pledges and they undoubtedly enrich the sorority's cultural programs and social events.

With a variety of interests to capture the sorority's attention are, Mrs. J. Bakay, Mrs. R. Lumbers, and Mrs. R. Ward.

Margaret Bakay, assistant chief operator with Bell Telephone Company, has numerous hobbies and enjoys curling, bowling, and attend antique collector, Jeannine Poulin, from Kingston, is painting, skiing and sailing enthusiast.

The only Belleville-born pledge is Mrs. D. Davenport who was graduated from the Belleville General Hospital.

Two other pledges who are nurses are Mrs. G. Brown from Ottawa, who enjoys sewing and knitting and Mrs. Lyons who is a top-notch bowler.

Also adding to the roster of new pledges are, Mrs. R. Wardman, and Mrs. R. E. Wood, Isabel Wood, Belleville, is a family to be airforce gypsies; fortunately Isabel loves to meet new people. Alice Woods sews for her three daughters and is an avid reader.

The sorority sisters heartily welcome their new pledges, who will make a substantial contribution to the Beta Sigma Phi program that is designed to enrich the lives of its members.

LA RUSH — WALSH

Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, was the scene of a recent pretty wedding when Agnes Joan Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Walsh of Marysville, was united in marriage to Peter La Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon La Rush of Oshawa, Ont.

Rev. Father Cavanagh performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Edward Walsh, the bride was radiant in a bridal gown of nylon tulle featuring a Sabrina neckline edged with seed pearls and Venetian lace, and long, lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was gathered at the back of the waistline by two rosettes from which flowed a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was caught to a crown headdress of nylon tulle dotted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations and trailing ivy, centred with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gene (Helen) Drumm of Kingston was matron of honor, wearing gold street-length dress of peau de soie with fitted bodice and featuring a shoulder cape of matching headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums. The bridesmaids, Miss Joan Peter Walsh and Mrs. Jerome (Shirley) Collins, also sisters of the bride, were identically attired in green peau de soie dresses and each carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. John Strachen, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The ushers Anderson and Mr. Richard Wilson, both of Oshawa, were the ushers.

The reception was held at the Mt. Manor Hotel in Belleville, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a brown printed silk dress, green accessories and corsage of yellow rose? assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gold sheath dress with brown accessories and a corsage of butterfly roses.

St. Andrew's Church Holds Fine Dessert Tea, Bazaar

STIRLING — Recently the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling held a very successful bazaar and dessert tea in the Sunday School hall with guests in attendance from various other church groups.

The entrance hall was decorated with a tall arrangement of bitter sweet. The main room was prettily decorated with leaves and, fruit with a central theme of a large arrangement of autumn fruits and vegetables by all their beauty and color.

During the afternoon Mrs. Vernon Matthews provided piano music.

The guests were welcomed as they arrived by the president Mrs. Earl Farr and the minister's wife, Mrs. T. D. Dodds. The treasurers were Mrs. Duncan Montgomery and Mrs. W. L. Munro.

The bazaar was officially opened by Mr. T. D. Dodds. The bazaar committee was composed of nine ladies and they were in charge of the planning of this event. They were: Mrs. T. D. Dodds, Mrs. Ross Batstoah, Mrs. Joe Valchar, Mrs. Grant Montgomery, Mrs. Jim McIntosh, Mrs. Cameron Montgomery, Mrs. H. R. Tompkins, Mrs. James Johnston and Mrs. Clarence Hagerty.

PRETTY TEA ROOM

The tea room hostess was Mrs. Roy Eggleton and here the quartet tables were covered with luncheon cloths and centred with leaf doilies and yellow chrysanthemums. The dessert was cafeteria style with Mrs. C. Montgomery and Mrs. L. Dafoe in charge of serving. The desserts were many and varied with luscious pies, cakes, puffs and other specialties.

The tea was made by Mrs. Carman Fitchett and Mrs. Clayton Tummon. The ladies who served and the kitchen assistants were: Mrs. Robert Cooke, Mrs. George Haggerty, Mrs. Laird MacLaurin, Mrs. Laurie Montgomery, Mrs. Kenneth Farr, Mrs. Walter Rodgers, Mrs. Douglas Mitchell, Mrs. Lee Rawlings, Mrs. Merritt Wood, Mrs. E. Cain and Mrs. O. Clapper.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

The four booths along the east and north walls were a bower of beauty with a large assortment of valuable articles. Mrs. Lloyd Mitchell was convened the doll clothes and novelty items, which were made of both durable and party materials.

The sewing booth showed a large selection of aprons as well as various items for the bedroom and kitchen. Those in charge were Mrs. Joe Valchar, Mrs. Grant Montgomery and Mrs. Ross Batstoah.

At the candy booth, Mrs. Harold Juby and Mrs. William Blakely were in charge. They sold cellophane bags of mixed candy, maple creams, chocolate fudge, divinity fudge and other varieties.

The homebaking table was laden with fresh bread and buns, pumpkin, apple, raisin, berry and lemon pies, brown sugar and berry tarts, date, raisin and pineapple loaves, layer cakes as well as frosted angel and 'mum. Those in charge at this booth were: Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. George Sarles, Mrs. Harold McGee and Mrs. Cecil Nelson.

The affair was a decided success and the committee in charge are grateful to the women of St. Andrew's Church who assisted in any way and they deeply appreciated the cooperation. They also extend their thanks to all those ladies from other church groups who spent the afternoon with them and thus helped to swell their finances.

The president Mrs. Earl Farr was also most appreciative of the plans made and carried out by her committee.

DON'T SMOKE

Fire Dept. Wives Hold Baby Shower

DESERONTO — On Saturday evening the wives of the members of the local fire department entertained at a stork shower in honor of Mrs. John Hamilton wife of one of the members.

The shower was held in the club rooms over the fire hall and the guests were all members of the organization. Euchre and cribbage were played during the early part of the evening and lunch was served by the men.

Following the lunch a large basket containing all the gifts were presented to a most surprised mother-to-be. Following the opening of the gifts Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton thanked those present for their kindness.

Another feature of the evening was a surprise presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimmett who were celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary on Saturday. On behalf of the members of the department and their wives a lovely lamp was presented in the happy couple as a mo- mento of the occasion.

Two Church Dedications Well Attended

TWEED — Sunday, October 28th was one long to be remembered by parishioners of St. James Anglican Church, Tweed and Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Sulphide.

At 11 a.m. Holy Trinity Church, Sulphide, was dedicated by Rt. Rev. K. G. Evans, Bishop of Ontario. Bishop Evans was assisted by Canon Hutchinson of Kingston and Rev. F. F. Downing, Rural Dean from Stirling and a former rector.

It may be recalled that the original Holy Trinity Church, built in 1895 was moved from Rungerford Station to Sulphide twelve years ago. Since the congregation increased, its seating capacity became inadequate and this Spring a new church was constructed on approximately the same site at a cost of $7200. This expenditure was made possible by volunteer labor, not only by members of the congregation but by others in this small community.

The new white frame building has a full-size basement where social activities and meetings can be held. The church has a seating capacity of 100 with the altar and bishop's chair coming from the original St. James in Tweed. This week a canopied front was added to the main entrance.

At 3.00 p.m., St. James, Tweed, was consecrated by Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, assisted by Canon Hutchinson of Kingston. This decision that the $41,000 church completed in 1960 is now debt free. It would be well to note that no canvassers were made to achieve this goal and all money came from voluntary offerings and contributions which came from coast to coast. Many who have contributed have since passed on and many moved away and have left behind a standing proof of their faith in God.

The rector, Rev. L. R. Hawkes who came to Tweed and his pride of approximately ten years ago and his congregation have worked diligently to achieve this goal and can now look at the beautiful stone structure with the proud security that it is entirely free of any financial encumbrance.

St. James was started in 1956 and at that time the basement was completed and used for services. The building fund gradually increased until the church proper could be completed. It was dedicated on May 15th, 1960 by Bishop Evans.

During the consecration services there were many visitors and ministers from neighboring towns and villages, including: the Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario; Canon Hutchinson, Kingston; Archdeacon A. S. McConnell of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville; Rural Dean F. F. Downing of Stirling, a former rector; Rev. Hope Swayne, Barrifield, former rector; the Rev. David Sinclair, Assistant St. Thomas' Belleville; Rev. Richard Fleming, Christ Church, Belleville; Rev. Gordon Black, Roslin; Rev. Frank Crooke, Stirling; Rev. Cyril Betts, Madoc, and Rev. Robert Wright of Picton.

Many letters of congratulations were received from former rectors and parishioners.

After the consecration service lunch was served in the basement by the ladies of the congregation. Congratulatory remarks were made by Archdeacon McConnell, Rev. Hope Swayne, Inspector of Police Claire Hayes of Belleville, a former parishioner; Mr. Les Grills, MP; Mr. Clarke Rollins, MPP; Mr. Harold Ripley, chairman of extension committee for the diocese; Mr. Archie Lewis, son of a former rector; Mr. Graham Mouck, of Stirling, a former parishioner and others.

All in all it was a day long to be remembered in the minds and hearts of the rector, Rev. L. R. Hawkes, and all Anglicans in the combination.

Club Activities

QUINTE 4–H CLUB

The first meeting of the Quinte 4-H Club was held on October 23 at the home of the leader, Mrs. M. Mitchell.

The assistant leader is Mrs. F. Jones and the club project is "Separates for Summer."

The meeting was opened with the election of officers as follows:

President, Mary Clapp; vice-pres., Linda Jones; treasurer, Carolyn Mitchell, press reporters, Marilyn Mitchell and Jane Thomson.

The discussion consisted of general outline of project, "Choosing the Style, selecting the material and quality."

The demonstrations were acquiring a sewing box; choosing measurements, color and design to suit the person.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

NAN Y. — They're welcome at my home, but alone and with children.

TERRY H. — She talks as though my children are monsters. She prefers dogs and cats.

Nan Y.: My husband and I take great pride in our suburban home and grounds. That's why, though it distresses me, I can't entertain my sister and her husband. We don't want her children along, and the adults won't come alone.

Those kids are being raised too permissively for our taste. Nothing is safe with them around. They don't respect other people's property. The last time they called they knocked over a statue and a bird bath which had been standing in the garden for 20 years. And somehow they managed to loosen the hinges of our gate, something which even our repairm n who hadn't been able to do while painting the fence!

Terry H.: We live in a four-room apartment in the city. Naturally when our three little ones are turned loose on Nan's beautiful acres in the country, they whoop and shout for joy. She and her husband just don't understand children. They specialize in dogs, cats and orchids!

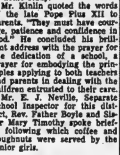
I, too, feel terrible about not being welcome at my sister's home unless I leave the children at home. It's a telephone call, hour drive each way and a visit involves a whole day. How can I relax when I'm being judged by my husband and I bask in the sun at Nan's? They're not wild. They're just exuberant and bright. Nan would prefer to have them all around like mopes I guess. They'd do what she wants, but she doesn't even talk to them!

• • •

The Council: in this Battle of the Brats everyone, including the kids, is doin' what comes naturally and somebody must come up with some "unnatural" consideration. Inasmuch as it's Nan who's kicking, let's start with her.

St. Carthagh's H-S Holds "Open House"

TWEED — St. Carthagh's School presented a busy session of Monday evening, October 29th for their annual "Open House." The class rooms were thronged with interested parents who came to examine their children's work which was open for inspection and to discuss their progress with the teachers.



Following classroom inspection, the guests proceeded to the auditorium for an address by Mr. J. F. Rinlin of the Department of Education. His subject was "Progress in Education" and was most interesting and informative. Taking this district as an example Mr. Rinlin developed his theme from the earliest beginning of settlement in Tweed and Hungerford to modern stage, co-relating it with the development of population and industry with interesting facts and figures.

The early schools were few in number and crude in efficiency with great stress on the three "R's". Mr. Rinlin then compared the reading of that era with present day standards by showing the Primer and First book families of the former generation and which continued in use in the first two grades, and then the modern set of at least six readers which replaced them. If a child is to add, subtract, multiply and divide he was considered proficient in arithmetic with no plans for the deductive thinking of problems. Mr. Rinlin ventured an opinion that the day was not too far distant when each child would be in a small computer which would do the mechanical work leaving an open field for progress in deductive thinking.

"Parents," he said, "should be mindful of the change and help their children along these lines. A father working on the farm with his son has ample opportunity to furnish him with thought provoking problems." An increasing amount of homework is in keeping with the modern trend. Children should be provided with a quiet and comfortable place in which to study. TV, he said is not fit in with their program of home study.

Mr. Rinlin quoted the words of the late Pope Pius XII to parents. They must have courage, patience and confidence in God." He concluded his brilliant address with the prayer for the dedication of a school, a prayer for embodying the principles applying to both teachers and parents in dealing with the children entrusted to their care.

Mr. E. J. Neville, Separate School Inspector for this district, Rev. Father Boyle and Sister Mary Timothy spoke briefly. Following the address refreshments served by the senior girls.

When arranging cut flowers, select stems each of which has a bud, bloom or older at the base. This cuts off some of their moisture supply.

READERS' FRI. COLUMN

LETTER:

Thank you for helping so much with our meals. One of my favorites is a good stretch for fat chicken and perfect for pot-luck suppers.

CHICKEN AND STUFFING SCALLOP (courtesy Lollie F. Moore)

1 8-oz. package (3½ cups when broken) seasoned stuffing (I make my own), 3 to 5 cups cubed cooked or canned chicken, ½ cup margarine, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 4 cups cool chicken broth, 3 slightly beaten eggs, pimiento mushroom sauce (see below).

Prepare stuffing according to package directions or make 3½ cups of your own. Spread in a 13 x 9 x 2" baking dish. Arrange the chicken in a thick layer. In a large saucepan melt margarine, blend in flour and seasonings, add cool broth, cook and stir until mixture thickens. Stir small amount of hot mixture into eggs, return to hot mixture, pour over chicken. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 40 to 45 minutes or until knife inserted half way to centre comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes to set. Cut in squares and serve with Pimiento Mushroom Sauce. Mix one can condensed cream of mushroom soup, ¼ cup milk, 1 can pimiento cream and ¾ cup chopped canned pimiento. Heat and stir until hot. Makes 12 servings . . Lollie P.

LETTER:

Apricot Pecan Cake was a prize winner in February, 1960. You are welcome to use it. — B.C.

APRICOT PECAN TORTE (courtesy E. S.):

1¼ cups white or fruit sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

Sift flour with baking powder and baking soda and salt, take out 1 tablespoon to mix ed shortening in bowl with sugar and sift flour mixture with sugar into large mixer bowl.

¾ cup shortening, 2 tins of pureed apricot (baby food), (room temperature), ¼ cup (room temperature), 2 large eggs (room temperature), ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, ¼ cup finely chopped pecans.

Blend 2 tins (4½ oz. each) strained apricots with water. Put soft (not liquid) shortening in bowl with flour and sugar. Add ¾ of liquid mixture and beat at medium speed for 1½ minutes. Add eggs, unbeaten, the remainder of liquid mixture, and flavoring. Beat for 1½ minutes more. Now fold in the finely chopped floured pecans. Question: I like to serve coffee in demitasse cups after dinner. Usually, I pass only sugar, but lately I've noticed that friends who are considered excellent hostesses also pass cream. Is this now becoming customary?

Mrs. V.C.T., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Yes, and obviously by popular demand. Hence many guests prefer a whisper of cream in their coffee — even the stronger brews — It's become the habit of many hostesses to serve cream as well as sugar with demitasse.

Question: The son of a friend recently was married in another city. We have just received an announcement with an "At Home" card enclosed. Does this mean that we are expected to send the couple a wedding present, even though we were not invited to the wedding and reception — Mrs. B. J. Annapolis, Md.

Answer: The "At Home" card is a formality enabling friends, and acquaintances to know the address of the newly-married couple. A gift need not be sent. However, a congratulatory note may be sent, depending on how well you know the young man and if you feel it would be appropriate in view of your relationship with his parents.

Question: My husband and I are exchanging our 30th anniversary shortly. I am having an "Open House" and have quite a crowd, but it will be very informal and will be held in the evening.

I plan to serve ice cream and a buffet supper, cake, plus cookies, nuts, etc. It will be buffet style, in that ice cream, punch and cake will be served on glass boston trays. I had planned to put a fork and spoon on each tray, but have been advised that both would be hard to handle on the tray. It has been suggested that I use forks only. Would this be in good form? I can't imagine eating ice cream with a fork any more than I can imagine eating cake with a spoon.

Also, would it be correct to invite a few people — only — for friends — by phone? I am having invitations printed to send to relatives and other friends.

Mrs. A.S., Hopewell, N.J.

Answer: Since the ice cream and cake are to be served on the same dish in more or less "a la mode" fashion, then only a fork actually is necessary. However, some guests may prefer to have only cake or only ice cream. To cover this eventuality, it would be wise to set out both forks and spoons near the trays on the buffet table so they may choose the correct utensil. Since the party is informal, invitations to friends may be made by phone.

Voice of Women Members Do Not Want Nuclear Arms

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The Voice of Women was heard for two hours on Parliament Hill Thursday and it dissolved into a protesting bilingual babble.

The women's organization came almost 400 strong to present a brief to Prime Minister Diefenbaker demanding assurances that Canada would never acquire nuclear weapons, and would seek changes in any treaties Canada now has with nuclear powers.

External Affairs Minister Green said he could give no assurances because nobody knew what the future might bring. When he said that the world might even have to live in armed camps, there was a chorus of "No, no."

A large block of delegates from Quebec who came by train from Montreal, demanded a French translation of what Mr. Green had said. The meeting was suspended while Mr. Green went to the Commons to get a French - speaking colleague.

NIGHT TAKE WHILE

He explained it might take a while, because of the question time in the Commons.

"It's question time right now," said one delegate.

Mrs. L. H. Truelove of Winnipeg, representing 800 Voice of Women members in Manitoba, said she was prepared to wait as long as necessary to get a clear-cut statement of government policy.

French - speaking delegates popped up in the crowd seated in the big railway committee room, interrupting their already high-speaking fellow delegates, and vice versa, all demanding "Yes or no—oui ou non" on the question of nuclear arms for Canada.

About 25 minutes later, Mr. Green returned with Transport Minister Leon Balcer. He conferred with Mr. Green in whispers about the progress of the meeting so far, and then told the delegates there were no nuclear arms in Canada, that Canada had made no commitment to acquire them, that Canada was opposed to them in principle—but that nobody could say what the future of world events might bring.

CANT ASSURE

Mr. Balcer also told the delegation, which came from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, that the government could not give an assurance that nuclear weapons would not be acquired by Canada during the International peace year, 1963. No one could foresee what would happen if war was to attack against North America.

When the women started asking for yes or no answers, Mr. Green said the government had held its no nuclear arms policy no 20 times and has severe criticism both in the House of Commons and outside."

Republicans Appear to Have Better Chance to Hit Jackpot In Nov. 6 General Election

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the great game of American politics, 1962 version, the Republicans appear to stand a better chance to hit the jackpot in the Nov. 6 U.S. general election.

A country - wide Associated Press survey of informed — though in many cases necessarily uncertain—opinion boils down to this result from the voting:

House of Representatives — Marginal Republican gain, possibly as few as eight.

Senate—Few if any Republican gains; the Democrats might even strengthen their overwhelming 64-36 grip.

Governorships—Here the Republicans are reaching, with signs of possible success, for such glittering prizes as California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and several others.

Adding these to such political gems as the New York governorship, which Nelson Rockefeller likely will retain, could measurably enrich the party's changes for the 1964 elections.

And it could lengthen the roster of Republican presidential possibilities for 1964, adding such names for example as George Romney, Michigan's Rambler manwho is seeking to unseat Governor John B. Swainson.

FIFTY-STATE SURVEY

The Associated Press survey, covering all 50 states, is a composite of opinions of newspaper political writers, polls taken by newspapers or others, and the considered analysis of AP political writers, bureau chiefs and correspondents.

Realizing the complexity of the issues, the vastness of the country and the difficulty of probing a voter's mind, these men keep their fingers crossed. They remember past occasions when political prophets wished, after the returns poured in, that they had taken up tea leaf reading as a career.

As President Kennedy flies along the campaign trails, as Dwight D. Eisenhower does his old soldier's best for the Republicans, and as myriad other orators woo the voters, many things could change between now and the Nov. 6 voting.

As of now, however, here's the rundown:

Democrats now dominate the House 263 to 174, counting two Democratic vacancies. In the 12 "off-year" elections since 1914, the party that controlled the White House has lost strength in the House 11 times (the exception being 1934.) The losses ranged from 10 seats in 1926 to 75 in 1922.

As President Kennedy figures it: From the off-year of 1930 through 1958, the party in power lost an average of 39 House seats. And if that happens this year, he acknowledges he can write off such cherished proposals as health care for the aged, aid to higher education, a department of urban affairs and a Kennedy-style farm bill.

KEY DISTRICTS

So Democrats and Republicans alike are paying particular attention to the key district —fewer than 100 of them— where the vote has been close in the past.

Studying returns from the AP survey, this writer took a plunge and came up with this conclusion:

Republicans House gains—8.

Democratic House losses—10.

Something seems amiss here but the mathematics even out if you remember that the total House membership is dropping from 437 this Congress to 435 in the next because of a redistribution of seats.

As for the Senate, there's the possibility of Democratic gains in such states as Connecticut, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, South Dakota and Utah. The potential Republican pick-ups of seats do not seem so numerous —Colorado, Wyoming and perhaps one or two others.

The Democrats now hold 34 of the 50 governors' mansions Scanning the political map, it's hard to figure where they might get another leasehold except in New Mexico and—of all places—New Hampshire. There Republican Governor Wesley Powell, deferred for renomination, is doing his best to elect the first Democratic governor in 40 years, John King by name.

But the Republicans enjoy chances—ranging from good to slim—in Rhode Island, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Wyoming, besides the states already named.

MOVE TO ASIA

More than one-third of Australia's export now go to Asia and in the 1961-62 financial year Asian countries bought $860,000,000 worth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Black and Norbert of York Road, Trenton, visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brooks on Sunday afternoon.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A new warning about an impending water shortage, a probe for space secrets in the waves of Antarctica, and alle-o-minute ferryboats.

WATER, WATER

A Montana scientist figures that while the average man drinks only about two quarts of water a day, he actually "uses" about 15,000 gallons every 24 hours.

Such a total is reached when you figure water requirements for raising crops and livestock, and for industrial and municipal needs and the like, says Dr. Charles C. Bradley of Montana State College.

In an article in Science magazine, he sounds this warning:

While the annual rainfall in the U.S. makes available some 5,000,000,000,000 gallons of water daily, a per capita use of 15,000 gallons a day—in the face of a steadily increasing population — would mean that well before the year 2000 present standards of living would suffer unless action is taken to conserve supplies and eliminate pollution.

SNOW SLEUTHING

The virtually never-melting snows of the Antarctic ice-cap are being probed for possible new information about potential hazards of space travel.

More than a ton of snow, drilled from various points on the icecap—and from depths down to 35 feet — has been lugged from the great white continent and preserved in refrigerators at the University of Wisconsin.

Scientists there will carefully test the various snow "cores" and study their content of "cosmic dust"—tiny particles of still-uncertain origin which regularly fall to the earth from outer space and which might penetrate a fast-travelling spaceship.

Since the Antarctic snows has recognizable lines of demarcation for each year's snowfall—something like tree rings—accurate estimates of the quantities of dust falling each year might be obtained.

COMMUTERS' DREAM

Mile - a - minute ferryboats, offering a cheaper ride than large ships, airplanes and helicopters for short hauls, are economically feasible, according to a study made by the Stanford Research Institute for the U.S. government.

These lickety-split carriers of tourists and commuters would be hydrofoil ships — craft which would speed over water on submerged wings or foils.

The U.S. Maritime Administration already has an experimental program involving such craft; and it was in connection with this program that the government asked the Institute to study whether such novel craft could be operated at a profit.

Polls Consistently Put Brown, Democrat, Ahead Of Union for Governorship

By MORRIE LANDESBERG

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California is going down to the wire in its marathon high-stakes battle for governor between Democratic Governor Edmund G. Brown and Republican Richard M. Nixon, who once was president under former president Eisenhower.

Polls consistently put the 57-year-old Brown ahead by a thin margin, although late samplings indicate Nixon has made some headway in his closing drive towards the Nov. 8 voting.

Nixon, who was defeated by President Kennedy in the 1960 presidential election, says he's drawing the greatest crowds of any state candidate in California's history and that "victory is in the air." His campaign manager predicts he'll topple Brown by 400,000 votes.

Brown avoids any figures but, he says, "I'll predict with absolute certainty that I'll win."

Both candidates are talking about bread-and-butter issues — but none has really caught fire. There is no single burning issue that Nixon has been able to find to crystallize his attempt to dump an incumbent.

Brown seeks to depict the former vice-president as a political opportunist who wants the $40,000-a-year state job only to launch another bid for the presidency. He says Nixon is using tactics of the far-right John Birch Society to conduct a scare campaign.

Nixon depicts Brown as a vacillating governor "without spine or backbone" who has compiled a record of "four years of mediocrity." He has hit particularly hard at crime, communism and taxes and has firmly ruled out any bid for the presidency in 1964.

The 49-year-old Nixon, pledging strong leadership, says he'd cut state spending, war on crime, develop a new anti-Communist program, retain the death penalty, attract new business to California and "get rid of the secondraters and free loaders" on the state payroll.

Brown, citing his "proud record," says Nixon has waged a completely negative campaign.

BACKS CUBA BLOCKADE

"My opponent has been hammering away at the people of California, telling them California is in bad shape, that our education is a boondoggle and that our economy is on the wane.

"Californians hear this gloomy tale. And then they look around and see a state with a booming economy, with the finest educational system in the country, with employment at an all-time high and unemployment below the national average."

The Cuban crisis provided an element which could jolt the voters out of their pre-election apathy.

Nixon, speaking as "one who has urged for several months that stronger action be taken in Cuba," quickly announced his full support of the naval blockade and other steps taken by President Kennedy.

Brown backed the president, too. But he urged his Republican opponent to drop the anti-communism issue. Brown said "soft-on-communism" charges tend to be "broken national unity in time of crisis."

"I will continue, as I have been, to talk about state issues," Nixon replied.

GOLD STOCKS RISE

More and more teen-agers are developing the smoking habit despite increased lung cancer scares. Teen-Age Canada tells why some teen-agers take the first puff of a cigaret.

Teen-Age Canada

More Youths Than Ever Before Starting to Smoke

By JACK HUTTON

More Canadian teenagers than ever before are trying their first cigarette this fall.

And they are doing it in the face of medical reports from both sides of the Atlantic which warn they could be doing themselves harm.

That's not inevitable conclusion after sifting through letters which have trickled in ever since we mentioned smoking in this column last spring.

The evidence is even stronger than that. Not only are more Canadian teenagers smoking — but they are experimenting at earlier ages than most people imagine.

Whether or not one smokes is a personal choice of course. But I wonder how many teenagers have read anything about the effects of smoking. A lot wouldn't be smoking if they took the time to do that.

THE GANG

Robert Thomas, 16, of Halifax, spoke for a lot of others: "You ask why we start smoking?" he said. "The answer should be obvious. You aren't part of the gang unless you carry cigarettes."

"If I were being completely honest, I'd admit that I don't even enjoy smoking particularly," he continued. "But I suppose it's taken for a sign of maturity, a link with the grown-up world."

A Vancouver reader, who signed himself "Fair Play," had a different slant. "Can't pick on us?" he asked. "I keep reading that adults are worried about teenagers smoking. Why don't adults stop the habit?"

"Before adults point the finger at us, they should stop to consider themselves. It's ridiculously easy for young people to buy cigarettes, whether or not the law says we can. Sodsome will always sell to you.

"And how can adults speak with authority if they smoke, too. My parents have been telling me I shouldn't smoke since I tried my first cigarette at the age of 12. But I notice they both smoke a package a day."

SHOWING RISK

Several school boards across Canada have become worried enough about the smoking problem to investigate ways of letting students know what they are risking with smoking.

The Canadian Cancer Institute recently said it was now convinced that a link exists between smoking and cancer. This does not mean a smoker will get lung cancer. But his chances of doing so are much better than a non-smoker.

How to find out more about the effects of smoking. Well, if I were a teen-ager, I'd ask either the local library or grade teacher for a copy of Smoking and Health, a booklet which fairly sums up both sides of the question.

You'll find most of the medical evidence in the controversy presented matter-of-factly in the booklet. Don't worry about being exposed to a great mass of "scare statistics".

Kingston schools this year considered the booklet important enough to send to all key teachers in their city. And that's only the first step in their program to cut down teen-age smoking.

TEEN TYCOONS

Big business has entered the world of several teenage groups in Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia — even though the teen-agers know they're going out of business next May.

A group of teen-agers in Pointe Claire, Quebec, are the latest to join the Junior Achievement movement which encourages young people to try running their own businesses.

The Pointe Claire City Hall, on the outskirts of Montreal, has been turned into the home of 18 companies owned and operated by about 400 Lakeshore teen-agers.

The result: the teen-agers will be turning out various forms of metal work, wood work, ceramics and aluminum products. And they'll be electing boards of governors, selling stock, making the products and marketing them.

The first Junior Achievement experiment was tried in Windsor, Ont., 10 years ago. Since then it has spread through Alberta and British Columbia and has now entered Quebec.

Teen-agers in the clubs try to stick by strict business procedures, paying a nominal sum for rent, capital deposit and so on. Needless to say, they have to prepare a financial statement before paying shareholders a dividend each May.

Sunday School Lesson

Inspiration of the Bible

By ROY L. SMITH

In looking over some ancient Bibles a few years ago, I came upon a frontpiece illustration that was of very great interest.

A man was pictured, sitting at a huge desk with a big book in front of him, and a pen in his hand. At about and above his hand. All about and above out of the cloud an arm was thrust, the hand of the man who was writing.

It was the intent of the artist to show the way in which the Bible was originally written. According to the artist's concept of inspiration, the individual who wrote was in no way responsible for what he wrote. The actual hand of God moved the man's hand and compelled him to write what the divine author wanted should be written.

CONFUSION ABOUT INSPIRATION

Concerning the "inspiration" of the Bible there has been a very great deal of confusion. And the discovery of errors in the text would seem to make it impossible to believe in a word-by-word inspiration of the text as it now stands.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 6: "The Bible", Psalms 19:7-11; 119:33-40; Acts 8: 26-38; 2 Timothy 3:14-17; 2 Peter 1:16-21.

In the book of Matthew, for example, it is said that a prophecy of Jeremiah was fulfilled when Judas' 30 pieces of silver were appropriated with which to buy "the field of blood" (Matthew 27:8). Actually however, the quotation is from Zechariah and not from Zechariah 11:13). The original writer, probably had the reference correct but somewhere along the line the substitution of names took place. The correction, or the explanation, of such matters is the field in which the scholars are at work all the time.

Another instance of the difficulty is Paul's statement, in one of his letters, to the effect that he was not at all sure that the thing he was writing was dictated by the Holy Spirit but that he was sending it along just the same. By this he relieved the Holy Spirit of all responsibility for the things he said while in a doubtful mood.

MEANING OF INSPIRATION

The actual meaning of inspiration, is the word appears in the scriptures, is that which inspires. It is the power of the Holy Bible to put new heart back into men, to activate their consciences, to bring them to a state of repentance, and to increase in them the divine spirit of love — all this, and more, is the "inspiration of the Bible".

Perhaps it should be said at this point that when the author of the Epistle to Timothy declared that "all scripture was inspired", he was talking about the Old Testament, for no New Testament had, as yet, come into existence. Indeed, no member of the Christian Church would have known what the author meant, if he had included "the New Testament" in his commendation.

LET'S PUT IT TO TEST

If there be any doubt in any man's mind concerning the inspiration of the scripture, let him put the book (Old or New Testament) to a simple test.

Let him go apart into some quiet place and sit down with his Bible and begin reading. Let him read any one of the Gospels, or the Book of the Psalms will do to start with.

As he reads let him make no effort to believe. Let the whole matter of "inspiration" as a theory, be shoved into the back of his mind.

Let him read with a sensitive spirit, and an open mind. Suddenly, as he reads, a single sentence or a single phrase, will seem to leap out of the page and into his eyes in a peculiar fashion. It may be, almost, as if it were printed in italics, or black faced type.

Let him stand then in awe of the miracle, for that sentence which suddenly becomes vivid and tense is the very word the reader needs in the solving of some problem with which he is at the moment wrestling.

Or it may be that the sentence strikes deep in condemnation into the heart of the reader. Mark Twain is said to have commented on one occasion that it was not the thing in the Bible that he did not understand, that troubled him. Instead, it was the thing that was perfectly plain and very difficult.

Consumer Being Sliced Up "Like Piece of Cheese' Says Croll in Introducing Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll said Thursday the consumer "is this age of credit card mentality" is being "sliced up like a piece of cheese" and hardly realizes it.

He made the comment as he introduced a bill into the Senate which he said would help protect the "defenceless" consumer from the "harsh consequences of easy credit."

"There are too many cases where the consumer is led to pay a higher price than he is led to expect or can afford," he said.

The Ontario senator's bill, a revised version of ones introduced by him in the upper chamber on three previous occasions, would protect "the innocent, the unwary, the ignorant, the unsuspecting."

WANTS DEFINITION

The bill stipulates that persons extending consumer credit must disclose in writing to the consumer the total cost of the borrowed purchase price as a lump sum and in terms of simple annual interest.

Non-compliance would not result in criminal action but a credit financier who didn't disclose the required information would not be able to recover or retain any finance charges.

"The people I have in mind being charged them, it would make them less likely to accept temptations which would lead them to become hard up or destitute," Senator Croll said.

The consumer would be armed with information which would enable him to shop around for the best credit deal.

At present, however, the consumer was the most vulnerable and unorganized section of society. He was almost "defenceless against the onslaught on the pocket-book."

Senator Croll suggested there were unscrupulous vendors who sold goods on credit with no down payment and then made their profit out of the finance charges.

He described the revolving credit system as the "poor man's charge account." It enticed him to be permanently in debt to a vendor for a prize.

Medical Team Gives Service Bill of Health

By FRANK CHESLEY

LONDON (Reuters)—A team of eminent physicians gave the 14-year-old state - run medical service a clean bill of health but prescribed some organizational therapy in a report published today.

The 44-doctor committee, appointed four years ago to investigate the national health service, said the service was "basically sound" and noted "no other country has attempted to provide organized medical care on so comprehensive a scale."

The committee, headed by Sir Arthur Porritt, 62-year-old royal surgeon and former British Medical Association president, concluded that the NHS was "thoroughly sound though it needs some improving."

The health service, second largest item in the budget behind defence, now costs about $2,400,000,000 a year.

SUBJECT OF FRICTION'

The Porritt committee pointed out that government control of the nation's health services aroused political control, and unfortunately they had been used "for electioneering propaganda and become the subject of party friction."

The medical team said this was the most unfortunate aspect of the health service's first 14 years.

The committee's criticisms centred on administration and organization rather than service.

It was critical of the present breakdown of doctors into three divisions—family, hospital and public health — and recommended they be brought together under area health boards set up throughout the country.

It described its proposal for area health boards—"single administrative units based on areas specially designed for the purpose"—as the most radical organizational recommendation.

The 228-page report, containing some 240 conclusions and recommendations, rejected the idea of a public health corporation run on the lines of a private firm.

Canadian Seat Safety Belts Up to Standard

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Standards Association said Thursday in a statement that Canadian manufacturers of automobile seat belts are to be complimented for taking a leading part in preparation of a new high Canadian standard for such belts.

Desmond Dymond, managing engineer for the certification department of the CSA, was quoted Wednesday as saying in an interview that something had been found wrong with all belts manufactured in Canada when tested to CSA standards but that at least three manufacturers now have brought their belts up to CSA standards.

Thursday he said his comments had been taken out of context and that he had taken a positive approach to the new standards program to show that Canadian manufacturers were improving belts by voluntarily bringing them up to the high quality set out in a CSA seat belt standard announced Aug. 30.

Earlier, officials of Chrysler of Canada and General Motors denied Thursday that seat belts in their vehicles did not meet standards of the Canadian Standards Association and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

A Chrysler spokesman said, "All safety belts installed in Chrysler of Canada vehicles have passed the stringent specifications laid down by the CSA and the Society of Automotive Engineers."

A General Motors statement said their safety belts exceeded "by a considerable margin" requirements established recently by the CSA.

Caouette Brands New Evidence 'Public Lying'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress said Thursday there is "new evidence" that Deputy Social Credit Leader Real Caouette was friendly with Hitler and Nazi tactics but Mr. Caouette promptly branded the "evidence" as "public lying."

In a statement, the CLC referred to publication of an interview in the Polish-language Toronto newspaper The Alliancer which quoted Mr. Caouette as stating that Hitler exterminated only "useless" Jews.

The article was signed W. H. Makuch, Noranda, Que., and appeared in the Oct. 13 issue of the paper.

Asked whether he had been interviewed by Mr. Makuch, Mr. Caouette said: "I can't recall him."

A translation of the article in The Alliancer said Mr. Caouette Sept. 22 and interviewed him. It says Mr. Caouette stated Mr. Makuch a letter from Hjalmar Schacht whom he described as the former chief of the German economy.

TALK OF NAZIS

"Later, when began talking about the Nazi Germany, Caouette returned to the person of Schacht and to the economical reforms of the Nazis. How little does he know what was accomplished in Germany, is illustrated by the fact that Caouette declared that Schacht was a criminal despite his origin he was not liquidated by Hitler. When I expressed my astonishment at this, he stated that Hitler exterminated only 'useless Jews.'"

In a debate Thursday night before 400 University of Ottawa students, Lionel Chevrier, Liberal MP for Montreal Laurier, quoted another portion of the article by Mr. Makuch. Mr. Caouette again said he did not remember meeting Mr. Makuch.

Mr. Chevrier said Mr. Caouette was quoted as saying of National Social Credit Leader Thompson:

"He is not my leader. He is only my party colleague. He is too slow, but I'm a ball of fire."

MR. DIEFENBAKER

Mr. Caouette denied ever making such statements.

The CLC statement, issued in the name of Frank Hall, chairman of the CLC's human rights committee, said:

"Mr. Caouette and the Social Credit party in general that have they are anti-semitic and anti-labor.

"If Mr. Caouette continues this admiration for any facet of Hitler's administration . . . all decent democratic people will have no option but to look with suspicion and contempt on Mr. Caouette and the Social Credit movement."

The Alliancer letter, reported previously, followed a September interview in which Le Magazine Maclean quoted Mr. Caouette as saying his political heroes were Mussolini and Hitler.

CLAIMS MISQUOTED

During the uproar resulting from this earlier interview, Mr. Caouette said he had been incompletely quoted in the magazine. He said that in referring to Hitler and Mussolini he was thinking only of their job-creating programs during the pre-war depression years and not their politics.

The CLC explanation said that time, Mr. Caouette also said:

"There is no question for me of admiring their racial policies. The extermination of Jews for example, was anti-Christian. There is no question of following such policies."

Fluoridation Approved by Research Group

CHICAGO (AP)—A dental research group said Thursday that preliminary findings in a five-year study indicate that fluoridated water may not only help strengthen teeth but help bone formation as well.

The study conducted in the Aurora-Rockford, Ill., region by Dr. Harold E. Esgianes, Dr. Rudolph dePalma and Dr. Robert G. Keasi is reported in the November issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association.

The survey team chose Aurora, which has naturally fluoridated water, and Rockford, where the fluoride content is slight.

The study was made among 18- and 19-year-olds living in the towns most of their lives. Its results showed five times as much tooth loss and three times as many decayed and filled teeth among the Rockford youngsters as among the Aurorans.

Not one student in Rockford was without some amount of tooth decay. In Aurora, 13 per cent of those surveyed had perfect teeth, the researchers stated.

A greater amount of periodontal (gum) disease, including disease of the jaw structure, was found among the Rockford group. The research team said this seems to indicate that fluorides may be essential for good bone formation.

A second report in the dental journal says fluoridation saved the teeth of more than 22,000 children from decay and cut the rate of tooth decay in half during a 15 - year program in Evanston, Ill.

This report was made by Dr. Roy Blayney, an emeritus professor of dental surgery at the University of Chicago.

Western Allies Appear United Over Latest Crisis

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"For a change, all the Western allies appear resolved on a single policy, without bickering and without reservations, in dealing with the latest world danger area.

"All their support has been thrown on the side of India in the India-China war of the high passes. There doesn't seem to be even any disposition to regard the mountain clash as a case for mediation before a Chinese withdrawal.

It might appear only natural that the West should come to the aid of India in such a situation. But some Western nations have had no particular love for India and have regarded that country's policy of trying to get along with Communist China as insane.

PECULIAR ASPECT

A peculiar aspect of the situation, at least to Canadian eyes, is that Prime Minister Nehru of India, though dismissive of V. K. Krishna Menon as defence minister, has retained him in the cabinet as defence production minister.

In this post, Menon will be dealing with purchasing including Canada and the United States, which have offered military aid to India to combat the Chinese Communists.

Neither Canada nor the U.S. has a very high opinion of Menon, who has tangled with External Affairs Minister Green more than one occasion at the United Nations and at the Geneva disarmament conference on the neutrality of Laos.

RELATIONS ERODED

The close relationship between Canada and India which existed in the days of Prime Minister St. Laurent's government—the Canadian and Indian prime ministers frequently exchanged letters on the world situation—have been partly eroded in recent years.

There are several reasons for this. One was the Indian invasion of Goa. Another was Menon's harsh criticism of Canadian resolutions in the UN. Canadian officials didn't object particularly to the substance of Menon's criticism but to its tone.

Only Wednesday in the UN, India led the criticism against a Canadian resolution on ending of nuclear tests.

However, all these points of friction have been brushed aside in Ottawa by the objective of getting needed arms to India as quickly as possible. Canadian support has been speedy and complete.

PLANES OFFERED

Canada has offered transport planes, artillery, anti-tank bazookas, ammunition and wireless sets to India and it is only remains for India to say what it can use before the equipment is on the way.

There appears no chance of Canada trying to intervene diplomatically in the India-China dispute, Canada doesn't recognize Communist China diplomatically and therefore can't talk to her officially.

One worry in Ottawa—added to a host of others of recent days—is that the U.S. and Russia might be drawn into the India-China border war.

The U.S. was quick to offer military aid to India. Despite differences between China and Russia, the latter might thus feel impelled to do the same for her Communist ally. The U.S. turn might lead to direct involvement by the U.S. and Russia and expansion of the clash.

Hungry People Queue Up for Slice of Beef

TORONTO (CP) — Lost children bellowed, bands paraded, mum-majorettes high - stepped, searchlights played and 1,000 hungry people queued for two hours in the cold here Thursday night—just for a slice of English beef.

The British Travel Association conducted a raucous, trafficsnarling ox-roast in a half-completed building on Bloor Street to highlight its Visit Britain Week celebrations.

British master cook Ben Bigg of London and a team of local chefs had been guarding the sizzling 1,000-pound ox for nearly 24 hours.

The beef was scheduled to be served at 7 p.m., but scheduled television cameras and overwhelming crowds delayed it an hour.

Even then the public had to wait for Mayor Nathan Phillips to guided to the ox roast by the Toronto Uster accordion band, to sample the first slice.

Then the hungry crowd broke the barrier and charged the five chefs to hog fight for the scraps.

Earlier Thursday the British Travel Association's office on Bloor Street was officially opened by Canadian Commissioner Viscount Amory.

Lewiston Bridge Is Opened For Traffic

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The Lewiston-Queenston bridge opened for traffic Thursday two years after joint Canada-United States project was started.

The 270-foot high bridge, between Queenston, Ont., and Lewiston, N.Y. spans the Niagara River and gorge six miles north of here.

It has two 25-foot traffic lanes separated by a grass island and its 1,600-foot deck is supported by a 1,000-foot steel arch On one side is an eight-foot pedestrian walk.

The bridge connects the Queen Elizabeth Way, via Highway 405, and the New York State Thruway. The Highway 405 link will be completed next June.

65 Municipalities Get Recount on Census and Increase Their Population

OTTAWA (CP)—A number of Canadian municipalities, which refused to believe they were as small as the officials said they were, have won a battle with the census-takers.

Sixty-five municipalities registered complaints with the government about the accuracy of the 1961 preliminary census returns and got a recount.

As a result cities such as Windsor, Ont. have a bigger official population today.

The final count, made after various types of investigation, was included in a written return tabled Thursday in the Commons.

Information supplied by the bureau of statistics showed that the 65 dissenting municipalities formed 1.4 per cent of 4,546 municipalities polled in the census. In the 1956 census complaints were received from 135 or three per cent of the municipalities. The population totals for these Ontario municipalities which underwent the investigation along with the preliminary census count bracketed:

Windsor, 114,387 (113,036), Sandwich East, 21,819 (21,253), Kitchener, 74,485 (73,811), Chatham, 29,826 (27,467).

IS MOST COMPLETE

"Final results of the 1961 census indicate that this was a most complete enumeration of Canada's population, and quite possibly the most complete ever taken due to new and more intensive field checking operations employed before the returns were ever received in the census offices," the bureau said.

"There is no evidence to indicate that the final counts of the 1961 census contain any serious deficiencies."

In the investigations, the bureau used a new checking method by which the post office checked the addresses of every household included in the census by the enumerators, and advised the bureau of any addresses missed.

In Chatham, a compilation error accounted for an addition of 1,936 persons but in most cases changes resulted from routine adjustments such as for persons enumerated away from their usual homes or "closed" dwellings.

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Fisher is a giant of a man who would be a giant in any age since his election to parliament in 1957 he has become the self-appointed historian, social commentator, political columnist and New Democratic MP has been writing the humanistic judgments of what might be called "What's wrong with the other fellow's political party."

Chapter one dealt, harshly and inaccurately in the eyes of former Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Canadian Liberalism. He opened up chapter two — the Conservative party—this week and also gave a brief preview of chapter three, the Social Credit party.

To Mr. Fisher, Liberalism means striving to uphold individual rights, to enlarge the scope of individuality, to relate these things to society as a whole and to be suspicious of anything which does not contribute to these aims.

Liberals, he said, accept change, including detail of public polls, and try to guide or anticipate change through legislation and a positive approach.

'SET TONE OF PARTY'

However, Mr. Fisher argues, the Liberal party today has tended from this to a sort of contemplation of its own navel. It worshipped administrative genius in campaigning on the theme "We know how to govern."

"The senior civil service caste, or the mandarin caste if you prefer, has been allowed to set the tone of the party, and this means worship of the administrative expertise of Mike Pearson and Dick Bud and Walter."

In Mr. Fisher's view, the Liberal party's present philosophy is that of Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, former external affairs minister and longtime career diplomat; J. W. Pickersgill, former cilservant who became more than a senior civil servant as secretary of the cabinet; Charles M. (Chuck) Drury, former defence minister and now an MP; another freshman MP, Walter Gordon, wartime dollar-a-year man and head of a royal commission appointed by the previous Liberal government to survey Canada's economic prospects.

From his analysis earlier this month of the Liberals, Mr. Fisher moved naturally to the Conservatives and their performance before and since the election in October, which reduced them from a majority to a minority government.

VOTERS ALIENATED

First, he argued, the Conservatives bragged so much about their things to which they were proudest in their term in office that the voters were alienated. On top of that, he said, Prime Minister Diefenbaker displayed vital weaknesses.

Mr. Diefenbaker was unable to trust his own government and administration but lacked the courage to dismiss some of them. He had strong suspicions of experts, intellectuals or academics and thus lost touch with the "thinkers."

He had a profound distrust of the communists and therefore had not tried to lay "the abilities that lie within the corporate soul of Canada."

The Fisher remedy: Stop "the long record of boasting," and acknowledge the voters' partially rejected the Conservatives in June. At the same time, "give to us and the country a more precise, more realistic policy. . ."

'DISSIPATE APPROVAL'

"All the indications that we have had so far are that they will go on projecting the same kind of record as was available in their prospectus record before. This is going the way of disaster.

"This will be one of the great, sad things in Canadian history, that a party could come surging in here with the greatest approval any party ever had any leader ever had, and dissipate it in five short years."

Having disposed of the Conservative in his own satisfaction, Mr. Fisher made a plea for more discussion of party philosophy, principles and ideas, promising his next instalment would be related to Social Credit.

Double Talk Art of Saying What You Do Not Mean

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How's your double-talk? A lil' rusty? Chances are, it is.

Double-talk, you will remember, is the art of saying what you don't mean.

Here are a few examples—plus their literal translations —to help you get back into the swing of things:

"Boss, I think you've got a wonderful idea there." (But why did you turn it down when I suggested it to you six months ago?)

"After all, I believe in the old motto, 'live and let live'." (So please don't drop dead—suffer!)

"Darling, you don't mean to tell me you wallpapered this room all by yourself!" (It looks like you'd been helped by the Marx brothers and the Three Stooges.)

"Well, naturally men with shoulders as wide as yours are a bit hard to fit." (Particularly when their stomach is even wider.)

SAY WHEN

"Just tell me when." (I've already poured in three jiggers—do you want the whole bottle?)

"You mean you're really wearing one of those new bichelieu wigs? I'd never have guessed it." (I felt sure it was a mop.)

"The way I look at it, every man is entitled to his own opinion." (Even an idiot like you.)

"Ooh, don't tell me my glass is empty already." (What kind of a cocktail party is this? They pour liquor like it was glue.)

"For a third grade pupil, your little boy certainly shows a fine background." (I guess those two years he spent in the second grade did him some good, after all.)

"I hope you found the meal satisfactory, sir." (I'll bet this jerk never left more than a dime tip in his life.)

"Here, lady, take my seat." (I'm getting off at the next stop anyway.)

NAVY TURNS TO PLASTICS — The Canadian Navy has tested and adopted three fiberglass-plastic boats in a move to replace traditionally wooden naval whaleboats. One is this 13-foot Boston whaler, shown undergoing tests in Halifax harbor. Used aboard minesweepers as a messenger and tender boat, it has a concave flare on each side of the true bow to give a three-bow appearance. (CP Photo).

Navy Discovers Fiberglass, Plastic Better Than Wood For Small-boat Contruction

By ED WALTERS

HALIFA X(CP) — The navy, The fibreglass whaler, al has discovered what some ready in use aboard some ships yachtsmen have been saying has largely retained its former for a long time—fibreglass and design. Main difference in the plastic are better than wood for 27-foot craft is a stern well to small-boat construction. accommodate an outboard mo tor.

Naval whaleboats, tradition- THREE BOWS ally wooden craft, are appearing with smooth skins and swinging lightly at the davit - heads. Flitting dispatch boats have become more like pleasure speeders, and an odd craft called the Boston whaler has appeared.

Last year the navy adopted a new small-boat policy that gave it a chance to experiment with fibreglass - plastic construction and outboard motors.

Naval architects took a long, hard look at what the manufacturers had to offer and decided to test four types. Three have been approved and a fourth is still undergoing fleet tests.

The second type, a 27-foot workboat with a 45-horsepower diesel engine, resembles an ecgoing convertible. Collapsible canopies are fitted over the forward and after passenger compartments. The midships section is permanently enclosed, providing protection for six to eight passengers and a shelter for the coxswain, who controls the craft.

Minesweepers include a boat that appears to have three bows. It is a 13-foot model called a Boston whaler, used mainly as a tender, or messenger, boat. On each side of the true bow is a concave flare that gives it the appearance of having three bows.

Two types of dispatch boats are still being tested. One is a 16-foot runabout with a hydroplane hull and the other is a 14 - foot speedboat. Both are powered by twin 18-horsepower outboards.

When the navy decides which type of dispatch boat it wants, about 50 orders will go out to commercial firms.

Although plastic and fibreglass boats initially cost more than wooden ones, maintenance expenses are low. Damage to plastic craft usually can be patched with a few layers of fibreglass, while wooden-boat repairs always require the services of a skilled, and expensive, shipwright.

DON'T NEED PAINT

The navy says that while its plastic boats are sometimes painted for the sake of appearance, they don't need paint for protection. Fibreglass shows no sign of rot and so far has withstood the corrosive action of seawater.

A number of 14-foot plastic sailing dinghies have also been custom-built for the navy along the lines of the wooden dinghy. However, the navy plans to examine plastic sailing dinghies offered by commercial firms in stead of paying extra for having the boats turned out from special moulds of naval design.

Commercial companies are building most of the navy's fibreglass boats, some from navy-designed moulds. Sixteen whalers are under construction at the Atlantic Bridge Company in Lunenberg, N.S. Others are being built in British Columbia shipyards.

The first plastic used in the navy was for gunshields. Armor-penetrating shells had rendered steel gunshields impractical but protection of gun-mount fittings from seawater and dirt was still necessary, so the navy began experimenting with plastics. Now all new ships are fitted with plastic gunshields and older ships are getting them as they go into refit.

Another possible advantage is that in a nuclear war radioactive water could be more easily washed off plastic gunshields. Steel could become radioactive.

Norway's Whaling Fleet Not Likely to Break Even

By GUNNARD J. BORREVIK

SANDEFJORD, Norway (AP) — Norway's whaling fleet, once the largest in the world, has left for a new Antarctic whaling season which may be its last.

Four expeditions went out, compared with seven last year. The total crew is 1,727 men against 3,431 in 1961.

Britain, another traditional whaling nation, is sending only one expedition this year. The three other nations taking part in the Antarctic whaling season —the Netherlands, the Soviet Union and Japan—are sending a total of 12 expeditions, the same as last year.

In this Norwegian whaling centre it is being said that the expeditions are unlikely break even. But some new ideas and methods will be tried in the hope that they may help keep the ships working while awaiting better times.

For years experts have warned that the uncontrolled hunting of whales was fast killing off the stock.

The whaling nations agreed some years ago on a total quota of whales to be caught, but it was too late.

Rector Johan Rund of Oslo University, a marine biologist, said the Antarctic in the last few years was the scene of "the most bloody reckless hunting in the history of the world."

WORSE THAN BISON

"Let us forget our indignation over the extermination of the North American bison," he said. "That was nothing compared with what has happened in the Antarctic."

The overworking of the hunting grounds has done most harm to the stock of blue whales, the most sought-after type for both edible oil and meat. In the early 1930s blues made up 75 per cent of the catch. In 1955-56 they were only five per cent.

Parallel with the depletion of the stock, a slump has developed in the markets for conventional products from the industry. In the last few years the price of whale oil has fallen from the equivalent of $104 a barrel to $65 or even less.

The price drop has been caused by the appearance of large quantities of cheap fish oils from Latin-American countries, particularly Peru, and an increase in the production of vegetable oils.

The sperm whale has not previously been systematically hunted. This whale is more scarce than other kinds, and it is not edible. But qualities of great heat resistance makes its oil a valuable lubricant in modern machinery. The price of this type of oil has been steady, if not increasing.

This year, the entire production of meat has been sold in advance. Japanese experts will work on board two of the Norwegian expeditions preparing the meat for the Japanese refrigeration ships which will take it to Japan.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Some years ago when Wren Blair was breaking himself in as the Whirling Dervish of senior "A" hockey I wrote a column in which I described the Whitby hockey impresario as "ebullient."

The economy-size blonde with the wandering forelock was at the time breaking away from the mismatch-run of hockey mentors and drawing sports writers' attention with his antics on the bench, and a biting vocabulary, especially sippy when directed at referees or linesmen or both.

His paraphrased theme at that time—and I don't think it has changed—was: "My gripes and groans won't break their bones, and headlines will never hurt me."

Shortly after the aforementioned column was written I met Wren at a McFarlands-Dunlops hockey hassle in the small economy size press box in the...ditto Whitby arena.

During a lull in his speeches from the press-box throne and their accompanying semaphore exercises, he fixed me with an icy glare. "You," he gritted, "have a libel suit on your hands."

"How much?" I asked as innocently as possible.

"Never mind how much," he replied. "What's the big idea of calling me 'ebullient'?"

I suggested to him that perhaps he was not conversant with the dictionary meaning of the word; that the first four letters after taking away the initial "e" did not form my opinion of his excentiations of the officials.

Later in the game after what he termed a "typical Jesse James decision" had sent a sinning Dunlop to the penalty-box purgatory, he removed a fairly expensive fedora from his blonde waves, hurled it to the press-box floor and on it executed the first "twist" performance in organized hockey.

Later, I learned, it was one of five skullpieces that met a similar fate, not to mention a few that were hurled across the ice to be promptly hamburged by opposing players' hockey sticks.

Those of us who were connected with senior "A" hockey back in the halcyon days of the golden fifties, began to look upon the Blairian burlesques as part of the hockey picture. Wren was good for at least one uproarious performance per game, win, lose or draw.

He always travelled light because he never knew when another "thin-skinned" official would decbench him or go to the extreme and arrange it so he could hear the rest of the game over an outside-the-arena radio.

Since those days the likeable Wren has gone places...in hockey-wise. Today he manages the Kingston Frontenacs, the Clinton Comets and Oshawa junior "A's"... He works with Hap Emms and his Niagara Falls Flyers and a western pro club.

But the Blairian leopard hasn't changed its verbal spots. Any official who errs in the Blair opinion whether he be pro, semi-pro, junior or senior rating, is fair game for his tonsilar guns.

He gave a regular performance in front of Toronto sports writers the other night and drew a columnar blast. Wren was kicked off the bench for blasting the referee and the press box boys weren't exactly impressed.

Brothers, you ain't seen nuthin' yet!

Clear Up Middle Muddle

Tiger Ready For Pender

LONDON (AP)—Dick Tiger, Nigeria's recently crowned World Boxing Association middleweight champion, said Thursday he'd like to fight Paul Pender and clear up the middleweight title muddle.

"First, I am looking forward to a return bout with Gene Fullmer who gave me the chance at the WBA title," said Tiger at a welcome back party in London. "If I beat Fullmer again or if he decides to retire and not fight me, then I'd like to take on Pender."

Tiger, in addition to being the WBA champion, is the British Empire champion.

Some Minors Showed Fan Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eleven of 20 minor baseball leagues, and 74 of 134 clubs, showed an attendance increase this year over 1961, president George M. Trautman said Thursday.

The minor league chief credited "intensified promotional efforts, better quality of play and a comparative improvement in weather in most sections" for the boost.

Trautman said total paid attendance was 10,047,568 for 20 leagues this season, against 10,-100,986 for 22 last year.

"That represents a decline of 53,418 which actually is not a loss considering that three leagues which did not operate this year had a total attendance of 1,129,672 a year ago."

The International League led the way with a paid gate of 1,567,471, up 178,811 over 1961. The Mexican League was second with 1,543,248, up 156,290, and the Pacific Coast League third with 1,067,242, a drop of 288,648 from the 1961 figure.

Blank Blues; Leafs, Hawks Win ★★★★★

Sawchuk, Wings Score Third Shutout

By BRUCE STOVEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Terrance Gordon Sawchuk, known as Terry to the public and Uke to his team-mates, proved again Thursday night he's the hottest player at the National Hockey League's hottest team.

Sawchuk recorded his third shutout in eight games as Detroit Red Wings remained unbeaten this season with a 4-0 blanking of New York Rangers.

The 32-year-old Sawchuk, a Winnipeg native of Ukrainian descent, has allowed only nine goals this year for a 1.13 goals-against average. His shutout gives him 81 in his NHL career, only three short of the regular-season record held by George Hainsworth. He has registered 10 more in Stanley Cup playoffs for an over-all total of 101.

The Wings, picked by the pre-season pundits as a top contender for last place, now have a record of six wins and two ties for 14 points.

Only one point behind are Chicago Black Hawks, who took a 4-2 win over Boston Bruins Thursday night on third-period goals by rookie Chico Maki and sparkplug Stan Mikita.

MIKITA SPARKS HAWKS

Hawks have played 11 games—three more than Detroit—but they have run up an unbeaten string of five since Mikita began playing after an early-season injury.

In Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs revenged a home-ice loss to Canadiens Wednesday night by dumping the NHL champions 3-1.

By drubbing the Montrealers, the Leafs took their first win in Montreal since Feb. 23, 1961.

The win snapped a three-game losing streak for the fourth-place Leafs, who have nine points, one less than third-place Montreal and four more than New York and Boston, who remain tied in the league cellar.

In Detroit, Norm Ullman gave Wings a 1-0 lead by the end of the first period, converting a Detroit was short - handed. Wings got a second-period goal by rookie Larry Jeffery and Bruce MacGregor and hardrock defenceman Howie Young scored in the third.

RANGER ROOKIE HURT

Ranger rookie Red Gilbert required 10 stitches to close a gash in the back of his head after being checked by Detroit defenceman Pete Goegan. Doctors said he had a concussion, but his skull wasn't fractured.

Detroit's astounding success is credited to the top conditioning of the Wings and Sawchuk's continuing brilliance.

This year the 32-year-veteran began wearing a face mask—similar to the one worn by Montreal's Jacques Plante, and it doesn't seem to have hurt his goaling a bit.

Chicago was outshot 34-30 in its game in Boston but a sharp performance by Chicago netminder Glenn Hall and Maki's breakaway goal made the difference.

Maki, a 23-year-old right winger, was in 18 games with the Hawks last season, playing the rest of the time with Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League.

BIG LINE SHUFFLED

He was shuffled by coach Rudy Pilous onto a line with centre Red Hay and utility man Reg Fleming. Hay usually plays on the slumping "million-dollar line" between Bobby Hull and Murray Balfour.

Boston scored the first goal just a minute after the game opened on a short blast by Johnny Bucyk. Chicago's Ken Murphy and Boston's Wayne Hicks also scored in the first period.

Chicago tied the score in the second when Hay banged in his fifth goal of the season.

Maki picked the lower left-hand corner against rookie goalie Ed Johnston on his third-period breakaway with less than seven minutes left. Hay set up Mikita for the insurance goal three minutes later.

In Toronto's win at Montreal, the first period was fairly even. The Leafs' playing member of Parliament, Red Kelly, opened scoring and Gilles Tremblay of Canadiens scored his sixth goal of the season—the highest total in the league—to tie the score.

LEAFS PULL AWAY

But Leafs held it all over Canadiens in the last two periods and only sparkling saves by rookie goaltender Cesare Maniago kept them from piling up a more lopsided score.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach said after the game his players had started to work together for the first time in the last four games.

Montreal coach Toe Blake admitted his players had been outhustled, but added several of them — he mentioned Boom Boom Geoffrion and Henri Richard—had given all-out efforts in Toronto Wednesday night and were fired as a result.

"They didn't have much left by the time the third period came around," he said.

Montreal centre Jean Beliveau received a gash over the left eye when hit by the puck in the second period. He sat out the remainder of the game, but said afterward the gash had only required a stitch to close and he would return Saturday when the Canadiens entertain New York, while Leafs are at home to the unbeaten Red Wings.

Japanese Is Boxer Of Month

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Japan's Fighting Harada, 25-year-old world flyweight champion, was named boxer of the month by the World Boxing Association today for his knockout victory over Thailand's Pone Kingpetch in their title bout Oct. 10.

Tony Petronella, chairman of the WBA's rating committee, said Harada shaded Nigeria's Dick Tiger for the honor. Tiger dethroned Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, for the middleweight crown. No Canadians made the listings.

Porkies Back In Fold

Kapuskasing Favored In North

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kapuskasing Gibs, Ontario's defending senior A hockey champs, are solid favorites to repeat as champions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior League which opens tonight at Kapuskasing.

The Kape, who have lost only one player from last year's lineup, defeated Windsor Bulldogs to win the Ontario title last season then lost to Montreal Olympics in the Eastern Canada finals.

They play host to Abitibi Eskimos tonight and meet Timmins Flyers at the McIntyre Arean Sunday. In another Sunday game, South Porcupine Porkies, the league's fourth team, plays at Abitibi.

PORKIES RETURN

Porkies are returning to hockey this year after a three-year absence. They replace Rouyn - Noranda Alouettes who have moved to the new North-western Quebec league.

Kapuskasing lost only Ted McCaskill this season but picked up homebrew Pete Beland and Wayne Woodess from the Ottawa district. McCaskill has signed with Nashville in the United States Eastern League.

Abitibi appeared to be in bad shape a few days ago when it was announced that their two perennial stars, Doug Mohns and Lou LaBelle, would not be back this year.

But, Beland showed good news when three Kirkland Lake players indicated they would be signing.

Billy Colvin and Joe Howes, both with Rouyn-Noranda last season, and Hank Green of Port Arthur, a star last year with Queen's University Golden Gaels, are expected to bolster the Abitibi squad.

Nashville hit Timmins much harder than Kapuskasing. The U.S. team has taken playing-coach Johnny McLellan, Frank Mahder and Lloyd McKay, all regulars last season.

The Flyers have tried to patch the holes by importing four former junior B players from the Timmins McFarlands. Larry Mavety, Gary Goyer, Moe Hunter and goaltender Billy Monsom.

Another newcomer expected to sign is time-keeper Jim Local by Mike Scott, a former professional with Calgary Stampeders of the Western League.

Porkies, like any new club, are an unknown quantity. They'll be young and surge, but their fate seems to hinge on whether Timmins will give relakes in four players.

But all need releases from Timmins.

Mounties Didn't Know Their Ducks

CHATHAM (CP) — Two Windsor hunters were given minimum fines Saturday for shooting protected redhead and ringneck ducks after they convinced the magistrate that four RCMP officers had as much difficulty identifying the birds as they had.

John Gilchrist and Albert Gaudette were fined $10 under a regulation introduced this fall that forbids killing of the two breeds.

Gilchrist said the officers had to seek expert opinion before deciding the ducks were redheads and canvasbacks.

"They were looking at them at arm's length," he added. "We were shooting them in flight."

Grey Cup Telecast

Networks Fail To Agree

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) said in the Commons Thursday he has been told that negotiations between the CBC and CTV networks on the Grey Cup telecast have broken down.

He asked Bible Secretary Halpenny for a report on the situation but Mr. Halpenny, who speaks in the Commons for the CBC, said he had nothing to report.

The Board of Broadcast Governors has told the networks to come to some agreement for full cross-country coverage of the Dec. 1 football classic. The BBG said it plans a closed meeting Nov. 7 to discuss action on the matter if the agreement has not been reached by that date.

TRADE PLAYERS

Habs Tie Red Wings 2-2

HAMILTON (CP)—Montreal junior Canadiens overcame a two-goal deficit to gain a 3-3 tie with Hamilton Red Wings in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game here Thursday night.

The result enabled the baby Habs to maintain their two point lead over the second place Wings.

It was an uphill battle for the visitors until Dennis Treslder fired the tying goal with slightly more than two minutes remaining.

Wings could have built up a lead in the first 40 minutes but for spectacular work by netminder Jocelyn Cardinal.

John Gofton put Wings ahead while the visitors were shy two men at 3.35 of the opening period. Pit Martin made it 2-0 after 30 seconds of the middle frame. Norm Dennis narrowed the lead to one goal midway through the second.

Wings drew eight of the 14 minor penalties. Hamilton's Tony Corgan and Montreal's Bill Inglis received majors after a second period scrap.

In Brampton, Oshawa Generals earned their first point in the Metro Junior A Hockey League here when they came from behind twice to tie Brampton 7-7.

Veteran Driver At 17

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Bev Kingston is only 17 but he looks at least 25 and drives horses like a veteran of 40.

Kingston, whose home is Port Elgin, ont., is the youngest active driver campaigning at London's Western Fair Raceway. Despite this being his first year as a regular reinsman, he's turned in some of the best and most spectacular drives in the fall sulky session.

The husky five-foot-ten blonde youngster sat in a sulky for the first time when he was eight, parked in the lap of his father Gordon Kingston. At 12 he was handling a horse by himself.

He made his debut as a driver at Toronto's Old Woodbine spring meet and has been at it with a modicum of success ever since.

"I figure I've had about 100 races since I started at Woodbine," he says. "I've won about 11 races," he says.

The 11 victories include five at the London track where he is rapidly gaining the admiration and respect of older horsemen. His father has been racing horses. "as long as I can remember," according to Bev. Gordon Kingston is still driving in London.

WON DERBY

Bev's debut at Old Woodbine was a winning one. "I drove Pride's Crossing that night," he recalls, "and it sure was a good feeling to win with my first horse."

His forte is coming from behind to win. "That's the way I like to do it," he says.

A driver has to be a pretty accurate judge of time and pace to win those late finishes. Bev Kingston, despite his youth, appears able to do just that.

PLEAD FOR JUSTICE

Big Payoff At Rideau

OTTAWA (CP) — It was a night of big payoffs Thursday night at Rideau Carleton Raceway where the weather was fine after fog the previous night and snow the night before.

Gobbler's Knob, driven by Claude DesJardins won the fifth race and rewarded his backers with a nifty $69.10 to win. Place and show payments were $18.30 and $10.20.

Another big payoff came in the seventh when Bobby Sage, a nine-year-old black gelding came in to pay $54.00, $10.60 and $6.60.

Giants Boss Says

Cepeda Not Trade Bait

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Horace Stoneham, San Francisco Giants' president, said Thursday there is no truth to rumors the baseball Giants may trade slugging first baseman Orlando Cepeda.

Stoneham said: "We have never once discussed trading Cepeda and we certainly haven't any plans to deal him off to another club."

When Cepeda's bat slumped during the last two months of the 1962 season, he was removed to be trade bait if the Giants could obtain an established starting pitcher.

The rumors picked up again when an extensive eye check showed Cepeda did not have a cataract as had been feared.

Bulldogs Defeat Tigers 9-7

KITCHENER (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers 9-7 here Thursday night in the first game of the local schedule.

It was the second straight win for the Bulldogs, both on the road.

The Tigers played a dismal first period in which they allowed the Bulldogs a 6-1 lead.

Bob Brown, Derek Holmes and Tommy Walker all scored twice for the winners. Jack Castello, Irwin Gross and Jean Marc Asselin got the singles.

Horse Sale Sets Record

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Five prize yearlings bred by Hanover Farms of Hanover, Pa., were sold for between $40,000 and $55,000 Thursday.

A second was set for final day's trading when 161 yearling trotters and pacers were sold for $1,528,250, an average of $7,691, surpassing last year's previous high of $6,564.

For four days of selling the average for 722 horses was $3,869, topping the record set in 1960 of $3,851. Total sales for four days were $2,793,250.

Two Hanover yearling fillies brought $40,000 each, equalling record prices for their sex. Kismet Hanover was bought by Allwood Stables, Far Hills, N.J., and Beauty Hanover was purchased by John Simpson, Orlando, Fla.

Cleo Young of Timmonsville, S.C., paid top price of the day, $55,000, for Baron Hanover.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A spill on the first turn in the third race sent reinsmen Dune Campbell and Pat Crowe tumbling onto the Western Fair Raceway track Thursday night before 3,204 fans.

Carrie Lee Chief, driven by Campbell, and Miss Amber Hal S, piloted by Crowe, collided shortly after the start of the race. Campbell's reins wrapped around his leg, but he managed to keep his horse from bolting. Campbell returned in the seventh race to steer his Argyll Tommy to second place, while Crowe came back in the ninth to take third spot with Brother Paul C.

Gingerbread Man, owned by Stanley Dunham of Point Edward, registered his fifth victory of the season here, winning the fifth race, a $500 C-3 pace, by three lengths in 2:11, paying $4.10 to win.

Gammie Brooke, an 11-year-old gelding owned by Frank Carnahan of Owen Sound, took the fifth race, a half-mile pace, in 1:03 1-5, paying $8.10.

Win District COSSA Title

Quinte Seniors Champs

Quinte Secondary School completed an undefeated schedule yesterday to win the Bay of Quinte COSSA Senior football championship, defeating Trenton 19-6 on a late - game surge.

Quinte finished the schedule with a perfect 6-0 record and will meet either Peterborough Collegiate Institute or Adam Scott for the COSSA title next Friday. PCI and Adam Scott are clashing for the Lakeshore crown this weekend. It was not known where next Friday's titular game will be played.

Trenton jumped into a 6-0 lead early in the game yesterday and held that margin until the third quarter. Trenton's major came on a pass interception on the Quinte ten-yard line.

The winners used a strong ground attack to overtake Trenton, scoring three majors on ground plays from about 20 yards out after moving the ball up field on four or five plays in each instance.

Les Hall, the league's leading scorer this season, led the attack with two touchdowns. Ted Butcher counted the other one while a fourth QSS major, scored by Campbell, was called back.

OPERATION A SUCCESS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins outfielder Jim Lemon apparently has undergone a successful operation to repair a damaged shoulder that knocked him out of almost all the 1962 American Baseball League season. Lemon was released Thursday from a Washington, D.C. hospital after an operation.

The Tracks

Carrying 111 pounds including jockey Sam McComb, Blue Light won his second victory in 19 starts this year and paid $42.50. The winner's share of $1,755 brought his season's earnings to $7,325. In 1961 his earnings were $52,965.

RIGGIN TO HORNETS

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League Thursday ordered spare goalie Dennis Riggino to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League for one game. Riggin will fill in for the Hornets' injured Hank Bassen in the Red Wing farm club's game with Providence Saturday.

Tigers, Riders In Hamilton

Larks, Argos Hassle Has Spotlight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Eastern Football Conference schedule grinds to its wacky end this weekend with all eyes focused on the finale to the beckward battle between Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes.

The Argos and Als meet in a showdown at Montreal Saturday which will decide which team earns the right to take part in the playoffs.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats, who have already clinched first place, and Ottawa Rough Riders, assured of second, play the season's final game at Hamilton Sunday. It won't affect the standings.

Toronto and Montreal haven't been building up to this game, but rather, slipping into it. Both teams have had chances to move ahead of one another at various times during the schedule — but both blew them.

Argos, with a thrilling win over Ottawa in the final 10 seconds of a game at Toronto last Saturday, managed to get within striking distance even though they lost their first five starts this season.

Interest is high in both cities and Toronto fans will take the first special football train in several years to back up their Argos.

The interest in Montreal is centred more on the condition of Molson Stadium than on the condition of the Alouettes.

The field was turned into a veritable quagmire by two days of snow and rain this week. Helicopters, huge electric heaters and peat moss have been used in an attempt to improve its condition. The field was still covered Thursday by two inches of water.

Argo coach Nobby Wirkowski will take all 15 United States imports to Montreal but won't decide until Saturday which 13 he will play.

Wirkowski feels the field, if still wet, will help a passer more than it will a runner. This should aid Argos and quarterback Sandy Stephens is rated a good passer.

The second- and third-place clash in a sudden-death semi-final playoff Saturday, Nov. 10, then meet the Tivoli in a two-game, total-points final Saturday, Nov. 17, and Saturday, Nov. 24. The eastern champion goes against the West in the Grey Cup in Toronto Saturday, Dec. 1.

In the west, the Western Football Conference regular schedule winds up Saturday with second place and a batch of individual titles and records at stake.

Saskatchewan Roughriders meet British Columbia Lions in Vancouver in a bid to overhaul Calgary Stampeders in second place.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with first place tucked away, play host to their old and honored rivals of a decade, Edmonton Eskimos.

The last-place Eskimos and the Lions are both out of the playoffs. Calgary, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg are in.

But rushing, passing, pass-catching and scoring titles or records hang on the outcome of the two games.

B.C. quarterback Joe Kapp needs 275 more yards passing to surpass the single-season record of 3,274 yards set by Frank Tripucka with Saskatchewan.

The Winnipeg game pits Edmonton end Tommy-Joe Coffey against Gerry James of Winnipeg to decide the conference scoring title.

Coffee has 118 points and James 110. Coffey is also out to break the single-season pass reception record of 68 jointly held by Grant and Winnipeg end Ernie Pitts. Coffey has 63 receptions.

Juniors Lose 25-0

Moira Srs. Trim BCI

The Moira Seniors dumped BCI 23-13 while in the junior tilt, RCIVS thumped their opponents 25-0.

Bill Moffatt gave Moira an early lead in the senior game, scoring a major on a 90-yard pass and run play. It was converted. BCI came back with a touchback and Bob Ridley ran 30-yards for a touchdown to tie it 7-7.

BCI went ahead before the end of the first quarter, 13-7, when Jim Murr ran 30 yards for the score. The convert was missed and the teams battled through a scoreless second quarter.

Moira counted two safety touches in the third to edge close at 13-11 before Bill Lang moved his club in front on an 18-yard run for the major. Moira led 17-13 at the end of the quarter and added another major in the fourth on John Walsh's 20-yard run to end the scoring.

BCI Juniors scored three touchdowns and a touchback in the first half for a 19-0 lead. A fumble and interception led to the winners' final major in the second half. All TD's were unconverted.

Hideston scored two BCI majors with one each for Allan Mott and Laverne Allatt.

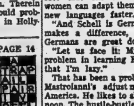
Italian Actor Would Not Want Work in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Italy's most popular film actor, Marcello Mastroianni, was here this week, but only briefly.



Hollywood is a nice place to visit, he indicated, but he wouldn't want to work here.

The Italian came to help promote his new film Divorce—Italian Style. His first impression of Los Angeles was from the airplane: "It is too big. I will get lost."

After a day or two on the ground, he found the town less frightening. His translated comment: "You have many beautiful villas here."

All of his words were filtered through a bilpiul interpreter, since Mastroianni has scant knowledge of English. Therein lies the reason he would probably never do a film in Hollywood.

A dedicated Roman, he cited a proverb that translated something like, "do what comes naturally and you will be happy."

"I don't think I would ever act in English," he said. "Unless you have known a second language for a long time or had a mother who spoke it, I don't think you can give more than a mechanical performance in it."

He was reminded that Oscar winners Sophia Loren and Maximilian Schell have done all right in English-language films.

SAYS HE'S LAZY

"Yes, but Sophia is young," said the 38-year-old actor. "That makes a difference. Also the fact that she is a woman; women can adapt themselves to new languages faster.

"And Schell is German; that makes a difference, too. The Germans are great doers.

"Let us face it: My biggest problem in learning English is that I'm lazy."

That has been a problem with Mastroianni's adjustment to America. He likes to sleep until noon. The hustle-bustle here has him up at 8.

His introduction to America was a week's whirl in New York. Despite its pace, he was wild for the big city—the words "magnificent" and "marvelous" come through without need of translation.

"I would like to go back for a month next year and just study the city as a private citizen. By then I will know enough English to learn something."

Famous Driver Killed

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Fearless Ricardo Rodriguez, who chased fame with the gas pedal of his racing car pushed flat to the floor, was killed Thursday when his Lotus careered off the track in a practice session at the Mexico autodrome.

The younger and more daring of Mexico's auto racing brothers, Ricardo was 21.

Brother Pedro, 23, as well as Ricardo's father and mother and his wife, Sara, were in the pit area when Ricardo's auto swerved off the concrete track at a U-curve, overturned and caught fire during a trials run for Sunday's Grand Prix of Mexico.

Ricardo, still alive, was lifted from near the wreck as his father raced to his side. The latter fainted, but recovered as Ricardo was placed in an ambulance and was with his son when he died en route to hospital.

Always Slow Starter Says Howe

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings, off to an amazing start in the National Hockey League race, keep on winning —without much scoring help from the great Gordie Howe.

Howe, who has carried the Red Wings for years, went through a six other scoreless game Thursday night. But the unbeaten Red Wings won again, 4-0 over New York Rangers.

The win enabled the Wings to retain a one-point hold on first place over Chicago Black Hawks.

"Terry Sawchuk and our defence—those are the reasons for our winning," said coach Sid Abel, who once played on the same line with Howe.

Howe, dominant figure in the Red Wings' long championship reign in the 1950s, has scored only three goals this season. He has assisted on only three others and is far from his accustomed spot among the NHL's scoring leaders.

North Shore Hockey League

The Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League opened it's 1962-63 schedule last night with Hibbard-Callow shading Rossmore 4-3 while Belch's Construction blanked SACO 9-0.

Belch's scored five goals in the second period to snap a scoreless tie, adding four more in the third. Doug Mallen paced the attack with three goals, Don McKevitt and Ralph Paone had two goals each with Gord Young and Ralph Boomhower getting the others.

Hibbard-Callow led 3-1 after one period and 4-1 after two but Rossmore fought back with two unanswered goals in the third.

College Football

Weak Sisters Wear Smiles

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The topsy-turvy Intercollegiate Senior Football League swings back into action again Saturday and the weak sisters are wearing smiles.

University of Toronto Blues and University of Western Ontario Mustangs were scheduled to battle for last place this season.

Instead, they find themselves in the position of being able to shunt the two league powers into the cellar if they both win at home Saturday. All four teams—including the defending champion Queen's Golden Gaels and McGill Redmen—are tied with two wins and two losses each and each has two games remaining in the schedule.

McGill is at Toronto, and Queen's at Western. Should they both lose, the Blues and Mustangs will take a firm grip on the top rung of the standings.

Marmora Meets Madoc for Junior Title

MARMORA—Marmora High School Junior Rugby team eliminated Stirling Juniors in the semi-final class on Wednesday. They now meet Madoc who have bested Tweed. The final game for the Tweed, Stirling, Madoc and Marmora area will be played off on Tuesday, Nov. 6th on neutral ground. The winners will receive the Junior championship cup and title. Coach for Marmora team is Mr. David R. Reynolds of Marmora High School staff.

The Senior girls Volleyball team have also made a name for themselves winning 6 games out of 6 and thereby won the championship pennant.

Junior H. S. Volleyball team is at present tied with Stirling for first place. Mrs. H. E. Jenkins is their coach.

Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Bill (Red) Hay, pivot man on the Chicago Black Hawks' "million dollar line," picked up a goal and an assist as the Hawks' nightly game against Boston to move within a single point of the National Hockey League scoring leadership.

Hay's two-point gain moved him into a three-way tie for second place in the scoring race with teammate Ed Macdonald and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal. All have 11 points.

Henri Richard of Montreal, the league's top marksman so far with 6 points, was held scoreless in Thursday's game against Toronto.

Also action Thursday were Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and Cliff Pennington of Boston, tied for fifth spot with 10.

Stan Mikita of Chicago popped in a goal for Johnny Wilson Marshall's Claude Provost and Boston's Murray Oliver with nine points.

The leaders:

TO DEVELOP BANFF

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government plans to put more money into development of the Banff-Lake Louise area of Alberta as a firm indication that Canada's bid for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games is the most government sponsored, Health Minister Monteith said Thursday.

The Calgary Olympic Development Association will apply for the international Olympic Committee a year from now to hold the games at Banff, and an engineering survey by the federal health department has already recommended that area as the best site.

The federal government has spent $139,000 to date on the project.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Wayne Rudy doesn't look like a researcher in his converted chicken coop but he most assuredly is.

The 22-year-old Londoner in his humble premises on Third avenue is working on two experiments: one of great importance to Canada's curling fanatics and the other strictly agricultural.

Mr. Rudy is a broom manufacturer and on 1¼ acres behind his chicken coop he is attempting to grow broom corn, against the counselling of experts and practice of other Ontario broom makers who don't believe the crop can grow in Ontario.

If he can prove them wrong, his 1,200-brooms a week plant will be saved a lot of money. Most of the straws now used for the brooms are bought from a Toronto dealer who imports them from various countries.

The straw costs the London firm $700 to $800 a ton, about 75 tons are used a year. The company employs seven workers—including Mr. Rudy and his father, who taught him broom making—and adds two part-time men in the heavy seasons of spring, fall and Christmas.

Spring and fall orders increase during the traditional home cleaning times and Christmas is the time for toy brooms.

ONLY STRAWS USED

Mr. Rudy consulted the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph on fertilizer, weed control and chemical treatment of soil before he started his corn experiment. The straws are the only part of the plant used in broom-making and one-third of them are unsuitable and waste.

While he waits for his crop to be harvested, Mr. Rudy seeks the perfect curling broom. To the casual curler a broom is a broom but the fanatic knows different.

So far he has hit on the idea of a tapered rather than a flat end where the handle meets the straw. The theory is that straws are lost more easily when pressure breaks them against the flat handle end.

"I may stumble on something that will suit everybody," says researcher Wayne Rudy.

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Good for romance, relaxation. Fine, too, for entertaining at home. Be with family if practical. Go slow while traveling. Be moderate. Take pride in achievement of loved one.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) You are able to perceive truth where complicated situation is concerned. Be determined to act on findings. Trying to find excuses for others is not advised.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Excellent for reunion with older individual. Count your blessings. Be aware of potential for greater success. Avoid worry. Good day to study resources, opportunities.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Minor disappointment boomerangs in your favor. Maintain unexpected quietness. Associate remembers past favor. You begin out of feeling of despair.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Be ready, willing to make vital changes. Be with stimulating friends tonight. Good for shopping, attending theater, dining out. Important relationship may begin soon.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Be versatile. Express sense of humor. Very good for parties, social affairs. Show off Libra taste, grace, sense of fair play. Attend to details early, then relax with friends.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be natural. Avoid forcing yourself to conform. Tension disappears once you "do what comes naturally." Means today you can be happy. Accept challenges, invitations.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine for change, travel, romance. Money situation shows signs of improving. Your sense of security is enhanced. Persons born in June and September help you toward happiness.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Cycle continues high. Recent setback is clarified. You are able to learn from experience. You regain much prestige. Concentrate on improving some comforts, personal appearance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can overcome restrictions, delays. New meanings come to mind. Your appreciation of the arts is boosted. Evening could feature visits, delightful companions.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) New, significant social contacts promised. Be willing to discuss problems of mutual interest. Show you are capable of accepting sound advice. Cooperate in community project.

If today is your birthday your sense of humor is one of your greatest assets. You never do or feel things halfway.

By JOHN MOSHER

FREDERICTON (CP) Youthful Claude Roussel has been described as New Brunswick's first real sculptor since John Rogerson.

If the estimate is correct, his emergence marks the end of a long drought. Rogerson, who was the best known among many figurehead carvers at Saint John, N.B., in the days of wooden ships, died in 1925.

Now living in Fredericton, he is devoting his time to commissions including one each for the University of New Brunswick and St. Joseph's University, both paid for by Canada Council grants.

A former assistant curator of the Beaverbrook Art Gallery here, he was appointed to that position in 1959. Lord Beaverbrook said, in making the announcement:

"I think young Roussel will give the gallery a major liaison with the Acadian culture of this area, and at the same time impart to our French-Canadian artists a real sense of belonging."

ENTHUSIED IN MONTREAL

Claude Roussel was born in Edmundston and progressed from drawing to wood carving when only 10 years old, studying under Dr. P. C. LaPorte. He graduated from high school in 1947 and worked for several years to save money for further study.

After a five-year term at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal, he received a post-graduate diploma in sculpture in '56.

An early Roussel project was the restoration of wooden statues in East Church—its statues, Way of the Cross and altar painting. He did the Way of the Cross for the chapel of the Sisters of the Assomption in Campbellton, N.B. His religious work included assignments for institutions in St. Hyacinthe and Chicoutimi, Que.

More recently he completed a Station of the Cross for a new chapel at St. Louis University in Edmundston. The large work of 14-inch clearings on huge cement slabs was done under a Canada Council grant to St. Louis University for "a work of art" for the new chapel.

WON PRIZES

The young artist won a grand prize for sculpture at the 1957 Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, an architectural painting prize at Montreal the same year and a second prize for sculpture at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver in 1952. He was invited to exhibit his work at the first fine arts exhibition at the National Gallery in Ottawa in 1957.

In a talk at Saint John, he advocated establishment of tuition-free art schools in New Brunswick similar to those in Quebec. He also criticized lack of proper art-teaching facilities.

"The courageous work of our few qualified art teachers can not counterbalance the inadequate art teaching given throughout the province."

He said the two main problems of New Brunswick artists are fear of going "all out" in research and personal style development and lack of general public encouragement. This lack was due mainly to neglect of art appreciation courses and art training in schools.

True-Blue Tories Flocking To Annual Party Rites In Wales Run Much to Form

By ROD CURRIE

LLANDUDNO, Wales (CP)—It's dampproof tweeds and stout suede shoes.

Or the broad - lapelled, pinstriped jobs in fashion when Churchill was prime minister.

It is, in fact, the Conservative party's annual conference.

It's dinner jackets and fur wraps—a bit dated, maybe, but exuding quality—and sherry by the fireside before going into dinner; brandy and cigars in the lounge afterwards.

A good deal of "come, come, old chap" and "I say, what a bore" and even, although rarely now, a "by Jove!"

For the ladies it's cashmere sweaters and pearls, the best of British worsted. Shoes designed for walking and head-hugging hats built for warmth.

It's registers in the town's best hotels crammed with double-barrelled names, with MPs, CBEs and MBEs and a scattering of lords and ladies.

And the people who sign the register for John and pronounce it Sinjen; spell it Cholmondeley and say it Chumley; Featherstonehaugh and are introduced as Fanshaw.

But there are exceptions. The young back in the Italian-cut suit and striped shirt from London's low brow Battersea; the Yorkshireman, an accent as broad as Ilkley Moor, who shatters the unwritten law of a lounge waiter by insisting on a foaming pint of mild-and-bitter.

And then there are the young Conservatives with their gay waistcoats, their sports cars, their well - modulated voices, their fixed-jaw manner of speaking.

Except for those with political ambition, and on their way up, the young Tories have the reputation of being more interested in the accompanying social whirl than in the deliberations which occupy the devoted attention of their elders.

One wide-eyed young thing, overheard as she fled the smoky convention hall for a stroll along the beachfront with her escort, summed it up this way:

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brostch, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brostch, Mrs. Roberts of Trenton and Mrs. Way of Belleville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Harder.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Marshall, Billy and Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pearson Carola and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edmondson, Margaret, Marie and Shirley, of Napanee, and Mr. and Mrs. Reg Edmondson.

Mrs. R. Hart is visiting her sister, Mrs. Roy Thrasher, for a few days.

The Young People's Union of Centenary United Church held their regular meeting on Monday night with Carol Cummings in charge.

A number from Centenary attended anniversary services in Aikens and Wesley Church es on Sunday.

Saudi Arabia Faces Yemen Invasion

Military Forays Across Border Cause Concern

Stormy Warnings Given King Saud, Hussein

DAMASCUS (AP) — Revolutionary Yemen massed land, sea and air forces against Saudi Arabia today. The Egyptbacked republican government talked grimly of a showdown with its monarchist neighbor.

Cairo radio in Yemen's premier capital quoted leaders of the 35-day-old revolutionary regime in stormy challenges to Saudi Arabian King Saud and Jordanian King Hussein, warning the former of imminent attacks by land, sea and air forces if royalist military forays from across the Arabian border continue.

Yemen's vice - premier and foreign minister, Abdul Rahman Al-Baydany, charged that 5,000 Arabian and Jordanian troops had tried to invade Yemen in the last two days. His regime was acting now only in self-defence, he said.

Saud and Hussein have championed the cause of the dethroned and for a time thought dead Yemeni king, the 35-year-old imam Mohammed Al-Badr, providing him with military support in his campaign to topple the revolutionary regime. The royalists claim victories in Northern Yemen.

START OF MARCH

Baydany said the government armies had started marching to the north and the navy was sailing northward in the Red Sea from the modern port of Hodeida. The Yemeni air force — believed including Soviet - built fighters provided by the United Arab Republic — was ordered at the ready, Baydany said, to set up a "flaming air belt" along the frontier.

Revolutionary Premier Abdullah Sallal, leader of the Sept. 26 coup that ousted the king, said his armed forces were ready "to teach the aggressors an unforgettable lesson."

Sallal's statements were relayed by Cairo radio.

The military buildup brought the danger of wide-spread confrontation in battle between the two great antagonistic forces in the Arab world, the monarchists led by Saud and Hussein, and the Republicans who look to Egypt's President Nasser for guidance and material support.

Nasser has supplied as many as 1,000 men, plus arms, air and naval units to bolster Sallal's regime, and for his part has stated publicly his desire eventually to merge with Egypt in an expanded United Arab Republic.

Red Cross Said Willing to Help Supervise

GENEVA (AP) — The International Red Cross Committee formally declared its willingness today to help supervise dismantling of Soviet rockets and bases on Cuba, if all parties agree.

A spokesman told reporters the all-Swiss humanitarian organization is ready its former president, Paul Ruegger, to New York to meet with UN Acting Secretary - General U Thant.

The spokesman declined to elaborate, saying only that the task expected of the IRCC "goes far beyond the traditional humanitarian activities of this institution."

"But in the superior interest of peace and of the populations affected by the blockade the committee is willing to lend its good offices to the United Nations, on the express condition that all three interested parties give their agreement."

(Reuters news agency quoted a spokesman of the organization as saying the Red Cross was "prepared to consider" assisting the United Nations in the inspection of ships leaving Cuba with dismantled Soviet missiles).

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro so far has refused to permit any international inspection of the missile withdrawal, but a United Nations spokesman said in New York that U Thant was trying to arrange for Red Cross participation in an inspection.

President Kennedy suggested the Red Cross might undertake inspection of Cuban-bound cargoes aboard Russian ships.)

2 BOYS DIE IN FIRE

MONTREAL (CP) — Three boys, all members of the same family, died of asphyxiation Friday as fire swept through their home in suburban La Salle here on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal. Laflecke police identified the boys as Michel, 8, Francois, 5, and Real Laflerlere, 4.

Princess Margaret's Son, Fifth In Line for Throne, One Year Old

His full name is David Albert Charles. But British newspapers dubbed him "the barefoot viscount" today when they published his official photograph.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — The Arctic high pressure area over Northern Ontario is moving swiftly off to the east and a low now moving into Manitoba threatens snow for parts of northwestern Ontario Sunday. Northeast winds and cloudy skies are expected to persist over Southern Ontario today with a few light showers. Cool and partly cloudy weather is forecast for Sunday.

TOMMY DOUGLAS WELCOMED BACK INTO COMMONS

Will Lead NDP In Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — The return to the Commons of T. C. (Tommy) Douglas was the highlight Friday of a slow day in the House, taken up mainly with a continuing debate on budget resolutions left over from last spring.

Mr. Douglas came back to the Commons with a quip and a tribute.

The tribute was to "the good will and the marvellous esprit de corps of this House"—which the New Democratic Party leader left 18 years ago to become premier of Saskatchewan.

The quip was a razor-sharp return to somebody in the Conservative backbenches who shouted "stand up" as the diminutive new MP for Burnaby-Coquitlam stood beside his desk to acknowledge greetings from the House on his return.

Mr. Douglas, elected in a by-election in the British Columbia riding Dec. 4 after failing to win in Regina City June 18, had just formally entered the House.

'FROM SHOULDERS UP'

"Fortunately, there are bounds to the limit where measurement is from the shoulders up rather than from the shoulders down," shot back Mr. Douglas—and the House was convulsed, as it also had been by the latecomer's sally.

Mr. Douglas' election was made possible through the resignation of New Democrat Erhart Regier in Burnaby-Coquitlam.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker began an unusual round of welcomes in which both Liberal Opposition Leader Pearson and Social Credit chieftain Thompson joined.

Mr. Diefenbaker set the tone when he remarked dryly that the length of Mr. Douglas's Saskatchewan premiership "gave those of us of other political parties some idea of the meaning of eternity."

There was general laughter.

Mr. Douglas said that 18 years had passed since he left the Commons for Saskatchewan, and he would think that any person who started as a private and wound up as a private would at least say that he is holding his own."

Pierre Berton Leaves Star For Maclean's

TORONTO (CP) — Pierre Berton, daily columnist and associate editor of the Toronto Star, is leaving the newspaper and returning to Maclean's magazine.

Mr. Berton was managing editor of the magazine before joining The Star. He now becomes a contributing editor of Maclean's.

"They've given me a page of my own," Mr. Berton said Friday night. "It'll be similar to what I've written for The Star but for a national audience."

Since joining The Star four years ago Mr. Berton's investigations into municipal corruption, sharp sales practices and his social satire have won him national recognition.

He became the first double winner of Canada's National Newspaper Awards when he won the awards for feature writing and staff corresponding in 1960.

Mr. Berton will leave The Star next Friday and will then spend six weeks completing his latest book, The Black Arts of Canada, based on his Star exposes.

Indian, Chinese Troops Dig In for Long Winter Struggle

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The first load of American arms for India arrived in Calcutta by air today amid a big military buildup by Indian and Chinese Communist forces digging in for a long winter struggle along of the 2,500-mile Himalayan border.

Two American C-135 transports landed in Calcutta with automatic rifles, mortars, anti-tank weapons, ammunition, personnel mines and other equipment.

The arms were flown from Frankfurt, West Germany, and marked the start of a big American military airlift to bolster Indian forces, which for the first time this week moved to the offensive in the undeclared border war.

Commanding the flights was Brig.-Gen. Robert D. Foreman of the United States Air Force 1602 Air Transport Station in France. He told reporters at Calcutta's Dum Dum Airport that "this is the longest airlift" ever by U.S. planes because half are from New Jersey and the remainder from California.

The planes are due to arrive

Forecasters Say Democrats To Retain Congress Control

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. election forecasters, viewing prospects in Tuesday's congressional elections, suggest Democrats likely will retain control of Congress with few shifts in strength but may take a beating from Republicans in key battles for state governorships.

The big puzzler is the impact President Kennedy's tough handling of the Cuban crisis will have on the electorate. Views are mixed. A widespread opinion is that it will help those already in power and those with strong anti - Communist sentiment.

At stake in this "off-year" vote are 39 of the 100 Senate seats, all 435 seats in the House of Representatives, 35 of the 50 state governorships and a host of state legislative and other posts.

The president's own four-year term is only half finished, but a sharp drop in Democratic Party strength and popularity could cripple his influence in Congress and hurt his chances for a second term in 1964.

Traditionally, the off - year elections cut into the congress

'Infernal Election Machine' Broken Says Premier Lesage

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said Friday night during a tour of Quebec Lake St. John region that "the infernal election machine" of the Union Nationale party has been broken.

"Before 1960," he told an overflow crowd of 3,200 in Alma, 120 miles north of Quebec, "everything was done with the election machine in mind—the machine I call the infernal machine."

Meanwhile, Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson wound up a three-day campaign in northwestern Quebec with the prediction of a clean sweep for the Union Nationale in the Nov. 14 provincial election.

Mr. Johnson told the rally in Alma that the deputy returning officer for Dorchester riding in the 1960 provincial election "refused to take off the electoral list the names of 1,500 persons who did not have the right to vote."

Dorchester was won in 1960

GOVT. MAY SOON DISCONTINUE AUSTERITY PLAN

Foreign Exchange Reserves Rising

OTTAWA (CP) — An encouraging rise in Canada's foreign exchange reserves during October has pushed the government closer to a decision on when to dismantle the austerity measures — import surcharges in particular—drawn up in the June financial emergency.

An increase of $169,300,000 in the reserves in October, despite a net outflow of $20,000,000 from special transactions, was reported Friday by Finance Minister Nowlan.

This brought the reserves to $2,813,900,000 at month - end. Even discounting $475,000,000 owing to the short-term borrowing done in the June emergency, the reserves were the highest since the peak period of $2,110,600,000 a year ago.

This is in contrast to the low point of nearly $1,900,000,000 June 24 when the government announced its emergency program to stop and reverse a hemorrhage from the exchange reserves that had

FEELS 'PRESSURE'

Already the government has felt pressure from the United States government to set a firm cut-off date for ending the import surcharges levied on some $2,000,000,000 of Ianadian trade. The government, which lifted surcharges on about one-twelfth of the total in mid-October, hasn't gone beyond the promise that they'll all be ended as soon as possible.

This issue is expected to arise in Geneva at the current meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in decide whether to grant Canada a waiver from GATT rules on its surcharges.

It is known that the government hopes to maintain some freedom in timing the sur

Photos Show Reds Tearing Down Depots

Air, Sea Surveillance Of Cuba Maintained

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was reported ready today to enter into special international inspection arrangements to clear ships through the U.S. naval blockade, and thus apparently speed removal of Soviet missiles from Cuba.

An agreement calling for the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba - bound ships for arms could clear away the U.S. roadblock and hasten the arrival of Soviet shipping to pick up missiles and bring them home. United - Nations sources reported such an agreement was near.

Kennedy said in a two-minute television and radio broadcast Friday night that aerial photographs made Thursday show that the Russians are tearing down their missile bases in Cuba.

The government's conclusions from photographic evidence, he said, are: "The Soviet missile bases are being dismantled, their missiles and related equipment are being crated, and the fixed installations at these sites are being destroyed."

WILL STILL WATCH

But the president said the right U.S. sea and air surveillance of Cuba will be maintained until satisfactory inspection and removal procedures are substituted or until "the pressure to cause peace by these measures no longer is applicable."

At the same time, he indicated the United States is ready to consider various means of inspection. This suggested a broadening, as he meant, of the requirements he had laid down for UN inspection and verification.

"While the quarantine remains in effect we are hopeful that adequate procedures can be developed for international inspection of Cuba-bound cargoes," the president said. "The International Committee of the Red Cross, in our view, would be an appropriate agent in this matter."

In New York, a UN spokesman said the Russians would have to send ships to Cuba to haul the missiles away. He estimated it would take about 20 days for the vessels to steam

T-to-T Club Again Flourishing In Ottawa After Slow Start

OTTAWA (CP) — The T-to-T club seems to be flourishing again after a short stint in parliamentary session.

It drew over 100 members Friday from the House of Commons Friday—as it did on Monday.

It's a purely informal club, but some of its vital features can be listed as these:

Membership: MPs who live conveniently close enough to Ottawa to be able to take in long weekend at home, spending only Tuesday-to-Thursday in Ottawa (hence the club's name).

Purposes: Either (A) to get away from it all in Ottawa, or (B) to crowd as much private business or political hand-shaking into a weekend as possible.

Fees: Paid in the railways, air lines, or gas and oil companies for transportation.

The club has no official records. In fact, the rules state that members elected to Parliament must be present, unless ill, at least one week in twelve. These rules are rarely enforced.

In previous Parliaments, the club had semi-official recognition in the fact that gentlemen's agreements were made between government and opposition parties that vital matters would not be debated or votes called on Mondays or Fridays.

But with a minority government in power and fear that a snap election is the opposition against it might at any time force another general election, many from the House of Commons Club faced hard times at the outset of the current session. MPs weren't anxious to be away from the Commons for any reason.

On Monday this week, however, during the daily question period when members in Commons affairs is high enough to attract any MP in the vicinity in Ottawa (hence the club) 104 empty seats.

Friday, as compiled by three reporters looking down on the scene, there were 113 vacant seats. To be sure, some were empty because three parliamentary association meetings are currently under or soon to meet outside the country.

By parties, the vacant seats Friday were 29 of the 116 Conservatives, 50 of the 100 Liberals, 12 of the 30 Social Credit members, and 12 of the (then) 18 New Democratic Party members. Social Credit Leader Thompson was in Western Canada and NDP Leader Douglas was not introduced in the Commons until Friday.

Friday the vacant seats counted were Conservatives 36, Liberal 55, Social Credit 15, NDP seven.

Premier Castro And Mikoyan Meet for Talks

Mikoyan flew into Havana Friday night from New York for what was officially described as a visit "to exchange views" with the bearded Cuban leader and was met at the airport with a warm embrace" from Castro.

The authoritative Cuban commentator Luis Gomez Wangueman said in a television broadcast after Mikoyan's arrival that his talks with Castro would probably begin this very night."

The Havana press had been playing down the visit and devoting its biggest headlines to Communist Chinese support for Cuba.

PLAY UP SPEECH

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech had been out of the headlines for several days but papers gave plenty of space to Castro's Thursday night speech refusing any international inspection on the withdrawal of Soviet missiles and reaffirming friendship with Russia.

All the Havana newspapers printed pictures of Castro in an apparent attempt to help him restore public shattered feel the lost through Khrushchev's decision to pull Russian missiles out of Cuba.

Before leaving New York Friday, Mikoyan said Russia backed Castro's five-point plan for Cuban security, which Mikoyan called a "just" proposal. One of Castro's points calls for the withdrawal by the United States from its naval base at Guantanamo in Cuba.

"The Havana newspaper El Mundo says it in an editorial:

"Everything seems to indicate that of the five points in the fifth and last he produced the greatest uneasiness in Washington."

Policeman Discounts Evidence Given by Jehovah's Witness

NORTH BAY (CP) — Five Jehovah's Witnesses who were seeking converts in a predominantly Roman Catholic community near here were ordered to "get out of town," court was told Friday.

Eugene Tubman, one of the Witnesses, said that when the party arrived at River Valley, 40 miles north of here, a man drove up and shouted from the car window:

"If you people don't get out of town the easy way we'll put you out the hard way".

The testimony was given at the trial of Rev. Walter Bradley, 49 - year - old Roman Catholic pastor of River Valley. Magistrate M. G. Gould reserved judgment to Nov. 15 on a charge of threatening violence to five Jehovah's Witnesses on Sunday, July 8, the day of a parish picnic.

Mr. Tubman testified that Father Bradley arrived after the man had told them to get out of town.

"Are you those Jehovah's Witnesses?" the priest had asked.

Mr. Tubman testified Father Bradley also said:

"Why do people come around and bother us? Why do you not leave? Why do you not get out of town? I am the parish priest here. Did you not hear the announcement?"

'BETTER LEAVE'

Father Bradley testified later that what he means by parishioners were upset about the presence of the witnesses. He had announced over a loudspeaker: "There are outsiders in town and they had better leave before it is too late".

Mr. Tubman said Father Bradley said the Witnesses had no intention of leaving until they had made their calls, and the priest also said:

"If you people go across the tracks the people can shoot you because you are trespassing on their property . . . if you go across there be prepared for an accident."

Const. Kenneth Wilson said he was standing 100 yards from the scene when Father Bradley spoke to the Witnesses, and heard something similar to that related by Mr. Tubman.

Father Bradley denied threatening the pastor of with violence. The French-speaking priest testified he spoke to them only after several parishioners complained that the Witnesses came to their homes and refused to leave.

TROUBLE BREWING

"Knowing that trouble was brewing and afraid of a riot, I asked them to leave," he said. "The only thing we were looking for was order, tranquility and peace."

"Are you going to ask the court to believe that the town is so lawless and barbaric that if another religious group comes in there is going to be a riot?" asked Glen Howe, fulltime legal advisor to the Witnesses and special prosecutor.

Father Bradley replied that the residents were fed up with the witnesses forcing their way into homes.

He testified there are at most five non-Catholic families in the community.

The trial opened in Sturgeon Falls Oct. 26.

Anglers, Hunters Ratify New Federation

By RON LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates representing 150,000 anglers and hunters ratified the constitution Friday of the long-discussed Canadian Wildlife Federation.

At the same time the 21 delegates fired back at critics who said the federation will simply be a "narrow" group of sportsmen and not a full-fledged conservation organization.

Frank Murphy of Winnipeg, the founders' public relations officer, said the new group welcomes the support of any conservation organization "whole heartedly."

Instead of sniping at our accomplishment, they should offer to co-operate with us".

The criticism came from the Audubon Society of Canada and the University of Toronto Zoology professor, Dr. Douglas Pimlott.

The Audubon Society, interested in bird conservation, said Friday in a telegram to the conference that sportsmen should give the bird and other specialized groups "equal representation" on the federation.

NO HARROWS

In a similarly-worded press statement, Dr. Pimlott said the federation "will probably" should not have received a $20,000 grant from the National Fitness Council in September since it is too narrow in concept.

Support for the federation came Friday from the Canadian Society of Wildlife and Fishery Biologists. In a telegram from the president, J. F. Bendell of Vancouver, it:

"We wish you every success," the telegram said, "We are actively in favor for the wise use of our fish and wildlife resources."

Dr. Paul Herbert of Lansing, Mich., president of the National Wildlife Federation of the United States, congratulated the delegates for their constitution.

He said very few professional and scientific groups have affiliated with his federation, but this trend might be reversed in Canada.

Legion Branches Warned to Cut Down on Beer

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario Liquor licensing board Friday warned 10 Royal Canadian Legion branches to cut down on the amount of beer they sell.

Judge W. T. Robb, board chairman, said the average of 30 gallons per member a year was considered desirable.

He described the Arthur branch's increase from 40 gallons last year to 65 gallons per member this year as "tremendous."

"You'll have to do something about it," he said.

Other branches warned were Hespeler, Hensall, Mitchell, St. Marys, Galt, Hespeler, Elora, Erin and Blyth.

The St. Marys Cement Workers Union received a similar warning.

Boards given warnings after the board received complaints ranging from double-serving to drunkenness. They included East End Hotel and Coronet Motor Hotel, Kitchener; Central Hotel and Kress Hotel, Preston; King Edward Hotel and Royal Hotel, Hespeler; Queen's Hotel, Walkerton; Queen's Hotel, Hanover; Royal Hotel, Galt; and Breslau Hotel, Breslau.

Decision was reserved on 2 applications for various liquor licences.

Local Girl Receives $500 Scholarship

Students from Belleville and Toronto have been awarded major scholarships in Journalism at the University of Western Ontario, Prof. J. L. Wild, Head of the Department announced today.

Caroline Daugharty, Belleville and Sheri Craig, Toronto, each receive a Reader's Digest Journalism Scholarship. Two scholarships of $500 are offered annually by The Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Limited for students with high standing in any year of the Honors Journalism Program at the University.

Miss Daugharty was born in Montreal but received her education in Belleville. She began her career in journalism as editor of her school paper. At the University she has been a contributor to the Gazette and this year is President of the University Press Club. She has written for the Belleville Intelligencer.

She hopes to take a Masters degree in Economics after she receives her degree in journalism and is planning for a career in financial and economic writing.

Miss Craig, who is also a graduate of Toronto Collegiate, was a student, received her early schooling in Toronto and was editor of her school paper at Oakwood Collegiate. At the University she has been active on the Gazette newspaper. This year she is managing editor of the Gazette and has been copy for the Hillier regime."

Frischauer pointedly mentioned Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss. Some commentators regard this controversial minister as the man who unleashed the raid on Der Spiegel.

Experts Say Der Spiegel Affair May End German Democracy

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — A small man in a rumpled suit, now in a prison cell in Hamburg, is rapidly emerging as the single-handed leader of democratic liberties in the Federal Republic of Germany.

He is 50-year-old Rudolf (Rudi) Augstein, the restless, brooding editor and proprietor of a Hamburg weekly magazine called Der Spiegel.

Spiegel, a mirror, and Augstein's Mirror has reflected such lurid sights that Chancellor Adenauer's government has deemed it necessary to arrest Augstein, along with a couple of his leading editors, and raid the magazine.

Now a case that started quietly a week ago with factual accounts of the arrests has become front-page news and receives her degree in journalism and is planning for a career in financial and economic writing.

Miss Craig, who is also a graduate of Toronto Collegiate, was a student, received her early schooling in Toronto and was editor of her school paper at Oakwood Collegiate. At the University she has been active on the Gazette newspaper. This year she is managing editor of the Gazette and has been copy for the Hillier regime."

Nuclear Bomb Exploded by Soviet Union

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet Union exploded a four-megaton nuclear bomb over Novaya Zemla today, the seismological institution of the Uppsala University reported.

A spokesman of the institution, Dr. Markus Bath, said the explosion occurred at 8.30 a.m. GMT 3.31 a.m. EST. He added that was the 18th explosion in the current Russian test series at Novaya Zemlya which has been recorded here.

Four Postal Clerks Injured

CONCORD, Ont. (CP)—Four postal clerks were injured Friday night when a CNR freight train hit the rear of a passenger train on an overpass at Highway 7 on the northwestern fringe of Toronto.

Ten cars, in the mail car near the front of the train, were believed to have been standing at the time of the accident. None was seriously hurt.

Two refrigerator cars loaded with cement and an empty sleeping car at the back of the passenger train took the brunt of the collision and were derailed, while the diesel engine and five cars of the freight left the tracks.

The passenger train, was en route for Toronto from Huntsville, Ont. and had picked up the sleeper and freight cars at Aurora, 12 miles north of the crash scene.

China Beats Three Years of Bad Harvests

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist China has overcome three years of bad harvests, industry is booming and now is moving forward to self-sufficiency, Malcolm MacDonald said today.

He told a press conference at his Fung from a 7,000-mile tour of China:

"I found the Chinese in a confident mood, not in a mood of complacency."

Macdonald, former cochairman of the Geneva Conference on Laos and British high commissioner to India and southeast Asia, said:

"I found as far as I could see, genuine confidence and hope for further improvement."

Macdonald said optimism is some Chinese quarters about being able to double output quickly has disappeared. The Chinese now realize that they are inexperienced in many modern matters, and that they have a long task to modernize their country.

He estimated it would take them a considerable number of years" to reach self-sufficiency in agriculture, a "much longer" in industry.

Macdonald declined to discuss conversations he had with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Foreign Minister Chen Yi in Peking.

Army Sergeant Killed by Red Gunfire

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. Army sergeant flying as a crew member on an escort helicopter was hit by Communist gunfire today and died before reaching Saigon.

The sergeant was aboard one of five U.S. Army turbine powered HU1A escort helicopters.

Armed with rockets and machine - guns, these helicopters are used to escort unarmed troop-carrying helicopters from ground fire.

The helicopter was hit 90 miles southwest of here near the Mekong River delta town of Vinh Long.

Heavy ground fire met the attacking helicopters when they arrived for an operation this morning. A large Viet Cong unit was believed involved. The operation was a continuation of a sweep started Wednesday after the Viet Cong nearly overran an outpost in the area.

Government forces scored a major victory Wednesday in fighting off the Communist onslaught, and air strikes took heavy toll of the enemy. Government losses also were large, however.

SIU Auditor Is Sharply Cross-Examined

MONTREAL (CP) — The Norris shipping inquiry was told Friday that a committee of seamen audits the report of the auditor of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (SIU).

The disclosure was made during cross-examination of SIU auditor George C. Kendall, a Montreal chartered accountant.

J. J. Robinson, lawyer for Upper Lakes Shipping Limited, a Toronto - based Lake shipping firm, said:

"I can't understand why a committee of five seamen is appointed to audit a report that contains no figures at all," said Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, who is making the federal investigation into labor strife and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

The British Columbia jurist said he couldn't understand the practical value of a seamen's audit committee, in addition to a professional one.

Mr. Kendall agreed that the committee had no value except to give it an opportunity to question the mechanics of the SIU's financial structure.

QUESTIONS ANSWERS

Mr. Kendall also took issue with some of the statements made by the SIU's audit committee in its annual report on 1960 finances. The five-member committee, with SIU President Hal C. Banks and SIU Secretary-Treasurer Don Sullivan, ex-officio members, said it agreed with or that the records of the union were being kept and that the bookkeeping system employed by the union was in accordance with generally accepted bookkeeping practices.

Mr. Kendall denied that his formal auditor's report contained these remarks about the SIU's book.

He said his statement merely noted that the SIU's "system" was maintained "quite well" although he pointed out some areas that could be improved.

Mr. Kendall also dissociated himself from a statement in the seamen's audit report which noted: "We believe that the money spent from the treasury in 1960 was well spent and that we received value - for - dollar value, and in some cases more than a dollar for what was received."

The seamen's audit report also said that "whatever typographical errors are noted forth" that appeared in the formal auditor's statement were corrected.

'NO ERRORS'

Mr. Kendall said there were no typographical errors in his report. He did not know what the seamen's committee meant when it mentioned "errors forth" in its note about corrections.

Mr. Justice Norris called the double audit an "amazing thing."

Murder Charge Laid Against Caretaker

TORONTO (CP) — The former caretaker of a Toronto rooming house and Friday and the man who took over his job has been charged with non-capital murder.

A charge of murder was laid against Dean Loyal Sommerville, 40.

Police said the victim recently had been fired from his job and was packed to move out of the house.

Several people told police they thought the victim was just "having a good sleep."

Around The Tee

In order to give the new curlers a fighting chance when they take the ice against the so-called experts, there will be school of instruction at the Curling Club on Sunday afternoon from three to five o'clock. Mac White and Bill Riley, two of the best in the club will be on hand to start the new members off on the right foot. They will give instruction on their position in the hack, the out and in turn, the delivery of the stone and above all how to sweep.

The men will not be the only ones who will be on hand because the chairman of the committee, Jack Partridge, states that women will be most cordially welcomed. It is expected that the ice will be ready for that time and if not notification will be given when the instruction will be given. It is much better to start right and then there will not be too many faults to correct later on in the season.

The composition of the rinks for the Bill Gault competition which runs throughout the season and the turnabout games will continue until Christmas at least have been drawn and a most equitable distribution of the members has been made by the committee headed by Steve Bailey. This is especially true of the Bill Gault competition when the skips have been selected by the committee and then the members were drawn out of a hat. The members were all graded and each rink is composed of 16 points. A game a week will be played by each of the 40 rinks in the contest and at the end of the season the top four will play a final series for the trophy. This competition should attract a great deal of interest and it is hoped that all who registered to play will make it a point to be on hand on the night in which their rink is to play.

Glen Miller Road Will Be Rebuilt

W. E. Sandercock, MPP for West Hastings, announced yesterday that according to a notice he has received from C.S. McNaughton, Minister of Highways for Ontario, the Glen Miller Road, north from Trenton, will be rebuilt by the Ontario Department of Highways.

The notice, as received by Mr. Sandercock, states, "I have today designated a development under the purpose of pre-engineering, County Road number four, from its intersection with Queen's Highway 33 and County Road number five, on the east side of the Trent river, at Frankford, southerly to Queen's Highway number 401.

This road, a northerly continuation of Sidney St., Trenton, is used regularly by trucks carrying logs from the Stirling area to the paper mills, in Trenton.

Cheese Remains At High Price On Exchange

First grade co'ored cheese brought a high of 37 7-8 cents on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week with a total of 11,561 regulars, 7,571 squares and 2,321 specials being offered.

Top grade white cheese sold at 37 13-16 cents, while first grade square cheese made from raw milk sold at 37¾ for both white and colored. Heat treated square cheese brought 37 to 37¼ cents for both white and colored.

The average price for first grade regular white cheese was 37¾ cents and for colored 37 13-16 cents.

HOUSEHOLD NEED

Ninety-seven per cent of Ontario homes were equipped with electric refrigerators in 1961, compared with less than two-thirds in 1951.

Kenneth Bedore Wins Grand Championship at Ottawa With Fine Hereford Calf

Kenneth Bedore, 19, son of and Mrs. T. J. Bedore, R.R. 2 Marmora, won the junior championship and the grand championship among 4-H club members from 17 counties as he showed his prize two-months-old Hereford heifer calf at the Ottawa Winter Fair last week.

The Ottawa victories made the first prize he had won this year with his Hereford calf, including being named the top beef showman among county juniors at Madoc Fair. He placed third in showmanship at Ottawa, and won the Ottawa Valley Hereford Breeders' trophy for showing the winning heifer.

A grade 13 student at Madoc High School, Kenneth is now in his last year of 4-H club work and is the past president of his Marmora Township club.

In winning the Ottawa championship for juniors he is bowing out of 4-H club work on a high note.

But next year it will be different with showing prize winning calves all in the past. On finishing high school he hopes to attend Nyerere Institute to study architecture.

sional strength of the party in Ottawa. The average loss in the House of Representatives has been about 40 seats.

This year Democratic leaders say they doubt if they will lose more than 10 seats. Republican leaders say they expect to gain 25 to 30 seats. They need 44 to gain control.

In the last Congress, the standings were: House—Democrats 261, Republicans 174, vacant two, total 437; Senate—Democrats 64, Republicans 36, total 100. The present distribution, the total in the new House will be reduced to 435 from 437.

The magazine U.S. News and World Report forecasts that in the next Congress the Democrats will have between 64 and 69 Senate seats and between 253 and 268 House seats.

Democrats also control 34 of the 50 state governorships, with 31 Democratic states and 14 Republican states holding elections this year. U.S. News and World Report predicts the Republicans will come through with a net gain of from one to six states.

Kennedy's strong action on Cuba has sharply changed the election tide, taking from the Republicans a deep-cutting issue, the magazine says.

Newsweek magazine agrees that the Cuban issue can swing votes, adding:

"In congressional contests, it will help candidates — particularly incumbents — closely identified with Mr. Kennedy."

Some veteran Washington reporters and observers anticipate there won't be much change in the House and Senate but that Republicans will make gains in control of states.

Socreds Will Support Govt. Until Spring - - Thompson

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—The Conservative minority government can count on Social Credit support at least until spring, Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Friday night.

He told a political rally of about 250 students that his party—which holds the balance of power in the House of Commons—will wait out the winter so as not to "throw the country into confusion and chaos."

The Liberal party, he charged "wants to throw the country into confusion and chaos."

"An election right now would cause a run on the dollar and a chain reaction of minority governments."

No party could win a majority within the next year or two, he said, but an immediate election the Liberals would form a minority government.

Occasional heckling interrupted his speech, and once when he mentioned Canadians who had made sacrifices during the Second World War, he was interrupted by shouts of "not Caouette."

"The Liberals encouraged his party by not taking a stand on the issue," retorted Mr. Thompson, referring to Deputy Social Credit Leader Real Caouette's refusal to join the armed forces during the war.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was active and prices firm to higher and good and choice steers, heifers and yearlings at the Ontario public stockyards this week.

Cow prices were lower and bull's were steady.

Lamb prices were unchanged as hog's were slightly higher. Cattle receipts were some 1,300 head more than last week and about 500 more than the same week in 1961. Cattle receipts from Western Canada were some 50 less than last week at 567 head. Western stock calf numbers were down 371 from last week at 867. There were 58 cattle received from New Brunswick. There were no shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers nor exports of the market to the United States.

Saluhgter cattle: Choice steers 29-30; mixed 28-29; cutters 28-30; sales to 31 and a few fancy loads to 31.60; goods 28-29; medium 24-27; commons 19-23; heifers 28-30; cutters 28-30; medium 25-27.50; common 19-25; cows 16-17 with sales to 17.50; medium 14-15.50; commons 14-14.50; canners and cutters 12-13.50; good heavy bologna bulls 19-19.50; common and medium light bulls 15-18.50.

Slaughter calves: Choice and prime light steers 26-28; good stock calves 28-32; common and medium 21-25.

Calves: Choice vealers 31-33; odd tops as high as 36; goods 28-30; cutters mostly commons 21-24; boners 15-21.

Hogs: Grade A 27.25-30.00; heavy s o w s 26.50-27.25 with light sows gaining a two dollar premium; stags 23.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 21.00-22.00 hundredweight; closing at 19; bucks discounted at one dollar per hundredweight; good heavies discounted at two dollar per hundredweight; common and mediums 16-18; good shorn sheep 8-12; yearlings 12-16; common sheep 3-7.

Officials indicate that the reserves will be used in other figures in the months ahead, including year-end payments of interest and dividends to foreign investors and the seasonal drop in export earnings resulting from the closing of navigation on the Great Lakes.

MUST MAINTAIN

One problem is that of maintaining the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar within one per cent above or below the pegged rate of 92.5 U.S. cents. For the last month the dollar has been nudging the 93-cent level. But if it should fall, the government would have to sell U.S. dollars from the exchange fund to prevent it dropping too far.

Some weeks ago Prime Minister Diefenbaker said that because of the large deficit and the growing volume of trade and investment, the exchange reserves must be increased to a level higher than in the last decade.

This level has been around $1,900,000,000, and informants say the government is thinking that a workable level should be around $2,250,000,000.

Charges May Be Laid After 3-Car Crash

Three district men escaped possible serious injury Friday night as the result of a three car collision on highway No. 33, near Bataws.

Provincial Police Constable J. D. McLean said a southbound car driven by Wayne Henry Coltman, 21, of Trenton, apparently went out of control on the curve.

The Coltman vehicle was said to have sideswiped a northbound vehicle driven by Joseph Wilfred Roy of Frankford, then continued on a short distance and struck a few guard posts before plowing head-on into a second northbound vehicle, being driven by Clarence Wilfred Morer of Trenton.

All three cars are considered total wrecks. None of the men was injured.

Police say charges are pending against Coltman.

Prices Remain Unchanged on Local Market

Despite the chilly weather a large number of vendors and customers were present on the local market. Prices remained unchanged from last week. Local potatoes, excepting the winter varieties, are getting into short supply.

Potatoes held firm at $3 a bag while eggs were steady at 55 cents a dozen for the large size. Carrots were 25 cents a basket and cabbage from 15 cents to 25 cents a head. Radishes, white and red were 10 cents a bunch.

Apples were plentiful.

Effort on Arms Cutoff May Get Broad Support

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A Canadian effort to meet the demands of non-aligned countries for a total nuclear-test cutoff by Jan. 1 appeared headed for broad support in the United Nations today.

Meetings of the General Assembly's main political committee were adjourned Friday night and informal consultations continued during the weekend in an attempt to find concurrence in a wildly confused situation.

LL-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief delegate, issued a revised amendment Friday incorporating some ideas put forward principally by Ghana and also by Madagascar and Mauritania.

The Canadian proposal now envisages "an interim arrangement limited in time suspending all underground tests" if a comprehensive treaty is not reached by the Soviet Union, United States and Britain before Jan. 1.

NOT A CHANGE

Questioned by a reporter on Friday night, Burns said this is not a moratorium—a concept rejected by the U.S. and Britain but does not represent a change in Canadian policy.

"Any change we made was to facilitate an agreement to stop tests," said Burns, stressing that the whole purpose of the Canadian initiative was to obtain a treaty with necessary controls.

READY FOR SEASON — Activity at the Trenton Curling Rink got underway Friday night with the Trenton Industrial League having the first crack at the ice. — First stone was thrown by Deputy-Mayor (Councillor) Ed Todd, who wished the curlers "good luck" for the season. This year, 16 rinks, 64 curlers, are playing in the industrial league, which was formed and proved to be popular, last year.

in Calcutta every three hours, each with a payload of about 40,000 pounds.

Among the weapons in the airlift will be mountain howitzers and 81-mm mortars given by Turkey.

Heavier equipment, such as tanks, was expected by ship within a few weeks.

The U.S. weapons were due to be rushed immediately to the front as was a consignment of British arms that arrived early in the week.

Modern rapid - firing British rifles already were said to be in the hands of Indian soldiers at the front.

Chinese forces have paused in their drive for several days, apparently waiting for reinforcements to bring up materials moving over roads built by a huge labor corps.

Indian officials said they believe North Koreans are among the Chinese forces, and that Tibetan coolies are carrying Red supplies through the mountains.

Informed sources said long convoys of Chinese trucks carrying troops and heavy weapons were converging in Chinese-occupied Tibet several miles from the McMahon line, which is recognized as the border by India.

In the eastern border sector, the Indian forces are strongly entrenched along the 14,000-foot Se La Pass which commanded Chinese positions in the Towang Valley. Beyond the ridge lie the foothills of the Northeastern Frontier Agency, but it would need a full-scale Chinese assault to break through the Indian defensive position.

On the western end of the border, the Chinese have taken over nearly the entire area of Ladakh claimed by them in the territorial dispute with India.

CHARGE MOTHER

WINTHROP, N.Y. (AP) — A cancer-stricken mother of four was arraigned Friday on a murder charge in the shooting of her husband, who, she told police, had threatened to kill her because he had spent all his money on their treatments. Mrs. Myrtle Harvey, 43, was ordered to undergo a mental examination Monday.

A Community Challenge

Over the past number of weeks a plan has been revealed by the Belleville Parks Board to make Zwick's Island into a park par excellence. The plan is striking one for it outlines to the full the potential development which this natural area affords the citizens of this community.

The overall, complete plan calls for the inclusion not only of a sand bathing beach with bath-house facilities, a canteen with washrooms, picnic tables and barbecue facilities, docking facilities and a boat ramp, ball diamond and parking facilities but also a football field, a bandshell and a community centre building. The former are the immediate, short range objectives of the Parks Board whilst the latter are of a long range nature.

These are ambitious plans but they are most carefully considered ones. They are not the result of a brief intense fervor of a group which has decided they wants to do something really big. Much careful consideration has gone into the proposed development plans taking into account many factors including costs, available facilities, future needs of the community and the various ways of bringing such plans to fruition.

Needless to say the latter is the most important for without a sound scheme to actually build and create the above-mentioned facilities there is but little hope that the citizens of the community will enjoy such advantages in the future.

The need for such facilities should be readily apparent if given any amount of deep thought It needs but a cursory visit to existing city parks and her geographic location to realize that despite the fact she is situated on one of the finest bays in Ontario her citizens do not have a decent beach or bathing area at hand. She also does not have one park which could be called a showplace, with the possible exception of Victoria Park which has certain inherent limitations.

The Parks Board has decided to go to the public-spirited citizens, particularly the service clubs, for assistance in bringing about the realization of the first stage of the Zwick's Island project.

They have chosen this approach instead of going to the provincial government because aid from the latter, in the form of matching dollar for dollar up to a certain amount, would require prior commitment to providing camping facilities for transient recreation-seekers and obligate the board to charging admission to users of the parks at the same fee as is required for provincial parks. The board felt, and rightly so, that a city park and its facilities should be available at no additional cost to the public beyond that which is raised through the mill rate, which would prove sufficient to maintain the area.

Recently the parks board announced that it was in a position to accomplish the initial step of providing power and water service to the Zwick's Island area. It now looks to the service clubs for some assistance in carrying the ball.

For such a worthy project which will, upon its completion, provide this community with a first rate recreational area and facilities there should be the whole-hearted support of the various active service clubs which have done much steadily for the betterment of the community and now have a new avenue of service opened to them.

Through a concerted effort we look forward to the responsible citizens in the city raising it to a level where they will leave it a better community for their having been here. Such is the challenge to any citizen in any community.

Tea and Sympathy

That howl in the wilderness appears to be coming from Cuba's Castro. He had publicly declared that Khrushchev has "sold him down the river."

It is odd that Castro should express so much surprise about this incident because it is really a matter of regular procedure as far as the communists are concerned when it becomes a matter of "who first?"

Of course, the United States might offer Castro some tea and sympathy to go with his sugar if it wasn't for the fact that Castro sold the United States down the river when he launched into his wholesale nationalization of American interests in Cuba. This was one way of expressing thanks for the aid which the Americans had given him back when he was truly a voice in the wilderness of Caliente Province.

Of course Castro might not be able to appreciate the finer points of poetic justice.

A pity.

Federal Wheeler-Dealers May Soon Be Sent Up River

By RICHARD JACKSON

(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Ever had an argument with the Post Office . . . or income tax difficulties with the National Revenue Department . . . You couldn't get a decision out of this Federal commission . . . or wrangle a concession out of that Federal department . . . ?

. . . In any difference of opinion, big or small, with the Federal Bureaucrats, have you ever won . . . or even come close to having it your way . . . ?

No?

Then Jack McIntosh, Conservative MP for Swift Current-Maple Creek, is your man.

But then, if you believe, as thousands of Canadians honestly do, that Federal Government employees are only doing their job, and doing it well and as Jack McIntosh in your book it little more than a trouble-making busybody.

He wants to put the Senior Federal Civil Service Brass Hats in jail for a term of 14 years and fine them up to $5,000 for the offence of "pushing people around."

ALL-CAPTIVE"

It is Jack's views that he has introduced a bill in Parliament to do just this, treat what he calls "bureaucratic oppressors" as hardened criminals.

But, you may not be so familiar with his methods for writing and presenting this extraordinary piece of legislation.

He is out to take the scalps of certain senior Civil Servants, up to and including the deputy minister level, whom he plainly regards as the bureaucratic bosses who make a career of bullying people.

He has his eye on Citizenship and Immigration, the Post Office, National Revenue and the Finance Department, but won't draw the line even there.

For in his belief there is "scarcely a department anywhere in the government that doesn't suffer from a power complex, hardly a department which does not make it a favorite sport to persecute the taxpayer."

What Mr. McIntosh regards as the "basic trouble," is that the Government, this one and previous Liberal administrations that came before it, became "captive" of the senior Civil Servants with the Cabinet Ministers held "hostage" by the senior officials of their departments.

HELPLESS

The way he sees it:

"We have a great political party the taxpayers elect — no matter which Government is in power, Liberal, Conservative or — the Bureaucracy, the Civil Service 'power elite' still runs the country."

But aren't the Members of Parliament supposed to have the ultimate power and ability to say and even nip in the bud the Government and their votes in the House of Commons.

That, agrees Mr. McIntosh, is the theory.

But with the government "in river" the Civil Service brass hats, with the Cabinet Ministers held "hostage" by their own top departmental officials, the theory simp.y does not work.

Mr. McIntosh feels exactly the same way as do a surprising number of Parliamentarians . . . and that is holding a deep-seated conviction that the "Big Bureaucrats" are the real "Little MP" with little less than utter contempt.

And the Senior Civil Servant does not disregard us as such small change as to not be worth his noticing — we are not even us as nuisances, like children who must be disciplined and never indulged.

The worst way an MP can go about getting something for a constituent or his riding is to ask for it.

And in this belief, the Prairie MP is far from alone, many of his fellow-Members having complained, more or less helplessly, that there is nothing in his official life that a Bureaucrat seems to enjoy more than downgrading the politician and as cavalierly as possible, denying him his rightful requests.

ROD OF PUNISHMENT

Bluntly — and with documents to support some of his charges — Mr. McIntosh accuses some of the Bureaucrats of deliberately doing the taxpayer dirt, not harrassing him, but actually denying him his rights under certain Federal statutes, such as the postal and tax laws.

Mr. McIntosh, Saskatchewan Conservative has a nice turn of phrase, too.

Speaking of his bill, given First Reading, to make the Bureaucratic bully pay up with 40,000 days in jail or a $5,000 fine, he said this:

"It gives the Canadian citizen a voice to warn and a rod to chasten those of his servants who, in pride of power he has entrusted to them corrupt the pervert his laws to his own hurt; to Civil Servants it gives the Bill of Rights as the Golden Rule by which to measure the rights and freedoms of the citizen against the caprices of the particular law the servant administers."

Mr. McIntosh sees his bill assuring the application of the Bill of Rights to the multitudinous and ever-multiplying Federal statutes, rules, orders, regulations and proclamations, so that the ordinary tax-paying citizen then has a chance against his lawful occasions free of wrong harrassment in legal guise by holders of Federal public office."

Hear, hear. God Save; the Queen.

Statesmanship Hit Dead Loss

Hamilton Spectator

Many years ago Mr. Bob Edwards, irreverent editor of the Calgary Eye-opener, wrote: I know what a statesman is. He is a dead politician. We need more statesmen...."

Another refreshing commentator on Canadian political life, but in modern times, is Mr. Jack Pickersgill, administrator of "The Mackenzie King Record," former minister of immigration in the Liberal government and author of the Canavista-Twillingate in Newfoundland.

From his "home" constituency Mr Pickersgill said in Vancouver the other day it was becoming harder and harder for politicians for acting like politicians. But when the criticism comes from outside politicians, it's just a case of the Liberal pot calling the Conservative kettle black — although we don't think of it, Mr. Diefenbaker does get all steamed up when the kettle's on.

Anyway, it is stimulating that both the Prime Minister and Mr. Pickersgill can still talk and act like politicians. We hope they don't become statesmen, at least in the Bob Edwardsian sense, for many years to come.

Last Laugh To Who'Quaffs

Vancouver Sun

It's a matter we'll leave up to Canada's antiquarians whether there ever was a Canadian pub, or tavern, or beer parlor, named after a living Canadian statesman, general or editorial.

The reason we ask is that we're intrigued by the naming of a pub in London's Wandsworth Road after old Herbie Morrison, the one who's now better known as Lord Morrison of Lambeth.

Happily, Mr.—pardon us, Lord—Morrison was himself on hand to unveil the pub sign (designed by cartoonist David Low), while a large crowd, including two brewery dray horses, looked on in admiration.

We don't think the living Canadian politician (even one elevated to the Senate, as Mr. Morrison was elevated to the Lords) would feel anything but queasy about having a tavern named after him—much less having it unveiled.

We're not sure whether it's because the British have more sense of humor or less than Canadians that they have their pladium of Marquess of Granby, Earl Stanhopes, Dukes of Wellington and the like, even with the Red, Blue and White Lions, the Beg o' Nails and the Bull and Bushes.

We know Mr. Diefenbaker would not be amused if somebody invited him to open the Diefenbaker Arms; nor would another eminent politician smile so toothily at the thought of the Mike Heavers.

But does this prove Canadians have a superior sense of humor?

Belleville Retail merchants will close their stores every Wednesday afternoon throughout the year with the exception of the two half-holidays immediately preceding Christmas. This was the decision at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Section held under the auspices of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, with two motions and one amendment regarding the Wednesday closing being offered.

Canada's oldest banking institution — the Bank of Montreal today, November 3rd, observes the completion of a century and a quarter of continuous and successful operation. It was in 1843 that the bank appointed G. Benjamin as its first agent in Belleville. While today Belleville has a population of some 16,000 and is the centre of one of the most prosperous agricultural and dairying sections of Canada, and has also a diversity of industries, the bank's ability to its business life to a remarkable degree, at the time of its founding in 1817, when Belleville had a population of perhaps 2,000 souls, housed in the majority of cases in buildings constructed of wood and whose chief industry was lumbering. Since the bank opened, it has been in charge of a long succession of capable managers. The present manager, R. H. Dredge, was appointed in 1938.

Plant Location Requires Study

Oshawa Times

One can understand the concern that led to the presentation of an auto-workers' brief in the Ontario Legislature last week. Several cities in southwestern Ontario — Windsor in particular — have suffered serious losses of industry in recent years, with the resulting losses of assessment and population and depreciation of property values.

Premier Robarts has promised to give the brief careful consideration. We hope that he does not just set it on the top-point of the removal of industry from one point to another, but from the broader viewpoint of distribution of industry in general.

It is proper that the government take an interest in the movement of a major industry from one city to another, not only is there the obvious effect on the community that suffers the loss, but there will be just as direct an effect on the community that gains the industry, and a less direct but almost as important regional effect.

It is not logical to expect government to freeze the location of industry. There are many factors that go into the decision to move a move from one place to another — transportation changes, sources of materials, developments in marketing, even the social and psychological climates of the communities involved. It is possible for a community, by its conduct, to add greatly to the difficulties of industrial operation; while an industry may owe the community no obligation, the community in turn has a certain obligation to its sources of employment.

For all that, it is logical in these days of grossly unbalanced urban growth, to expect government to show more leadership than it does in both the location and movement of industry.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected for a second term 26 years ago today—1936—in a landslide victory. Only Maine and Vermont were behind his opponent, Alfred M. Landon. The politico-crippled Democratic president won an unprecedented majority term in the 1944 elections, but died suddenly in April, 1945, weakened by the strain of the years of the war- then drawing to a successful ending.

1950—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the federal Parliament may not delegate its exclusive powers to any provincial legislature, and vice versa.

To Your Good Health

Hardening of Arteries In Brain Impairs Organ

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother's memory is becoming very poor. She is 82. The doctor has diagnosed it as blood cholesterol "senility," and wants her placed in a state institution for treatment.

We do not wish to do this as she is not insane, just quite forgetful. Wouldn't it be possible by diet and medication to treat her at home? Will treatment cause her to recover from this type of sickness? How long would it take? — E.E.A.

The cholesterol is an indication of what has been occurring, and changing its level isn't calculated to undo previous damage.

In all probability severe hardening of the arteries has taken place in the brain, impairing memory. To be sure, there may be some other condition too, and I would have no way of knowing about that, but I don't think it matters much as far as your basic question is concerned.

Hardened arteries won't "unharden." There may be moments in which your mother's memory may improve, but I regret to say that there is no indication that either medicines or diet of any kind will restore memory lost from such causes.

You say your doctor "wants" her placed in a state institution. Does he mean by that he has simply suggested it?

This is something you should talk over with him more thoroughly. It isn't a matter of being "insane." It is a very practical question of whether she is cooperative and can adjust to family living. There are people (both old and young) who are mentally ill in that sense, yet are tractable and can be cared for safely at home.

There are others, and here I don't think of old people, whose trouble is sheer forgetfulness, but they cannot be safely kept at home unless they are watched every minute. They may turn on a gas stove and forget to light it. Or scald themselves in a bathtub because they forget to turn off the hot water, or do any number of tragic things.

Doctors dread leaving any unsafe possible step to avert having such things happen. Your mother, at 82, has encountered this trouble earlier than most, but it does happen at times, and when it does, we must look at the facts clearly.

If your mother can be kept at home safely, without putting herself or others, by all means let her stay. But if your doctor says danger, then listen to him. He doesn't urge an institution without having good reason to do so — for there is no more sorry sight of beds, and you may well find that you have a tough, lengthy period before one is available. Your doctor may have been thinking of that, too, you know.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At a recent local ratepayers' meeting, there was a heated discussion of the duplication of jobs in the welfare operations of the city. It seems one man could do the work of the fourteen at present employed, if there was a system of re-organization of the work.

With automation in industry, and enlightened business practises being scientifically studied and put into effect by nearly all universities and their graduates, it looks as if jobs are going to be steadily harder to get in the years to come.

"The big problem," said the man sitting beside me at the meeting, "is not how to create the number of jobs, but how to increase them. With the world city population explosion at a startling rate, and with education and technical training producing white-collar and skilled job seekers in ever-increasing proportion to the unskilled, we ought to be thinking of how to keep men on the jobs instead of trying to fire them."

The rest of those at the meeting, however, seemed to be more interested in tax bills than in puzzles of economics.

Union Trick Did Not Stick

St. Thomas Times - Journa

When the Queen Mary arrived at New York last week the commander, Catalpa-Frederick Watt knew he would be faced by pickets of longshoremen who were on strike. Captain Watts was prepared for this. He had 1918 foot liner into her berth without help from harbor tugs. At the right moment several tugs did appear and began turning the bow toward the wharf.

Suddenly they threw the cables off and quit, leaving the liner. It had been a pre-arranged trick by the unionistic pedtrick to trap the liner in a situation which they knew full would be beyond the skill of the captain and crew.

The captain and crew of the Queen Mary made it without knocking a splinter off the pier or scratching the plates.

The action of the tug men was as mean as could be. They might have caused incurrence to more than 1,000 passengers, and they did nothing to help the long shoremen's cause.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

SAVE OUR BIRDS

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Almost daily we are shocked by news of more crimes—shootings, incendiarism, vandalism of various sorts. One reason for this is the growing use of firearms. The urge for this begins early. Have you not seen a tot, still in the gocart stage, flourishing a toy pistol and pelting it at every passerby? Not so serious, but nevertheless related, are crimes committed against nature. Canadian wildlife is a treasure to be guarded. Every bird killed unnecessarily should be put on the debit side of the ledger; every sanctuary set up goes on the credit side. A red-shouldered hawk, eating far more rodents and injurious insects than prized birds, should be protected rather than shot.

More than four centuries ago Jacques Cartier landed on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River about where Seven Islands now stands. On returning to France he reported that he had seen 5,000 puffins and many great auks, his tales of cod brought numbers of fishermen to the cod banks. This really was the beginning of the destruction of our wildlife. There was never again as many great auks, because the fisherman stole their eggs and slaughtered the birds by hundreds. When Audubon landed in the same spot in 1833 he discovered many birds, but was shocked by their depletion.

RAVAGING PARTIES

In 1915 Dr. Charles Townsend found that ravaging parties were coming from New Scotia and New England to gather eggs from this same area, and brought this to the attention of the government. Accordingly in 1925 the Canadian Government sent Dr. Harrison Lewis to the district to take a census of bird life. He picked ten groups of islands for a sanctuary and then, to see that all went well, went down each year until 1945 when Dr. Oliver H. Hewitt, Chief Migrating Officer, Ottawa for some time, this duty has fallen to Wild Life Officer, Dr. Louis Lemieux, who pays the yearly visit to the Seven Islands Sanctuary although taking the census only every five years. Caretakers and a patrol are constantly on guard.

THE BIG SKY COUNTRY: MONTANA

"I saw its petals of the grass wave in the wind and softly stir as seaweed under seawater." — Eilene Wylie.

"Anything wrong?"

"No, no thanks. We're just looking for agates," we informed the rancher who was seeing our stopped by the side of the roadside, had stopped in true friendly western fashion, to see if help were needed. We had gotten out to inspect a small rocky gully far from the Yellowstone River, he stopped at all the little islands and inlets to gather $2,500 worth of agate. Paid his children to college for the next year.

"Good work," we agreed and my husband said: "It's often difficult to find access to the river with so many signs and ranch gates: No agate hunting, here."

"Don't take it too seriously," the rancher, a man in his mid-thirties, answered pleasantly. "Those signs are put there to discourage those tourists who blithely drive in and leave the gates wide open which means the cattle get out. That's all."

He swept his arm in a large arc, over the grassland, which for three hundred and sixty degrees stretched to an endless horizon, as he continued, "It happen to be like many others a great lover of this grassland. I came here after the war from Wyoming, and hope one of these days it seems the system of a ranch I have in mind. Ranching industry is a major industry here. We're proud of our cattle, the conveyers of this quality, the rich grass, into nutrition-loaded protein food. You know, thousands and thousands of buffalo once grazed these rolling plains which then belonged to the Indians.

The beef market was created, when a gold strike in 1862 brought many people to southwestern Montana and when frontier military posts and Northern Pacific railroad construction camps were working in the '70's. Thus when the Texas longhorns and the eastern cattle finally mingled here on the wide open range, it was a brief, though colorful period; due to the rigorous unaccustomed winters, predators, rustlers, branding, corkscrew, disease, na y e r s. Long needed legislation and organization came about in 1885, in the founding of the present Montana Stockgrowers Association."

He paused a moment, then went on: "The boom broke however the next year. Do you ever recall hearing about that disastrous winter of 1886-87? The grass started to die in July, the rivers went dry, due to the terrific heat. Then in November came a blizzard. (December around Christmas is the usual time for that).

There were two more that December's we're told and on the 9th of January I moved for a straight 18 hours. Another big blizzard on the 28th and for three days you couldn't see for 20 yards in any direction. It 60 below temperatures. Snow was waist deep everywhere. Cattle, wind-drifted, piled up against barb-wire fences and died. Sheltered places later that spring found filled with rotting carcasses, for the storms lasted through February. Towns were filled with starving cattle.

The state suffered a 60 per cent loss. Many stockmen lost everything and quit. Some old-timers with nerve and credit remained and their sons and grandsons now preserve the customs and traditions of the industry. Care is headed against overgrazing. It takes too long for the grass to grow again. Yes, if you abuse the land, it bits back. Ranchers are learning to own only cattle they can feed and shelter. Montana may be proud of its reputation as a top beef producer.'

"How much of Montana is pasture land?" we asked.

"About 60%. It takes millions of cattle, and a multi-million dollar investment in land, buildings, equipment and cattle to turn this grass into dollars for the benefit of the state. So its no idle statement when we say, the raising of beef is one of Montana's largest industries."

Capable Cape

By VERA WINSTON

It's the cape all the way—for day, for evening, and in every fabric and material. This one which is for daytime, is of gay Scottish plaid check and has a full collar.

Big patch pockets and the double-breasted closing below the arm slits give the cape a novel look. A tapered slit goes up pretty far in back to make for easy motion.

MISSIONARY MEETING

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Missionary Society held its October meeting in the Standard Church, Madoc.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Bronson, Mr. James Bronson took charge of the meeting.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mr. Lough from Romans 14.

A special item was a song by the Woods family. There were 22 members present.

Collection was $15.50.

A reading by Mr. Bronson entitled, "Little Things Mean a Lot".

Mrs. Lough, the speaker, took as her theme "The Kingdom of God" from Mathew 13, this was well discussed and was a challenge to all.

Meeting was closed by Mr. Rose.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. E.L. — Where did we fail? He wants to be a freethinker!

Henry L. — There's more than one road to inspiration.

Mrs. E.L.: We did all the usual things a conscientious parent is supposed to do in raising a son and up to the time Henry joined the Air Force he was growing up in a way that made us proud and happy.

During his leaves we noticed a change. He began to argue with us over every little thing — even whether to serve turkey on Thanksgiving! He suggested switching to ham and eggs just to be different. Now that he's been discharged he tells us that the old family religion is not for him, that he intends to be a freethinker. And he adds he'll move away if this embarrasses us.

It's not the embarrassment, it's the worry over how he'll get the blessing and salvation which come from religious beseeking. And he's mystified about how easily a carefully brought-up boy can forsake the old paths.

Henry L.: During my Air Force training I learned about brainwashing. And suddenly I realized that I'd been brainwashed into believing whatever my parents, my pastor and religious teachers and elders told me to believe. So I began to break through the layers of myths and tales and search for honest answers. Gradually I found facts and answers which really made sense to me.

I can't believe, for example, that it's God who rides a plane safely through a storm. It's a skilled pilot and navigator, it's a well-constructed plane. If there's an unknown "break," I'd call it Luck. But why pray for it?

I've found a faith that fits me, custom-made. It does for me whatever my mother's religion does for her. Above all it makes me tolerant and respectful toward those who differ. I wish here did the same!

The Council: Pardon the comparison, but in one way our position is the same as that of The Supreme Court of the United STATES — that is, we endeavor to speak for "all the people." Thus, while our opinions may not always be our "personal" religious beliefs, and while they may not please sectarians, both by and clergy, they aspire to fairness.

Before addressing ourselves specifically to Mrs. L. and Henry, we submit a general position on religion which may make details fit quickly into place. First of all, we are certain that everyone has a religion. For religion, in one of its definitions, means "acceptance of and devotion to some ideal or a standard for one's life." Thus each of us is guided by some sort of faith.

We might define a satisfactory religion as one which keeps the devotee on the "straight and narrow," offers him strength against life's slings and arrows, and brings him comfort when pain pile up.

But what happens, Henry, in times of terrific stress? Can your faith-system help you? Will succor you? Perhaps if you find it "wanting," you'll take a new look at the old time-tested codes. Looking back through the centuries, one may surmise that there have been millions of Henrys, millions of doubters who felt that the old forms just weren't for them, and who could founded new sects. Most of them must have proved false and inadequate. The major ones which have continued for hundreds and thousands of years must have "what it takes," — a constant answer for man's needs.

So, a complex matter may turn simple. Henry most likely will find his personal religion falls him. And then, most likely, he will turn to the mother church which his family has served and preserved for generations — and, we might add, been served by too.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

MAIL CALL

Question: When a doorman hails a cab for you, is it necessary to give him a tip? What is the usual charge? I thought a dime was sufficient, but recently, when I got into a conversation with friends on this subject, several said a quarter was the usual rate today.

Mrs. C.M.V., Riverdale, N.Y.

Answer: That's correct. A doorman at an apartment house, a hotel or a restaurant usually received a quarter for getting a cab, then helping you into it.

Question: A friend is coming to visit for a few days. She lives quite a distance, and will take a train. Should we, as hostess, pay for her traveling expenses, or is this something she should properly take care of herself? — Mrs. C.P., Albany, N.Y.

Answer: A guest always makes her travel arrangements and pays all expenses himself. During his or her stay, the host, on his part, takes care of any expenses relating to the entertainment of the visitor.

Question: A friend of mine happened to be present at a time when my date arrived to take me to a movie. She said she'd love to see the picture, too, and did we mind if she came along. Of course there was nothing else I could do but agree. My date paid for her ticket and, after the theatre, invited her to come with us for a late supper. He paid her share of the check, as well. I felt very embarrassed, since he was saddled with an extra girl, and had to pay for two meals. I'd like to reimburse him, but wonder if this would be the correct thing to do. — Miss M.T., Oshawa.

Answer: It was very thoughtless of your friend to force her way into your arrangements for the evening. But your date acquitted himself gallantly. It would be incorrect to offer to pay the extra expenses, which he absorbed very understandingly at the time. Your friend should be thanked, though, for handling such a trying situation with such tact and graciousness.

A Lift for Living

Jesus Said to His Followers 'Ye Are Salt of the Earth'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

It is a very genuine tribute which we pay in a person when we call him "the salt of the earth." We use this expression only for those whom we know pretty well, for it is a compliment which grows out of companionship. Those whom we call "the salt of the earth" are the friends who make fellowship enjoyable, who keep the milk of human kindness flowing, who put flavor and tang into the life around them.

And this is the tribute which Jesus paid to his followers. He said to them, "Ye are the salt of the earth."

To get the full force of the figure, let us consider the functions of salt. For one thing, salt is a subtle substances which brings out the flavor of that with which it is mixed. Salt is an element which other things, even the acids, seem to require in order to be and remain themselves. When salt is added to food in proper proportions, it does not call attention to itself but rather to the natural taste of the article seasoned. It makes the egg taste more like an egg; it makes the carrot taste more like a carrot — however desirable that may be! But when salt is denatured, a dish that we become conscious of it, then it detracts. So is it with persons. Some are the salt of the earth. They do not call attention to themselves. They do not call attention to themselves. They do not dominate, others, but rather they help others to be more truly and richly themselves.

"SALT" TEST

We should subject all our closest human relationships to the "salt" test. Are we overabsorbing or enriching the personalities of those we love? I knew a girl who was radiant, alive, vivacious. Now after twenty years she has become a pale copy of her dominating mother. Former admirers have viewed a father trying to make his son into a pattern of himself.

And he rebuked the parent saying, "You know and I know and God knows that one like him is enough for the world."

Another trait of salt is that it penetrates what it touches. It is an active agent. It is not like a sponge, absorbing from what is around it but rather it is penetrative, giving out its seasoning power. So it is with persons who are the salt of the earth. They are not mere receptacles. They do not sponge. They spread influence.

Again, salt is a preservative. It check deterioration. Jesus did not say: "Ye are the sugar of the earth." There is a temporary sweetness which tomorrow will turn, but there is a saltiness which keeps things sweet.

Truth, then, is the sweeping and forceful figure Jesus used when He said to His followers: "Ye are the salt of the earth."

As a boy on the farm I saw how a little country church uplifted the moral standards of a rural community. As a young man I watched the work of the church in a country-seat town. It was the centre of social and cultural life. Even in this great city where my adult life has been lived and where the churches crouch under the eaves of the skyscrapers, religion still leavens the civic spirit.

Look in depression days of 1933 when money was so scarce that many thought the churches were too expensive to maintain, a writer with a gift of imagination wrote an article projecting into 1960. It depicted what happened in America after the churches were closed in the 1930's.

PEOPLE MISSED, CLERGY ...

The first thing the people missed after the closing of the churches was the lack of clergy to conduct funeral services and convey comfort in sorrow. Loved ones were buried like dogs. Then the colleges began to close because it was the church people who had supported them. Shortly thereafter the public schools became demoralized because the people who had no children asked why they should be taxed to educate the children of others. After that the fraternal orders, like the Masons, ceased to function because they are founded on religious principles.

Then the police protecting life and property became prohibitive because people had to carry their own firearms. Finally, the American people petitioned the American emperor — because democracy had eventually died without religious principles to support the churches. Life was intolerable without them.

Many of us do not seem to care whether or not the church is around the corner. But take out the churches and "the salt will have lost its savor."

Enclosed is a recipe for Open Sesame Pie which was the recipe awarded the prize in a baking contest of several years ago. It is not "garnished with pecans" as your reader stated, but they may be added later. Many thanks for the excellent recipes which you have lavished upon us in your columns — of which I have been a faithful reader for many years . . . M. E. C.

OPEN SESAME PIE (courtesy M. E. C.):

Shell: 2 to 4 tablespoons sesame seeds, 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water.

Toast sesame seeds in 9" pie pan at 325 deg. for 8 to 10 minutes until light golden brown. Remove seeds and turn oven to 450 deg. Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl. Add toasted sesame seeds. Cut in shortening until particles are the size of small peas. Sprinkle water over mixture, a little at a time while tossing and stirring lightly with a fork. When dough is moist enough to hold together, form into a ball. Roll out to fit 9" pie pan. Fit loosely into pan. Flute edge and prick pastry generously with a fork. Bake at 450 deg. Pafr. for 10 to 12 minutes until gold en brown.

Date Chiffon Filling: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin (1 tablespoon), ¼ cup cold water, 1¼ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup pitted dates, very finely chopped, ¾ cup whipping cream, beaten thick, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar nutmeg.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat together milk, egg yolks, ½ cup sugar and salt in top of double boiler until well blended. Cook over hot water until mixture will coat a metal spoon. Add softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until almost set, stirring occasionally. Fold in whipped cream, vanilla and dates. Beat egg whites until slight mounds form when beater is raised. Add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition, and continue beating to make a meringue which stands in stiff glossy peaks when beater is raised. Fold into date mixture. Spoon into cooled baked pie shell, heaping into fluffy mounds. Chill until firm. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg before serving. If preferred, garnish with pecans.

ANSWERS:

Thank you for a prompt response and for your heartwarming words. I hope Alice McK., who requested Open Sesame Pie, sees this for she did not give her address.

EMERSON — HOWE

Baskets of white chrysanthemums and baby-white 'mums graced the sanctuary of Christ Church, Belleville, on October 27th at 12 o'clock noon, when Carolyn Frances, daughter of Mrs. Raymond E. Howe, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Howe, became the bride of Mr. John Edward Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Emerson, of Halloway, Ontario, with the Rev. Everett F. Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiating.

The church organist, Mr. John Croyden Withers, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Fisher of Foxboro in her rendition, prior to the processional, of "O Perfect Love," and "The Wedding Prayer," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James Howe, of Toronto, the petite bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length gown of white peau de soie fashioned on classic lines with rounded neckline accented by embroidered Sweetheart roses. The long, sheath-like sleeves were lily-pointed over the wrists and the softly-bell-ed skirt, which was enhanced by a detachable overskirt caught at the front by a satin bow, cascaded into a chapel train. She wore a crown type tradescent bonnet headdress encrusted with seed pearls, with elbow-length veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

She was attended by Mrs. Gordon Fuller, of Oshawa, as matron of honor, and by Miss Judy Lang, of Belleville, and Miss Ann Emerson, of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. All were attired in royal blue peau de soie, in ballerina-length, featuring bateau necklines, fitted bodices with three-quarter length sleeves. They wore pill-box type headdresses in matching shade with front pouffs, matching satin shoes, white wrist-length gloves, pearl ear-rings and carried cascade bouquets of white 'mums and pink carnations mingled with ivy and tied by white satin bows.

Mr. Douglas Townsend, of Minden, Ontario, attended the bridegroom. The guests were ushered by Messrs. Paul and Raymond Emerson, of Halloway, brothers of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece ensemble in gold brocade in metallic style, with matching jacket, brown satin head-dress with tiny veil, brown accessories and corsage of white carnations tied with gold satin ribbon. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother wearing a two-piece turquoise chiffon-over-sheath, with white ribbed hat, black accessories, and corsage of pink carnations tied with pink satin ribbon.

Mr. Frank Long of Belleville was Eastminster.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask covered by a three-tier, all-white wedding cake and with white wedding bells, and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with white tulle and tiny royal blue flowers. Lovely five-branched silver candelabra with tall, white candles and the bridal flowers completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to the upper United States, Ottawa and Quebec, the bride chose a two-piece green double-knit suit, with white mariboo hat, white gloves, black patent leather accessories, black Persian jacket, with mink collar, and corsage of red and white baby carnations tied with red satin bow.

Among the honored guests present were, the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Herbert Townsend, of Halloway; Mrs. George Anderson of Trenton, and Mrs. Albert Howe, of Belleville, grandmother of the bride.

Others present were from Belleville; Toronto; Perth; Halloway; Carrying Place; Wooler; Trenton and other neighboring districts.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was the honored guest at two miscellaneous showers, one which included a dinner at the home of Mrs. George Balazs, of Belleville, with Miss Jane Ann Thompson as co-hostess, given by the girls' staff of the Ontario Intelligencer. The others at the home of Mrs. Ross Cronkright, nee Sandra Fisher, with Mrs. Ross Fisher as co-hostess; at a presentation from the bride's co-workers at the Ontario Intelligencer, of an electric kitchen clock. The beautiful gift of Prince of Wales School, of which he is vice-principal.

Surprise Party Held for Couple

IVANHOE — A surprise party was held on Friday and Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, arranged by Mr. MacMillan's sisters and brother, Mrs. Ed Holland, Trenton (Emma), Mrs. Arthur Harrington, Stirling (Lily), Mr. Cecil Bert McGowan and Mrs. McGowan of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, whose birthdays are four days apart, are now 83 and 78 years of age.

The afternoon was spent in visiting, reminiscing of childhood days. Mrs. J. Chase, of Gardenville, a cousin, was also present.

A beautiful hymn, "My Mother Sang To Me," was sung over Trenton radio station on "Back To the Bible Hour," in honor of Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan, requested by sisters Emma and Lillian.

A sumptuous supper was provided and served by the guests. A prettily decorated birthday cake, made by Mrs. Ed Holland, was served.

Following supper, Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan were presented with many lovely gifts, also a number of greeting cards.

This community joins in wishing the MacMillans many happy returns of the day.

McCRORY — GRAY

A lovely fall wedding was performed in Codrington United Church recently, when Florence Joyce Martha Gray was united in marriage to Denton William McCrory of Meyerburg. The Rev. John McCallum, B.A., of Wooler, officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length bridal gown of white satin featuring a Sweetheart neckline beaded with tiny pearls. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion flowed from a matching headdress. She carried a small white Bible crested with miniature red roses with cascading rosebuds.

The bride's attendant was Miss Doris Colden of Roslin, who wore a Colilloon-length pale yellow silk chiffon over taffeta dress with matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of mauve and yellow 'mums. The pert little flower girl was Miss Debbie Gray, sister of the bride, who was attired in a short pale mauve nylon dress with matching pale mauve bandeau as her headdress. She carried a bouquet of tiny yellow and mauve 'mums.

½ ½ MORE ½ ½ to say

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Winston McCrory.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gray of Orland when the bride's mother received the guests wearing a navy dress with white accessories and the mother of the bridegroom assisted dressed in a matching turquoise ensemble.

For the wedding trip to points west the bride chose a beige dress with beige accessories.

Prior to the wedding the bride was honored at two bridal showers; one at the home of her parents where she received many and useful gifts and at the home of Miss Doris Colden in her home in Roslin which was attended by many old friends of the family at which time she received many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. McCrory are residing in Campbellford.

Folk and Fairy Tales Important to Children

VANCOUVER (CP)—Folk and fairy tales are almost as important to children as their daily bread and butter, says story-teller Sada Duncan.

"These stories encompass the wisdom of the race," says Mrs. Duncan, who tells tales and trains story-tellers at the Vancouver public library.

"Through the centuries they have been told and retold until they are polished and shining."

"By reading and telling them we can lead a child into the attitudes we hope he will have as an adult. We can also lead him to a life-long love of literature."

She says fairy tales and folk stories will nourish the child and develop the creative imagination.

"When a child is listening to the story, he fills in the background, the decor, the incidental actions, the mood and the costumes. He'll do an amazing job of it too."

KEEPS FANTASY

She says a steady diet of television or movies shortchanges a child. Children could lose touch with fantasy—"the most delightful and painless way to stretch and grow and learn."

Mrs. Duncan, a graduate of Columbia University, New York, who worked in Calgary before coming to Vancouver, says story-telling establishes a better rapport between the child and the subject than story-reading.

The small bright-eyed woman with long curly auburn hair and an easy, lilting laugh says she doesn't do handsprings, use gestures or elocution methods when telling a story.

"I just stand up with the story in my head, and I don't talk to children as if they were smaller or less a person than myself."

She does not think that some of the horrendous happenings in stories by such authors as the brothers Grimm frighten children.

Most adults forget they were not frightened by the same stories, she says.

People of Old Vienna Proud To Be Living 'Behind Times'

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Vienna — Save your imperial money, boys, the Hapsburgs shall rise again.

All is in readiness. The Holy Roman crown, jewels and sceptre of Empire sparkle in the Treasure Room of the Imperial Palace. So what is called, presumably for tourism purposes, the Carriage "Museum" of Schoenbrunn Palace, the coronation carriage has its axles and velvet-covered leather straps lubricated regularly, just to keep in practice, there are periodic salutes sobreet here, complete with footmen in costume. And the Vienna Boys Choir outgrows many a boy rehearsing for The Day.

Say "Franz Josef" to a Viennese and you'll bring a tear to his eye. Go to the historic Spanish Riding School — which is no more Spanish than anything else in Vienna — and picture the glossy pearl-colored Lipizzaners prancing at a coronation procession to end all coronation processions; it will bring a tear to your eye. Mention Johann Strauss over a glass of new white wine, and even the waiter-shot will burst out bawling.

Such is Vienna, half a century later than it thinks, living half a century behind the times and proud of it. Make no jokes about masochism, Vienna is the cradle of the Austro-Hungarian empire. If anyone held a preference on the matter today, it would win feathers down.

NO JAZZ HERE

Sit, if you will, in the red damask-and-gilt splendor of the ancient Sacher Hotel, where the portrait of Frau Anna Sacher glowers with maternal disapproval, as in the days when she dispensed over-the-bubbling Viennese schmaltz and gypsy drippings. "Every Austrian is half Hungarian," they'll tell you, meaning half-gypsy.

At the aforementioned Schoenbrunn Palace, a kind of rich man's Versailles, the Emperor could move in as fast as the tourist could get his camera out. The acres of manicured lawns, classic statuary and miles of walks framed by tower ing square-clipped linden are a meticulously maintained as the day Empress Maria Theresa finally satisfied herself that she had put-out-loud-and-clear-enough ring the scene like a tiara painted on a canvas sky is the Glorietta, a magnificent house on a misty hill, the high point of an afternoon's regal strolling.

Downtown at the Imperial Palace things are a bit more demo-cratic. Traffic streams right by the arches of the royal apartments and the courtyard is a public park where government officials and sightseeing buses.

Here once stood, in patient attendance, the Spanish Court of the Emperor. In a corner above are the one-time quarters of Archduke Rudolph, the ill-fated heir of Mayerling.

The ballet echoes of Alt Wien still ring in little ways from the shaded boulevards of Ringstrass to Vienna Woods. The opera house remains the scene of Europe's most glittering performances, and during the season there are balls for everyone from the Philharmonic Society to the Plumbers' Union.

The common people have their own ways of preserving custom. The not-too-bright-and-not-too-dim coziness of the Cafe Reichsrat, elderly gentlemen in celluloid collars and ladies in soft felt hats dawdle for hours over cups of coffee and glasses of water. Doddering waiters from the dawn of time file the dozens of well-thumbed periodicals back in their racks, and the new issues are the only signs of the march of time.

Coffee is an honored tradition of Vienna. Along the length of the Karntnerstrasse, espresso houses shine with aluminum pottery and the delicate pastries in which only a romantic people dare indulge themselves these days.

This place where count and duke, prince and archduke still rule, meaning is less than an hour from the Iron Curtain. But the only iron that evokes meaning to the Viennese is the Trunk of Iron lashed to a bank building on a downtown street corner. It is a petrified tree trunk into which, for 600 years, pilgrims have driven thousands of nails to signify their passing.

When you mention Iron Curtain capitals like Prague and Budapest to a Viennese, his face is likely to light up. He knows that when all is said and done they will once again be what they really always were, gay outposts of Mitteleuropa society tucked safely under the wings of the Hapsburg eagle.

Miss A. Armitt To Speak Here

Miss Angela N. Armitt, past president of the London Council for Adult education, who will address the Women's Canadian Club annual dinner meeting in Hotel Quinte, next Thursday evening at seven o'clock, on "Cabbages and Kings," is particularly noted for her sparkling humor.

Miss Armitt attended the London Collegiate, spent a year in England, and the University of Western Ontario where she graduated in honor English and history. For 15 years she has been on the staff of the Summer School and Extension Department at the Western University, and is now department associate.

Miss Armitt has also served as instructor in many recreation courses offered by the Department of Education. In her spare time she teaches folk and square dancing and is widely known as a square dance caller and has judged many square dance competitions in Western Ontario.

The Golden Years

Happy Couple Tell How, Why They Moved at Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"My wife and I came up to my retirement to a nice but modest neighborhood of the city. We had lived there 14 years, and in a radius of five blocks we knew possibly 20 per cent of the people.

"We had social contact with not more than six other couples in the area. We had what you would call friendship with one couple — who lived next door.

"We weren't anti-social. We were about typical in a neighborhood that has averaged a 5 per cent annual turnover in residents since World War II

"People reaching 65 nowadays in the cities simply don't have the old, dear friends that warrant their remaining on in their old neighborhood...."

This was the primary reason why Mr. and Mrs. George Panwitt moved when the pension came.

Money was the second reason.

"Our home was worth $15,000. That is too much money to be tied up in housing when your retirement income is $240 a month. At 4 per cent this $15,000 represented $600 a year. Taxes were $320 and insurance $50. Upkeep ran $250 a year. This totalled nearly $100 a month."

OTHER SERIOUS COSTS ....

But there were other serious costs, Mrs. Panwitt said. "You or somebody mentioned once that certain costs become built-in after you live in a neighborhood for a long time. This is indeed true. In our 14 years in our home, our contributions to this and that had grown from nothing to about $350 a year, or $30 a month. Church, Community Appeal, political parties Red Cross, Cancer, TB, etc., etc. There's no end to it, and you're embarrassed to tell people you can't afford it any longer...."

And, said Mr. Panwitt, there is the matter of city taxes which won't stop rising, and the more serious matter of a changing neighborhood which sooner or later will cramp the value of your property.

The Panwitts, with two married children already living far away, and with no major ambitions for retirement, took a map of the U.S. and studied it for several weeks. They decided California, Northern Missouri, Virginia, and Middle Florida were the best prospects for a retirement home. Over a period of two years they visited all four, and settled on a small town in Missouri.

"We bought an old frame house, with 10 rooms, for $6,800. Foolish? No. There was all sorts of local labor to put it in good shape. Lumber was cheap and nearly every installation, from bath tubs on, was picked up second-hand. Both of us have worked hard, but we have made a cash outlay of less than $1,400 and we have a fine, big home."

Of the 10 rooms, four are downstairs, including kitchen, dining room, living room, and "a day room" with two cots where the Panwitts take their afternoon naps. Upstairs are the Panwitts' bedroom, one guest bedroom, a "His" workroom, a "Her" workroom, a "Their" workroom, and a "Mistake" room.

"HIS" AND HER" ROOMS ..

Mr. Panwitt spends two hours a day in the "His" room where he has a desk, takes care of the bills, has hobby collections, and does other activities that are strictly his. In the "Her" room Mrs. Panwitt uses her two hours a day for sewing, mending, and her own personal hobbies which, so far, include weaving and oil painting.

The "Their" room is their main preoccupation. Here they refinish and re-upholster furniture together. When they left their city home they sold every thing that wouldn't fit into the back of their station wagon. They refurnished their six livable rooms in Missouri by going to auctions and ranging the countryside buying second-hand furniture. Reclaiming what they bought has become virtually a profession to them in retirement. Their "Mistake" room holds things they've bought and haven't yet figured out how to reclaim.

"Friends," said Mrs. Panwitt, "are yours for the trying. Get to be busy, talk to people, and be friendly. Money in a Missouri town is not important if you have money. Her comfort because most people don't have much and aren't breaking their necks to get any. As for status we've got it. We are collectors' antique hunters, skilled reclaimers of furniture, sophisticated big-city people, and we are interesting because we are always doing something.

"The fact that we are making a showplace out of that decaying old $6,800 house we bought hasn't hurt either...."

NAVAL EXPERT

Work that perfected the torpedo as a naval war weapon was started in 1872 by Britain's Admiral Lord Fisher, who died in 1920.

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—All I can think about is horses. I enjoy riding very much but my parents don't approve of me riding. They say I don't go anywhere with them, but I do get good marks in school and I ride very well.—RIDER WITHOUT A HORSE.

Dear Without — When I want to go swimming, three things have to agree.

1.—I have to use my own means and resources to pay the fare.

2.—My homework won't be shoved off.

3.—I should not spoil my parents' plans.

If everything checks out I go swimming, and you should be able to go horsing around.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—When I come home from school, I have a newspaper route. Then I go to a religious school. When I come home I have a late supper and then I have to do my homework. The trouble is that most of the time I don't have time to do my homework. What should I do?—L. H.

Dear L. H.—You know you can't do many things well, so you will have to take the two most important things and do them really well, meaning skip the newspaper route. In the long run it will pay off.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a boy friend that keeps on trying to follow me. When we play jumps, he jumps in. The girls and I don't like it. What should I do.—BOY FRIEND TROUBLES.

Dear Boy Friend Troubles—Ignore and put up with them. It's just one of the things all popular girls have to put up with. —HENRY.

Dear Henry—My son has started in a high school now. But every week he wants to stay home one day. What must I do? Forbid him to go out if he stays home from school? His father is away from home (we are divorced). School authorities here just say "Come to school or quit," that's all, no encouragement, no sermon—just these words.

He is just 15 years old. What must I do? Of course if he continues to lose time from school he will automatically be "dropped out" of school, a school rule here. Please answer. —MRS. PEGGY G.

Dear Mrs. Peggy—Go to the principal of the school. After all, they are not monsters.

Discuss your problem with him. Maybe your son is having some trouble at school and that's why he doesn't want to go. Ask the school for help. What else are they for?—HENRY.

Dear Henry—Laurie sucks her thumb when she sleeps. How can I get her to stop this? She is almost 6.—MRS. M. J. S.

Dear Mrs. M. J. S.—Tell Laurie that if she sucks her thumb while sleeping one morning she will wake up and find that her thumb is gone, for she keeps eating it up.—HENRY.

Crofton

CROFTON—Mr. John Gray is in hospital at Kingston.

Mrs. Thorvn Allan and Elaine of Peterborough, spent an afternoon last week with Mr. & Mrs. Allan.

Wants to End it All

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My husband and I have had trouble with marriage all of our ten years of wedded turmoil. All summer I have had crying spells weekly. I wished I could vanish from this earth.

I have not taken my life yet because I guess I haven't been "pushed" quite far enough to go down town and buy a gun. Of course I know it would be wrong and I am unselfish enough not to want to have my children with such a heritage. However, when I am depressed and crying, the anguish is so great that I don't want to go on.

My husband and children would not suffer if they were to depart with me, but that would take a lot of planning, and I don't seem to be able to plan anything anymore. Things just happend for better or worse.

I feel so inadequate. Can you help me?—CRYBABY.

DEAR CRYBABY—Feeling inadequate is normal—but wanting to end it all isn't—quite! You haven't really said why living isn't worth the effort to you.

Unload to a counsellor. Write to the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville, Ontario, for an appointment.

DEAR DORIS—I suppose you have received many letters from lonely girls; but I presume most of them are hungry for male company. I'm not, Doris; I just want lots of friends. I am from a small town and whever I go I have a feeling I'm not wanted.

I had a girl friend. I played with her since I was seven. We were so very much alike in personality and I loved her my sister (I don't have one.)

Last Tuesday she moved away about 500 miles from here. Before she left I thought I had lots of friends, but now I realize they were just friends to invite to parties and to say hello to. When I pass them, they ignore me. One or two will say hello out of politeness.

I have an idea that a lot of the girls don't want me in their crowd because I don't have many problems with the boys. I'm not after boys, Doris, and it wouldn't bother me if I never got a date at all. All I want is all the boys and girls to be my friends. I am so lonely I could die.—LONELY 15-YEAR-OLD.

DEAR LONELY—The French have a saying: "To part is to die a little." Your dear chum has left you, and if you were not lonely, you'd be unusual.

Life is change, and you are entering a new era. Open your mind to an interest in those girls you've been ignoring up to now. And to the boys. They'll come round—when you do.

DEAR DORIS—A girl in Holland, 26 years old, wants to immigrate to Canada, and would like a job as a social worker. She has her diploma for social work and a knowledge of the English language.

She asked me to find out for her if she would be able to find a job here and what salary she would get. If she has to study again in Canada for a diploma, etc.—ANNE.

DEAR ANNE—Since there are four or five jobs for every social worker in Canada, chances are good. Many social workers from Holland are doing important work here.

Depending on qualification and branch of the work she prefers, she may be able to start right in, or she may take some further training to get to know the practices here.

Have her write an enquiry to the International Social Service, care of Canadian Welfare Council, 55 Parkdale Avenue, Ottawa, Ontario.

DEAR DORIS—What is your opinion of a man who says he will not give money to clothe the children because the wife has no confidence in herself to try to sew? His mother is a good steamstress and he believes everybody should be like her.

He handles the money. I just hate asking for money. I will always be ONE OF YOUR READERS.

DEAR ONE—He should have married a dressmaker. Stand up for your rights.

TO MOTHER OF TEEN-AGERS—The pamphlet entitled "Adolescence," produced by the Information Services Division of the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, will put you on the right track. This little booklet discusses the teen-ager's physical, emotional and social changes, and practical problems. Ask for it at your local provincial Department of Health.

Minto

MINTO — Salem anniversary services were well attended on Sunday. Rev. H. Stobbert preached at the morning service and Rev. Payton, of Tweed, was guest preacher at the evening service. Special music was rendered by the choir.

Age 18, Occupation...?

This young man is one of the 60,000 men and women who will come onto the labour force of Ontario during the next year. He'll be looking for his first job and we can help him. In fact, there's a way we can help make 60,000 new jobs available!

What can we do? We Canadians buy imported manufactured goods at the rate of $235 per person per year. If each of us diverted $100 of this to the purchase of Canadian-made goods, we would help create 60,000 new jobs in Ontario.

Even by cutting down on our imports by $100 per person, we would still remain one of the world's greatest importers. The truth is that we've been on an import spree! Look at these figures: in Canada we import an average of $235 of manufactured goods per person each year. West Germany imports an average of $80 per person. Great Britain, $75 per person! And the United States just $35 per person!

Ours is a critical situation that, if allowed to continue, could seriously endanger our economy and our jobs.

Many consumers are not conscious of the facts. Once these become clear we will all have a better opportunity to do something about it.

Vigilance in our day-to-day purchases—in categories such as frozen foods, canned goods, drugs and cosmetics, clothing, furniture and furnishings, appliances, automobiles and many others—can help each one of us attain the $100 goal.

60,000 new jobs are needed; you can help every time you spend a dollar.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TORONTO—Four hundred Ontario Minor Hockey Association delegates paid standing tribute to a Wellington. Out, sportsmen here today.

The tribute aftermathed the presentation to Wilson "Dutch" Ainsworth of the OMHA Honor Award of the Year at the banquet climaxing the association's annual convention.

The handsome award, a replica in all detail of a hockey rink is presented annually to the person who has done outstanding work for his community minor hockey over a period of years.

The presentation rounded out a great year for the veteran Wellington sportsman, coach and ex-player. Last spring he piloted the smart Wellington bantam "D" hockey club to the OMHA provincial championship.

It was the first minor hockey title won by village teams who have been competing in OMHA competition for several years. Many times they won group and district titles, but this is their inaugural entry into the charmed championship circle.

In fact the young champions tutored, managed and "fathered" by "Dutch" were the first club to bring minor hockey titular honors to Prince Edward county.

Furthermore, "Dutch" has brought the first OMHA Honor Award to this immediate part of Eastern Ontario. The closest is Havelock where representative brought home the honor a few years ago.

The recommendation for the award was forwarded to the OMHA committee by the Wellington Amateur Athletic Association, a group of community-minded villagers who have worked with "Dutch" for a number of years in helping and developing the young athletes of the village.

I spoke with village councillor Jack Ogilvy who "talked" Dutch into coming to the convention, in the King Edward banquet room shortly after the presentation.

Jack, who rates some kind of an honor award himself for many years of activity with hockey and baseball teams of the village, told me of the untiring efforts and unselfish devotion Ainsworth gave to his hockey progress.

"For years," he said, "Dutch' gave everything he had to the boys without thought of recompense except a championship. He spent hours and days with them. They lacked for nothing while 'Dutch' was the boss. They liked him and treated him. They played hard for him and although the years failed to bring a championship Dutch was ready and rarin' to go back the next season."

The association, Jack said, thought some recognition should be made of his outstanding work with the village youngsters. Village appreciation was out of the question. "We knew Dutch would take nothing from us, so when we heard of the OMHA Honor Award, we recommended him."

"We are glad and proud of the fact the OMHA decided to honor Dutch the Honor Award recipient for the year," Ogilvy said. "I know Wellington will be proud and so will Prince Edward County." It could not have happened to a more deserving sportsman."

Personally I have known "Dutch" since the days we played hockey for Wellington Lake Ontario was our arena, catalogues our shinpads and sometimes horses and sleighs our transportation.

I think Dutch was born with a hockey stick in one hand and a baseball bat in the other. He has been "mired up" in sports since he forged passed his first football out of his crib.

"Dutch" is a quiet, soft-spoken fellow. He'll talk about sport all night, and he is no shrinking violet when coaching players. Hard to get him to talk about himself, you've simply wasting time.

He loves sport. He loves youngsters and he loves to do all he can to help them along the sometimes tough trail of development. He thinks nothing of time and effort spent as long as he achieves something.

And so to an old hockey "buddy" and friend, my heartiest congratulations. The village and county are proud of you. And I concur with Jack Ogilvy's sentiments, "It could not have happened to a more deserving fellow."

Coach To Stay With Maniago

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Too Blake says his Montreal Canadiens are "down in the dumps" and he isn't quite sure why.

"Maybe they're feeling sorry for themselves because they haven't been winning," he was saying Friday. "But it seems to be a combination of everything. Anyway too few of them are playing well."

It was suggested to him that perhaps the club lacks a spark-plug.

Blake quickly denied it, singling out Bernie Geoffrion.

"The Boomer at his best has always been an inspiration and right now he's working as hard as ever. As soon as a few more players show the same pep, we'll be all right."

When would Jacques Plante return?

"Everyone is asking about Plante as though Maniago was at fault for our losses," Blake said. "I stated before that I wouldn't change goalies unless Cesare went bad and Plante was 100 per cent healthy. That still stands."

HAVE WON FOUR

Maniago replaced Plante after the opening game of the National Hockey League schedule when Jacques came down with an asthma attack.

The Canadiens, with a record of four wins, four losses and two ties, are five points ahead of the Rangers, who share fifth spot in the standings with Boston.

In the only other game tonight, Detroit visits Toronto. The Red Wings are still unbeaten in eight games and top the league with 14 points. Toronto is fourth, a point behind Montreal.

Two more games are on tap for Sunday. The Rangers and Bruins tangle in Boston while Chicago's second-place Black Hawks meet the Red Wings in Detroit.

New York was expected to make another attempt today to lure veteran Andy Bathgate out of retirement. He was reported to have conferred Thursday with President Bill Jennings of the Rangers. It was understood that another meeting was set for Montreal.

One source said the Rangers took a set of Olmstead's sticks with them to Montreal.

Rookie Rod Gilbert won't be in New York's lineup tonight. He cracked his head on the ice in a collision with Detroit's Pete Goegan Thursday night and suffered a concussion. It was expected that he would be out for several games.

Sam Berger Will Run For Mayor

OTTAWA (CP)—Sam Berger, former president of the Eastern Football Conference and of the Ottawa Rough Riders, announced his candidacy Friday for mayor in the Dec. 3 civic elections. The former controller who was beaten by Mayor Charlotte Whitton in 1960 also called for a Dec. 9 plebiscite on Sunday sports. He said he wouldn't take sides on this issue: "That's what the people themselves should decide."

AGAIN ON TOP

LONDON (Reuters) — Huddersfield Town returned to the top of the English Second Division Friday night with a 2-2 tie with Scunthorpe United. The match was the only one played Friday in the four English Soccer leagues.

Kel Naggle Ties Player For Top Spot

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) Kel Naggle, veteran Australian professional, fired a Sunden-par 68 Friday and tied South Africa's Gary Player for the halfway lead in the 72-hole invitation golf tournament at the Royal Adelaide Club. They had scores of 139.

Jack Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion, was five strokes back with 74-70—144 and his teammate, Jay Hebert, was just another stroke off the pace at 71-74—145.

Naggle winner of the British Open championship in 1960, and Player, winner of the U.S. PGA crown, had a two-stroke lead over a pair of young Australians, Bob Tuchy and Lee Woodward, each with 70-71—141.

Habs Dump Braves 5-2; Fronts Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It isn't often that a goaltender scores a goal in hockey, but it happened Friday night in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

It wasn't a catch, though—but wasn't playing goal when he scored.

Norm Beaudin, a rookie right-winger with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, scored a goal in Habs' 5-2 win over Syracuse Braves at Hull. Then, late in the third period, Beaudin donned goal pads as an emergency replacement for Gump Worsley who was forced from the game after being hit in the face by the puck.

The win pushed Hull into first place, one point ahead of Kingston Frontenacs who were drubbed 6-1 by Quebec Aces at Sudbury Friday night.

Braves' Murray Hall ruined Beaudin's shut-out in the net by scoring Syracuse's final goal.

SCORES TWICE

Billy Carter sparked Hull with two goals, his sixth and seventh in seven games, and Bobby Rousseau, Canadiens' rookie sensation, and John Rodger and Bill McCreary. McCreary was playing his first game for Hull.

Hec Lalande scored the other Syracuse goal.

Hull plays at Sudbury Sunday and coach Sam Pollock says either Jacques Plante or Cesare Maniago, both with the parent Montreal Canadiens in the National League, will play for Hull. Wakely won't be ready.

At Sudbury, Wolves gained revenge for a 5-2 setback they suffered at Kingston last week-end.

SPARKS SHUTOUT

Wolves, in third place, built up a 5-0 lead before goaltender Jerry Cheevers' shutout was spoiled by Kingston's Bobby Leiter in the third period.

At the start of the season, Wolves scored four Friday night. Bob Woytowich scored twice and Dunc McCallum and Red Armstrong once each.

Other marksmen were Jim Johnson and Marc Dufour.

Can Add To Lead Packers Visit Chicago Bears

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Bears, the last club to get through a National Football League season without tasting defeat, have an opportunity Saturday to deny a similar honor to someone else.

The current Bears, whom their best friends wouldn't rate on level terms with the 1942 edition that last turned the trick, take a modest 6-3 record onto their home field against the formidable Green Bay Packers. On paper, their prospects look unpromising.

One reason is Paul Hornung, the Packers' all-purpose back who has led the league in scoring for the last three seasons. He's missed almost three full games with a knee injury, but may return Sunday. Even missing their ace, the Packers kept right on rolling to their present 7-0 record.

Then, too, the defending league champions have dumped the Bears 49-0 in their first meeting this season.

At least five clubs now have some hopes of gaining the eastern title, even St. Louis Cardinals, Dallas and Pittsburgh Steelers (3-4).

St. Louis, however, has shown itself to be vulnerable to a passing attack and goes against the Giants (5-2) and Y. A. Title whose passing game and what police described as a "football celebration party" at a private home.

Two Shapely Blondes Start Sexes War

BUENOS AIRES (AP)— Two shapely Swedish blondes have started a war between the sexes in Argentina. Not only are they beating every single male in sight—some of them crack drivers—in the Argentine Standard Grand Prix and making local auto race history, but in the process they have raised the age-old controversy:

Are women better drivers than men?

Ewy Rosquist, once a veterinarian helper in her homeland, and her co-pilot, Ursula Wirth, arrived here last month virtually unnoticed with West Germany's Mercedes Benz team.

The few newspapers which did take notice gave them no more than a couple of paragraphs in the inside sports pages. But Argentina's five-time world champion Juan Manuel Fangio was coaching the girls, and he warned reporters:

"They will bring a lot of surprises."

Today, Mrs. Rosquist and Miss Wirth are breaking records after record. They have already won five of the six laps of this gruelling, 11-day road race, and only one has done before. And they have beaten every speed, car construction and endurance record in sight.

In the fifth lap Friday they had such a lead over even the runners-up—even though they took a wrong turn and had to backtrack—that they had time to slow down and film the countryside, stopping at a service station for gas before arriving first at the finish line.

Fights Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hudson, Mich.—Ted Flanagan, 160, St. Paul, stopped Ernie Smith, 163, Philadelphia, 3.

CHANGE FIGHT DATE

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) A middleweight bout between Canadian champion Blair Richardson of South Bar, N.S., and Vern Lamarr of Jersey City, N.J., scheduled for here Nov. 12, has been moved up to Nov. 10. Promoter Gus MacLellan said the non-title bout would likely draw a larger crowd on the earlier date, a Saturday night.

Kaps Whip Abitibi by 6-2 Count

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)— The defending champion Kapuskasing Kaps had to overcome a two-goal deficit to whip Abitibi Eskimos 8-2 in the opening game of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Friday night.

Eskimos jumped to a 2-0 first-period lead over the powerful Kaps on goals by George Lever and Jack Powers.

But Greig Hicks, who didn't exactly sparkle in the first period, notched the tying goal in the second period after Ken Vail had beaten Abitibi goaltender Pat Gougon with a slapshot.

The other Kapuskasing marksmen were Moe Chevrefils, Bill Degurse, Ted Dupuis and Russ Beliveau.

Juniors Have New Setup

TORONTO (CP)—It has been almost automatic that the Ontario junior hockey champs represent Eastern Canada each season in the Memorial Cup finals—but this year it's definite.

Bill Hanley, business manager of the Ontario Hockey Association, told an OHA meeting Friday night that the Ottawa, Quebec and Maritimes leagues have waived their right to challenge for the Cup this year.

Since the Quebec League lost Montreal Junior Canadiens to the stronger OHA junior series, none of the eastern leagues has had a contender.

Outside of Canadiens and the once-strong Montreal Royals, the last team to represent the Ottawa, Quebec or Maritimes leagues in Memorial Cup finals was Ottawa Primroses in 1931.

Primroses lost 5-1 that year in a best-of-three series against Winnipeg Elmwoods. But, since then, only Montreal's junior Canadiens and Royals have put up any kind of a fight.

NEEDS A SERIES

This, though, doesn't mean the OHA champs will merely finish first then trek to the West for the finals.

The two OHA leagues—Metro and Ontario—will meet for the OHA crown and the winner will meet the representative of the new Northern Ontario Hockey Association junior league in the Eastern Canada finals.

Also at Friday night's meeting, OHA officials gave a $25 fine or three-game suspension to forward Germain Gagnon of Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Gagnon was rapped for attempting to kick an opponent in the penalty box.

Watch Team Win From Sidelines

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP)—Five student football players dropped from the school team following exercises Wednesday for under-age drinking, sat on the sidelines Thursday and watched their team romp to a 40-0 victory.

"If this hadn't reached the papers, we would still be on the team," one of the former members of Port Credit Secondary School Warriors commented. The Warriors beat Grand Erie Grayden Tigers.

"We deserved a reprimand and we are all ashamed at letting the school down," another said. Seven other students were convicted and another seven charged after the police described as a "football celebration party" at a private home.

Wind Causes Golf Scores To Rocket

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A 30-mile-an-hour inside golf tournament had contenders again today, but they were different from the two who set the pace in the first round.

Host pro Bert Weaver and Lionel Hebert took over first place Friday by firing a five-under-par 67 and a 68, respectively, tying them at 140 for 36 holes.

Bob Gajda of Detroit and Bo Winninger of Odessa, Tex., who led the first round with 67s, soared to 75 and 77.

The field was cut to 62 players for the final 18 holes and 151 was required to make the cutoff.

Best of the Canadian contingent was Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., who had a 72 for a 145 total. Jerry Mc-Gee cagled the 506-yard second hole with a 50-foot pitch into the cup but finished with a 73 for 147. Wilf Homemuk of Winnipeg and Al Gauthier of Montreal were tied at 150, Johnston shooting a 71 and Homemuk 74.

Canadians who missed the 151 cutoff were Harry McElree of Hamilton, 78-76—154, and Jack Blesegger, Val Morin, Que., 76-84—160.

Honor Wellington Coach

TORONTO — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association's top award given annually for outstanding service to minor hockey was presented here today to Wilson "Dutch" Ainsworth of Wellington, Ontario.

The announcement and presentation of the Honor Award was made at the luncheon climaxing the 29th annual meeting of the OMHA.

Mr. Ainsworth, long associated with minor hockey and other sports in the lakeside village, becomes the fifteenth winner of the valuable award.

He is the fourth Eastern Ontario community "Mr. Minor Hockey" to be thus honored. Others are Angus Bradley, Peterborough; D. Kirk, Havelock, and Gladwin Irving, of Norwood.

The presentation was made by OMHA 1st. vice-president Douglas Patterson, of Stirling, assisted by George H. Carver, sports editor of this news paper.

The citation forwarded by the Wellington Amateur Athletic Association was read commensurate with the presentation.

It follows —

"Wilson Ainsworth, Prince Edward county's "Mr. Minor Hockey" a dour citizen of the village of Wellington with a heart as big as Maple Leaf Gardens come by his hockey enthusiasm honestly.

"Dutch" to his intimate friends, was a stout defenceman for the old Wellington Red and Black puckchasers in the long ago Prince Edward County Hockey League known as the Blood and Thunder Loop.

"With Dutch's playing days over, his great love for hockey and interest in those who played the game burned just as intensely. He gathered a group of youngsters and commenced an illustrious career as coach, manager, and backer of clubs of good sportsmanship. That he financed these teams himself appeared beside the point.

"He taught his youngsters the give and take of hockey; how to win gracefully; to lose gallantly; to play the game hard to win but to play it according to the rules. He instilled in his teams the real spirit and meaning of good sportsmanship.

"Wilson "Dutch" Ainsworth has been turning out topflight hockey teams and players in this district for the past 28 years. He has spent countless hours teaching and preaching the fundamentals of hockey, to play it clean and honest, to be team members, not individual heroes.

"He has driven thousands of miles transporting his teams around the province on his own time, paying travelling expenses from his own pocket account.

"For a number of years the name of Wellington has stood high in the standings at the annual Bantam, Juvenile play-offs and in the Ontario playdowns. They have captured Eastern Ontario honors a number of times as Dutch's boys sparkled in peewee, midget and junior juvenile ranks.

"Last year "Dutch" brought the first OMHA championship to his village his bantam D's winning the title.

"Although with championship within his grasp, Dutch never placed the blame of lost glory on any of his players. In fact he never does say much, win, lose or draw. He just clamps down a little harder on the chewing gum, clutches those two spare sticks a little tighter and goes to the dressing room to give his boys a pat on their backs. There are no recriminations, wallings of what might have been if one had not made a mistake. These were all his boys, his champions all the way and there would be another year.

"Dutch supported other sports with the same vigor and interest. We, the citizens of Wellington are justifiably proud of him, the greatest thing to ever happen to minor hockey in this area."

Beware Of Upset

Ticat-Rider Game Finals Preview?

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Unless there is an upset the Eastern Football Conference playoffs this year, the game Sunday at Hamilton between Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders could well be a preview of the finals.

The two teams have locked up first and second place respectively. Sunday's game means nothing — except a chance to work out wrinkles, size one another up and stay in condition for the payoff games.

Barely do football teams find themselves in the pleasant position of being able to play a practice game before trying for all the marbles.

Ticats, because of their first-place finish, have a bye into the finals which gives them a decided edge.

CAN WORK OUT PLAYS

Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes meet today at Montreal to decide the last playoff spot and the winner meets Ottawa next week. Tickets, meanwhile, can sit back and work out a complete set of new offensive plays if they wish.

The only pressure will be on a newcomer, Jamie Caleb, who will be filling Bill Mitchell's hot spot—the fullback slot.

Coach Jim Trimble's luck with fullbacks has been so bad this season it wouldn't be surprising to see him try an offense next year without one.

They just don't last at Hamilton.

If Caleb is a superstitious chap, he will pack his bags and leave Hamilton immediately, despite the fact he has been there only three days.

It started with two fellows named Bob Mulgado and Ted Bower who were trying out at that position early this season. Mulgado injured a leg and was later released. Bower was sent to the junior Burlington Braves, injured a knee there and a cartilage operation put him out of football for the season.

Larry Hickman was there but was sold to Montreal.

Along came Gary Fallon. He was cut from the squad.

C. R. Roberts joined Ticats recently. He broke his ankle.

The regular fullback, of course, is Bobby Kuntz, acquired this season from Toronto. But even Kuntz has had his troubles.

He hadn't missed a game because of injury in the past 99 until he came to Hamilton and started playing that lineup position. Now he will likely miss Sunday's game because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Montreal Extends Junior Lead

Montreal junior Canadiens spread their lead to four points atop the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit as they hung on for a 4-3 win over Guelph Royals in Guelph Friday night.

Hamilton Red Wings dropped back to a second place tie with Niagara Falls Flyers as they lost 11-5 on the Flyers' home ice.

Evan Flyer goalie Fred Gardner got in on the scoring, assisting on Gary Harmer's break away goal in the first period with the Falls a man short.

Ron Schock paced the Flyers with his second three-goal performance in as many home games. Ron Hergott and Gary Dornbecker had two each for the Flyers. Bill Gladman, Don Awrey and Fern Belanger scored the other Falls goals.

Paul Henderson with two goals, and Pit Martin, Gary Spar and Bob Thomas with one each, scored for Hamilton.

The junior Canadiens, who now have three wins and three ties in six outings, took a 4-1 lead in the first two periods but had it narrowed by third period goals from John Makins and Borden Smith.

Makins also scored for Guelph in the first. Montreal scorers were Andre Boudrias, Bob Lemieux, Ivan Cournoyer and Don Fedun.

In the OHA's Metro Junior A League, Oshawa Generals were swamped 8-2 by Neil McNeil Maroons, and Marlboros beat Knob Hill 7-5.

A tow-headed 14-year-old from Parry Sound, Bobby Orr, made an impressive debut with Oshawa Generals as probably the youngest Junior A defenceman in history. Boston Bruins personnel director Wren Blair said he has been predicting a great future in the National Hockey League.

FINES PLAYERS

SEATTLE (AP)—Larry McNabb of San Francisco Seals was fined $200 Friday, and penalties of $25 each were imposed on seven other players and Spokane Comets coach Roy McBride for their part in a hockey brawl in Spokane Wednesday night. President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League said McNabb was suspended for two games and must post a $500 bond to guarantee future good behavior.

Ernie Davis Said Ready To Play

CLEVELAND (AP) — Halfback Ernie Davis now is in condition to play with Cleveland Browns of the National Football League but there is a question whether he could help the team more than the player who would have to be cut from the roster, Art Modell, club president, said Friday.

"I feel as good as I ever felt in my life," Davis said during a workout Thursday. "I'm ready now. It's just up to him," he said, pointing to coach Paul Brown.

Brown won't comment, but it is known he is reluctant to put the 22-year-old All American on the team at this time.

Davis, the nation's top collegiate player with Syracuse University, has leukemia. But the deadly blood disease is in a perfect state of remission, according to doctors. Remission means the disease has halted temporarily. This is not uncommon on leukemia cases.

Leo G. Carroll Doing Well As Priest in 'Going My Way'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Leo G. Carroll seemed the least likely candidate for the Barry Fitzgerald role in the television version of Going My Way.

After all, he is one of the most urbane and accomplished of English actors, seemingly as far removed from the folksy, Irish Father Fitzgibbon as he might be from Sergeant Bilko.

But after a few weeks of playing the elder priest to Gene Kelley's Father O'Malley, he seems as right as rain in the part and may be destined for another step of popular acclaim. He views this as a mixed blessing.

Concerning the attention of television fans in public, he comments with mild distress: "As an actor, I don't mind being talked about. You have to be. If you want to stay in the business. It's just that I don't like to be talked to."

A distinguished actor on the London and Broadway stage and a steady performer in films (Wuthering Heights, Rebecca), he had enjoyed a good living and a pleasant anonymity. He was well respected within his own profession but merely a faintly recognizable face to the general public.

Then came Topper.

The television series ran two seasons and aired me for my autograph, he said. "They had seen Topper on television."

Bisons Win Six in Row In League

BALTIMORE (AP) — Goals by Doug Robinson and Barry Cullen in the last four minutes gave Buffalo Bisons a 5-3 victory over Baltimore Clippers in the American Hockey League Friday night.

Stretching their unbeaten string to six games, Bisons were led by goalie Denis Dejordy, who made a total of 45 saves—several of them spectacular.

After grabbing a 1-0 first period lead on Jerry Melnyk's goal and then moving ahead on Jack McKenzie's goal in the second period, Bisons lagged when the Clippers registered three times within five minutes for a 3-2 lead.

Vic Hadfield put the home team on the scoreboard at 4:31 and defenceman Noel Price deadlocked the count at 2-2 after seven minutes of the second period.

Player - coach Red Sullivan then scored at close range to give Baltimore a 3-2 lead. Buffalo tied it up at 3-3 on a goal by Cliff Schmautz.

U.S. Wins Challenge Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Steinkraus of the U.S. won the Goodwill Challenge Trophy in the International Jumping competition in the National Horse Show Friday night—the fourth American victory in seven years.

The 37-year-old Steinkraus hustled Fire One, an eight-year-old brown gelding, over 10 fences in faultless fashion after a jump-off. His time was 36.8 seconds.

Mary Mairs, the 18-year-old rookie of the United States team, wrenched on Tumbler. She was clean in the jump-off, too, but her time was 37.2. Tom Gayford of Toronto on Blue Beam—who cleared a seven-foot bamboo barrier Thursday night—was third. He also was clean. But Blue Beam is not a speed horse and required 39.6 to make the circuit.

The U.S. now has 77 points to 40 for Canada-Mexico. Ireland has 16, Mexico and Britain 14 each and Italy 10.

Steinkraus leads the individual standings with 28 points to 20 for runner-up Gayford.

HALIFAX (CP)—A provincial government decision to keep Gold River free from hydro development, at least for the present, is looked upon by some as a victory for the Nova Scotia sport fishing industry.

It follows a two-year battle in which anglers and others supporting game fish conservation bitterly opposed a bid by Nova Scotia Light and Power Company to harness the river for power.

Clarence Mason, provincial conservation director who in 50 odd years of fishing Nova Scotias rivers has seen a serious decline in the once-fabulous Atlantic salmon fishery, calls the decision "courageous."

It was first time the province had "said no to exploitation of our rivers for power purposes," he commented, adding that it set a pattern for future dealings in power-conservation disputes and provided a "ray of hope" for forces who want to preserve streams for fishing.

The Gold River, which flows into Mahone Bay 45 miles south west of Halifax, has not been a particularly good salmon stream recently. It would have produced 41,000,000 kilowatt hours of basic energy at relatively low cost.

The province originally had about 80 rivers in which some Atlantic salmon journeyed yearly. Thirty of these were once rated good salmon streams. Ten of the 30 have had their salmon fishing destroyed or severely hampered by power or logging dams.

Heavy logging in watersheds and logging operations on some rivers have contributed to the salmon's difficulties. The Atlantic salmon needs clear water and gravel spots for spawning. Heavy cutting in the watershed tends to keep the rivers from maintaining a consistent level. Log running leaves debris in spawning pools.

Mason says that even if every gallon of water in Nova Scotia streams were harnessed there would still not be enough power to supply future needs. He suggests thermal power and longdiscussed tidal power projects as alternatives, noting that Nova Scotia has plenty of coal and that there is an immense, though admittedly expensive, potential in the tides of Passamaquoddy Bay.

Provincial Secretary W. S. K. Jones, responsible for Nova Scotia's Water Act, said in announcing the decision that since the power company applied to harness the Gold it had made plans for a coal-fired thermal plant at nearby Tufts Cove. It meant the Gold's potential wouldn't be needed for at least five years.

At the same time the report of a one-man royal commission by Russell McInnis, late Halifax lawyer, said the power development would end salmon fishing on the river.

Atlantic salmon catches, both commercial and sport, from the St. Lawrence River to the Bay of Fundy totalled 30,000,000 pounds in 1930. In the last two years, Mason says, between 200,000 and 300,000 pounds were caught.

He blames heavy commercial fishing, as well as exploitation of the spawning rivers, for the decline. The average income of fishermen, among commercial fishing by 15,000 Nova Scotians last year, was $7, he said suggesting that fish for fish the sport fishery is decidedly more valuable.

But recommending drastic steps, he says salmon seasons for both commercial and sport fishermen would be curtailed or discontinued for a few years, during which time those responsible for destroying fish spawning habitats should be required to replace with hatchery-produced salmon the number they were responsible for killing.

This was provided for by federal law but never successfully enforced in Nova Scotia.

Unless conservation measures are stepped up, he says, the fish are likely to be banned from sale.

Canucks Shutout Blades

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Things aren't coming so easy for Vancouver Canucks these days in the Western Hockey League.

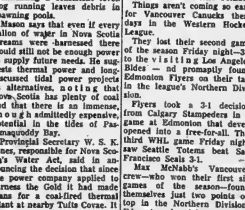
They lost their second game of the season Friday night—3-0 to the visiting Los Angeles Blades—and promptly found Edmonton Flyers on their tail in the league's Northern Division.

Flyers took a 3-1 decision from Calgary Stampeders in a game at Edmonton that developed into a free-for-all. The third WHL game Friday night saw Seattle Totems beat San Francisco Seals 3-1.

Max McNabb's Vancouver crew—who won their first six games of the season—found themselves just two points on top in the Northern Division. Edmonton is right up there with 12, trailed by Seattle with eight and the Stamps with six.

Los Angeles' win put the Blades into a tie with Portland Buckaroos for first place in the Southern Division. The Seals lose to Seattle left them in third place in the south, four points ahead of Spokane Comets.

Bob Dillabough, Lou Macon and Chuck Holmes scored for Edmonton while Jack Hendrickson counted the lone Calgary goal.



Bob Barlow, Gayle Fielder and Wayne Hall scored in Seattle's win over San Francisco. Ed Panagabko got the lone Seal marker.

For the Blades, Ed Stankiewicz scored in the first period. Marc Boileau in the second and Willie O'Ree in the third.

Three Junior Players to Tillsonburg

TORONTO (CP)—Three players involved in a junior hockey controversy between Guelph Royals and Tillsonburg Mavericks were awarded to Tillsonburg Friday after a special meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Council.

Dan Mahoney, Trevor Fahey and Jim Rutherford were the objects of a protest by Lou Passador, manager of Royals in the OHA Junior A League.

All three were assigned by Guelph last season to Tillsonburg, a Junior B club, and attended Guelph's training camp this year.

Last season Guelph and Tillsonburg were tied up as farm clubs of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. However, Tillsonburg severed its agreement with Rangers this season.

The three players, although they accepted board, room and expense money from Royals at training camp, signed to play with Tillsonburg.

CHARGES OUTBIDDING

Passador charged that Junior B clubs, because they weren't affected by a Junior A draft which allows teams to pay maximum salaries of $80 a week, were outbidding Junior A teams.

Rangerhad scouted the three players, paid their way to Tillsonburg and wanted them to continue up the ladder of development by playing at Guelph this season.

But, at a meeting with Tillsonburg and Guelph officials and the players, the OHA ruled that no player may be forced to leave a team.

The three players said Friday they would play for Tillsonburg rather than Guelph.

"The Interns" With a Brilliant Cast of Today's Young Stars

Breathless realism, full fledged characterizations and a story that makes absorbingly realistic sense, are to be found in Columbia Pictures' "The Interns," now entertaining large audiences at the Belle Theatre and continuing for a few more days at the Belle Theatre. The new drama is truly great entertainment.

"The Interns" is brilliantly played by a beautiful cast of today's new stars, including Michael Callan, Cliff Robertson, James MacArthur and Nick Adams as the interns; Suzy Parker, Haya Hararеet, Anne Helm and Stefanie Powers as the girls; Buddy Ebsen, Telly Savalas and Kay Stepehen. They are men and women in white, the dedicated healers who also are prey to human weaknesses and foibles. Breathlessly highlighting the drama of the film are the birth of a baby on New Year's Eve, and the wild party at which interns and nurses abandon their professional decorum.

"The Interns", range widely in personality and character. There is Callan's shrewd opportunist; he wooed and won nurse to make a medical connection at the same time that he conducts a torrid romance with a willful rich girl, Anne Helm. Robertson is the young doctor who throws away a promising career for love of beautiful model Suzy Parker: MacArthur is the dedicated one who falls in love with student nurse Stefanie Powers.

Adams plays a money-hungry doctor whose approach to medicine is transformed when he meets a hopelessly-ill young woman. Miss Hararеet is seen as European doctor who stubbornly drives ahead to become a surgeon devoite the prejudice of Savalas, head of surgery, while Buddy Ebsen is the hospital's medical supervisor. "The Interns" is based on a novel by Richard Frede.

Willie Mays In Top Condition

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Star outfielder Willie Mays of the National Baseball League San Francisco Giants was pronounced in top physical condition Friday after a medical checkup.

The $90,000 - a - year centre fielder collapsed Sept. 12 in a game against the Reds in Cincinnati.

"It was simple exhaustion," said Dr. Harold Rosenblum, "there is no medical problem."

Remember the days when one quarterback would do a football club all season? He wasn't permitted to get hurt.

Nowadays it's getting so that a Canadian Football League club is chary about signing any player unless he can operate at least part time at quarterback.

Coaches are running through quarterbacks like Eisenhower did fuel—on the theory that if one doesn't click the next one—or the next one after that—will.

Latest club to try this on for size is Winnipeg. At Edmonton Oct. 27 Blue Bombers coach Bud Grant threw in Kenny Ploen, Hal Ledyard and Dick Thornton, in that order. Thornton produced the desired results.

In the Hamilton camp coach Jim Trimble has alternated Frank Cosentino and rookie Joe Zuger since Bernie Faloney was hurt.

In Montreal coach Perry Moss went to the extreme of using two quarterbacks — Sandy Stephens and Don Trull — at the same time. This was designed to confuse the opposition but some counted it did more to confuse the Montreal backfield.

Moss may have figured he still had a quarterback when Dave Groen, in reserve so why not put two on the field together?

SOME HOLDOUTS

Edmonton Eskimos have long alternated Jackie Parker and Don Getty.

These days, it seems, only Toronto, Saskatchewan, Calgary and British Columbia rely, in the main, on a single quarterback. Each has a regular who has seen action but they don't use a dual system, and Tobin Rote, Bob Ptacek, Jack Delay and Joe Kapp are the basic quarterbacks for the teams, barring injury.

Some think the all-star quarterback this season is a tossup between two of these regulars, Calgary's Delay and B.C.'s Kapp.

There are few quarterbacks around today with the staying powers of two of Canada's all-time football favorites, Sam Etcheverry of Montreal and Jackie Parker of Edmonton.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair has been a practitioner of the dual system for a couple of years now. He never declares before a game whether Russ Jackson or Rod Lancaster will start. And he never shows any preference for one or the other.

"We're fortunate we've got two quarterbacks," Clair says. "If things aren't going well for one, I can call in the other to help out."

DON'T COMPETE

Also fortunately for Ottawa, Jackson and Lancaster aren't engaged in competition but work together for the team. They give each other tips throughout a game and when one connects, the other is the loudest cheerer.

In fact, Jackson and Lancaster sometimes appear at pains not to try to outdo each other. In a recent game in Ottawa against Saskatchewan, with Ottawa desperately needing a touchdown in the final minutes to win, Jackson threw a pass that Gerry Myrha intercepted. Clair sent in Lancaster. On the first play he threw an intercepted pass to Myrha.

You couldn't ask for much more comradeship than that although Clair may have thought Jackson and Lancaster had carried it a bit too far.

Incidentally, the theory always shows "Jackson and Lancaster," not "Lancaster and Jackson." This doesn't indicate any preference, the club says. It's just that Jackson has seniority.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, November 4
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Fine day for being with friends. Also, for attending your church. Good for being alone, for meditation. Analyze motives, ambitions, problems. Be gracious to younger family members.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — You may experience feeling of being restricted. This merely serves as caution sign. Be careful while visiting friends, relatives. Take your time. Observe the beauty all about you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Truth prevails today. You are able to see situation as it exists. Fine for inspiration. You push ahead toward major goal. Tonight get plenty of rest. Be ready for busy time ahead.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) —Very good for enhancing spiritual welfare. Means to "quiet within". Think about questions of major importance. Answers could be forthcoming. Previously, you asked for solutions. Today you may receive them!

Leo (July 2 2to Aug. 21) — Answers to numerous questions are close. Take time to listen, perceive. Permit strong intuitive qualities to come to fore. Better to absorb knowledge than to try to push personal views.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Outing with family, friends especially favored. Take time to relax. Show appreciation for past favors. Key is expansion. Stress versatility, humor. Get ready for productive days.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Good news upcoming regarding budget financial affairs. Good day for travel, visits. You learn much from reading. Express yourself via writing and stimulating conversations.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —Accept certain facts, even if unpleasant. Take notes. Begin planning program for improvement. Adjust to changing situations. Be frank. Discuss question with spiritual advisor.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Good day for family reunion, dinner, entertainment at home. Tendency is to want to accomplish everything at once. Be patient, yet determined. Do one thing at a time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Friends could provide money-earning answers. Be alert. Listen to new ideas. Refuse to be depressed about minor delays. Check budget. But don't skimp on family pleasures.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Lunar cycle up. Means now you can impress others with good judgment. Be sincere. Apply past knowledge to present challenges. Cooperate in church or community project.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) —Visit to hospital or home of friend who is confined proves beneficial. Lend helping hand by being fine listener. Good news indicated for future. Exude optimism.

If today is your birthday . . . you impress others with your willingness to fight for what you think is right. Keep on even keel. No radical changes.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces. Special word to Leo. Be diplomatic. Let associate or friend have spotlight.

For November 5
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Curb urge to make influence felt. Go slowly with mild approach. Much is gained by diplomacy. Flexing of muscles apt to result in ridicule. Show strength through quiet determination.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Take time to learn. You may not yet have all facts at hand. With this pre-warning, take appropriate action. Public relations cycle high. Live up to potential!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Forget past possibilities. Concentrate on future. Be independent, original. Strive to express little-known factors. Shed light on "dark" issues. Show superiors you can do the job.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Cycle now stresses knowledge. Learn by teaching. Co-operate with Taurus individual. Mercury favorably aspects your sign. Means ideas should be put to work. Make this productive day.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You want action. But if you scatter your forces you merely expend energy. The way to obtain results lies in patience, wisdom. Do more listening than talking. Avoid silly disputes. Be agreeable.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You may complain about "lack of excitement, change." But there is glamor all about you. Today you can find it if you will but look. Share hobbies, mutual interests. Open up!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Good lunar aspect. Today indicates results where affairs of the heart are concerned. Be romantic, chivalrous. Charm is key. Permit sense of beauty, appreciation to bloom.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Stand up for rights. Be willing to sacrifice for family members. Remain determined to obtain quality, not glitter. Mercury, entering your sign, points to ideas which pay off.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Cycle such that you are inspired to act on knowledge. Means you can produce. Concentrate on self-confidence. Make others aware of present as well as potential abilities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Powerful indications that you are to be handed added responsibility. Be ready, willing to accept. Speak with air of optimism. Avoid whining tendency. Go after what you want; makes others pay heed.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Cycle up. You are able to attract attention. Be ready to take advantage of "spotlight." Avoid careless action. Have facts, figures available. Don't alibi. Leave excuses to others. Be devastatingly frank!

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Like Gemini, "shoot for the moon." Go after the "big" prospect. Avoid minor skirmishes. Be independent in thought, action. Confidence wins the day.

If Today is Your Birthday . . you are intuitive, romantic, intense. Your cycle moves up now, especially where financial-national affairs are tense.

General Tendencies: Interplay report could set off temporary panic.

Six Teachers Killed in Head-on Crash

CLEVELAND (AP) — A tractor-trailer rig smashed head-on into a car carrying six Akron, Ohio, teachers on Friday, killing all six and leaving the car a mass of twisted metal.

The six had been attending sessions of the North Eastern Ohio Teachers Association here.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Lois C. Lewis, 41, Mrs. Mildred Whited, 62, Mrs. Catherine Williamson, 54, Mrs. Edith Miller, 57, Mrs. Julia Ann Johnson, 57, and Mrs. Frances H. Slocum, 57, owner of the car.

The cab of the truck, driven by Justin J. Gedraitus, 35, of Cleveland, went over the top of the car, crushing it. The cab had to be jacked up before the bodies could be removed.

Police Chief Frank Marshall said the truck crossed a 36-foot dividing strip on the Willow Freeway and brushed the cars before ramming the car carrying the teachers.

Gedraitus suffered head injuries and was taken to Metropolitan General Hospital. His condition was reported as good.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Cleaning clothes with carbon tetrachloride is dangerous when done in a small room without adequate ventilation.

DO YOU HAVE...

—a marital problem
—trouble with your children
—difficulty in budgeting your income

If so, the Children's Aid Society can be of help and invites you to talk it over with one of the members of its family service department staff. You will find them sympathetic and understanding of your problem and desirous only of helping you — help yourself. There will be no obligation on your part and you may terminate the contact at any time.

The Society's offices at 83 Moira St. West are open from 8.30 to 5.00 o'clock Monday to Friday each week. For your own convenience it is suggested that you telephone for an appointment. A call will be treated with complete confidence.

In Belleville this service to families is supported by the Belleville United Appeal.

to the Caribbean island.

Washington informants said the president's approving reference to inspection by the international Red Cross could help solve the problem of getting the vessels through the U.S. naval blockade.

MAY BE COMPROMISE

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro disclosed Thursday night that Russia suggested its ships be inspected by Red Cross representatives instead of by U.S. naval officers manning the blockade. Thus the various developments suggested a compromise was in the making to handle the immediate problem of getting the missiles out of Cuba.

U.S. and Soviet officials were reported to be near an agreement at the United Nations on a plan to permit the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships.

However, the president spoke of the need for international inspection in a broader context. He emphasized that the chief U.S. concern is verification of removal of all offensive weapons from Cuba territory.

The other major inspection problem, that verifying the dismantling of bases and other Soviet offensive weapons in Cuba, is assumed here to be a major topic of the Havana discussions between Castro and Anastas I. Mikoyan, the Soviet Union's first deputy premier.

Mikoyan flew to Cuba Friday after meeting Thursday night with U.S. representatives in New York.

According to information in Washington Mikoyan did not give details in his New York discussions on his precise mission to Castro.

BACKS CASTRO DEMAND

Before leaving for Havana, Mikoyan endorsed Castro's demand that the United States evacuate its Guantanamo Bay base in Cuba.

The United States has brushed aside Castro's demands as irrelevant to the Kennedy-Khrushchev missile settlement. This U.S. view is understood to have been made clear to Mikoyan.

In speeches, Castro has declared he will never accept foreign inspection to verify removal of Soviet missiles. Inspection was part of the U.S.-Soviet agreement last weekend when Khrushchev ordered the missile bases dismantled.

It was believed Mikoyan, the Soviet trouble-shooter, would seek to persuade Castro to accept international verification.

President Kennedy said the reconnaissance photos showing dismantling of the missiles bases will be made available today.

OAS TO MEET

In other developments:

1. The Organization of American States announced it will hold a special session Monday to weigh means of co-ordinating military and other aid for hemispheric defence against Cuba.

2. Former President Eisenhower, campaigning for Republicans in Baltimore, again urged Americans to stand behind Kennedy in the Cuban situation.

3. Customs agents in Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and the Caribbean, have been ordered to give out no more information to the public on customs seizures and the like.

Customs Chief Joseph Fortier said such information must be sent to Washington for approval before being released. He said he received the orders Friday after Washington officials saw a published story about the seizure in Detroit of a boatload of armed Cuban refugees who were apparently bound for their homeland.

4. In Fort Lauderdale, Fla., as well Cuban government official said he had learned in coded messages from Cuba that Castro is biding mobile medium range missiles in mountain caves and under cover.

Rafael Garcia-Novarro, who was Cuba's delegate to the United Nations from 1955 to 1958 under the Batista regime, said: "If President Kennedy believes Castro and Nikita Khrushchev when they say the missiles have been removed from Cuba, he will be making a great mistake."

5. In Little Rock, Ark., Democratic Senators J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma said Friday night the United States should pursue any course, including invasion, to make sure the Soviet missiles are removed from Cuba.

Boy Roams On All Fours With Dog Pack

WASHINGTON (AP) — For months, the boy roamed with dog packs—on all fours, like his companions.

And he barked. But only at night.

"I've got enough sense not to run around with dogs during the day where people can see me," he said. "I only run with them in alleys at night."

That's the strange story told to reporters by officials who are dealing with the problem.

Today, the 11-year-old youngster will appear in juvenile court, which will try to figure what to do about him. His parents told the court he is beyond their control. There are no local facilities for long-term care in such cases as his—an emotionally disturbed adolescent.

Laurence Froit, director of the court's child guidance clinic which handles such cases, said the youngster was interviewed the boy several times. The psychologist said the youngster feels alienated from people but feels dogs are loving and ask little from him.

Froit said the boy "felt lonely and seemed to feel that people expected a great deal of him that he couldn't deliver."

His mother filed the complaint when she said she found him under a parked car one night with a pack of dogs.

Infernal Election

by Joseph-Damase Begin, former chief-organizer for the Union Nationale. Mr. Begin retired from politics earlier this fall.

Mr. Lesage said the proof of his statement "is that there are 1,231 fewer names (on the electoral list) this year."

The premier replied to a recent statement of Mr. Johnson's that since the Liberals were elected, no French-Canadian firms had been approached when the government wanted a loan—the government instead had negotiated with United States financial houses.

Mr. Lesage replied that in 1956—when the Union Nationale was in power—"the last two loans of the Province of Quebec were negotiated in New York by the same group of American houses, directed by the First Boston Bank."

SEES BIG GAINS

Mr. Johnson told a crowd of some 1,200 in Val d'Or that the Union Nationale will retain the present 40 seats in the Nov. 14 election and will make important give gains in northwestern Quebec, the Saguenay and Lake St. John region and the eastern townships.

The Union Nationale would sweep the province "because we are a humane party and we have a policy of common sense, unlike those Liberal planners going around with their heads in the clouds."

The Liberals, by contrast, had spent "millions of your money on horrible campaigns" smeared the province in the eyes of the rest of the country.

Mr. Johnson also toured the riding of Abitibi East, making brief speeches in Malartic, Amos and Senneterre.

At the Val d'Or rally, leaflets urging the "Social Creditors of northwestern Quebec" to vote Union Nationale were distributed.

The leaflets said Rene Levesque, natural resources minister in the Liberal cabinet, had asked the people of Quebec in June 14—four days before the latest federal election—to vote against Social Credit, "which he regarded as a fraud and a project that could not be carried out."

CHARGED IN ATTACK

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques (Tarzan) Laplante, 21, was charged Friday with a knife attack on a guard at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary that resulted in the victim losing an eye. He was remanded for preliminary hearing Nov. 8.

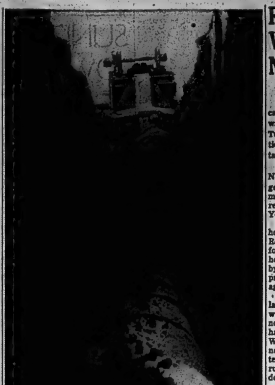
N. B. Woman To Represent Motherhood

OTTAWA — A 78-year-old mother of 13 from a New Brunswick fishing village will represent Canadian Motherhood at the National Remembrance Ceremony here on November 11. She is Mrs. Vitalina Lantaigne of Caraquet, who lost three sons in war.

The Royal Canadian Legion today announced that Mrs. Lantaigne will place one of the official wreaths at the National War Memorial. Her wreath — on behalf of some 104,000 mothers who lost sons in war — will be placed following that of His Excellency the Governor-General. Other official wreaths will be laid by the Prime Minister, Legion Dominion President Judge C. C. Sparling and the Chief of Staff.

Mrs. Lantaigne had five sons in the army during W. W. II. Three were killed, the other two wounded. Arthur Lantaigne was killed in Italy with the Royal 22nd Regiment. Jean Baptiste Lantaigne of the Regiment de Chaudiere was killed in France five days after D-Day. A brother, Son, Philippe, was also killed in France about two months later. He was serving with the Fusiliers du Mont-real.

Of the survivors, Lucien was wounded at Dieppe and Daniel was wounded during the North-West Europe campaign.



Mrs. Lantaigne has eight living children. Of these, six are in the Montreal area, one in Lac au Saimon, P.Q. and one lives in Caraquet. Mr. Dominique Lantaigne, 83, who lives in Caraquet, is unable to make the trip with his wife.

Mrs. Lantaigne is the first mother from New Brunswick to be selected for the National Remembrance Ceremony which is organized by the Royal Canadian Legion. She is the eighth to be chosen from outside the Ottawa area.

While in Ottawa, Mrs. Lantaigne will be the guest of the Royal Canadian Legion. It is expected that she will have tea with the Governor-General and Madame Vanier and will be the luncheon guest of the Chief of the General Staff represented by Major-General J. P. E. Bernatchez.

VERSATILE PLANT

More Canadian farmers now are growing safflower, used to keep paint white, in cooking oil and in cosmetic rouge.

MOLES' EYE VIEW — It there are any groundhogs on Cecil McPaul's farm in Wellington township, they will be getting this view of Dale Cleave's ditcher before the freeze up. Mr. Cleave, a Wellington drainage contractor, is laying 75,000 feet of drain tile through about 100 acres of the McPaul farm. Purpose: better drainage. The fields being drained are used for pasture, and growing hay, oats and corn. Field drainage is recommended by the Department of Agriculture but Cleave estimates that most absent-one farm in ten in this area has proper drainage facilities. That's Bill Sanderson of Wellington, riding the back of the ditcher, and dropping the tiles into the ditch.

Republicans Romney, Nixon Will Not Seek Presidential Nominations if Elected

By CARMAN CUMMING

NEW YORK (CP) — Republican party leaders will be closely watching the outcome of next Tuesday's congressional election for possible presidential talent.

Particularly, they'll be eyeing Nelson Rockefeller, the energetic, personable and immensely wealthy candidate for re-election as governor of New York State.

They'll also be interested in how auto industrialist George Romney makes out in the race for governor of Michigan, and how Richard M. Nixon, shaded by John F. Kennedy for the presidential election two years ago, will do in California.

Both Nixon and Romney have laid down clearly that they won't be seeking the Republican nomination in 1964. But they haven't ruled out a try for the White House in 1968 when Kennedy, if re-elected to a second term in '64, won't be eligible to run. U.S. law limits the president to two four-year terms.

MAKES NO PROMISE

Rockefeller, 54 - year - old grandson of John D. Rockefeller, has made no promise to stay in Albany in 1964.

"I don't want to take a pledge unless I'm sure I can keep it," he says.

Rated a shoo-in over Democrat Robert Morgenthau, his opponent in his fight for re-election, Rockefeller has been flying about the state at a furious pace, grasping every hand within reach.

In his first try for elective office four years ago, Rockefeller beat popular Democratic governor Averell Harriman by 573,000 votes. This year his backers hope the margin will be greater — big enough to convince the Democrats of the west and south who don't cotton to rich New Yorkers.

His Democratic opponent, charging that Rockefeller's heart won't be in the job if he's re-elected, is campaigning on the theme: "Let's help Kennedy by beating Rockefeller now."

Two factors may work against the governor—his divorce early this year and the fact that he introduced a state income tax increase.

In Michigan and California, Romney and Nixon are also charged, despite their disclaimers, with seeking governorships only as steps to the presidency.

HAS FAIR CHANCE

"If I am elected governor of Michigan, I will not be a candidate for president in 1964," Romney says. "I expect to concentrate fully on the job here . . . I have never undertaken a job I did not finish."

Romney, 55, whose compact car ideas put American Motors Company in the black, is given a fair chance of unseating Democratic Governor John Swainson, a 37-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., who came to the U.S. in infancy.

Nixon is as firm as Romney in denying any presidential aims in 1964. He has said he would neither be a candidate nor accept a draft—and that his decision is final and not subject to change under any circumstances.

At 49, Nixon still is young enough to look several years ahead. But first he must beat Governor Edmund G. Brown in the Nov. 6 voting—and observers say its an extremely tight race.

India Driven From Vital Defence Post

Chinese Cross What They Claim To Be Frontier

No Chance Now Seen Of Negotiated Peace

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian government announced today the loss of one of its most important military positions on the battelines with the Chinese Communists.

Their position at Daulet Beg Oldi, at the northern end of the line in Ladakh, was evacuated a few days ago, a defence ministry spokesman said. Ladakh is at the western end of the Himalayan border.

The outpost at Daulet Beg Oldi was the centre of a series of similar posts, all of which fell earlier.

The Chinese have now crossed what they claim to be their border with India at one or two places and have driven beyond the disputed territory.

New Delhi officials think there are no chances now of a negotiated peace with the Chinese.

Prime Minister Nehru has demanded the Chinese withdraw to positions before their incursions into northeast India began on Sept. 8 and has rejected proposals of a cease-fire and peace talks until they do. The Chinese launched offensive in both the northeast and northwest area of Ladakh was launched Oct. 20.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai says his country will not retreat.

(Reuters news agency said Indian press reports from Indian headquarters for the northeast for a cease-fire. Indian forces had recaptured three villages from Chinese troops near Tawang. The report quoted "unofficial but reliable information," the news agency said.

(The reports said the Chinese had "committed many atrocities and caused untold miseries to the local population.")

MAY ADVANCE

The Indian Army is preparing for the possibility that the Chinese will try to continue to advance instead of retreating. Since the Communist offensive began, roads travelling on roads northwest of New Delhi reported Indian troops leaving

Yemeni Rebels Threaten Drive On Saudi Arabia

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A deepening crisis over Yemen threatened today to touch off a Middle East conflict pitting conservative monarchies against President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

On one side are the royal strongholds of Saudi Arabia and Jordan and on the other the Yemeni revolutionary regime backed by the U.A.R.

The crisis touched off by the overthrow of Yemen's ancient throne in September reached a new high Sunday with threats by the rebel regime to invade Saudi Arabia's main southern port of Qizan and the interior city of Najran.

Saudi Arabia and Jordan, both monarchies, are supporting attempts by the deposed Yemeni king, Imam Mohammad Al-Badr, to regain his throne. The revolutionary regime is backed by the United Arab Republic, which has sent planes and tanks and perhaps 1,000 soldiers into the tiny Red Sea country.

Yemeni revolutionary President Abdullah Sallal voiced the invasion threat against Saudi Arabia as that country's radio claimed royalist warriors now control Yemen's entire northwest.

Communiques purporting to come from Al-Badr's headquarters claimed hundreds of rebels, including many U.A.R. troops, had been killed in the fighting. The communique added that in northern Yemen royalist forces have "tightened their siege" of the region's capital of Sada.

Sallal disputed the claims, saying that his U.A.R.-supported army and air force crushed "a large-scale Saudi invasion" and that the entire northwest region where the fighting occurred was "completely under Republican control."

Six Sailors Snatched From Death After French Trawler Sinks

LAND'S END, England, (AP) As savage breakers pounded the shattered French trawler Jeanne Gougy, six sailors for whom hope had been abandoned were snatched from death.

"It was the most dramatic life-saving I have ever witnessed," said a coast guard official. "We had given these lads up for lost." Six bodies were found and six other men are missing.

It was the darkest hour, just before dawn Sunday, when the 273-ton fishing craft—with 18 men aboard—was blown onto jagged rocks at Land's End.

Rescue vessels could not push through the 50-foot high waves. Atop the cliffs 500 feet above, would-be rescuers watched helplessly. They could see a pair of lights feet; hands grasping the wheel.

Rescue lines were fired. The waves washed them away. Finally one last effort was made. It caught, watchers could see a hand grasp the line and to grab it. Cheers rose as a sea-battered face emerged from the wheelhouse.

Within minutes, four men were safe, rescued by the breeches buoy line. It seemed the end and for hours there was just the melancholy spectacle of the Jeanne Gougy breaking up on the rocks.

Suddenly a cry: "There's somebody moving down there!"

A rescue crew helicopter went into action. A life belt was lowered but the French crew member was too weak to hold on. Down went winch-man Eric Smith on another line.

"How that man managed to survive seven hours is beyond me," he said. "I got the belt around him and we were pulled up.

"I had a feeling that someone else might be alive so I went down again. I found a man in the ship's passage, weak and terribly shocked. We were winched up together."

MILLION CHINESE SUPPORT CUBA IN BIG PARADE

Disapprove Action Taken by Russia

PEKING (Reuters) — An estimated 1,000,000 Chinese marched through Peking today in a new mass demonstration in support of the Cuban regime's demands against the United States.

From early morning, solid columns of slogan - chanting, flag-waving workers, peasants, students and establishment converged from all parts of the city to march past the Cuban Embassy on the city's eastern outskirts.

The march was the second mass Chinese demonstration in support of the Cuban regime in two days.

Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai told a reception in Peking following the demonstration that China "resolutely" backs Castro's demands for the evacuation of the U.S. Guantanamo base in Cuba and measures to protect the island from American espionage and economic sanctions.

Chou said Cuba would surely be victorious in its struggle against United States.

Peking newspapers, meanwhile, stepped up a pro-Cuban campaign that has grown steadily more vigorous since Russia decided to withdraw its missile bases from the island.

The editorial campaign has left little doubt in the minds of observers here that Communist China disapproves of the Soviet decision.

REJECTS APPEASEMENT

The People's Daily rejected any "appeasement policy" toward United States in the Cuban crisis. In an editorial the Communist party newspaper charged "full support" for Cuba's rejection of United Nations supervision over withdrawal of Soviet missile bases.

The editorial said "to compromise with or meet the Kennedy government's truculent demands can only encourage the aggressor and will in no way ensure world peace."

The Cuban crisis was "a crisis carrying out an appeasement policy toward United States aggression and a crisis encouraging U.S. imperialism to pursue more arrogantly its policies of aggression and war," the People's Daily said.

Brams of Gang Held by Police

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — One of FBI's 10 most-wanted men was arrested in Boston's Massachusetts mall-truck robbery earlier this year — surrendered to police Sunday after a dramatic car chase through downtown Buffalo.

Alfred Brown Jr., 28, described by the FBI as the "brains of a vicious gang of payroll robbers," was seized in an automobile while surrounded by 30 police vehicles and several FBI cars.

He became groggy, apparently after swallowing a drug, and was rushed to hospital. His stomach was pumped, and he then was taken to jail.

Brown was arraigned in U.S. District Court today on charges he participated in two robberies of U.S. mail netting $106,287. He pleaded not guilty.

Judge John O. Henderson set bail at $100,000. Mr. Nusbaum was returned to jail.

Nusbaum's mother - in - law tipped the FBI that he had been in contact with his wife, and this led federal agents to the Statler Hilton Hotel.

The agents spotted him in a car near the hotel shortly after 2 a.m. and cornered him after a 20-minute chase.

Nixon Fights for Political Life in California Vote

WASHINGTON (CP) — Richard Nixon is fighting for his political life, highlights election centering as an estimated 50,000,000 U.S. voters prepare to cast judgment Tuesday on the shape of the new Congress and control over 35 states.

New legislators will determine the kind of legislation President Kennedy may be able to push through the House of Representatives and Senate in the next two years.

Up for election are all the 435 seats in the House of Representatives; 34 of the 100 Senate seats and the governorships and other offices in 35 of the 50 states—including all the big ones.

The most exciting struggle is in California where Nixon, the former vice-president defeated by a hairline margin in his 1960 bid for the presidency, is trying to unseat Governor Edmund B. Brown, a Democrat and strong Kennedy supporter.

While Nixon says he won't try for the presidency in 1964, Republican leaders are pinning

Hunters and Anglers Form A Wildlife Federation

OTTAWA (CP) — Outdoor sportsmen now have a national voice to press for improved protection of Canada's dwindling fish and game population and other renewable resources.

Representatives of 150,000 anglers and hunters in seven provinces founded the Canadian Wildlife Federation in a weekend conference here without the dissensions that had marked earlier attempts dating to 1955.

The new group is expected to campaign against such things as water pollution, drainage of muck breeding grounds, careless use of pesticides and private hunting and fishing preserves.

Ont. Liberal Leader Against Employing Strike Breakers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer sought today to enlist New Democratic support for the Liberals, stating that a large number of NDP adherents find a sympathetic ear within the Liberal party.

Speaking to about 500 delegates to a political education conference of the Ontario Federation of Labor, he also committed his party to legislation that would outlaw the recruitment and employment of strike-breakers during legal strikes.

"I am not a socialist and I don't think many of you are," he said. "But I am dedicated to the proposition of reform."

Replying to the possibility of Liberal-NDP merger, Ontario NDP Leader Donald McDonald gave an emphatic "No." He said differences to such a merger are the Liberal party's basic structure, which he maintains is not democratic; and the source of the party's finances, which he contends give business interests a controlling voice.

Mr. MacDonald said he favors a two-party system, but one in which the left-of-centre opinion is consolidated in the New Democratic Party and the Conserv-

COUNTERFEIT VOTERS' SLIPS FOUND IN QUE.

Hits Campaign Like Bombshell

QUEBEC (CP)—A case of alleged conspiracy to violate the Quebec Elections Act by means of counterfeit voters' slips has burst on the provincial election campaign scene like a bombshell.

Union Nationale leader Daniel Johnson, speaking in Montreal and Quebec during the weekend, called it "a Machiavellian scheme" and "a childish frame-up" to smear the Union Nationale before voting day Nov. 14.

Premier Lesage, campaigning in the Eastern Townships, replied: "It smells of the Union Nationale."

Earlier, in Chicoutimi, he said: "It's organized telegraphing." (Impersonation of voters).

Three men, including Andre Lagacee, chief Union Nationale organizer in Montreal, face charges of conspiring to utter forged documents, conspiring to violate the Elections Act, and with aiding and abetting others to commit a crime.

Mr. Lagarde is free on $1,500 bail. He sat at his arraignment Saturday, pending his preliminary hearing next Friday.

MADE ARREST

Provincial police are holding Omer Fontaine on the same three charges. He was arrested late Friday night in a Montreal railway station when, police said, he approached a locker containing 4,000 fake voters' slips.

Gaston Archambault, a private detective and former homicide squad detective with the provincial police, gave himself up Sunday and was freed on $1,500 bail pending his arraignment today.

Crown prosecutor Guy Desjardins of Montreal said packages of fake voters' slips were found addressed to former municipal affairs minister Paul Dozois, Union Nationale candidate in Montreal St. James, and to Roger Charbonneau, Un-

Agrees To Plan For Examining Ships' Cargoes

U.S. Plans to Continue Surveillance by Planes

GENEVA (Reuters)—The International Committee of the Red Cross today announced here that the Cuban government has agreed to it inspecting ships bound for Cuba.

The committee's announcement said inspections would be carried out for one month by inspectors appointed by the Red Cross.

It said the committee learned of Cuba's agreement through the United Nations.

President Kennedy suggested in a speech last week that the United Nations undertake the inspections of Cuba-bound ships—apparently to replace the American Navy's blockade against offensive weapons shipped to Cuba.

The Red Cross announcement said the Red Cross could not accept direct responsibility for the operation, which would remain the responsibility of the United Nations and the countries concerned.

Its contribution would consist principally in the recruitment of personnel to inspect ships on the high seas.

It said 30 inspectors would be involved in the task.

MAY GO TO UN

The committee said it had asked former president Paul Ruegger to go to New York for talks with the UN Acting Secretary - General U Thant and representatives of the countries concerned.

The announcement said the final decision of the committee would depend on the result of Ruegger's mission.

It would be the first "political" mission the committee has ever undertaken.

Traditionally, the committee is carefully to preserve its neutrality and independence. In stating that it was prepared to go, the committee said it believed that in some fields it could render useful service.

A committee spokesman said before the announcement that if the committee agreed to undertake the inspection, it probably would recruit officers from the Swiss army to act as inspectors. The committee's normal activities involve purely humanitarian missions such as the care of prisoners of war and prisoner exchanges.

Ruegger, 65, a noted jurist and former Swiss diplomat, was president of the 20-man international committee from 1948 to 1955. After this term as president he directed the committee's activities in prisoner - of - war work.

In 1948 he personally supervised Red Cross activities during the war in Palestine.

Six Miles of Pictures Studied By U.S. to Detect Missile Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Image-fabricated concrete arches, a strip of photographic film, 20 to 30 feet wide, some six miles long.

Cut in sections, it is stretched across the floor. Photo analysts, on hands and knees, crawl around on the pictures, peering at them through stereo microscopes, a special magnifying glasses. The technicians note any detail of change in terrain, more especially, they look for objects on the sites that weren't there yesterday.

They chart the birth of a crisis, a Soviet nuclear threat aimed at striking on Cuban bases.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 15, says a chief of intelligence, U.S. pilots flew a series of photo reconnaissance missions over Cuba daily.

"We blanketed the island," he says.

The planes brought back miles of film.

Today, you look at a sequence of pictures taken above the missile site. The first shots show empty country. Then, apparently out of thin air, construction becomes visible in succeeding days—anti-aircraft, a half-completed security fence, pro-

U.S. Plans to Continue Surveillance by Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy feels U.S. surveillance of Cuba will have to be continued in some form long after the current missile crisis is settled, government sources report.

In offering this view of the president's thinking to reporters Sunday, the sources did not specify how watch would be kept. The object of the check, they said, would be to guard against any future introduction of Russian missiles into Cuba.

Aerial photographs of the island last month gave the first hard evidence that Russia was mounting an offensive missile threat in Cuba, the White House has said. And, it was from aerial photos taken last Thursday that the administration concluded Soviet Premier Khrushchev had begun to make good on his pledge to tear down the missile bases.

The U.S. Navy, in maintaining an arms blockade of Cuba, also has been filling a surveillance role.

REMAINS A PROBLEM

Removal of the missiles from Cuba remains a thorny problem. By the terms of the Kennedy - Khrushchev agreement, the United Nations would supervise the verification that Soviet missiles have been withdrawn from the island.

The government sources who discussed Kennedy's position Sunday emphasized that he is determined to verify the removal of the weapons by international inspection teams—and that nothing less will be satisfactory.

While the United States and Russia are reported prepared for the International Red Cross fill the inspection role originally proposed for the UN Cuban observers, Fidel Castro has the power to bar international inspectors from his territory.

Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan received with Castro in Havana during the weekend—presumably in an effort to speed the Soviet leader into accepting at least the fundamentals of an international inspection system.

Mikoyan and Castro met twice Sunday at the Government Palace. No communiques were issued and Cuban officials gave no hint of the nature of the talks. Mikoyan arrived in Havana despite the death of his wife in Moscow Saturday night.

Six Miles of Pictures Studied By U.S. to Detect Missile Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Image-fabricated concrete arches, a "batch" plant for making cement, launching pads, fire control bunkers, an earth-molded structure, revetments.

It was hard evidence that caused President Kennedy to declare a "quarantine" on shipments of offensive weapons to Cuba and to demand the dismantling of the missile sites already built.

A top intelligence agent says the late August Cuban refugees reported the arrival of Soviet "technicians" in Cuba and the building of rocket launchers. The refugees were interrogated. Checks on the sites showed they were surface-to-air launchers, and "cruise sites," coastal missile artillery.

On September 4 a U-2 photo plane belonging to the Chinese Nationalist Air Force was shot down from 70,000 feet over Communist China. U-2 flights over Cuba were suspended "until we could learn what brought down the plane in China."

Low-flying planes, often coming in at altitudes of 300 to 800 feet, continued the surveillance. The other week's photos show what

New General Hospital Wing On Present Site Will Be Started Soon Says Bd. Head

Immediate construction of a new wing on the present Belleville General Hospital site has been agreed upon by the joint City-County hospital committee.

Hospital board chairman J. N. Vanover said today the proposed new wing will provide accommodation for an additional 152 beds, bringing the rated capacity of the hospital to 419 beds.

Detailed plans for the addition are now being worked out by the architect Herbert R. Agnew of Toronto, and hospital consultants, Gordon A. Frissen and Associates of Washington, D.C.

Estimated cost figures for the new wing are expected to be announced within the next two weeks.

The decision to proceed immediately with the hospital wing construction was made at a special meeting of the joint hospital committee held Friday. Mr. Vanover represented the hospital board at the meeting.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Members of the special City-County Joint hospital committee are County — Warden Harold Varty and councillors J. N. Brown, William Shannon, Rudolph Hamilton, Earl Sawyer, Thomas Burnside and Clerk Treasurer Carl Bateman. City — Mayor A. M. Hall (chairman) and Aldermen Ross Bailey, Ben Corke and George Wishart.

According to an agreement made earlier this year, the county of Hastings will become a partner in hospital ownership and will pay 38 per cent of construction costs. The city will be responsible for 62 per cent of construction costs.

There will be application made to the Ontario Legislature for a private bill incorporating the county as a partner with the city in hospital ownership.

NO DETAILS

No details of the hospital addition plans were announced by Mr. Vanover other than that the new wing would be constructed toward the south from the site now occupied by the hospital boiler room.

Gordon A. Frissen, whose firm of hospital consultants is working with architects on plans for the new addition was a former hospital administrator at Belleville and was in charge here when the first hospital addition was completed about 1940.

P. E. I. Legislator Dies in Nigeria

He was in Nigeria representing the provincial legislature at the meeting of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

Canadian embassy officials in Nigeria informed Premier Walter Shaw last week that Mr. Heslan had been taken to hospital with the recurrence of stomach ulcer trouble.

His death leaves the Liberals with seven members in the 30-seat House. There are 22 Progressive Conservatives.

Ratepayers Will Hear Report On Sewer Work

Mr. John S. Newman of Montreal, president of Beaver Construction Company, will address the members of the Parkdale Ratepayers' Association, at their general meeting on Wednesday evening, November 7th. Mr. Newman will outline the sanitary sewer construction timetable for the remainder of the Parkdale installations.

"We greatly appreciate this opportunity," declared Ratepayers' president J. F. Morman. He explained that Alderman Ellis, chairman of the city special sanitary sewers committee will accompany the Beaver president to the meeting.

Alderman Ellis will conduct a question and answer session after Mr. Newman's address. The Alderman declared that he would do his best to explain the difficulties with the road surfaces where the sewers are already installed.

In a telephone interview, the Beaver president disclosed that the work will cover the full remaining construction schedule. Dates on which the machines are scheduled to reach each street will be given and the problems and the difficulties which residents may expect to encounter will be explained.

"We at Beaver are always anxious to let the residents of an area know what we are working know what our plans are," declared Mr. Newman. "Construction in a city will naturally involves some inconvenience to residents," he continued, "and we hope that such periods will be as short as possible, every bit as much as the residents do."

"If time allows, I hope to have an information bulletin prepared to hand out to the members attending your meeting," he added.

The Ratepayers' president also announced that Aldermen L. W. Digby, representing the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, is scheduled to attend the Association meeting. Alderman Digby has kindly volunteered to discuss, explain and answer any questions on the pending city official land use plan, especially in relation to zoning.

"The meeting will certainly be a full one," said Mr. Morman "but the members of the association will have an excellent opportunity to obtain first hand information."

He noted that non-members resident in Parkdale would be welcome to attend the meeting, subject to space limitations, and specified that the meeting; to be held in the Parkdale Community Centre hall, would be called to order at precisely 8.30 p.m.

Douglas Alkenbrack On 3 Committees

A. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox, has been chosen as a member of the following House of Commons standing committees: agriculture, which is a 60-man committee with a quorum of 20; miscellaneous private bills, a committee of 60 with a quorum of 15; and printing, a committee of 54 with no quorum set.

These committees, proportionately representative of all parties in the House, deliberate on matters pertaining to their several fields and make regular reports and recommendations to Parliament.

Mr. Alkenbrack has also been appointed a member of the Progressive-Conservative caucus committee on citizenship, immigration and Indian affairs.

Nixon Fights

pared to draft him for the nomination if he puts up a good showing in California—or dump him if he fails. Nixon's top supporter, the Los Angeles Times, published reports of a copyrighted poll showing Brown held a 48 - 44 percentage margin among those most likely to vote.

He will concentrate tonight on a special election eve broadcast to attract what he hopes will be personal attacks against him.

In contrast to Nixon's weekend struggle, Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller is considered a sure winner for re-election in New York against Democratic challenger Robert Morgenthau. Thus Rockefeller may be in a strong position to grab his party's presidential nomination in two years.

Aside from control of the big states and the resulting presidential opportunities, Kennedy aides will be watching for signs in the vote of how Americans judge his handling of the Cuban missile crisis. Republicans had mounted a swelling campaign against what they called the Democrats' do-nothing attitude about Cuba. That was before Kennedy suddenly discovered ballistic missiles there and forced a Soviet call-back of the missiles.

That, in the eyes of many observers, should killed off the Republicans' best issue. But pollsters are not sure just what Kennedy's actions will have on the vote.

Democrats held the last Congress 64-36, and the House 261-174 with two vacancies. Up for election are 21 Democratic and 18 Republican seats in the Senate. Of the present 50 governors, 24 are Democrats and 26 Republicans. Up for election are 21 Democrats and 14 Republicans.

Local Club Splits Two Chess Matches

Belleville lost to Ottawa 3½-4½, but defeated Cornwall 5½-2½, in South Eastern Ontario Chess League matches played at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. Those were Belleville's first matches of the league season. Matches against Brockville and Kingston, scheduled here for October 7 and postponed, will be played November 25.

In other matches played at Brockville Sunday, Kingston and Brockville tied, 4-4, while Ottawa was leading Brockville 6-3, with one game unfinished, when the Belleville players left for home. Earlier in the season Kingston had defeated Ottawa 5-3 and Cornwall 7-1, while Peterborough bowed to Ottawa 6-2, but defeated Cornwall 8-0. The league's standing is thus as follows:

	Won	Lost
Ottawa	3½	1½
Kingston	2	3
Peterborough	2	3
Belleville	2	7
Brockville	2½	2½
Cornwall	1½	2½

One game between Brockville and Ottawa unreported.

Following are the individual results in Belleville's matches yesterday. The Belleville player's name being given first in each pairing:

Two Break-ins Reported in Middleton Park

Thieves entered the neighboring homes of two airmen at Middleton Park during the weekend.

Provincial police from Belleville, investigating the incidents, say small quantities of cash and cigarets were missing after the thieves smashed basement windows to gain entry.

Entered were the homes of James Sherwood Hughson, 48 Laird Drive, and John Wilson, 50 Laird Drive.

Police believe the petty thefts were "the work of youths."

Rheingold Club Meets

At a meeting of the Rheingold Club, November 3rd, in the Hotel Quinte, the president, Ed Hamilton, announced the following meetings, November 17th, dance; and December 31st, New Year's Eve party. More meetings to be held in the New Year.

Other than a newly appointed treasurer, (Mrs. Fieguth) there were no changes in the executive. The dance band will now include Canadians to add popular music to their repertoire.

Canada's Help In Cuban Crisis Satisfactory

WASHINGTON (CP) — A U.S. defence department authority said Sunday night Canada's defence co-operation during the Cuban crisis was "very satisfactory."

He was commenting on reports circulating in Canada that the U.S. is considering reorganization of the North American Defence Command because of alleged Canadian delays in placing the RCAF components of NORAD on the alert.

The authority said no reorganization is being considered.

At the height of the Cuban crisis, a high state department official was asked whether he considered the state of Canada-U.S. co-operation under NORAD satisfactory. He said he was satisfied with the state of NORAD readiness and indicated the U.S. was getting co-operation from Canada.

BOMARC PROBLEM

The U.S., in the past, has been anxious to get a final decision from Canada on the question of arming Canadian aircraft and Bomarc missiles with U.S.-controlled nuclear warheads. Officials have stated this is a continuing problem, leaving some hope in the North American defence that they said they have managed to ever these gaps by increasing U.S. air patrols.

So far, there has been no indication that Canada will agree to the storage of American nuclear warheads in Canada.

Aside from this nuclear issue, Gen. John Gerhart, NORAD commander, is anxious to obtain a new NORAD fighter plane, capable of flying about 2,000 miles an hour and increase radar warning against the threat of off-shore attacks from nuclear submarines armed with ballistic missiles. His proposal for a new plane now is before Defence Secretary McNamara for consideration.

Liberal Leader Attacks Govt. At N.S. Rally

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester Pearson says the Diefenbaker administration has "a positive genius for irritating our two greatest friends and our two greatest customers" — the United States and Britain.

"They seem to get along all right, though, with Cuba and communist China," Canada was even so kind-hearted to let Chinese communists who were attacking India, a Commonwealth country.

Mr. Pearson made his comments Saturday in a keynote speech at a Nova Scotia Liberal convention here.

He said the U.S. and Britain take 80 per cent of Canada's exports and the Progressive Conservative government at Ottawa had greeted Britain's proposed entry in the European Common Market with "whining and obstruction." It had adopted until recently a similar attitude toward President Kennedy's Sugar trade policies.

GOVERNMENT "WEAK"

Canada, he said, has had a weak government for the last five years, a government now hanging on office with votes of a Social Credit party that had condemned its policies before the June 18 election.

A Liberal government would have accepted the changing world trade situation at the outset and moved to take advantage of it.

"Protecting our interests does not require a diplomacy that irritates your best friends."

Mr. Pearson endorsed United States blockade action in the Cuban crisis. "I think it was the right course to take. I wish it could have been taken some other way but I think we have a duty to support the United States in this course."

Earl W. Urquhart, 41, a Cape Breton Lawyer, was elected leader of the provincial party. He won by the close margin of 11 votes over Gordon S. Cowan, 11, of Halifax also a lawyer.

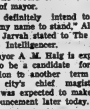
Mr. Urquhart polled 314 votes, Mr. Cowan 303. No others were nominated. About 1,500 persons attended.

Nova Scotia Liberals have been without a permanent leader since former premier Henry Hicks lost his seat in a 1960 Progressive Conservative election sweep. Since then Mr. Urquhart has led the 15 Liberals in the legislature. Conservatives hold 27 seats and the new demograta one.

Ald. W. E. Jarvah Will Be Candidate for Mayoralty

With municipal nominations just over three weeks away, the local political pot commenced to boil this morning with the announcement from Alderman William E. Jarvah that he would contest the office of mayor.

"I definitely intend to allow my name to stand," Alderman Jarvah stated to The Ontario Intelligencer.



Mayor A. M. Haig is expected to be a candidate for re-election to another term as the city's chief magistrate and was expected to make an announcement later today.

Also mentioned as a possible contender for the Mayor's office, Alderman Don Whalen, was not available for comment.

Alderman Jarvah is completing his third year as council member, being first elected in the fall of 1959.

The next year he was re-elected for a two-year term.

An accountant at Northern Electric, Alderman Jarvah in his three years has also served on the recreation committee and also on the special committee on industries. He has also served as chairman of the the finance committee and the personnel committee.

Quiet Weekend For Fire Dept.

A quiet weekend was reported in the city as far as fire calls were concerned, by the Belleville City Fire Department.

The car parked at the corner of Sidney and Tracey Streets, Saturday afternoon, caught fire, but no damage was reported. The car was owned by Mrs. Solofski of 56 Maple Drive. This call was responded to at 12.40 p.m.

Firemen investigated minutes later a call from 158 Albert Street. No damage was reported.

On Sunday afternoon, the automatic fire alarm system at Stephens-Adamson on Frankiln St. called out firemen but the alarm was false.

Morrison, with the paper for 33 years, is president of the Canadian Managing Editors Conference. He will continue as managing editor.

He also announced that Peter Pylypyiw has been appointed news editor and Henry F. Heald city editor. Pylypyiw was formerly city editor and Heald district editor.

Belgian Woman Goes on Trial For Murder

LIEGE, Belgium — Three women and two men were charged in court today with having killed an eight-day-old baby or with having actively co-operated in the killing.

The infant, a girl, was born last May with no arms. Her mother, Suzanne Vandeput, 24, one of the accused, had taken the drug thalidomide during her pregnancy.

The accused are Suzanne Vandeput, her husband Jean, 35, her mother, Fernande Yerna, 50, her sister, Monique de la Marck, 26, and the family doctor, Jacques Casters, 33.

Mr. Liege Jur Court they faced the three-man court of President Paul-Emile Trousse, Vice-President Paul Lejeune and Judge Jean - Pierre Decamps.

The court is sitting with a jury of 12—all men.

In the accusation, the prosecution claims the baby, Carine, was poisoned May 29 by being given a bottle of milk containing a barbiturate.

MORE USE PLANES

Canadian airlines carried 2,250,653 passengers in the first half of 1962, a gain of 11.7 per cent from the same period of 1961. Operating revenues were up 11.1 per cent to $131,530,279 but expenses rose 7.1 per cent to $134,285,525.

Geese Lay Second Batches Of Eggs

PETERBOROUGH (CP) Harold Davidson of Alnwick Township wonders whether his geese are weather prophets or simply confused.

Three geese on his farm 13 miles south of here have laid second batches of eggs and one has hatched a second set of goslings.

Mr. Davidson says geese normally lay one setting of eggs in early spring become broody, hatch the eggs and raise their goslings in a state of independence.

That is the usual sum of their year's work.

This year, the three geese laid seven eggs each in the second setting. One setting has hatched, two more are expected to make its debut soon and the third was gobbled up by a hungry pig.

Mr. Davidson is reluctant to guess whether the second setting means a mild winter, or what.

Two Tourist Associations Will Combine

The Highlands of Hastings and the Land O' Lures Tourist Associations will combine to form one tourist region and thus qualify for a $5,000 provincial grant.

The decision of the two associations to amalgamate and thus take advantage of the provincial grant, was made at a special meeting of association executive members held at the Tweedsmuir Hotel at Tweed on Friday evening.

Approximately 15 persons, all executive members of the two associations, attended the meeting which was jointly chaired by Ted Courneyea of Tweed and Hastings County Warden Harold Yarty of Hungerford township.

SIGHT ON COUNCIL

The region executive will be made up of a council of eight members, four from each association, plus a non-voting chairman.

Each association will hold meetings in the near future to name council members with the first meeting of the new council to be held at Tweed on November 15. Warden McMurray has been acting as chairman of the Highlands of Hastings Association, while Russell Brown of Cloyne, headed up the Land O' Lakes group.

Al Wood of Napanee, representing the Eastern Ontario Travel and Publicity, attended Friday evening's meeting and outlined various points respecting tourist regions. He will also assist in drawing up by-laws for the new tourist region.

brought down the U-2 flights.

A photo made Sept. 28 of a Soviet freighter showed two large crates on deck. Evaluation indicates they "probably" were Ilyushin-28, a Soviet light bomber, with a range of 750 miles. These crates were unloaded in recent ports, Havana, and solely by the Russians, not the Cubans.

In the last days of September Cuban refugees reported heavy night-time traffic on the highways. The freight was covered.

In early October bad weather over Cuba caused a second suspension of the reconnaissance flights.

On Oct. 14 a photo mission revealed missile sites under construction. They were for medium rockets, range 1,000 miles, and for intermediates, range 2,000 miles. The same day pictures were taken of the cylindrical crates, seen Sept. 28 on the freighter, now at San Juliano airport. It was confirmed that IL-28s were in the crates.

On Oct. 13 these photographs were examined. They touched off the train of events that led to the "quarantine."

lian affairs, said Sunday in a television interview:

"We still do not know where they (the Russians) are going, or have verification they have left Cuba or will not be reintroduced."

Meanwhile, in another televi sion interview Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to Kennedy and one of his chief speechwriters, said the United States has given no formal pledge not to invade Cuba. It will not do so until a satisfactory arrangement regarding Cuban missile sites has been worked out, Sorensen said.

Russian Jews Burned Alive By Nazi S.S.

COBLENZ, West Germany (Reuters)—A West German accused with 13 other former Nazi S.S. men of 30,256 wartime murders told a court here today Jewish partisans in Russia were burned alive after they threw a bomb at an S.S. headquarters.

Georg Heuser, 49-year-old former head of the Rhineland-Palatinate criminal investigation department, said his S.S. called at Minsk ordered the burning and told all his staff to attend.

Heuser said several when the fire had died to glowing embers, but the men — there were three or four, he said—were still dying.

They had been tied to a stake in the middle of a bonfire and screamed "terribly," according to other S.S. men who were there earlier, Heuser said.

Four Homeless After $25,000 Frankford Fire

FRANKFORD — Four persons were left homeless when fire destroyed an apartment above a grocery store and caused heavy smoke and water damage to the store's merchandise.

The fire broke out shortly after the store closed Friday night in this community 10 miles northeast of Trenton.

Glen McConkey, owner of the store, said he and his wife and two children had just left the apartment to visit friends when the fire was seen by a neighbor, Mrs. Karl Austin.

Frankford firemen fought the blaze for two hours and then called firemen from Batawa for assistance.

Mr. McConkey estimated damage at $25,000.

East Trenton Power off For Some Time

TRENTON — Trenton, east end of the Trent river, was without street lights until about 8 p.m. last night, because the power was cut off during the afternoon while they connected services at the new subdivision, at the corner of Byron and Dixon Streets. The actual power shutoff to the private houses was, as prearranged, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., but the drain on the power was turned on again was so great that the PUC did not turn on the street lights until 8 p.m. The unusually heavy drain was caused by water heaters, electric heating and other automatic devices, all of which went on at full power, to make up for lost time, when service was restored to consumers, a PUC spokesman said.

'Mr. Air Force', John A. Silver, Dies on Sunday

TRENTON—John A. Silver, of 110 Avondale Road, Belleville, died in Belleville Hospital Sunday morning. Mr. Silver was best known in Trenton for his 20-year association with the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 110. He had been a Legion-ite for 31 years.

Mr. Silver was born in London, England, coming to Canada in 1911. During the First World War he served overseas with the 28th Battalion as a regimental sergeant major, the youngest in the Canadian forces. During World War II, Mr. Silver trained airmen at RCAF Station, Trenton.

Trenton Legion Remembrance Day banquets and Armistice Day services have been distinguished by the reading of the stirring "Line of Commemoration," by "Mr. Air Force," as John Silver was known.

This year, the gap will be filled at the banquet by a recording of the passage, made by Mr. Silver some time ago.

Before his retirement from active duty, Mr. Silver had served as a station warrant officer at the Trenton air station.

Tuesday evening at 7.30, a memorial service, under the auspices of the Trenton Legion branch will be held at the Weaver Funeral Home.

Funeral services, conducted by Archdeacon T. R. McConnell, will be held in St. George's Anglican Church on Wednesday.

Mr. Silver is survived by his wife, the former Rose Tutill and two sons, Rennie of Belleville and Andrew of RR 2, Consecon.

NES Publishes Annual Booklet

The executive and professional section of the National Employment Service has recently published its annual booklet, "Supply and Demand — University Graduates", for 1962-63. It is now available on request at the local National Employment Office.

Employers will find the booklet a mine of useful information to help them in their search for suitable professional manpower. Job opportunities in 1963, in 30 different branches of science, engineering and the humanities, lists 28 universities and colleges from which graduates may be recruited.

The text describes the trends of increase and decrease from seen in graduations, in more than 40, professional categories. The extent of demand by business and industry for graduates in the various disciplines, is also forecast.

A summary of estimated starting monthly salaries, received in 1962 by university graduates in more than 30 professional fields, indicates what 1963 graduates may expect to be offered.

High school graduates, and undergraduates in their graduating year, who are not yet absolutely certain what university courses they should take, will also find invaluable guidance in this booklet.

Every year, the National Employment Service has been placing more graduates during summer. During 1961-62, some 3,000 were placed in permanent employment, while many others were referred to summer jobs between university semesters.

MOROCCANS TO VOTE

Fishing for Trade

Anastas Mikoyan, first deputy premier of Russia, spoke to Premier Joey Smallwood, of Newfoundland, briefly, while Mikoyan was enroute to Cuba. During the informal courtesy call, Mikoyan offered, probably as a semi-friendly jest, to sell Newfoundland some Russian fish.

Considering that Newfoundland was settled as a winter base for fishing boats and was exclusively a fishing country for years, the Russian proposal appears ridiculous. It is even more ridiculous considering that a good share of the Russian fish is now being caught on the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, by ships that still use the province as a fuel and water base.

But the sad truth is that it is not ridiculous. Newfoundland, in its effort to catch up the fifty some odd years that separated it from Canada, in the economic sense, ignored the fishing industry in the years immediately following Union in 1948. Now, the province cannot catch enough fish to supply its foreign markets. The large fishing fleets of the world still operate out of St. John's. But the fleets are foreign.

A Maple Leaf Chestnut

Once again a facet (or lack thereof) of the Canadian character has asserted itself. Half a hundred high school students in Barrie have refused to stand for the playing of God Save the Queen in their assembly because it was introduced as the national anthem.

The students have produced evidence to the effect that Canada has no national anthem in the form of an admission by Canada's office of the Secretary of State that there is no national anthem.

This appears to be another case of trying to grow a mighty oak tree out of an old and well-worn chestnut.

Perhaps the best way to satisfy the apparent distress of the students concerned would be to have them stand for the playing of all possible suggestions proposed for use as national anthems, O Canada and God Save The Queen, and then give them The Maple Leaf Forever for good measure.

Of course, we could also have a Royal Commission appointed to study the matter.

Poetic Licence

We note that a girls' choir which is to perform before Queen Elisabeth has had its repertoire purged. One of their songs for the program was That Was a Real Nice Clambake from the Broadway musical Carousel.

In this song the line "our bellies are full" occurs. One, Mrs. Gwendolyn Davies, wife of the conductor, thought this line was a bit too crude and it has been changed to "and we are full."

Would it not have been more poetic, and grammatically correct, to have improvised with a couplet:

"We have sufficed and everything's nice."

Gone apparently from the English stage is that rugged individualism which prompted one noted music hall songstress to drop the word "pear" in one of her songs for a royal performance at the bequest of the Lord Privy Seal. When royalty heard the song the word "leeks" had been thoughtfully substituted.

Kiss and Make Up

Recently an English firm found it necessary to place the following message in the pay envelopes of its 800 employees:

"Several complaints have been made to the company recently about the conduct of personal relationships between male and female employees on the company premises.

"While it is not the intention of the company to interfere in any way or to restrict the social relationships amongst employees, it will be appreciated that this matter is the cause of embarrassment to other employees as well as to visitors."

A company representative explained that his firm felt it was "unbusinesslike" for young people to cuddle and kiss in the canteen or on the grounds.

An interesting sidelight was cast by a married employee's remark about how his wife felt at finding the company directive in his pay envelope. It would appear that the only thing to do would be to kiss and make up.

All things are in perpetual flux and a sort of consumption; you yourself are continually changing, and in a manner destroyed, and the whole world keeps you company.—Marcus Aurelius.

One Tongue Impossible

By Dr. Alan S.C. Ross in the Washington Post

(Dr. Ross is a professor of linguistics at the University of Birmingham, England.)

I recently attended a Symposium on Multilingualism in Africa, held at Brazzaville, in the Republic of Congo.

The duties of the symposium were, in effect, to discover what languages Africans actually do speak, not in the least what they ought to speak.

But—Africans speak more than 1000 different languages (very many speak more than one), and one cannot help wondering if all of them do not better if they all spoke one language; indeed, if the whole world were to speak one language.

I am not the first person to have wondered this, and for centuries now, scholars and others have made various suggestions as to what this world language might be.

There are really only three possibilities: first, an actual language which already exists; second, an artificial language, and, third, an artificial language based on a mixture of existing languages which already exist.

Of all linguistic matters, it is perhaps the world language in which the greatest number of people have most interest. It is, after all the most important thing about that most linguistic subjects.

But the general public does not all share this interest. One of the problem involved. In its simplest form, this is easy to state: given two languages, A and B, how to create a language which is easier for foreigners than B and easier for B-speakers than A?

In the case of two languages that are very similar, this is not difficult. Thus English is very similar to French and some Esperanto-type language would undoubtedly do.

The case against Esperanto-type languages rests solely on nonlinguistic matters.

A Frenchman can certainly learn Esperanto more easily than he can learn English, but, during the time he is learning Esperanto, he could at least be learning some English, and where is more and better royalty in English than there is in Esperanto.

If A and B are very different languages, the matter is quite different. For practical purposes, what makes a language easy to learn depends only upon the learner's mother tongue.

There is no absolute standard of easiness.

Perhaps one of the troubles may lie in the nature of the word. In English we have Russian, which is very like English words are simple things, like boy, girl, dog, mountain, lowland.

But in Tahitian, for instance, they are not simple things at all.

Rama means "a torch," or "to use a torch to fish by." Add the prefix ma-and you get maramarama, which means "the moon."

Reduplicate a bit, and maramarama means "intelligent". Add the causative prefix fa'a- and you would expect a verb with some such meaning as "to make intelligent".

Not at all. fa'amaramarama is the ordinary Tahitian word for "to win bow", something that makes a room bright.

Now we have no reason to suppose that in most of the 10,000 or so languages of the world, words are simple (like horse) rather than not simple (like fa'amaramarama).

Under like their possibility, there is one obvious way out that has often been suggested but it is not a very attractive one. Namely: Give each idea a number.

Thus, "I like" is No. 123 and "tomorrow" is No. 17, the "sentence" 123-17 will mean, "I will rain tomorrow."

This is, of course, simply the principle on which the commercial codebook is based and it certainly would t possible to utilize something of the sort as a written language.

But even if we were to allot arbitrary words to the numbers (bog "ten", wak "six" bog-wag "sixteen", wakbog "sixty", etc.) we would never arrive at a spoken language simply because of the inadvantage of synonyms and providing which number belonged to which idea.

It thus seems that a viable spoken world language really is an impossibility, And surely the point of this article has been simply, that had it been possible, A, B, or C would already have been invented and flourishing.

Perhaps work on projects for a world language had better be abandone:.

Co-operation Builds Nation

Windsor Star

Sweden has one of the most efficient industrial societies in the world. Its people are busy and its standards of living, by any measurement, are good. Yet it is a nation of only 7,000,000 people, living in a land small geographically by comparison with Canada and also relatively small in resources. It has a small degree of socialism but, in the main, the industry is under the initiative of private enterprise.

A labor-management conference in Ottawa recently quesioned Swedish experts, one representing labor and the other management, in an attempt to find the secret of their success. It wasn't hard to find. It is largely in good labor-management relations.

"Common sense", explained the labor leader with the management representative assenting. The labor leader referred to a 1938 bargaining agreement between the two sides, which stipulated the ground rules for co-operation. "Before that, we fought each other", observed the labor leader.

There is no substitute for common sense in labor-management relationships: Conflict never can be more productive than co-operation. It's just that simple — so simple as to be largely overlooked (or ignored) on this continent.

Strictly Personal
New Yardstick Measures Modern Hero

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in Texas has written me a note asking: "What do women belittle (at least, my wife does) a man's attempt to take to the deep woods and be by himself?"

It's not as simple a question as it sounds, nor is the answer a simple one. Women belittle men for different reasons, good and bad; and men want to take to the woods for different reasons, good and bad.

What interests me, however, is my correspondent's implied assumption that the one who takes to the deep woods is necessarily a "he-man." He may or may not be — but it is in his daily life, not in his forest flights that he reveals his manhood or his boyhood.

In a book on "Courage" that he wrote shortly after the war, Gen. Slim, who commanded the Allied forces in Burma, said that his experience with soldiers and civilians and refugees had taught him that "moral courage is much higher and rarer than physical courage, and that women and civilians often exhibit more courage of the kind than the bravest combatants."

What it takes to be a real "he-man" in modern society is no longer the physical intrepidity of the soldier or frontiersman of the past.

What modern man is called upon to be and do requires more courage of a high order, tenacity, patience, a deep sense of responsibility, and the willingness to endure frustrations and tensions that can be only occasionally relieved.

The real he-man, it seems to me, is not the one who takes to the woods (except, perhaps, for a brief weekend or week in a while), but the one who gets a quiet and deep pride in taking care of his family as a man ought to.

Sitting home at night, reading a book, while the children are tucked in their beds, it can be immensely gratifying to reflect that the whole structure of their safety and welfare depends upon one man, his work, his reliability, his responsibility his refusal to flunk his obligations.

Being a man has little to do with stalking deer in a woods or in conquering a city. And only these are pleasant vestiges of boyhood, not tokens of manhood. But continuing to work when you are tired, assuming duties when you would rather loll, taking some risks that are in safe and warm and that the future holds promise of continuity and growth — these are the unrelenting demands modern society makes upon its grown men.

How well and how willingly we measure up to these demands — unheroic in a dramatic sense but more difficult in many ways — is a more accurate criterion for separating the he-men from the he-boys.

Send Money To Make More

Brantford Expositor

While rightly applauding their government's crusade to promote Ontario exports and thus stimulate more manufacturing and make more jobs, Ontarians need to look with caution on any generalized appeal to discourage imports. Following that policy, such a course could hurt Ontario and the rest of Canada.

Consider how it would work in the case of Anglo-Canadian trade. Last year Canada sold to Britain commodities and goods worth $900 million. Britain's sales to Canada totalled $500 million, leaving on this two-way trading, Canada came out ahead with a surplus of $300 million.

Over the last ten years Britain has been selling Canada $2.7 billion of goods more than Canada has bought from Britain. Thus, on the trading surplus not only represents sales, profits and jobs for Canada, but it helped greatly to keep Canada's dollar strong. In terms of the whole economy, Britain is Canada's best customer by far.

People who press for fewer imports without distinguishing where imports help and where it hurts, are ignoring some important facts. One is that Canada trades with over 120 countries, and—mark this well—imports more from 118 of them than she buys from them.

Of her five major trading partners, three—Britain, Japan and West Germany — contribute to Canada's favorable balance of trade. The other two—the U.S. and Venezuela — by selling more to Canada than they buy from her, help pile up our serious overall deficit on balance of payments.

So when a Canadian buying an imported product makes sure that it comes from a country which helps strengthen our dollar and our economy by importing from us to the point of creating a surplus in our favor, that Canadian is not being unpatriotic. He is just being sensible.

To Your Good Health
A Reasonable Amount Of Sweets Not Dangerous

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently a drug clerk told my sister that there are many cases of diabetes amoung young people and he attributed this to the fact that they consume so many sweets, candies, soft drinks, etc.

I had always thought that any sugar taken into the body was eliminated via the kidneys. Although my four children eat well-balanced diets of meat and fish, cereals, vegetables and salads, they are often treated to sweets after meals — not as a replacement for meals. I would appreciate your opinion. — L.K.

My opinion is that your sister ought to listen to smarter drug clerks. Sugar doesn't cause diabetes, except to the extent that people who are fat are more likely to develop the disease than those who aren't.

There's substantial reason to believe that the increase in processing simply because in the last 50 years we have found out how to lower the 400 killing people prematurely.

Many who used to die in middle age now live to grow up, have children and raise them, and see grandchildren grow up. Heredity plays a big role in diabetes.

Reasonable amounts of sweets aren't dangerous. They are good. Just keep desserts as deserts and there's no need to be fearful.

Dear Dr. Molner: My sister's five-year-old son had a fit the other day for the first time. She took him to the hospital and tests showed signs of epilepsy. The doctor said to watch him and to come back in a month for another test and maybe by that time it will have cleared up.

I recently read that there is a medication for epilepsy. Shouldn't the child be taking it for these forthcoming six months? — L.K.

Not necessarily. While it is true that several medicines have been developed for epilepsy, they do not "cure" the disease in the sense of correcting the basic defect.

Instead the medications — called anti-convulsant drugs — relax the patient enough to prevent the convulsions or "fits" from occurring. They do not cure the epilepsy; they suppress symptoms.

The symptoms — convulsions — are the principal consequence of epilepsy, so preventing them renders the disease harmless to the patient for all practical purposes.

Since the boy in question has had only one, it is possible that it was not caused by epilepsy but by something else, perhaps a transient childhood infection and fever, plus being too tired.

If it isn't epilepsy, starting medication now is unjustified. If it is, and another convulsion occurs, go to the doctor at once and medication can be started.

Dear Doctor: I've heard of arthritis, rheumatism and rheumatism, but what do I have? I'm only 14 and I often get a terrible pain in my shoulder. It started about eight months ago and most often comes when I sit still a long time such as in church or assembly in school, or when I have a heavy coat on for a long time. — L.S.

If it were arthritis or rheumatism it would be in the joints and worsen with motion; if neuritis, in the nerves, and it would be persistent and in muscular areas. It isn't any of these, too.

Since it comes only when you sit a long time and are feeling bored, or otherwise inactive, I'd guess it's muscle spasm or just plain boredom. Volney Hall's old 14 noticed that an equal amount of sitting at a movie or football game never caused the pain!

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do for help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, send Dr. Molner's booklet, How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed For Good. Others write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 100, Peterboro, Ont. enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Another Threat Must Be Met

Ottawa Journal

Lest anyone think the Russian challenge is only one of sputniks and missiles, consider this.

A delegation of American shipping experts returning from a tour of Russian shipyards said that the Soviets have embarked upon the biggest shipbuilding program in the world.

The spokesman for the group predicted that by 1980 Russia will overtake the U.S. in the size and efficiency of its merchant marine fleet. By 1971 Russia's merchant marine will be double that of the United States.

The threat from Russian shipping is not being overlooked by the vessels headed for Cuba. After the present crisis is resolved, the Russian economic competition will go on. In the long run, it may prove the most challenging of all.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When we speak of the young-ger generation, we have to be careful of their generalization. Maybe there is no such thing. There are a multitude of "Castle Crete in Toronto at the opera and Madame Butterfly, which, incidentally, started at the unholy of 2.30 o'clock, did not begin until 4 p.m., and ran on well after 7 p.m. It was a performance specially for the 'school children' of the metropolitan region; and one of the things that filled seats in the huge theatre somewhere between a thousand and two thousand were occupied by the younger generation.

We older members of the audience were a little nervous at such ebullient company. But when the theatre darkened and the prelude began, there we a instant silence. I doubt if Teresa Stratas will often have so still an audience. Children must breathe more softly than do we elders. Composers of opera learn this as a matter of the first aria," the orchestra stops, and the prima-donna bows in expectation of her traditional applause. When Teresa Stratas stood so bowed at the end of her first aria, after every note and every progression across the little bridge, she faced a total and absolute silence. A fan dared not wave. And we old people, whose poised hands were paralyzed by that stillness knew that Teresa knew. She had bewitched two thousand teen agers. From there on she sang as one bewitched, too, and to thunderous applause at each curtain. It was a most magnificent audience, the young ger generation.

50 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty - nine persons were killed on the roads in Central Canada during the weekend—15 in Quebec, 14 in Ontario.

There was a total of 40 traffic fatalities across Canada: Four in British Columbia, two each in Alberta and New Brunswick, and one each in Newfoundland, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Ten other accidental fatalities were reported in a Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday, bringing the weekend total to 50.

Two brothers and their sister died in a fire in Saskatchewan, and Ontario reported two deaths in separate fires.

There was a drowning in Manitoba and one person was killed in a hunting mishap in Quebec.

In Ontario a teen-aged boy shot himself, apparently while cleaning a rifle, and a five-year-old boy and a seven-month old infant both were accidentally strangled.

The survey does not include known suicides, industrial accidents or slayings.

Ontario dead:

William Dyer, 79, struck by a car in Brantford Friday night.

Mrs. Annie May Scullion, of Carlsbad Springs, 15 miles southeast of Ottawa, when the car in which she was riding collided with another near Ottawa Friday night.

Mark Whitehead, 83, of Sapawe, Ont., near Fort William, in a hotel fire at Fort William early Saturday.

Martin Green, 5, of Kingsville, Ont., when he accidentally strangled to death while he and a friend were playing in the loft of a barn near his home Saturday.

Walter Yarmie, 25, of Delhi, Ont., when his car struck a bridge and plunged into a creek near Delhi Saturday.

CAR, TRUCK COLLIDE

Basil Raymond Reed, 56, of Ottawa, when his car collided with a truck 16 miles, 15, 20 miles north of Gananoque, Ont., Saturday night.

Kevin Joseph Tracy, 7, of Evanville, when struck by a car near his home 25 miles south of Fort William Saturday night.

Mrs. Virginia Myers, 50, of Bearline, Ont., when the car she was riding with collided with a tractor 15 miles north of Chatham Saturday night.

William Lawrence Booth, 40, of the Toronto suburb of Don Mills, his daughter, Joanne, 5, and Mrs. Harriett Goodall, 64, of Toronto, after two cars were in collision on Highway 69, two miles south of Parry Sound, Ont., Saturday night.

Mrs. Orma Rheta Calway, 40, of Hamilton when the car she was riding in hit two hydro poles in Hamilton Sunday.

David Gordon Hailstone, 19, of Nobel, Ont., when his car left the road 12 miles north of Parry Sound, early Sunday.

R. E. McKinney To Speak Here On Prophecy

"God's Hand in the Miracle Land—Israel" will be the subject of the prophetic series of messages delivered at the Alliance Church, November 6 to 11 by the Reverend and Mrs. Robert E. McKinney, who have made a number of trips to the Holy Land. Color film, which Mr. McKinney took over there, will be shown each evening, illustrating the transformation which has taken place in the Holy Land since Israel became a nation in 1948.

The film will show new modern cities being built on ancient ruins, such as Ashkelon, and even this was foretold 2500 years ago.

Sidney Wilkinson, of Belleville, records the "radiation level" in a rote book, and Robert Emerson, a captain with the Belleville Fire Department, radios the information to control. ion Nationale candidate in Montreal St. Mary's.

Mr. Johnson said the two are "unthinkable".

"The slips are given to voters by enumerators and must be shown as identification to vote in Montreal and Quebec City ridings.

This could disqualify him from taking his seat in the legislature.

Mr. Chaput, who resigned as president of the separatist movement Le Rassemblement Pour l'Independance Nationale to run as an independent candidate, said Quebec is the world's last colony.

He said he decided to run in the east-end Bourget riding because "it is the riding in Quebec most flagrantly dominated by foreign capital, and the fight for Bourget is a fight for liberation from foreign capitalists."

Mr. Chaput, speaking in suburban Montreal Friday, said the suburb of Montreal East, in Bourget constituency, is Canada's third most industrialized city, after Hamilton and Vancouver.

Fire Chief Attends Course

Fire Chief Gerald Vance of the Belleville City Fire Department, attended a "Fire Planning Emergency" course at the Fire College in Gravenhurst last week.

The course which lasted from Monday to Friday was attended by about 35 fire chiefs from all over Ontario, as far west as Fort William and east to Ottawa.

Only fire chiefs from the largest, permanent fire departments attended.

13 EMO Members Take Radiation Monitoring Course

Thirteen men of the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization took a radiation monitoring course at Air Station Trenton over the weekend. The course, a two-day condensed version of the one week course presented by RCAF radiation monitoring teams, is intended to train the men to direct radiation surveys, and assist in determination of areas affected by fallout in case of nuclear emergency. Belleville and most towns in Prince Edward and Hastings counties were represented.

Taught by F/O C. S. Park and Sgt. F. R. Beaudin, Nuclear Defence specialists, the course included several RCAF training films, classroom instruction and practical training, with radioactive isotopes, and with a radio beacon simulating a radioactive source. In the simulated radiation exercise, teams of monitors with receivers and two way radios, tuned to the radio beacon set out to plot intensity of simulated radiation at different points about the base. The receivers included a steel helmet with antenna, and a radio receiver that indicated the strength of the beam on a dial. The dial was marked as a dial on a radiation survey meter was marked. All readings, as they were taken, were recorded and radioed back to control centre in the classroom, where a plot of the field was drawn up.

The radioactive source was used to test different types of shielding. The students measured the radioactive field with survey meters from different locations, in the open, and compared their results with the readings of the same meters placed behind different types of shielding.

Classroom instruction included the use of the "Radiac Calculator", a device to predict radiation levels and exposure from one known reading, at a known time. Lectures on shielding from radiation, decontamination of radiated areas, were presented and the use of radiation detection instruments was explained.

Because the course was condensed from five days to two, some of the subjects normally taught were eliminated, and others were condensed. The civilian monitors do not have the training of monitors from the Air Force personnel, but the training they have will police said, especially the "coffee." The woman was arrested on a charge of attempting to furnish alcoholic beverages to a prisoner.

VOTERS' LIST

CITY OF BELLEVILLE

1962

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that I have complied with Section 9 of The Voters' List Act and that I have posted up at the City Clerk's Office, City Hall on the 25th day of October, a list of all persons entitled to vote in the Municipality at Municipal Elections, also a list of persons entitled to vote under the Authority of The Municipal Franchise Extension Act and that said lists remain there for inspection.

Persons who are aware of errors in said lists or of changes which have been rendered necessary by reason of death or removal of any person, and all citizens who have purchased property or become residents of the City, or who have changed their place of residence in the City since January 1st, 1962, should examine the lists to see that their name appears therein.

The time for making complaints as to errors or omissions shall be fourteen days from the date of this notice.

DATED at Belleville this 29th day of October, 1962.

CITY CLERK.

Accra Now Has Gone Way Of Newborn African States

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—A dusk to dawn curfew, armed troops at government buildings, police searches and numerous arrests have thrown a pall of suspicion and uncertainty over this capital.

Formerly a gay city, with music blaring through the night, Accra now has gone the way of many newborn African states.

For weeks a virtual prisoner in his Accra residence, Flagstaff House, Nkrumah has appeared only twice during the last few weeks: at a military parade and the delayed opening of Parliament.

Even then there were elaborate precautions for each appearance. He was accompanied by more than 100 armed security forces amid an air of tension and suspicion.

PROTECTIVE VEST

Also noticeable during these two brief outings was the fact that Nkrumah, who used to wear the Roman - styled Kentu, a multi-colored national garment, had changed over to a severe white suit which bulged ominously from the high-buttoned neck down to his waist. Observers guessed he was wearing some sort of protective vest.

Accra's life revolves around the governmental offices, its bustling market place and high-life night clubs. Restaurants and movie theatres now are closed.

Hotels are forced to shut their dining rooms by early evening.

At night, guests are not allowed outside the doors of the palatial government-owned Ambassador Hotel which is guarded by 12 armed policemen.

The pro-government Ghanaian Times issues a daily dosage of violent propaganda against the "imperialist foreign press," "the neo-colonialists" and the "British colonial robbers." Censorship has been imposed on outgoing news and radio broadcasts.

Black Star Square, Accra's showpiece of architectural splendor which cost more than $1,000,000 offers a strange contrast to the pitiful slum areas that encircle the city. People line up to collect water only a few yards away from where wealthy Africans live in the modern section of Kwame Nkrumah Square.

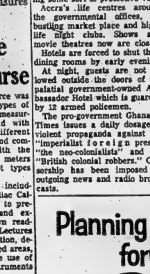
Hundreds of thousands of Ghanian workers receive the minimum daily wage of less than 6c 6d. A recent suggestion by Nkrumah that cheap food should be produced to feed these multitudes prompted the Ghanaian farmers to place the blame for high food costs on the British colonial administration "who for 114 years had robbed and dominated us."

Many new anti - government underground organizations have been formed. A tribal group called the Unknown Warriors and a powerful group known as the Kumasi Command coupled with an active exiled group operating from neighboring Togoland add to Nkrumah's problems.

He now is faced with the choice of relinquishing his one-party rule and allowing full Parliamentary legislation or ruthlessly crushing any opposition which hopes to topple his supreme command.

Hold Over Collection Of Old Sporting Guns

The Hastings County Museum is holding its collection of antique sporting guns of Mr. C. W. Smith for this week only.



They will be on display from 7.00-9.00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

There have been 200 visitors so far but others should not miss the opportunity to see this outstanding display.

BIG INDUSTRY

Nearly 800,000 tourists from abroad visited Britain during the first half of 1962.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, the clergyman, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and social workers.

Mrs. B.G. — I don't want to leave everyone and settle in Israel.

Mr. T.G. — Her duty is to be at her husband's side.

Mrs. B.G.: My husband retired three years ago and shortly thereafter packed his things and moved to Israel. We have three married sons and eight grandchildren here and I preferred to hold onto our small home to be near them and my family and friends, though Ben would get lonesome a good some back.

Instead he says he's staying there for good. My sons chipped in a year ago and bought me a return ticket so that I could visit him and decide what to do. While it's a beautiful land I'd be miserable there. I'm in my late 60's and it would be a hard, dull life for me. And I'd probably never see my children again.

My husband won't budge so I must choose. His brother says I have no choice and should leave immediately to be with Ben. My sons say I'm right.

Mr. T.G.: My brother has found something in the Holy Land which he never had here, namely, peace of mind. My sister-in-law and the boys never paid much attention to him, so naturally they don't miss him very much now. But ever since he writes me, everyone is friendly and he feels as though he has a new family and a new start.

Of course he'd like it more if his wife were at his side, where she belongs. If he'd waited for her to agree to accompany him, he'd be still waiting. She made it clear she'd rather be near her sons, if she had to choose. So he took off alone. I advise her to follow while she still has the chance to spend a few years with him. Her children have their own lives to live and she'd better not depend on them.

The Council: There's an easy way and a hard way to solve Mrs. G.'s dilemma. The easy way involves money for two-way tickets so that wherever she lives — whether in this land or Israel — she can visit the absent segment of her family. The hard way will necessitate soul-searching on her part to determine how her marriage came to such a sere stage, and whether she can — or really wants to — make it flower again.

Her husband evidently has tried to fill a lack in his life which Mrs. G. their children and grandchildren weren't filling. Whether he has succeeded or not, he plans to remain 4,000 miles apart from his family. If they want to see him, they must do the travelling. And the most mobile, the most likely-to-call is Mrs. G., for whoms price of a ticket can surely be raised by the rest.

That's the easy part — the visits. The hard part is what happens during the short trip, as well as before and after. For...it will demand a weighing of values and choices, indicating whether there's much of a marriage left between Mr. and Mrs. G.

We see the choices clearly.

Can Mrs. G. endeavor to find the warmth and beauty in Israel which her husband insists is there? If she succeeds, she can look forward to an old age sidby-side with her life's companion in a new setting, to be sure, but with a real opportunity to be what a wife is supposed to be — a close friend. Otherwise, Mrs. G. must cast her lot with her children, towards whom she already is over-attached. Will they fill her bill? Will they meet her needs?

Upon her answers will depend her place of residence. We get the picture of an unhappy marriage in which the children provided comfort for the mother, but not the father. The latter's flight offers Mrs.G. a challenge. By joining him and consecrating, on him, instead of the children, perhaps their dreary marriage can be preserved and bring them both some belated sunshine.

Bayside H-S Views Slides Of Viet Nam

The Bayside Home and School Association held its monthly meeting on October 25 at Bayside school. In spite of the season's first snow storm attendance was good, and Mrs. Robson's class from Bayside school won the film strip for the best attendance.

A trophy was on display, donated by the Williams family to the Sidney Township Trustees and Ratepayers Association, in memory of their son Michael. This trophy will be awarded to the best softball team in the township.

It was announced that the Brownie and Guide bazaar will be held on November 30 and that they need old Christmas decorations or Christmas corsages. These can be given to any Brownie or Guide.

Captain Durand of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, shcd.d slides taken when he spent a year in North and South Viet Nam, together with an informative commentary on the people and way of living.

An interesting evening was concluded with the serving of coffee and cookies.

Managing Meat Money

by Mary Moore

Because the girl who "mismanaged" her meat money was so distressed all the way through and used "lambs' hearts. Don't look down your noses at me or my meal for I served this to guests who are habitual travellers. They add their votes to mine for the excellence of this meal — even as a Sunday dinner.

Dinner Menu

MONDAY :

Pork Cutlets with Cinnamon Gravy; Duchess Sweet Potatoes; Brussels Sprouts; Hearts of Lettuce with Pimiento Dressing; Applesauce; Ginger Snaps; Coffee.

ECONOMICAL SUNDAY DINNER MENU:

Braised Lambs' Hearts with Onion Gravy
Fluffy Boiled Rice
Steam-Fried Quartered Green Peppers
Frenched Butter Beans
Finely Shredded Cabbage and Carrot Salad with Emulsified French Dressing
Butterscotch Apple Tapioca with Homogenized Milk
Coffee

I will give you the recipe for the hearts and tapioca now. Next week I will give you my method of cooking some beef kidneys for another economical meal instead of today (as promised last week).

BRAISED LAMBS' HEARTS (serves 4):

To serve 4 I bought 1 lamb's heart each costing 45c per pound. (An overgrown lamb's heart weighs approximately 5½ oz. so allow 1 per person.) Wash trim off excess fat and big artery at top of all 4 lambs' hearts. Pressure cook in 1¼ cups water at 10 lbs. pressure for 40 minutes or simmer covered for 3 hours. Drain and measure broth. You should have 1 1-3 cups. If not add water. In pressure cooker (or heavy frying pan with cover) melt 1½ tablespoons butter or margarine and saute in it 1 peeled and chopped onion and 2 tablespoons chopped celery and tops until limp and golden. Add ¾ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, and stir in 1¼ tablespoons flour to blend, then stir in the 1 1-3 cups broth until thick. Add hearts, cover and pressure cook at 10 lbs. pressure for 20 minutes longer, or simmer covered for 1 hour. Serve on or with rice or noodles or mashed potatoes.

BUTTERSCOTCH APPLE TAPIOCA:

¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca, ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mace, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 cups water, 2 or 3 tart apples, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons brown sugar.

Combine tapioca, brown sugar, (first amount), salt, spices, lemon juice and water in saucepan and mix well. Bring to a full boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Peel and core apples and cut in wedges. Arrange half in greased baking dish. Cover with tapioca mixture. Arrange remaining apples on top and dot carefully with butter and sprinkle with the 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, or until apples are tender and top is gold. Serve warm with milk (or cream.) Makes 4 to 6 servings.

NATURAL AID

Digitalis, valued in treatment of heart ailments, is obtained from leaves of the poisonous foxglove plant.

U.C.W. Attend English Line Tea, Bazaar

RAWDON — Mrs. Milford Wrightman, president of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women and 12 members were guests at the afternoon tea and bazaar on Wednesday afternoon, October 24th, sponsored by Tabernacle Church Women on the English Line.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal solo with Mrs. Kenneth Wearer as accompanist. Mrs. Kenneth Odlin one of the 4-H Club leaders at Seymour East Women's Institute gave the special address based on 4-H Club work. She suggested that each church group sponsor a 4-H Club for girls as it was most worthwhile.

Following the program in the church the guests were invited to the church basement, booths with home articles where there were, several which included crocheted sets, bonnets, bootees, tuttle cases, dolls in variety of aprons; a large selection of homebaking; cook books containing favorite recipes and many other items.

Afternoon tea was served in the tea room and all enjoyed a social half hour.

SNORING CHILDREN

A child who snores may have enlarged tonsils or adenoids, requiring the attention of a doctor.

What The Marriage Manuals DON'T Say

Did you know that almost every marriage manual written since 300 B.C. was judged honest by masculine standards? A forthright article in November Reader's Digest reveals that in all the discussion of marriage and sex some fundamental facts about the relationship between men and women have been overlooked. Get your copy of Reader's Digest and read how you can explore a completely new road to true compatibility.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Planning to have a few friends in for lunch soon? Here are some pertinent questions you might ask yourself:

1. What type of cloth may be used for an informal lunch?.
2. Are candles properly used in a lunch setting?
3. How many courses usually are served?
4. Of what does the standard place setting consist?
5. May dessert silver be placed on the table when it is set?
6. Is it proper to include cigarettes, matches and ash trays in the table setting?
7. When is the first course served?
8. Is the salad served as a separate course?
9. How are guests seated at a lunch table?
10. If guests stay on for a meeting or some other business after a lunch, is it necessary to serve additional refreshments in the mid-afternoon?

ANSWERS:

1. The cloth may be linen or a colorful cotton, an informal cotton lace or an embroidered design. Place mats also may be used.
2. Not usually, unless the day is extremely dark or the room is drastically dim. Ordinarily candles do not appear in a luncheon setting at home.
3. Sometimes four, but usually three: appetizer or soup, main dish, and dessert.
4. The place plate is in the centre often with the appetizer or soup already in place. To the left of the plate is the meat fork and the entree fork. The latter is omitted if soup is served. To the left, and above the forks is the bread and butter plate with the butter knife arranged horizontally along the upper edge. To the right of the place plate is the meat knife and either the entree knife or soup spoon, depending on the first course. Above the knives are the water goblet and wine glass, if wine is to be served. The napkin is folded on the first course. Above the knives are the water goblet and wine glass if wine is to be served. The napkin is folded on the place plate, or placed on the table to the left of the forks if the first course is set out in advance.
5. Yes. It may be placed horizontally above the place plate, or it may be brought in on the dessert plates.
6. Yes, these are now more or less standard in a lunch setting.
7. It may be placed on the place plate before guests are seated, or served as soon as they sit down.
8. It may be served after the main course, but usually it's served in a bowl along with the main course.
9. The male guest of honor is on the hostess' right, if men are present. The female guest of honor gets this spot if it's an all-female lunch. The hostess then indicates where others are to sit.
10. No, but often juice or punch or some other simple drink may be offered during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Freeburn, Mr. Borden Freeburn and Mrs. Charles Raeble of Flinton, were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrew of Canniffon.

They all visited their sister, Mrs. Ida Burnett, who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Claude Young, of Wellington, who has been a patient in Kingston General Hospital for the past three weeks, arrived home Friday evening, somewhat improved in health.

Mrs. Annie Young has returned home after a week's stay in Belleville General Hospital. Doing as well as can be expected.

Women Rabid Wrestling Fans Says Promoter

VANCOUVER (CP) — What takes a sweet-looking elderly lady to a wrestling match and turns her into a shrieking purse-swinging banshee?

The wife of one wrestler believes they go there to work off problems in their home. Mrs. Gene Kiniski, wife of a former Edmonton wrestler now managing out of Vancouver, says:

"If they're mad at their husbands, or the neighbors, they go to the wrestling matches and scream."

Her lovely husband has been the object of much high-pitched abuse and a 14-stitch cut in the back by a knife-wielding fan.

Promoter Rod Fenton agrees that trouble in the home may be one reason for the female fans of the grunt - and - groan gang.

"Get a rabid woman fan and you've really got something on your hands," he chuckles.

"Once in a while they attack the villain. There are always two or three referees who like to be the centre of attraction and wave their bags around."

Mrs. Kiniski says her husband turned pro wrestler about eight years ago after playing with Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Football Conference.

"I thought I'd married a football player," says this mother of two. "I never saw him in the ring until after we were married.

"What a shock it was."

Clever Pianist Will Perform In Kingston

Music lovers will have the privilege of hearing a brilliant young Canadian pianist from Winnipeg on November 6th. Miss Ailsa Lawson has performed on many times with the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra and was heard recently on Talent Festival over the CBC national network in an outstanding performance of parts three and four of the Shostakovich concerto for piano and orchestra conducted by Sir Ernest Macmillan.

As winner of the Young Artists Audition, sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations, Miss Lawson will tour many cities in Ontario and Quebec and give 16 recitals.

This gifted 19-year-old recitalist holds the Associate diplomas in pianoforte from the University of Manitoba and the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto, and this year obtained the Licentiate with a mark of 93, the highest in the University of Manitoba. The numerous awards won by Miss Lawson include the Atkins trophy, the highest instrumental award in the Manitoba Music Festival, and the Manitoba Registered Music Teachers' award in 1960.

Miss Lawson will perform in McCallum Hall, Chalmers United Church in Kingston at 8.00 p.m. This recital is sponsored by the Kingston Branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association.

Brownies Hold Hallowe'en Party

POINT ANNE — A Hallowe'en party was held at Canada Cement plant Club House for the Point Anne Brownies at which time prizes were awarded to Bonnie Hart, Debbie Hamilton and Kathy Green. The girls were all treated to delicious bars and also cookies and peanuts and thanks from their leader.

G.I. Auxiliary of B.L.E Hold Successful Tea, Bazaar

The Grand International Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held its fall bazaar and tea on Saturday in the Engineers' Hall, Pine St.

Although the skies were cloudy, the atmosphere inside was most pleasant for an autumn day.

Mrs. W. S. Hammett, president, received the guests, while Mrs. W. A. Morgan and Mrs. D. E. Pitt were at the seat of admission.

The home baking table was in charge of delicious food, with pies of apple, cherry, pumpkin and lemon of all sizes; tarts, date, nut and banana; breads; Scotch scones, Spanish buns, muffins, cakes, cookies, jams, jellies, pickles, nuts and rolls, candy, and baskets of apples and potatoes. This was in charge of Mrs. R. L. Goodman and Mrs. G. Brenton, as conveners, with Mesdames N. H. Robb and J. E. Kerr as saleladies.

MISCELLANEOUS TABLE

The miscellaneous table, under the convenership of Mrs. P. E. Welch, had an array of varied articles from colognes to dollies, potholders, baby notes, child's shirt and tie set; flannelette shortie nightgown, men's socks, children's socks and mitts, baby booties, dolls, Hallowe'en novelties, fancy necktie racks were found here. Helpers were: Mesdames F. Rogers, Dominion Secretary of the G.A. Links, speak to the group. As Mrs. Funzen is a member of the Belleville Branch, the members feel special pride in her achievement in the office. The G.A. Links is a Youth and Girls' Auxiliary and is devoted to young girls in rural areas who find it impossible to attend regular weekly meetings of the G.A.

Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell, Ontario Diocesan president has promoted the youth interest, and their challenge was presented the G.A. Links were organized in 1954 and developed across the Dominion. The Links' motto is "Let us Walk in the Light," and the "Purpose' is 'to open the way for girls to understand and to accept their vocation as Christian women.'

Through correspondence and instruction by mail from the various secretaries, they work for their four badges namely: Bible, Churchman's, Dorcas and Handicraft. The W.A. is asked to no longer think of the G.A. as the W.A. of tomorrow, but as the youth of today.

Mrs. Pitt expressed appreciation to Mrs. Funzen for such an interesting and enthusiastic talk.

Mrs. G. G. Wright closed the meeting.

3rd Scouts L.A. Names '62-3 Officers

The first meeting of 3rd Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary was held recently in St. Michael's Junior School. The president, Mrs. W. Barrett, opened the meeting and welcomed all members present.

Scout Master Murray Atkinson reported on the work on the activities of Scouts over the summer and of the program for the coming year. Several Scouts won their swimming badges this summer. Many thanks to the Scout Leaders for their untiring efforts in making 3rd Belleville second to none in Scouting in this district.

CONFERENCE REPORT

Mrs. J. Black gave a report on the Quinte Region Auxiliary conference held in Colborne which she and Mrs. Barrett attended.

Arrangements for coffee breaks and luncheon for those attending the Akela course to be held in the club rooms were made, as well as arrangements for hot chocolate for the Cubs on Apple Day.

The meeting was turned over to the nominating chairman, Mrs. J. Black, and the following officers for the coming year were nominated and installed:

president — Mrs. W. Barrett; vice-president — Mrs. J. Doyle; secretary — Mrs. A. Farrell; treasurer — Mrs. G. Wilson; membership convener — Mrs. B. McAlpine; sewing convener — Mrs. T. McCabe; social convener — Mrs. E. McCallum; Sunshine — Mrs. J. Meeks.

The president closed the meeting after which a short social period followed.

G.A. Links Topic at A.B. W.A. Meeting

Mrs. W. Ashton, vice-president of the Afternoon Branch of St. Christ Church opened the monthly business meeting with a special prayer for peace.

Mrs. H. Pitt, president, extended a warm welcome to all members and visitors present.

A beautiful poem, "My Prayer," for All Saints' Day, was read by the president, which was appropriate.

A brief business session was conducted in which satisfactory reports were heard. It was agreed to give a donation to the Little Helpers.

The W.A. calendars are available and a motion was carried to pay this account in full.

There was some discussion regarding the Nursery Sale and sending Christmas gifts to be sent early in December.

It was a privilege to have Mrs. G. Rogers, Dominion secretary of the G.A. Links, speak to the group. As Mrs. Funzen is a member of the Belleville Branch, the members feel special pride in her achievement in the office. The G.A. Links is a Youth and Girls' Auxiliary and is devoted to young girls in rural areas who find it impossible to attend regular weekly meetings of the G.A.

Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell, Ontario Diocesan president has promoted the youth interest, and their challenge was presented the G.A. Links were organized in 1954 and developed across the Dominion. The Links' motto is "Let us Walk in the Light," and the "Purpose' is 'to open the way for girls to understand and to accept their vocation as Christian women.'

Through correspondence and instruction by mail from the various secretaries, they work for their four badges namely: Bible, Churchman's, Dorcas and Handicraft. The W.A. is asked to no longer think of the G.A. as the W.A. of tomorrow, but as the youth of today.

Mrs. Pitt expressed appreciation to Mrs. Funzen for such an interesting and enthusiastic talk.

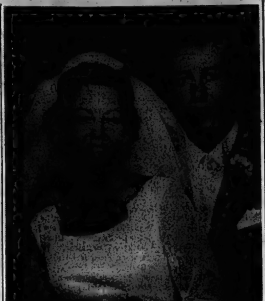
Mrs. G. G. Wright closed the meeting.

The kitchen, under the leadership of Mrs. A. Van-Stone and other duties, convened by Mesdames C. Gurd, N. C. Cathers, J. Payne and D. M. Mairs.

The tea room convener was Mrs. D. Cook and co-convener, Mrs. A. VanStone.

Sincere thanks for a lovely and successful bazaar go to the conveners, Mrs. N. C. Fisher and Mrs. J. F. Avery.

Community Neighbors Honor Couple



On a recent evening a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wilson for a community shower in honor of their recent marriage.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing cards and social conversation, after which the newlyweds were given seats of honor, and an address was read by Mrs. Earl Harrison signed on behalf of the community by Earl Harrison and Carman Gibson.

The couple was presented with a coffee table, a large bassock and a towel pole, as well as many other individual gifts for which Lu and Ted expressed their appreciation and invited all to visit them in their new home.

RITZ — BROAD

A lovely fall wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 6th, at 11:00 a.m., in Tabernacle United Church before a beautiful background of yellow and turquoise poms which adorned the altar, and white satin bows designating the guest pews, when Gloria Mae Blanche Broad, of Corbyville, R. R. 1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Ted) E. Broad became the bride of Francis Arnold Ritz, of R. R. 1, Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ritz. The Rev. N. G. McFarlane, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Alec Gordon, guest organist, provided the wedding music, rendering Purcell's "Processional" and the "Trumpet Tune."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her white nylon gown with taffeta, fashioned with long torso fitted bodice with a scalloped Sweetheart neckline, and long sleeves. The full bouffant skirt was caught up by little bows. She wore a taffeta-covered Juliette cap with seed pearls, and shoulder-length veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Sharon Soable, of Petrolia, Ontario, was maid of honor, attired in turquoise-blue nylon, featuring a sculpted bodice and full skirt with cummerbund and back bow, matching necklace and sleeves. Her headdress was a matching cap, and she carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Violet Collier, of Corbyville, Miss Sharon Sheffield, of Corbyville, R.R. 1 and Miss Faye Robinson, of Corbyville, R.R. 1, were gowned in similar manner to the maid of honor, but each carried a bouquet of red and turquoise shaded mums, and wore cap style headdresses and matching shoes. All were cross necklaces, the gifts of the bridegroom.

The little flower girls, Miss Susan Mills, of Sudbury, in Ontario, and Miss Rhonda Smith, of Belleville, in pink nylon, with pink and white flower garlands in their veils and carrying little baskets of pink and white poms, were demure and sweet. Little crosses, the gifts of the bride, completed their ensembles.

Mr. Wayne Garrison, of R.R. No. 1, Corbyville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. David Martin, also of Corbyville, Mr. John Williams, of Springbrook, and Mr. Max Turner, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held in Carmel Hall, to which the U.C.W. catered.

The bridal table, beneath cascading pink and white streamers, was daintily appointed with white damask, and centred by a four-tier, round wedding cake trimmed in turquoise flowers and silver leaves, and topped by two wedding bands entwined with flowers. Other flowers, made by Mr. and Mrs. L. Hicks, of Springbrook, and the bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent to the setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise printed chiffon gown with matching coat, feather hat, black accessories and baby mum corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a two-piece ensemble in cerise shade in double knit weave, with winter-white accessories, and white gardenia corsage.

For travelling to Niagara Falls, around Lake Ontario, to Montreal; Ottawa and Brockville, the bride chose a three-piece beige suit, moss-green accessories, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Sudbury; Petrolia; Bonarlaw; Springbrook; Brockville; Glen Miller; Eldorado; Marmora; Trenton; Toronto; Peterboro; Stirling; Bayside; Corbyville and Belleville. •

'The Test' Topic To Be Discussed At B.C.I.V.S H-S

"School is the teachers' world; home is the parents'; but children live in both worlds and it is the duty of the teachers and parents to see that their values do not conflict."

This is the topic to be discussed at BCIVS Home and School meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the school gym.

Through the film "The Test," followed by a panel and audience discussion, the meeting tor will be the Rev. Gordon Woodcock, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church.

The members of the panel will be Mrs. Hazel Pugsley, teacher, Mrs. William Slavin, parent, Mr. Wayne Soble, student and Mr. R. McCullough, lawyer.

The film, produced by CBC and which is preparing a child for life. We are all teachers, every parent, every citizen, in some of the things that children learn and believe.

If parents and teachers get together to talk, there is no problem in the education of children that a good schooling that cannot be overcome.

For every adult concerned for the well-being of a child, "The Test" is a challenge, a film to stimulate thought from the point of view of home and school in your community and the Home and School executive extends a special invitation to all parents to join their fellow parents.

Quebec-Born Economist On Staff

OTTAWA (CP) — The information and publication service of the federal agriculture department has added a vivacious Quebec-born economist to its staff.

Henriette Rouleau's job is to interpret the activities of the department to women from coast to coast. She does it in two languages, a beautifully fluent French and delightfully accented English.

"Sometimes I use the wrong word in English but my audiences just seem to be amused by my mistakes," she said.

Miss Rouleau came to Ottawa 14 years ago from her native Quebec City to work for the consumer section of agriculture department.

She didn't start out to be a home economist. After graduation she obtained a teacher's diploma and taught in Quebec City for eight years. One day she took part in a debate on the merits of a degree in home economics. She not only won the debate but convinced herself that it was the life she wanted. She completed a three-year course in three years at Laval University.

After coming to Ottawa she took a year's leave-of-absence to tour Europe and the Middle East where she studied women's activities. In Paris she studied at the Sorbonne. Her present job takes her across Canada fairly regularly.

Book on Consumer-Tested Goods Coming on Market

KITCHENER (CP)—A period-ical on consumer-tested Canadian goods is to be on the market by next February, an official of the Consumers Association of Canada said Saturday.

Mrs. W. A. C. Shephard of London told a meeting of the CAC's southwestern Ontario section that the publication is expected to cost some $35,000 in its first year. Four to six issues are to be published the period.

Mrs. Shephard, a member at large of the CAC national executive and past president of the association's Ontario branch, said the United States and other countries which already have testing magazines envy Canada, since her organization had been built "from the grass roots up."

"We feel the Canadian magazine will be a success," she said, "and we know interest is keen on consumer-tested merchandise because the U.S. publication has some 55,000 Canadian subscribers."

She said the CAC first considered a testing magazine four years ago but it wasn't until last year that action was taken.

Several delegates voiced concern that branch organizations would be left with little to do after the publication becomes a reality. Mrs. Shephard replied that the branches will carry on their educational work and community projects and are even asked to do certain testing as well.

WILL COMPARE

She said the first issue of the publication will carry comparison reports on some common drugs, electrical appliances and fabrics. She emphasized that the magazine will not replace a CAC service distributed to Ontario branches.

The delegates complained of the appearance of acetate in tailers to adopt CAC-sponsored Canada standard sizes for chil-dren's wear. A Sarnia delegate said allegiance seem confused about the sizing system; of eight major stores she surveyed only three stocked garments using the new sizes.

A Windsor delegate said only one of eight Windsor stores surveyed carried the new sizes. She said a number of retailers have said manufacturers aren't supplying them.

Mrs. K. E. McIntosh of Kitchener, a member of the CAC's Ontario executive board, said perhaps the CAC should plague the manufacturers a little more

Negroes May Tip Scales In Some Close Races in Northern Industrial Areas

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Negro voters, gaining steadily in political stature and strength, may tip the scales in some close races in northern industrial areas in next Tuesday's U.S. congressional elections.

With a total population of about 17,000,000, some 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 Negroes are eligible to vote this year. Those in the North are concentrated mainly in the factory towns and cities. In the South, they are spread among the towns and farmlands.

Because of various southern regulations virtually stripping many Negroes of their vote, their most powerful election voice is concentrated in the big northern states where they are wooed by politicians as avidly as any big minority group.

But Negroes, while supporting white politicians who appear most sympathetic to the Negro cause, also are striving to increase congressional representation by members of their own race.

Four of the present congressmen are Negroes—from New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan. An all-Negro contest in one seat in California assures a Negro representative for that state in the 435-seat House of Representatives.

While there are no Negro candidates for the 10-member U.S. Senate; a Negro is assured election in an all-Negro fight for a seat in the Georgia state Senate. It will be the first time in history a Negro will sit in the state Senate.

Negroes also are likely to widen their representation in state legislatures and other state political positions. Connecticut will have a Negro state treasurer for the first time. Democrats have nominated a Negro for attorney-general of New York State. Another Negro is the Republican candidate for state attorney - general in Massachusetts.

Traditionally, Negroes seem to come down hard on the Democratic side of the voting ledger. But one Negro leader suggests that as Negroes gain in education and earnings, they tend to be a bit more cautious and more discriminating in their vote.

"They will watch the local candidate carefully and vote more on his ability, be he Republican or Democrat," says Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

President Kennedy's decision to back James Meredith's entrance into the University of Mississippi, even though this integration move brought bloodshed and violence, may help the Democrats in the North, but not in the South.

The South is still to a great extent a one-party region where Conservative Democrats remain in firm control, hewing to a segregation line. This strong hold is bound by Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina. In these regions where Negroes may have no choice, there likely will be a protest in the form of a write - in vote for candidates who have no chance of election.

Poll-taker Samuel Lubell suggests that in the North the Negroes' gradual spread into suburban areas may help the Democrats. Usually Democrats draw their main strength from the heart of an industrialized city while Republicans get their main support from the wealthier suburbs. Lubell says that as Negroes move into suburbs, they tend to undermine Republican strongholds.

The Negro still has a long way to go to become a major influence in American elections. But the trend appears to be pointing in his favor. Gradually, some of the southern barriers against Negro voting rights are being stripped away.

As Negroes become more unified and increase their representation in state and national legislatures, their ability to shape political decisions also will increase, providing hope for eventual advances in other areas.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Attractive But Unhappy

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—As a widow (for 17 years), my time has been occupied with a job, housekeeping and my children. They tell me I am attractive, vivacious, etc.

I have a $4,000 a year job.

Well, you ask, what is my problem? I am very unhappy. — Hobbies? Well, what? Night school courses are the only thing I am much interested in. But can you go on taking night school courses forever?

I know there are hundreds of women in the same position. My relatives were afraid years ago, they would have to support my family, so I dropped out of the unfriendly family circle. I have really had no time to make friends, so here I am, alone. It surely is a strange society we live in when there is no place for a kind, good-natured woman to fit in.

Perhaps it sounds as though I am painting a nice picture of myself. Well, Doris, just come and see me!—JUST STUPID.

DEAR JUST—Not Stupid. Just thoroughly occupied for years. It's time now to take stock.

Night school classes in what? Hobbies can start a whole series of delightful events—and the choice is endless. Swimming, bridge, picture-taking, French, metal working, philosophy (!)—and loads more, preferably till you hand in your checks!

If you are unhappy, use that attractive personality to reach out in friendship. Give good cheer and you'll brighten up. And start a new era by making friends with your family.

DEAR DORIS—In the next block lives a woman who has had a regular caller for over two years. He is a Sunday school teacher and since one of her children belongs to his class this is the original excuse for his calling so often. Recently this woman seems to delight in openly bragging about her caller so that she has made herself and her family a target for gossip.

Yesterday from my back yard I overheard a conversation concerning this subject between two ten-year-olds. The language was absolutely shocking. They could not possibly have understood what they were saying.

These two children are constant companions of our younger child, so of course I am quite concerned. Should I speak to their parents about this or should I just instruct our child and keep "mum" about the conversation?—A WORRIED MUM.

CONFIDENTIAL TO UNFLIRTABLE—You'll improve with age—say age sixteen. If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will send you the name of a fine little book which can give you some answers.

* * *

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Upwards of 400 delegates to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association convention, held in the King Edward Hotel Friday and Saturday, heard a record-breaking 1961-62 season and looked forward to another this year.

Secretary Gary McLeod told the delegates that a new mark of $1,460 youngsters took part in either league play or playoffs and playdowns, an increase of nearly 5,000 over figures of the previous year.

Some 29,000 competed in town or city leagues with 620 teams or 12,300 players taking part in OMHA group play or playdowns.

In his report McLeod said the OMHA is continuing its work of cracking down on players and officials who do not observe the rules of the game. Last year, he said 25 players were suspended for anywhere from one to four games for various infractions. Another 25 received warnings. An additional nine were assessed match penalties of up to one year, while two coaches and a manager were suspended for improper conduct and failing to keep their players under control.

He said that this year there would be a new reference rules forum headed by Gordon Howes and Wes Oswald of Forest, who will be assisted by first vice Albert Watkins, and Doug Patterson of Stirling. He warned all managers and coaches to "keep your players under control or lose your permit."

"Players who persist in stick swinging; using profane language and showing general disrespect for authority not only can be suspended, but will be suspended, he said.

The secretary joined President Ted Elmes of Galt, in expressing appreciation of the "terrific support" given the executive by coaches, managers, secretaries and referees the past years.

The guest speaker at the closing banquet was Lloyd Pollack of Windsor, president of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Mr. Pollack said he believed there was only room for one Junior "A" Hockey League in Ontario. The present system of two leagues is resulting in a number her of extremely weak teams. The OHA Metro junior "A" loop was started two years ago and at the same time the OHA junior "A" was retained in the hopes of cutting down travelling of school-age players.

Mr. Pollack said the convention he would like to see a return to local ownership of junior "A" hockey. He said boys should not be moved from their homes to play hockey until they are at least 16 years of age.

Another highlight of the convention was the presentation of the OMHA Honor Award to Wilson "Dutch" Ainsworth of Wellington, the story of which appeared in the Saturday edition.

Speaking of the OHA and Mr. Pollack, the popular Windsor proxy handed down a stiff jolt to the effervescent Wren Blair, manager of the Oshawa Generals, among others, junior "A" club.

It was announced that Mr. Pollack slapped a $50 fine on Blair and added "banishment from the Oshawa beach, the vicinity of the bench, or anywhere in the arena where he can coach."

The banishment, it is stated, is for the rest of the 1962-63 season. Blair was allowed to bypass the OHA executive meeting after being tossed out and refusing to leave a Metro junior "A" game between Marlboros and Oshawa at Maple Leaf Gardens last Tuesday.

In the game Blair assumed coaching duties when coach Doug Williams was delayed. Blair received a bench minor penalty before he collected a game misconduct for harassing referee John Sullivan of Toronto.

Baby Habs Thump Royals

[illegible] someone stops Montreal Canadiens soon, they're go[illegible] the rest of the pack in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

They're already off to a good start with an undefeated record of four wins and three ties for 11 points—that more than doubles what the two clubs tied for second place have been able to accomplish so far.

Sunday the lowly Guelph Royals tackled the high and mighty rookie, and Chapman held the Canadiens and wound up on the short side of a 10-3 score.

It was any immediate bid by the Red Wings, one of the fenceman Brent Hughes scored two goals apiece for the fourth straight win. Oshawa was stifled Saturday night when St. Catharines m-n and Don Soider were the only ones to defeated them 6-4 other marksmen with singles. Paul Henderson, Bryan Campbell, Jim Peters and John Gofton tallied for Hamilton.

In Metro Toronto Junior A play Bob Charlesbois, Andre Boudrias and Alex Matthews each getting single goals.

Left winger Gordon Smith fired both goals for the last place Royals, who have been able to manage only one victory in five games.

At St. Catharines, the Red Wings were killed in the first period when the Black Hawks scored five goals. Hamilton then changed goaltenders, putting in rookie Stup Chapman in place of Larry Harrop, also a Centre Fred Stanfield and defenceman Brent Hughes scored two goals apiece for the fourth place Hawks and John Brennen scored the other. Hamilton's only weekend win came in Metro Toronto Junior A play when Bob Charlesbois, Andre Boudrias and Alex Matthews each scored twice each walloped Whitby Dunlops 10-3.

Star right winger Andy Bathgate and centre Earl Ingarfield scored early in the second period for Rangers to give them a 4-1 edge at the four-minute mark.

Bathgate also drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty along with teammate Doug Harvey in the third period. The miscreants, and four other minor penalties, stemmed. out of a Bathgate-Teddy Green fight in the lively third period.

Fronts Tie Beat Braves, Lead Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Don Blackburn recovers from an injury, he does it with a bang, and the bang he made in the playoffs last season is still echoing through the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The 24 - year - old Kirkland Lake native is still flying. In his first league season he has nine goals and six assists, and the four points he picked up during the weekend were big ones in leading Frontenacs to first place as the Fifth set the Braves 3 - 1 victory over Syracuse Saturday.

Sudbury Wolves upset Hull-Ottawa Canadiens in the only other weekend game.

Saturday at Kingston, Blackburn scored two goals and assisted on another as the Fronts moved to a victory at 14:02 of the third period when Brayer Ken Harris scored the tying goal on a screened shot. It was Harris' second goal of the night.

Bobby Leiter, Randy Miller and Jeannot Gilbert scored the other Kingston goals and Milan Marcetta, Bert Fizzell and Phil Esposito completed the Syracuse scoring.

In the second game of the home-and-home series Sunday Frontenacs' victory boosted them into first place with 12 points, two head of Hull-Ottawa. Leiter and Billy Knibbs scored in the first period and Blackburn in the second before Rex Lalande tallied for the last-place Braves in the last half of the second.

At Sudbury Sunday, Dave McComb and Paul Andrea scored two goals apiece as the third-place Wolves scored their second upset victory in as many games. Earlier in night they downed Kingston 6-1.

Red Armstrong had the other Sudbury goal and Doug Senior and Claude Labrosse replied for Hull-Ottawa.

MacDonald Scores Four ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Zooming Wings Defeat Hawks, Leafs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit's Parker MacDonald, a journeyman forward whose hockey career reads like a 10-year badminton game between the National Hockey League and the American Hockey League, may at least be coming into his own.

MacDonald, a 29-year-old native of Sydney, N.S., scored two goals in each of the Wings' two wins over the weekend. The 7-3 whipping of Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday and Sunday's 3-1 win over Chicago Black Hawks kept alive the amazing Red Wings unbeaten streak of 10 games since the season opened.

The wins also gave them clear possession of first place with 18 points, five more than second-place Chicago. Detroit has two games in hand over the Hawks.

MacDonald's weekend production makes him the league leader in goals scored with eight, and along with five assists, he jumped into a three-way tie atop the individual scoring race with 13 points—the same number as teammate Alex Delvecchio and Henri Richard of Montreal.

RANGERS TIE HANS

In other league action during the weekend, New York Rangers held Canadiens to a 3-3 tie in Montreal Saturday night and then broke their four-game winless streak with a 4-3 win in Boston.

In Toronto Saturday night, th ugsless Howe, MacDonald and Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk were the heroes.

Billy McNeill had given Wings a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period, but Leafs came back in the second to tie the score 3-3. Centre Dave Keon scored two of the Toronto goals within 1:45, and centre Bob Pulford added the third, while rookie defenceman Doug Barkley set up MacDonald scored for Detroit.

The third period was all Detroit. Howe, whose 34 years haven't kept him from entering a tie for fifth spot in the scoring race with 11 points, scored twice in succession. Forward Floyd Smith and MacDonald followed with goals in the last two minutes of play.

Sawchuk, who now has allowed only 13 goals in 10 games, made 29 saves in the Detroit nets, compared with 20 for Johnny Bower in the Toronto goal.

TIES FOR RANGERS

Right winger Ken Schinkel scored the tying goal for Rangers in the third period, after Richard and Donnie Marshall had scored for Montreal on passes from Dickie Moore to give Canadiens a 3-2 edge.

New York took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Andy Hebenton.

Rangers took a 2-0 lead in the second period on a power-play goal by defenceman Harry Howell, but Claude Provost tipped in a pass from linemate Phil Goyette to pull Montreal back to a 2-1 defeat.

In Detroit Sunday night, MacDonald scored the tying and winning goals on power plays within one minute in the third period, with Howe assisting on both.

Chicago had taken a 1-0 lead early in the first period when Bobby Hull scored.

New York came near to yielding another tie to an aroused Bruins team in Boston Sunday night. Rangers had a 4-1 lead early in the second period, but Boston cut the score to 4-3 by the 11-minute mark of the third period on goals by Murray Oliver and Johnny Bucyk.

WORSLEY SHINES

Gump Worsley again put on a remarkable show, kicking out 13 shots in the final period, some of them labelled. The Bruins had six forwards on the ice in the last 13 seconds, and kept the puck in the Ranger end the whole time, but couldn't get the puck by New York's 33-year-old veteran goaltender.

Eskimos Defeat Bombers

Lions Drop Saskys To 3rd Place

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

For all the misery that the Western Football Conference players and fans had to go through—Jets in Vancouver and a freeze-up in Winnipeg—the results of weekend action meant previous little.

The only question finally decided was that the conference semi-final will begin with a game in Calgary next Saturday and the second contest in Regina Nov. 12.

When Saskatchewan Roughriders lost a 25-8 decision to British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Sunday, they remained two points behind Calgary Stampeders in third place and thus lost the right to call the venue for the first game of the two-game, total - points semi-final.

Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs was in the coast city for the game and hoped for a home first.

The winner of the Calgary-Saskatchewan series meets Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a best-of-three final series starting Nov. 17. The survivor of that series gets the Grey Cup game at Toronto Dec. 1 against the Eastern Canadian champ.

BEAT BOMBERS

Winnipeg ended the season beaten by Edmonton Eskimos. The Eaks took an 18-12 decision from the defending Canadian champions, but failed to make the playoffs for the first time since 1950.

Winnipeg ended the season on top of the standings with 28 points on 14 wins and five losses, while Edmonton—in the league cellar—had 15 points on six wins, a tie and nine losses.

B.C. Lions were in fourth place with seven victories and nine losses for a total of 14 points.

Finishing in the three-team playoffs for the first time since 1958, Saskatchewan wound up in third place with eight wins, a tie and seven losses for 17 points. Calgary had nine wins, a tie and six losses.

Edmonton's Tommy-Joe Coffey served up the individual scoring race Saturday, finishing with 128 points. He snared the league crown with a touchdown, a field goal and two converts.

Coffey, Eskimos' all purpose end, halfback and kicker, ended the season with 65 pass completions—three less than the one-season record held jointly by Winnipeg's Bud Grant, now the Bomber coach, and Bombers' star end Ernie Pitts.

SETS RECORD

In Sunday's game, Lions quarterback Joe Kapp raised his total yards gained passing this season to 3,278 — five yards more than the previous record set in 1956 by Saskatchewan's Frank Tripplett.

Kapp, 23-year-old from the University of California, went into the game needing 275 yards to crack the record, scored 134 in the first quarter and rode the bench in the second. Then in the third, he connected for a short pass to Sonny Homer who ran down the sidelines for an 85-yard touchdown. He hit Willie Fleming from the 13 in the fourth and then rode the bench again with 23 yards to go. Coming back with only two minutes left in the game, he completed three for the record.

Zuger Leads Tiger Triumph

Als Meet Riders, Thump Argos 32-8

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although they left it till the last game of the season, Montreal Alouettes finally came up with convincing evidence that they belong in the Eastern football Conference playoffs.

Shearing the pre-season label of a strong contender for the EFC title, went into their final meeting with Toronto Argonauts Saturday needing at least a tie to stay alive. They responded with a 32-8 victory.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats scored a comeback 40-34 win over Ottawa Rough Riders Sunday, possibly because somebody forgot to tell rookie quarterback Joe Zuger the game wouldn't affect the standings.

Zuger came off the bench to toss two touchdown passes and score three himself, including the winner with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

They were the final games of the schedule and now Als meet Ottawa in a sudden-death semi-final at Ottawa next Saturday. Argos' loser will head for their respective homes and Hoots will ground for a go at either Montreal or Ottawa in the two-game finals.

GAIN SIX YARDS

Don Clark, out since early in the season with a serious kidney injury, was playing his second game since returning to the Alouette lineup.

Clark and George Dixon churned out key yards between them on a slippery field.

Coach Perry Moss switched from his usual Montreal twin-fullback system to an old T-formation and it was effective.

Clark scored two touchdowns, Dixon and Mary Luster one each and Sonny Jack Oliver converted all four. Oliver also kicked a 25-yard field goal and a single off a field goal attempt that was wide.

Clark took a pass for his touchdown—while he was flat on his back. Sandy Stephen's pass was batted by Argos' Dave Mann and Luster slipped. But he caught it while lying down.

Gerry Mullins scored Argos' lone touchdown on a pass from Dick Shatto. Bill Mitchell kicked the convert and a single.

HAS BAD DAY

Tobin Rote completed only eight of 34 passes for 114 yards.

At Hamilton Sunday, Zuger came off the bench in the second quarter with Ottawa leading 13-3.

Hamilton had already clinched first place, Ottawa second and the game was billed as a possible preview of the eastern finals.

Zuger, who set an eastern record of eight touchdown passes recently, passed 23 yards to Garney Henley for a touchdown, combined with Dick Easterly on a 78-yard pass-and-run play, then scored three times—from the four-yard line, the three and the one.

Don Sutherland kicked four converts and two field goals.

Quarterback Russ Jackson, Ernie White, Dave Thelen and Bobby Simpson scored the Ottawa touchdowns.

Moe Racine booted his 11th and 12th field goals of the season, tying Sutherin for the eastern record. Both exceeded by one the mark set by Ray Poole of Montreal in 1956. Racine also kicked three converts and a single.

Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton Eskimos spurted away from the pack Saturday night with 11 points to win the Western Football Conference scoring championship.

Coffey ran up a total of 129 points to edge fullback Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who had 116.

The Edmonton end, halfback Jim Letcavits and two converts while James scored a touchdown and missed on two converts attempts as Eskimos defeated Bombers 18-12 in Winnipeg.

Playing in 14 games of the 16-game schedule, Coffey went for 12 touchdowns and kicked 26 converts, nine field goals and four singles on his way to the title.

Aces Defeat Amerks, Up Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces, dormats of the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League last season, have made it plain that a new era is in the making.

The Aces, who finished 28 points back of the Eastern leader last year, won a 5-3 verdict over Rochester Sunday night and opened up a four-point margin atop the Eastern standings.

Providence Reds in second place, fell before Buffalo Bisons 2-1 in the only other game scheduled.

On Saturday the Aces came up with four third-period goals to edge Cleveland Barons 5-4, Springfield Indians crushed the previously unbeaten Bisons 10-1, Baltimore Clippers trimmed Hershey Bears 6-3 and Providence shaded Pittsburgh Hornets 3-2.

Skippy Burchell with two goals, Guy Rousseau, Dollard St. Laurent and Ron Attwell did the scoring against Rochester Sunday night, while Dick Gamble had two and Larry Keenan one for the Bisons.

Johnny McKenzie got both Buffalo goals, netting the winner with 1:44 left in the second period. Pierre Brillant collected the only Providence goal.

Ron Stewart, Gerry Dineen scored twice against Cleveland Saturday and provided the winning goal. Norm Defelice, Larry Levy and Danny Lewicki got the others while John Ferguson, Tom Williams, Wally Hergesheimer and Dick Van Impe replied for the losers.

Bruce Cline and Wayne Larkin potted three goals apiece for Springfield and Ted Harris, Jimmy Anderson, Roger Cote and Bob McCord piled up the Winners' total while Bob Haman was the lone Buffalo marksman.

Leon Ronson, Vic Hadfield, Don McCormack, Wayne Rupp, Pat Hannigan and Leon Rochefort tallied for Baltimore Clippers. Willie Marshall, Myron Stankiewicz and Dick Meissner counted for Hershey.

Ed Mazur, Larry Leach and Danny Lyndahl scored the Providence goals against the Hornets, who got two tallies from Ed Joyal.

U.S. College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Mississippi struck back with a 15-7 win over Louisiana State Saturday night to climax a frustration for the Rebels against their perennial "spoilers."

The triumph virtually assured them their first perfect season in 30 years and a bid to the Sugar Bowl—and, a lucrative bowl bid.

The game at Baton Rouge, La., knocking off the No. 4 team in the U.S., now just one in a wave of upsets and near upsets in the college leagues. Most of the surprises involved midwest teams, but they also spread to the East and into the Deep South, where seven All-32-8 victory over Toronto Argonauts Saturday and wound up with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show Moe Racine of Ottawa Rough Riders in second place with 79 points and Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Don Sutherin third, one point behind.

Packers Romp Over Bears

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

NEW YORK (CP) — Playing without two of their scoring stars, Green Bay Packers romped to a 38-7 victory over Chicago Bears Sunday for their eighth consecutive football win.

Halfback Paul Hornung, who has been sidelined since Oct. 14 with a broken knee, was in uniform for Green Bay but was not called upon. Fullback Jim Taylor, who has a pinched nerve, nursing an injured left knee, was used only as a punter.

The one-sided victory moved the Packers closer to their third straight Western Division crown in the National Football League. New York Giants took over first place in the Eastern Division with a 31-28 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. The Giants came from behind with a three-touchdown assault in a wild fourth quarter in which the Cardinals also scored two touchdowns. Y. A. Tittle's 20-yard touchdown pass to Alex Webster with less than four minutes remaining enabled the Giants to overcome a 28-24 Cardinal lead.

Sam Etcheverry again had to content himself with doing the punting chores as Eastern St. Louis quarterback Charley Johnson put on the spectacular aerial show, completing 26 of 46 passes for 365 yards and two touchdowns. Etcheverry, one of the most popular players in Canadian football during his years with Montreal Alouettes, averaged 38.5 yards while punting four times. His longest boot was 44 yards.

REDSKINS LOSE

Dallas Cowboys knocked Washington Redskins out of first place in the Eastern Conference with a 38-10 victory. Dallas fullback Don Meredith threw three touchdown passes each.

Second - place Detroit Lions held to one touchdown by the Los Angeles defence, managed to defeat the Rams for their sixth success in eight starts. Baltimore Colts held San Francisco 49ers to a field goal and won 22-3 to tie the Bears for third place, at four victories and four defeats apiece.

Pittsburgh Steelers scored 10 points in the final 27 seconds to nail down a hard-fought 23-21 triumph over Minnesota Vikings. Lou Michaels's 31-yard field goal carried the Minnesota lead and the Steelers added a touchdown following an intercepted pass seconds later.

Cleveland Browns scored in the final quarter to earn a 14-14 tie with Philadelphia Eagles.

Denver Broncos regained first place in the Western Division of the American League with a 23-20 victory over San Diego Chargers. Houston Oilers defeated Dallas Texans 14-6 to knock the losers out of first place in the West.

New York Titans scored 28 points in the second half to beat Oakland Raiders 35-21. Sunday night contest, Buffalo Bills held the Eastern Conference leading Boston Patriots to a 28-28 tie.

Gails, Redmen Top Tied

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A quarterback who lived up to his reputation and a stubby little guard who was alert brought the Intercollegiate Senior Football League back to normal Saturday.

Queen's Golden Gaels and McGill Redmen, who have shared most of the glory in recent years, are tied for first place.

The four-team league had a four-way tie going into Saturday's games with the teams having identical 2-2 records in the first four games.

Redmen came from behind on the ar mof Tom Skypeck to down University of Toronto Blues 23-11 at Toronto and Queen's dumped University of Western Ontario Mustangs 18-13 when guard Fred Endley picked up a fumble in the Western end zone for the winning touchdown.

TAKE THE LEAD

McGill held a 9-0 lead going into the third quarter but the Blues rallied to take an 11-9 lead early in the fourth.

Then Skypeck, aided admirably by Eric Weiss, took over.

The key play came when McGill was on the Toronto 32, third down, 13 yards to go.

Skypeck, who had gambled successfully three plays earlier on a third-and-three situation, calmly tossed a 15-yard pass to Ian Monteith for the first down.

On the next play, from the Varsity 37, he hit Walter for a touchdown.

TAKES A PASS

Late in the game, Walter ran 31 yards to set up a scoring play then took a Skypeck pass for a touchdown from the five with two seconds remaining in the game.

Walter, with two, and Willis Lambert were the McGill touchdown scorers and George Teikaich kicked a field goal and two converts.

Al Brereton scored the lone Toronto touchdown and rookie Bryce Taylor kicked a field goal, a single and a convert.

Bill Sirman and Endley counted the Queen's touchdowns and Robin Ritchie kicked two converts and a single. Punter Gary West also kicked a single.

Rookie sensation Brian Conacher scored two touchdowns for Western and John Nash kicked a convert.

Conacher, tied for the scoring leadership with McGill's Walter, raised 15 yards for one touchdown and scored on a 73-yard pass-and-run play.

The winning touchdown came in the third quarter. Western punter Larry Ferguson dropped a bad snap from centre John Metras and Endley was Fred-die-on-the-spot.

The beef guard, one of the team's most versatile defensive players scooped it up and ran the last few yards to the end zone.

Galt Beats Rams Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sarnia Rams might be excused for considering themselves in a rut.

The Rams wound up the 1961-62 season in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series basement with only five wins and a tie in 34 games.

Two games during the week-end with Galt Terriers, last year's champions - and this year's front-runners, left the Sarnia team where they started off—alone in the cellar, with nary a win in three games.

The Terriers downed the Rams 7-3 in Galt Saturday and then shellacked the Rams 6-2 in Sarnia Sunday.

In the only other league game Chatham Maroons moved into second place with a one-sided washing of Windsor Bulldogs in Windsor.

At Galt Saturday defenceman Jack Willon was Terriers' big gun with two goals. Larry Litzgus, Keith Worrall, Bob McKnight and Andy McDougall picked up the rest.

Clark Horner, Don Savage and Willie Menard were the Sarnia scorers in the game played before 625 fans.

JUMP INTO LEAP

Sunday, Galt jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first frame and maintained the margin from there in. Bill Worrall scored four of the six Terrier goals. Larry Litgus and Andy McDougall added the others.

Reg Mulholland and Don Mackay, a newly-acquired centre from Sudbury, scored for the losers.

Dave Dryden starred in the Terriers' goal, making 40 stops compared with 26 by Ron Ury at the other end.

In Windsor, the Maroons spoiled the Bulldogs' home opener and gained retribution for Windsor's 7-5 win at Chatham.

Miss Garson and Fairbanks Give Fine Performances

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Shadowed Affair, NBC's original drama Sunday night, turned out to be a belated Hallowe'en gift, both trick and treat.

The trick, and it was a dirty one, was on the audience. We first saw a young reporter, a pretty girl, arriving to do a "profile" on Nobel Prize winner Elsa Barbon, a novelist. She met his wife, Greer Garson, playing a bristly, dominating, bossy, rude and thoroughly unlikeable woman, and then the author, played by Douglas Fairbanks Jr. as a quiet, pipe-puffing, charming, boyish older man.

Ultimately the unpleasant wife practically threw the girl into her husband's arms and we are given to understand that it was because she had a traumatic childhood, which was obvious. But at the end, it turned out that it was all part of a husband-wife plot. That young woman was just arranging the plot for another book by her husband—he had to live from what you see. And the whole hour was a setup to fool the audience.

In addition, it was a static, talky affair.

But on the treat side, there was the presence of Miss Garson and Fairbanks, two very attractive and persuasive performers who somehow captured one's attention completely and turned the shabby proceedings into a stimulating hour.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Derrval scored an unexpected victory in the First Division of the $22,000 Hiromonk Stakes at Old Woodbine race track Saturday.

Winston won the Second Division, his second stakes victory in two weeks. He captured the Sandown Stakes last Saturday.

Canberro was top horse in the $9,285 Carleton Stakes, third part of Saturday's triple stakes program.

Seven Deal in the first and Noblilem in the second, both under leading rider Ron Turcotte, combined for a daily double payoff of $20.80.

Smirlys Rouge and Mr. Rooster paid a $37.90 quinella in the fifth.

SHIP REJOINS FLEET

BOSTON (AP) — The guided missile cruiser Albany rejoins the U.S. Navy fleet today after a face-lifting job in which all her guns were replaced by missile-launching equipment. The 18,000-ton ship built during the Second World War as a heavy cruiser is 676 feet long. Its new armament includes both tartar and talos, supersonic surface-to-air guided missiles, but the 65-mile range Talos also can be used for ship or shore bombardment.

Away back last summer Los Angeles' tying and winning goal in a 4-2 win over Seattle Totems. Another fellow in the deal, Marc Boileau, also got one, along with Bruce Carmichael.

Don Ward and Gordie Sinclair scored for Seattle.

It was Blades' second win in as many nights. Saturday night at Spokane they took the measure of the Comets 6-4 with Carmichael getting three goals and Boileau, Gord Haworth and Jack Norgan getting the others. Del Topoll got two for Spokane and Dick Lamoureux and Ron Ward one.

At Portland Sunday night, the Buckaroos downed San Francisco 3-1.

None of the weekend action did much to the standings, leaving the Blades consolidated in first place in the Northern Division and Vancouver Canucks, with 14 points.

More than 8,000 fans, the largest crowd of the season, went to the Portland arena to see the Bucks win on goals by Arlo Gaudry, Bill Sanderson and Kenny Laufman. Ray Cyr scored the lone Seal goal in the second period.

Brothers Wins Title

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Don Brothers of Saint John won the vacant Eastern Canadian middleweight championship Saturday night when his knocked out Don Chisholm of Hamilton, after one minute of the six-round bout.

Brothers, 29, weighed 159½ while Chisholm came in at 158¾ for the scheduled 12-rounder, staged before a small turnout of slightly more than 1,000.

The new champion had Chisholm down four times, twice in the fourth round. Chisholm was down again at the 21-second mark of the sixth round and stayed there seven. He tried in vain to clutch Brothers before the later dished out the final blow of the fight.

Win Soccer League Title

TORONTO (CP) — Italian-Virtus won the National Soccer League championship Sunday with a penalty kick at 12 minutes of a 30-minute overtime period.

The goal didn't give the Italians a win in the game, but it gave them a 4-3 win in a two-game, total-goals series against Ukrainians. Ukrainians won Sunday's game 3-2 but lost 2-0 in the opener a week ago.

ALGERIA GETS MIGS

ALGIERS (AP)—Nine Soviet built planes, including five Mig-15 jet fighters, arrived here Friday to form the nucleus of Algeria's air force. All the planes are relatively obsolete. The MiGs bore Unified Arab Republic markings and were piloted by Algerians trained in Egypt. A Soviet instructor flew in each plane as co-pilot.

8 Swimmers Crash Marks

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's best swimmers took their strokes here this weekend, admired and surrounded by hundreds of youngsters who plan to be even better.

The eight swimming members of the British Empire Games team broke 11 Canadian senior records, a feat pleasing to coach Ed Healy.

But the 400-odd youngsters ran up a total of 22 junior Canadian age-group records, and that was just as pleasing.

Healy said watching the small fry closely at the Canadian Indoor Club meet the last competition his team will see before they leave Thursday for the 1962 games at Perth, Australia. Some of his team members were being pushed by fast-improving swimmers from British Columbia who will be kept in mind for future international competition.

Among the 11 new marks established by the B.E.G. team were almost-perfect performances by Vancouver butterfly artist Barry Stewart and Aldy Meinhardt.

In the next few days the eight will be joined by divers Tom Dinsley of Vancouver and Peter Meisner of Kitchener, Ont., and the process of "building them up mentally" will begin in earnest.

Miss Stewart, 16, broke her Canadian 100 - metre butterfly mark Sunday by half a second at 1:07.3.

She holds the world record of 1:07.2, but a world record can only be set in a 55-yard pool, and she was swimming in a 25-yard length.

Meinhardt, 18, broke one minute for the 100-metre butterfly for the first time by anyone in Canada. His time of 59.7 was 1.8 seconds faster than the existing mark.

Miss Stewart also clipped 6-10 of a second off her 100-metre freestyle record at 1:01.9 and Meinhardt raced to a 56.3-second draw with teammate Richard Hay. The mutual was a pair cut 4-10 of a second off Meinhardt's record.

Canada's chief hope in men's breaststroking events — Steve Robinovitch, 20, of Montreal—broke both the 100-metre and 200-metre native marks with times of 1:10.6 and 2:41.4.

The winner and loser in a battle for another B.E.G. berth — Allan Glendenning of Montreal and Marjon Wilmink of Vancouver — tied at 1:21.5 to break by 1-10 of a second the Canadian record for the 100-metre breaststroke.

Miss Glendenning earlier beat the existing 200-metre record by 1.2 seconds at 2:53.3.

The team's best female freestyle, Patti Thompson, 16, Hamilton, had trouble both the native and open 400-metre events Saturday with a time of 5:05.8. It was a whopping 7.6 seconds better than the native and two records better than the open.

Six others beat the 2:35.4 record for the 200-metre men's individual medley relay. The new holders, B.E.G. team member Jack Kelso, 23, of Ocean Falls, B.C., whose time was 2:19.5.

Ragen Wins Beaumont Tourney

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Dave Ragen shot a closing two-under-par 70 to come from three strokes back and win the second annual $20,000 Beaumont Invitational golf tournament Sunday.

His 283 for 72 holes was three strokes better than Lionel Hebert, the leader going into the final round; Don Massengale, and Dow Finsterwald, all of whom wound up in a tie for second at 286.

Ragen pocketed $2,800 first money.

Massengale made the greatest closing bid. The Texan, who stood at 219 for 54 holes, wound up with a 67 under-par 67—the best round of the day. Hebert, Finsterwald and Massengale all won $1,500.

Al Joahston of Montreal was tied at 290 with Jerry Pitman. Johnston, who had a first-round 79 but then settled down with 71, 72 and 68, won $690.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., was among four golfers at 291. He carded 73-72-71-75—291 for fourth.

Jerry Magee of Toronto and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg finished out of the money. Magee shot 74-73-77-77—301 and Homenuik 78-74-79-74—305.

Kidd Wins Another

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Sonny Creed, the five-year-old Jimmy Creed gelding owned and driven by Clarence Lockhart of Colling-wood, captured the featured B and C-1 pace at the Western Fair Raceway Saturday night.

Sonny Creed registered a length victory over Abbas Wick, driven by Levi McFadden. High and Mighty, guided by Allen Colquhoun, was third.

Sonny Creed returned $3.20 to win and paced the mile in 2:08, equaling the fastest time of the fall meet.

Sheila F, a six-year-old Warspite mare owned by Dr. J. S. Ferguson of Chatham and driven by Herb Craig, took the second event when she won a Class C-2 dash in 2:08 and paid $12.60.

Saturday concluded the 28-night program at the London track.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Toronto's Bruce Kidd streaked first over the finish line in Saturday's senior intercollegiate cross - country championships held over the University of Western Ontario course here.

Kidd ended the race one minute and 21 seconds—about 500 yards—ahead of, Robert Shirley of McGill University of Montreal. He was a full eight minutes ahead of last place finisher Jeffrey Manes of McGill.

He completed the race in 25 minutes, 23 seconds.

McMaster University of Hamilton captured team honors, taking third, sixth, seventh and ninth places for 25 points.

Toronto placed second with 33 points, McGill third with 55, Western fourth with 56, Ontario Agricultural College fifth with 58 and Queen's University of Kingston sixth with 94.

POWERS RESIGNS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, U-2 pilot who was a Russian captive for 21 months, no longer works for the Central Intelligence Agency. A CIA spokesman said Friday night that Powers resigned effective Oct. 6. "He had finished his work with us," the spokesman said.

Won In Stretch

Mongo Beats Carry Back

NEW YORK (CP) — Three-year - old Mongo, owned by Montpelier Farms, overturned favored Carry Back in the stretch Saturday to win the $86,800 Benton Handicap at Cherry Hill, N.J.

Carry Back put on his famous run from far-back to gain the lead in the stretch. However, Charlie Smirl on Mongo called for one more try and the colt responded for a victory by a nose over the 1¼-mile distance.

Mongo earned $56,240. His time over a sloppy track was two minutes, 5 3-5 seconds.

Mongo paid $12.80, $4.80 and $3. Carry Back returned $3.60 and $2.60 and Sensitivo, who finished third 4¼ lengths behind Carry Back, returned $2.20.

CARRIES 118 POUNDS

Mongo carried 118 pounds compared with 129 for Carry Back, with John L. Rotz aboard.

Carry Back was making his second consecutive Trenton appearance. Saturday, Jack Price's four-year-old won last year as the finishing touch of a $565,349 two-month rampage.

Harbor View Farm's Royal Patrice circled her field on the final turn to capture the $17,500 Ladies Handicap in the rain and slop at New York's Aqueduct track. It was a length and Thomas F. White's Waltz Song, Medal stable's Cicada, a 9-to-5 favorite at 7-to-10, 20.40, led for more than a mile, but tired in the stretch and finished fifth.

Oil Royalty was third.

Ten fillies and mares started in the 82nd running of the 1 5-16-mile distance.

Parker MacDonald, who appeared to be headed for a minor league team at the start of the season picked up four goals and two assists for Detroit Red Wings in two weekend games to move into a first-place tie for the National Hockey League scoring leadership.

Although MacDonald's teammate Alex Delvecchio and Montreal's Jean Beliveau also have 13 points, the 28-year-old centre from Sydney, N.S., tops the list because of his eight goals and five assists. Richard is 6-7 and Delvecchio 3-10.

Veteran Red Wing Gordie Howe netted five points—two goals and three assists—on the weekend to join Beliveau other players tied for fifth spot. Tied with 11-point totals are Chicago's Ab McDonald, Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion and Boston's Cliff Pennington.

All alone in fourth position with 12 points is Chicago's Bill Hay.

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 2 to Apr. 19): Surprises indicated, including surprise appearances, guests, statements, claims and counter-claims. Finish work at hand before tackling new project.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Friends rally to your cause. Excellent for making influences felt. Time to move forward. Include taking a chance with romance. Excellent day for socializing.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Traditions should be respected, but not permitted to block your path. Be sincere, determined and resourceful. You can show those in authority you are capable. Don't be relegated to mere details.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Make each effort count. No time to leave the proven for the speculative. Your cycle now begins to "pay off." Be conservative in thought, actions. Look to future.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Business or marital partner comes up with pleasant financial surprise. But avoid temptation to be extravagant. Curb Leo impulse to "treat the world." Attend to minor but important details.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You may receive your wish very soon. But be ready for a definite change of attitude. What you learn creates healthy doubts. Reserve judgment. Take time to analyze situation.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Good day for improving personal appearance, public relations and surroundings. Day stresses that you live up to potential. No time to "slouch." Express beliefs and captivate "audience."

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Good for dealings with children, for pursuing creative activities. Means you can reach pinnacle where recent efforts are concerned. Move with confidence. Accept challenge.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Plus for feeling of added security. You receive chance to better financial condition. Others now have confidence in your abilities. Plan and move ahead.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Like Aries, be ready for facts, figures which seem to upset previous calculations. Remain calm. Strive to perceive vast possibilities in new situation. Be determined but not stubborn.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Money matters may force the spotlight. But if you continue to insist on quality, you will shine right path. Maintain attitude of common sense. Stick to proven worth. Friends help you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You have chance to please self, loved ones. Judgment accurate, cycle high. Trust intuition. You are able to judge outcome of important transaction. Read tonight.

If Today is Your Birthday . . you are warm, giving individual, with deep appreciation for the arts. Year has brought various challenges. Now, you begin to live more harmonious life.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Aquarius, Pisces, Aries. Special word to Virgo. Look before you leap. Be careful regarding legal papers.

BLADDER IRRITATION MAY DISTURB SLEEP

After 31 years of practice, a doctor has perfected a prescription for relief of bladder irritation caused by a germ, Escherichia Coli. To quickly combat the secondary infection and relieve pain, burning and scanty urination due to Escherichia Coli in bladder irritation, try taking an improved CYSTEX antiseptic tab for a few days. See how fast you do. Each 2 tabs CYSTEX tablets with a dose of Cystex. Must relieve bladder irritation in 24 hours or return empty package to druggist for full refund. Special concentrated formula CYSTEX contains no sulfa drugs. Relieves pain, relieves Backache, Nervousness, Leg Pains, Rheumatic Pains, Headache, Dizziness, and Loss of Energy. Get CYSTEX from druggist. Feel better fast.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:
That the Corporation of the City of Belleville will apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session for special legislation to provide as follows:

1. In this Act, "dwelling" means any building, part of a building, or structure, or the remaining portion thereof, whether or not any portion of which has been used or is capable of being used for the purposes of human habitation with the land and premises appurtenant thereto and the outbuildings, fences or erections thereon or therein.

2. Upon the expiration of one year after the sealing of any dwelling pursuant to section 32 of The Planning Act, 1960, as amended by section 1 of The Planning Amendment Act, 1961, upon the report of the medical officer of health that such dwelling is unfit for human habitation or dangerous to health, the Council of the Corporation may, by by-law passed at any general meeting thereof by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of Council, order the demolition or demolition and removal of the dwelling.

3. Notice of the by-law shall be registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Hastings and notice shall thereafter be served upon the owner, the tenants and any other encumbrances appearing on the registered title upon any execution credit or appearing on the records of the Sheriff's Office, and the owner, mortgagee, encumbrancer or tenant shall have no right to appeal to the Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings from the decision of the Council to remove or demolish the dwelling as written Notice of Appeal delivered to the Clerk of the Corporation within thirty days after the date of the passing of the by-law.

4. The notice of the by-law shall include a copy of the By-law and shall be served by the Sheriff or by registered mail addressed to the Council of the Corporation.

5. Unless Notice of an Appeal is given as provided in section 4 the Council may, after the expiration of that period, the decision of the Council respecting the demolition or demolition and removal of the dwelling may be carried out by the Chief Engineer on behalf of the Corporation and the Clerk of the Corporation may direct that the Corporation is not liable to compensation or to any other person by reason of anything done by the Corporation or by the Corporation under the authority of this Act.

6. The Corporation has a lien on the land for the amount spent on behalf of the Corporation in carrying out the decision of the Council to remove or demolish the dwelling and the amount shall be a lien and charge upon the land and the Corporation shall have the same remedies for the recovery of the amount as for the recovery of taxes for the Municipal purposes and shall be collected in the same manner as real property taxes.

7. If the decision of the Council of the Corporation is against the Clerk of the Corporation shall obtain an appointment for a hearing before the Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings and shall give notice thereof by such means as the Judge may direct to the interested parties.

8. After hearing the persons who appear on the appeal the Judge may confirm, modify or rescind the decision of the Council and may dismiss the appeal, in which case he may, in addition, fix a reasonable time for the owner to remove or demolish the dwelling. The Judge may make such other order as he deems advisable in the circumstances.

9. This Act comes into force on the 19th day of October, 1962.

"Whether the Liberals get together with the Tories or, vice-versa doesn't matter," he said.

The possibility of a merger with Social Credit party was also discounted by Allan Grossman, minister without portfolio representing the Ontario Progressive Conservative party at the conference.

"If that ever came to pass," said Mr. Grossman, "I'd be out of the party."

He also said he was opposed to any legislation that would prohibit the employment of strikebreakers—a law favored by Mr. Winternreyer and Mr. MacDonald.

"No government should take away collective," said Mr. Grossman.

WANTS DISCLOSE

In discussion of party financing, Mr. MacDonald said he advocates the disclosure of the source of dunds and suggested a limitation on spending and some arrangement for the public treasury to finance part of a candidate's campaign.

Mr. Winternreyer said all parties desire to eliminate the ut of donations which carry with them the implication that favors are expected in return.

He said he favors refusal to accept money from any companies that could influence the government and he also said he favors a limitation on election expenditures.

Mr. Grossman said the amount of money needed for an election campaign is highly exaggerated. The problem involved in exposure of campaign sources, said the Conservative minister, is one of contributors feel it is a personal matter and don't want to have their donations publicized.

Several delegates raised the issue of greater financial support by the government for separate schools and the extension of the system to include secondary schools as recommended by the Roman Catholic bishops in Ontario.

ARE NON-COMMITTAL

Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Winternreyer both said they favor greater equality in expenditures on education in rural and urban areas and between public and separate schools but neither committed himself on the question of separate schools at the secondary level. Mr. Grossman declined any comment on the ground that it has just returned from overseas and has not seen the statement.

The medical care issue was also introduced to the conference by Mr. MacDonald, who said if it had not been for the battle in Saskatchewan, medicare would be as dead as the dodo.

"The New Democratic Party has built the medicare band wagon, and the other parties are climbing on," he said. "They make snide remarks but they are joining our program."

Canadian Appointed Heinz Vice-President

LEAMINGTON — Frank T. Sherk, president of the H. J. Heinz Company of Canada since 1958, has been elected executive vice president in charge of operations of the H. J. Heinz Company in the United States.

New Canadian president is Edward V. Anderson, a Heinz director since 1958.

Both Mr. Sherk and Mr. Anderson were born in Leamington and have been with the Heinz company approximately 40 years.

Mr. Sherk will continue to serve as a director of both the Canadian and U.S. companies.

Mr. Anderson has a background in purchasing, marketing and company services. He became vice president of marketing in 1957 and was president of services in 1961.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Osborn attended the 50th anniversary services at Empey Hill Church on Sunday morning of October 21st, and were dinner guests of the Misses Mowers, At the turkey dinner, which followed on Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn were honored guests as they were the first couple to be married in the present Empey Hill Church, approximately 50 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Demille also attended anniversary services at the above mentioned church and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kinmerley.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wood, Ameliasburg, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Embury, Toronto, spent this weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Embury.

Miss Pauline Walsh, nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh, before continuing her training at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

The community learned with regret that Mrs. Claude Clarke was again a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Roy McLaren visited her sister in Kingston General last Tuesday, where she is confined following surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesse has been attending in-service training classes in Kingston every morning, in the past two weeks. She also recently attended an executive meeting of the Farmers' Federation, in Napanee, when plans were made for the fall meeting of that organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren returned home on Friday from a motor trip to New York, with the latter's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stewart. They were also all guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Boyle, uncle and aunt of the former couple, Belle River.

Eleven Melrose United Church women had the privilege of attending three bazaars on Wednesday afternoon, namely Canadian Legion, Dundas Street and Front Road. The ladies enjoyed each bazaar, and selected interesting display of articles at each place and were able to purchase some useful and clever aprons, tasty food, etc. As evening approached, they returned home, tired perhaps, but not hungry, as delicious sandwiches, coffee and the refreshing cup of tea had been served them at all three points. The Melrose ladies hope to be as efficient hostesses at their own bazaar which will be held next week.

A delegation, consisting of the planning committee, who had arranged the preparation and serving of the turkey supper in Shannonville on October 17th, attended the meeting of the Melrose Township Hall on the 31st and presented a cheque amounting to $100 to the Melrose United Church Women, to be used in the furnishing of their kitchen, built in the basement of the new church. The presentations were made by Mrs. Asa Cook, president of Shannonville U.C.W., who expressed the happiness it gave their church to receive such a generous donation at this time. Mrs. Grant McLaren, president of Melrose U.C.W., accepted the gift and extended the grateful thanks of the Melrose people for this generous contribution, which represented the entire profit made from the recent supper. This gift revealed the friendship which exists between the two congregations. For the effort they had made, the unselfishness shown, and the true Christian spirit, the Melrose congregation is sincerely thanked.

Mrs. John Angiais attended the workshop for the mentally retarded held in Milligan, on Saturday last.

At the meeting of both Scouts and Cubs held in the Township Hall on Wednesday evening, Akela Leader Ricky Phillips, Maurice McLaren and Gordon Pascoe, received 1st class in an impressive ceremony conducted by Akela Mrs. Joseph Long and Scout Leader Mr. Thomas Howard.

Mrs. Thomas Howard and Mrs. Don Rollins attended the School for Leaders, held in Stirling last week and will conduct the classes for the girls this fall term, which is a sewing W.I.

The Melrose W.I. met in the Township Hall on Thursday evening with Mrs. Genaja, program convener, in charge. Mrs. T. Howard and Mrs. H. McMechan hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Scrizeti, who have been transferred to Toronto, were given a send with Mrs. A. English and Billie, Mrs. Genaja's daughter, accompanied by Miss Helen Shaughnessy, lately spent a few days with relatives in Chatham.

Tests Prove Oil Additives Are Beneficial

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Although today's engine oils are better than ever, the supporting value of certain additives cannot be denied. Car experts acknowledge it, tests have proven it.

For example — recently announced re sults of a lengthy test project involving one well-known oil-based additive emphasize that this product, when teamed with good quality engine oil, will reduce wear and carbon formation rates, and can prolong engine life as much as 40 per cent.

This may not impress the man who trades in every year or two for a new model — but, to the average motorist, anxious t o squeeze as many good miles as possible out of any car he owns it promises a high return on his investment.

Incidentally, when considering the extra cost involved, keep in mind that a quart of additive replaces a quart of engine oil ... thus actual investment is not as much as t h e additive price alone would indicate.

From S.M.: "After just 8,500 miles, the fuel gauge on our car has gone so haywire that I cannot trust it. What can be the reason?

(A) According to recent advice from the manufacturer, corroded wiring connections have been responsible for simila r complaints. Your dealer knows about this.

N.D. asks: "Last year, I used snow tires but despite them, I found myself in a skid several times when the road was snow-packed. Are chains the only sure way to prevent skidding?"

(A) No. Chains aren't skid proof either, although they will give better traction. Careful, conscientious driving is the best skid insurance.

R.O. writes: "You say a thermostat is necessary when starting a cold engine. I removed ours three years ago and it hasn't caused hard starting, yet."

(A) The thermostat's vital role lies in its function to hasten engine warm-up. During cold weather, especially, this can, substantially affect engine wear and gas mileage.

From E.L.: "Now that the weather is cold, my car is hard to start if it lies idle for a long while (8 hours or more). Carburetor idle and mixture have been adjusted for cold weather. Is it the choke?"

(A) It often is. If choke adjustment is too lean, cold eng ine starting will be difficult.

NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS

How Canadian Nickel helps irrigate 1000 sq. miles of Australia

The multi-million dollar Snowy Mountain Scheme will irrigate a thousand square miles of previously unproductive land in south eastern Australia. And nickel alloys will help, just as they do in similar projects in other parts of the world. Why nickel? Because nickel alloys provide strength and corrosion resistance for conduit shafts and other vital equipment. The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide more jobs for Canadians.

INDIA FORMS MOUNTAIN HOME GUARD

Led By Canada, UN Demands End To Nuclear Tests

Jan. 1 Deadline Set But Big Powers Balk

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Formal approval was expected to be given by the 110th United Nations General Assembly late today to a demand that all nuclear tests be halted by Jan. 1.

With Canada as a key negotiator, the assembly's full-membership political committee endorsed the demand by a wide margin Monday although it was weakened by the refusal of the three nuclear powers to take a year-no stand.

The UN action came as the United States announced it had completed its latest series of atmospheric tests but would con Nevada. The Soviet Union also is conducting tests.

Indicating easy passage of the assembly where a two-thirds majority is needed, the committee approved by a vote of 81 to none with 22 abstentions a resolution submitted by 37 non-nuclear powers asking that all tests cease "immediately and not later than Jan. 1."

POWERS ABSTAIN

The United States and Britain abstained when the key resolution incorporated an amendment submitted by them and the Soviet Union calling for negotiations draft contained Canadian and Anglo-American amendments of which it disapproved.

The measure called for the 17-nation disarmament committee to resume there the assembly opened in mid-September—to reconvene in Geneva no later than Nov. 12 and to report back to the assembly by Dec. 10.

Under the terms of a Canadian amendment the resolution recommends a ban on tests in outer space, the atmosphere and in the oceans become effective immediately if no agreement is reached on ending all tests by Jan. 1.

This would be accompanied by "an interim arrangement suspending all underground tests" taking as a basis an eight - nation memorandum which envisages national detection networks and an international commission.

The draft, put by M. Burns, Canadian disarmament delegate, said he was gratified at the results of the vote.

Burns said he feels a "good basis for friendly negotiations" has been laid for renewed disarmament talks in Geneva.

All Villagers To Get Training In Use Of Rifle

May Have to Recall All Troops Serving UN

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian villagers will be taught to shoot and the government is reported considering bringing home its United Nations forces to face a Red Chinese drive that has gobbled up 2,000 square miles of borderland and thrust one spearhead into undisputedly Indian territory.

Girding for grass-roots resistance, Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said rifle training will be given to every able-bodied person in mountain areas facing China and later they will be equipped with small arms.

Defence committees are being established in all threatened border villages.

Prime Minister Nehru's government was reported to have told Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant informally that it may have to call home its troops from the UN, Congo and Middle East forces for use against China.

There are 3,700 Indian troops in the Congo and 1,250 in Gaza, the Middle East force, the largest national groups in both contingents.

IMPERIL INDIANS

Usually reliable sources reported the Chinese have occupied an abandoned Indian army Rarz base that controls northern Ladakh, endangering the entire Indian position on the western front.

This meant that for the first time in the border conflict the Chinese have established their army in a part of India which the Peking government did not claim previously. Other Chinese advances have been like a territory that the Chinese said belonged to them.

The base, at Daulet Beg Oldi, was abandoned by Indian troops a few days ago because it had become impossible to hold that anchor of the Himalayan battle line.

There was some doubt that the Chinese intend to press ahead from the base. Some observers believe that Daulet Beg Oldi, just outside the Chinese claim line, may have been seized only as a limited military objective.

CONTROL PASS

Seizure of Daulet Beg Oldi gave the Chinese control of the Karakoram Pass, the additional route for pouring troops into Ladakh, although the pass probably will be snowbound soon.

At the other end of the rugged Himalayan front, 1,000 miles to the east, Communist forces were reported still building up around Towang, a mountain town they captured four days after the start of their big offensive Oct. 20.

U THANT MEETS RED CROSS MEN ON CUBAN ISSUE

Consider Details Of Ship Inspection

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Acting Secretary - General U Thant meets today with two leaders of the International Committee of the Red Cross to nail down details of a plan for the neutral agency to inspect Cuba - bound Soviet ships for arms.

The Red Cross committee disclosed in Geneva Monday it had received United Nations assurance that Premier Fidel Castro would accept its inspection of ships heading for Cuba.

The committee said arms inspection normally is outside its sphere but that it could consider lending its good offices to the UN as requested by Thant.

It said final agreement would hinge on today's conference between Thant and Paul Buegger, former committee president, and Paul Borsinger, secretary of the committee executive board.

The United States has agreed to the Soviet proposal to let the Red Cross check incoming Russian ships. Washington indicated that if the plan went into operation, it would lift its naval arms blockade now ringing Cuba.

Still unsettled, however, was the question raised by Castro's refusal to let the UN, the Red Cross or any other agency conduct inspection on Cuban soil to make sure Soviet missile bases have been dismantled as promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

U.S. sources stressed that President Kennedy's assurance that the United States would not invade Cuba depended on the seizing down the bases and shipping the rockets back to Russia and on international verification that this had been done.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A brief, jarring earthquake rolled along a 250-mile span from Eugene, Ore., to Seattle, Wash., Monday night.

Seismologists described the quake as moderate. Its epicenter was placed between Portland and Salem, 35 miles south of here.

Have to Force Woman on Relief To Appear to Claim $160,000 Gift

CHICAGO — (AP) — Cook County's probate court was puzzled Monday by a 59-year-old woman who just can't be bothered about an inheritance of $160,000.

"I didn't go after this thing", an annoyed Miss Ida Colton said from the witness chair. "They came after me."

"It wasn't hiding from anyone. They could have found me if they had wanted to".

Court - appointed lawyers disagreed about the ease of finding her. They ended a three-year county - wide search for Miss Colton a week ago when she was located in her north side apartment.

Mrs. Alice Hall — Miss Colton's sister-in-law — also disagreed. Moments before, she had informed the court she believed her sister-in-law was dead.

The court was told Miss Colton had long cut herself off from old friends and relatives and now lives on relief.

Miss Colton's surprise appearance in court was not voluntary.

Edward Arkema, the estate's administrator, told the court the woman was not found when in the money she had to be subpoenaed.

"She just doesn't want to be bothered", he told reporters.

The $160,000 estate consists almost totally of cash and bonds. It was left by a sister, Mrs. Marie C. Lonergan, who died in 1959.

The hearing was continued to allow time for more investigation.

Walking Swan With Sore Feet Puzzles Welsh

BRIDGEND, Wales (AP)—Sammy, a swan who prefers walking to swimming or flying, was being treated here today for a pair of blistered feet.

"He's a very strange case," said Inspector David Booth of the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "He likes to march along the highways."

Booth said Sammy was first seen early last week waddling along a road.

"I caught him up," explained the inspector, "and found him footsore and tired. I drove him four miles to a lake where I put him among 30 or 40 fellow swans."

Then Monday a motorist found Sammy out on the same road, headed in the same direction and waddling along as rapidly as a swan can waddle.

"His feet were raw and blistered," said the inspector. "We bandaged his feet and put him to bed last night. He seems better this morning."

The inspector said he doesn't know where Sammy comes from or where he wants to go.

"He's got us baffled," said the inspector. "If he wants to go somewhere in a hurry—which seems to be his intention—why doesn't he fly?"

Belgian Crowds Cheer Defendants In Thalidomide-Baby Murder Case

LIEGE, Belgium (Reuters)— The emotion - filled trial of a young Belgian mother accused of murdering her deformed baby was given fresh drama today with the announcement that a relative of a doctor involved in the case had given birth to a deformed child.

Defence lawyer Jean Mottard made the announcement as the trial of 24-year-old Suzanne Vandeput went into its second day.

He told the court that a brother-in-law of Dr. Jacques Casters, 63, who prescribed the tranquilizing drug thalidomide for Mrs. Vandeput during her pregnancy and is accused of giving her the poison used to kill the baby, Monday night gave birth to a child with deformed arms.

The woman had also taken thalidomide — blamed for deformed babies in several countries — before her baby was born.

Mrs. Vandeput and her mother, Mrs. Fernande Yerna, 50, broke down and wept in court Monday as they told how a family council decided that seven-day-old Carine should be killed.

The chief defendant's 35-year-old husband, Jean, her sister, Monique de Mark, 26, her brother-in-law, Casters are charged with aiding and abetting the killing.

At the start of the first day's hearing crowds outside the packed courtroom applauded the defendants and shouted "Bravo" as they were driven away in a prison truck.

Technically, the death sentence could be imposed on the mother. However, it always is commuted in Belgium except in cases of treason. Extenuating circumstances can reduce a prison term to a minimum of three years.

The murder - defendant mother, said to have turned away in horror when she first saw her armless baby, told

OPPOSITION WILL GET 2 CHANCES TO TOPPLE GOVT.

Socreds, Liberals Will Ask Votes

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary opposition gets two more chances tonight to topple Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority Progressive Conservative government.

At 8:15 p.m. EST the Commons is to begin voting on Social Credit and Liberal non-confidence motions.

The stage was set Monday as the Commons began a two-day supply debate—strictly speaking, a measure to provide the government with funds.

Liberal Opposition Leader Pearson and Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson seized on the opportunity it provided to introduce non-confidence motions. They chose as their issue the government's austerity program.

Mr. Pearson's motion took the form of an amendment calling for an immediate end to the tariff surcharges and "tight money" conditions imposed last June to combat a foreign exchange emergency.

Mr. Thompson's non - confidence motion was tacked on to the Liberal amendment. It blamed unemployment of the austerity measures by a policy of "debt-free money and construction projects for tax reform to foster a balanced domestic economy and balanced international trade.

All three opposition parties must unite on one of these proposals in order to defeat the government, something they

Americans Flock to Polls As Election Day Crisp Dry

WASHINGTON (CP) — The roar of political oratory died today as an estimated 47,000,000 to 50,000,000 Americans turned from jobs to ballot boxes to pick a new Congress and 35 state governors. Prospects of crisp, dry weather suggested the possibility of a big vote.

A charge by Republican Richard M. Nixon that he is the party's most abused victim of malicious smears, a struggle to revive the Cuban issue and even the arrest of three live elephants figured in last - minute campaign developments.

But when all the shenanigans and shouting ended, professional politicos predicted Republicans would crack voting trends dating for a non - presidential year and retain control over Congress for a fifth consecutive term—with a hefty margin. They anticipated also that Republicans will make some sweeping gains in key states.

For President Kennedy there may be a touch of family pride. In Massachusetts where the Kennedys and the Lodges have been feuding for 46 years, the presidents younger brother, 30-year-old Teddy, appears likely to capture a Senate seat over Republican George Cabot Lodge. The president took time out from world crises to drop into Boston to cast a personal vote for his brother.

P.M. Says Crisis Shows Necessity of Consultation

TORONTO (CP) — The nuclear arms race must be halted, and better methods of consultation between nations made a prerequisite to joint action in any future world crisis.

These were the "grim but clear" lessons to be learned from the Cuban crisis, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said tonight in his first major foreign affairs address since the world moved back, as he put it, from "the brink of war."

He didn't look back on the Cuban crisis, I believe that it emphasized the necessity of there being full consultation before any action taken by any nation executed, between our nations or as respect of our security that might lead to war," he said.

He spoke to 700 delegates attending the 60th jubilee convention of the Zion-ites Organization of Canada. The convention ends today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there never was any doubt about where Canada stood in the Cuban crisis—"we stood where freedom stood in the last two weeks"—but the experience made it clear that if joint and contemporaneous action were to be taken, consultation between countries must be a prerequisite.

"There must be consultation between those on either side of the Atlantic, for essentially there must be consultation among those "joined on the other side of the Pacific.

While the height of the crisis apparently has been passed, the deeper causes remain, and one of the major sources of instability is the precarious balance of armed force must be reduced.

"If the nations of the world do not take effective steps the next crisis may not permit the world to stop short of the abyss of war. An end of nuclear testing is a first step."

Mr. Diefenbaker hailed as "a great advance the United Nations agreement Monday that negotiations be resumed forthwith sphere, outer space, and under water should stop, and that underground nuclear tests also should be halted while means are found to guard against secret testing.

General disarmament must also be sought.

"In particular," he added, "the nations primarily concerned should seek agreed ways and means to reduce and eliminate nuclear weapons for the arsenals of states, with adequate guarantee to assure compliance."

COST OF LIVING AT RECORD HIGH IN SEPTEMBER

Higher Clothing, Food Prices Cause

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's cost of living index jumped a half-point during September to a record high of 131.5 on Oct. 1, due mainly to higher clothing and food prices.

The increase in the consumer price index from 131.0 on Sept. 1, reported today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, marked a resumption of an upward trend that was interrupted briefly by a decline during August.

The index, which is based on 1949 prices equalling 100, had risen by 1.3 points during the three months May-July to its previous peak of 131.4 on Aug. 1. The new high mark is 2.5 points higher than the level of 129.2 at the start of October last year — a year-to-year rise of 1.8 per cent.

Most parts of the household budget measured by the index showed increases during September. But the sharpest rise was in clothing prices, where the index jumped to 115.6 from 113.3. The index of food costs—which makes up 27 per cent of the expenditures in the general consumer index—advanced to 127.2 from 126.8.

The only decline was in the index of transportation costs, which dropped to 139.9 from 140.3 due to lower gasoline prices.

The September increase in living costs followed a slight decline in industrial wages during August for the second month in a row. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at Sept. 1 — latest date available—was 138.2 compared with 138.3 a month earlier and 136.7 nine months earlier. The wage index was 122.2 on Sept.

Fully-Serviced Dept. Store On Western Outskirts of City Now Being Planned

Construction of a large fully-serviced department store on the western outskirts of the city is planned by undisclosed principals it was revealed at city council yesterday.

The store with a floor area of approximately 80,000 square feet, would be built in Sidney township on what is known as the Robson property — if city water can be secured.

Two weeks ago council turned down a Public Utilities request to service the Robson property with water acting on the grounds that it was against city policy to extend water mains outside the corporation.

AGAIN BEFORE COUNCIL

Yesterday, however, the request was again before council in the form of a recommendation from the finance committee asking that the previous recommendation be rescinded and that the request for water service be approved.

After lengthy discussion the matter was referred to the city solicitor for legal opinion.

Alderman Don Whalen said for council to agree to the request would be a direct change in policy, noting that only a few months ago council had returned down a similar request from motel interests north of the city.

WITHIN RIGHTS CLAIM

But Alderman Ross Bailey said there was a difference in that the city watermain already passed the Robson property and the feeling of the public utilities was that Mr. Robson was within his rights in asking for water service.

"If we turn this down they will take it to court and I doubt if we (the city) could win the case", he said.

Belleville realtor Gerald Joyce said the owner had a letter from the public utilities dated in 1950 which said the commission felt Mr. Robson was entitled to service.

Mr. Joyce said the proposed shopping centre store was not a discount store. Three houses on the north side of No. 2 highway and west of Holmes Road would be torn down to make way for the store, he said.

Mayor A. M. Haig said the utilities commission felt that the rights of the owner should be passed on to the new purchaser.

However, he said the matter was of some importance in principle.

COUNCIL DIVIDED

Council was divided in its opinion as to the proper course to take in the matter.

Alderman Whalen wanted it handled by a special committee, while Alderman William Jarvah said it should be handled immediately at a special council.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said there was legality involved and suggested that legal opinion be sought as to whether the owner was entitled to service.

On recommendation of Alderman Les Digby the matter was referred to the city solicitor for legal opinion.

Lloyd Doran, Bruce Jarvah Will Attend

"Recreation in Community Planning" will be the theme of the sixth annual training institute to be conducted by the Society of Directors of Municipal Recreation of Ontario, November 8 to 13 at Peterborough. Director of Recreation, L. Doran and Assistant Bruce Jarvah, will attend the Institute from Belleville.

A speaker whose remarks on planning and recreation were widely quoted by the Ontario Recreation Association conference at Port Arthur in April, Harry Parsons, Lakehead Planning Director, will give the keynote address at the November Institute. Other speakers will include R. M. Sinclair and Keith Bain, of the Community Planning Branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs; Ted McNinch, of O.A.C., Guelph; and several Society members, four of whom, R. E. Watts, L. G. Branch, W. Brewster and J. Dane, will give an illustrated report on the European municipal study tour they attended in September.

Members of the Society, the largest professional recreation group in Canada, will invite the members of their local planning boards, parks and arena authorities to attend the Institute.

Following the Institute which will be held November 8 and 9, the 16th annual meeting of the Society will be held under President R. E. Watts, of Brantford. Special attention will be focussed on reports concerning a personnel requirements survey for Ontario, completed during the past year; the Society's activity in relation to the National Council on Physical Fitness and Amateur Sport; and on Society membership, which has increased this year to a current total of more than 120, municipal recreation directors and assistants.

Registrar for the Institute will be D. Hig, Director of Recreation, Bowmanville.

Did City Jump Gun on Ad Asks Alderman

Did the city jump the gun in its insertion of a newspaper advertisement with respect to its application to the Ontario Legislature for an amendment to its private bill to allow the election of its mayor for a two-year term.

Alderman Don Whalen asked the question at yesterday's council as he exhibited a newspaper clipping which contained the advertisement appeared in the press before council passed the necessary by-law.

He said the advertisement appeared in the paper Oct. 29th and was on the street several hours before council passed the by-law, later the same day.

"I hope it was an error", commented the alderman, "otherwise I think the city was presumptive in its action".

City Manager J. R. Reynolds replied that the city solicitor undoubtedly acted under direction in the matter.

It was felt however, that he must have mistakenly acted on the committee recommendation rather than on the by-law.

Magistrate Wills Says Evidence Is Conflicting

A conflict between two Belleville youths involving a teen-age girl ended with a magistrate's dismissal because of conflicting evidence Tuesday morning.

Franklin Sharp, 40 Valleyview Crescent, was charged with unlawfully assaulting Gus Angelatos, a city restaurant worker.

The fracas started in an alleyway behind the El Rancho Restaurant, Front Street, where Angelatos is employed, on Oct tober 20.

The girl, 17-year-old Joan Woodward, said Sharp went into the alleyway "to tell him to leave me alone."

She claimed Angelatos immediately afterwards "called me a name and then he struck me."

"What name did he call you?" queried the magistrate.

"He called me a liar."

"That is who you mean by calling you a name?" commented the magistrate.

Angelatos confirmed calling her a liar but denied striking her. Sharp, he said had struck him with a rock. Sharp in turn denied this claim.

Mark 'Remembrance Week' At Request of Legion Post

TRENTON — At the request of the Royal Canadian Legion, Trenton Branch, No. 110, this week has been proclaimed "Remembrance Week", and the branch will carry out a number of observances, designed to honour the men who fell in two World Wars, culminating in a Legion parade and 2-minute silence at the cenotaph at 2.30 p.m. on Sunday.

At last night's meeting of Trenton council, Mayor MacDonald and council members agreed to the Legion request.

Council was concerned about the way in which the weed-cutting program had been carried out this summer. Councillor Burtt reported weed inspector H. S. Pane to order weeds cut on private property, if the owners refused to cooperate, and charge the cost back in taxes. Two such bills were presented to council by the public works department, last night, one for $1.50 for places where cutting had been carried out. Councillor Ross Burtt questioned the bills, he said that if some of the places on the list belonged to private owners, they too, should be charged. He thought it unfair to charge but to the owners. If the other locations were town-owned land, he agree that it hardly seemed feasible for council to charge the town. Mr. Pane was then asked to submit another list, stating whether the land is privately owned or town-owned.

Council discussed whether the man whose truck is hired by the town at some specific time should receive $2.50 a day stand-by pay, if the equipment all throughout the snow season, and $3.50 an hour when the equipment was not used, in addition to this, or whether he should only be paid the stand-by pay when doing things, in spite of the fact that the labour had already been paid every day during last season. The question of the equipment will be approached on the matter.

TAKE OVER SERVICES

Council agreed to accept existing service installations in the Stanley Heights sub-division. They have been installed at the expense of the subdivider. Now the time has come for the town to take over and maintain them. Since town engineer Eric Aldersey thinks that everything is in order, the town will take on the responsibility. About half of the planned 60 lots have been installed and the area have been installed.

Council also decided to proceed with the installation of a sewer line on Wall Street to service the new Essex Electronics plant, provided the owner, K. Couch, will cede a strip of land, 40 feet wide, to the town, for egress and exit from the property. The sewer will cost the town $4,000 and may produce a deficit on operations for this year.

"So what?" asked Councillor Ed. Todd, "We've had other deficits in other years, for lesser reasons. This will serve an industry."

"I'd like to make it clear that we've only had two deficits in 15 years," retorted town clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry at this point.

Councillor Burtt read the fire chief's report for October. The services of the department were required 32 times. Instructor Frank Coleman is taking a First Aid course in connection with area civil defence and he will relay information gained to other members of the department.

In October, said Councillor Burtt, the dog catcher had destroyed seven dogs; returned three sold one and still had two left in the pound;

Councillors were loath to hear the lengthy traffic by-law, in which is incorporated the snow-removal by-law, read out, so it was taken as read and the by-law will be sent to provincial government authorities for approval.

Councillor Burtt offered to bet anyone $10 that the snow removal by-law would never come into effect this year and no other person went along by offering to bet that if it did come into effect, it would not be enforced.

$650 Damage In Collision At Intersection

TRENTON — Damage amounting to $650 occurred as the result of a two-car collision at the intersection of King and Division Sts. at 7.30 a.m. today. The vehicles involved were driven by Mrs. Marion Thompson of R.R. 2, Trenton, and Harold Kuschnick, 27, of R.R. 1, Cordingley.

The Thompson vehicle, which suffered $350 damage, was headed west on King Street at the time of the accident. The other car, driven by Kuschnick, was headed south on Division.

No injuries occurred.

wrapup. Pulse/ takers predict he'll be returned to office with spectacular majority over Democrat challenger Robert Morgenthau.

His political life in jeopardy, Nixon maintained a drumfire battle to the finish line. He pledged before a television audience that if elected he would not attempt to seek the White House in 1964 and claimed he has been made the victim of "the most vicious barrage of attacks in any campaign any public figure of our time."

SAYS ARE LIES

He said Democrats were actually trying to paint Governor Brown, the nice guy of the campaign, denied he was the source of any malicious campaign tactics. He charged Democratic opponents to be mostly "a tattered rerun of his campaign.

Voters are selecting a 435-seat House of Representatives; 39 of 100 senate seats and 35 of the 50 state governors. Democrats controlled the last 437-seat House 261-174 with two vacancies and Senate 64-36. Of the 35 state governorships up for election, 21 are held by Democrats and 14 by Republicans.

Because of time differences and variety in state regulations, balloting started shortly after midnight in New Hampshire. Last state to close polls is Alaska where doors will shut 2 a.m. Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time.

All Can Prepare Own Shelter Says Col. Duffy

TRENTON — Quinte area civil defence co-ordinator, Col. Angus Duffy got down to cases in a brief address to the Trenton Rotary Club last night. Last week Col. Duffy covered the field of emergency measures for this area in a broad sense at Trenton High School. Last night, he brought emergency planning home by making every club member feel as if he had his individual welfare in mind.

"Lots of you want to have two cars; three TV sets and plenty of beer" said Col Duffy, "but you don't want to put a moment's thought into planning a shelter for your family that could be used in an emergency. Everybody's hoping that government will build shelters. Well, if I have my way, the government won't."

Col. Duffy said that the best thing for the safety of any family to do in case of a nuclear attack was to stay in a home-made shelter in their own home. The main thing, he said, was to fix up a "safe area" between humans and fallout. Cement or brick or even dirt will do.

"If anyone says, 'I couldn't have three feet of dirt on my living room floor'," said Col. Duffy, "I'll say to him 'you can.' It's survival I'm talking about."

Col. Duffy said that he and his family had re-arranged the fruit cellar in their home for a shelter. He said that it so happened that the walls of the fruit cellar were constructed of cement, six inches thick, which is enough. On the shelves sit the equivalent of 9,000 calories in tinned foodstuffs and preserves. Col. Duffy said that he would back a stream hose to the hot water heater across the cellar, and have 30 gallons of uncontaminated water for the time he had to spend in the shelter. He said that he had placed a camp stove in the cellar.

"But I'm just using this as an illustration," said Col. Duffy. "It could be done to any home. Actually, I'd be down at area headquarters and my wife would be at the hospital helping out."

MUST BE TRAINED

Col. Duffy said that it was nonsense to suppose that in the time of an emergency people would be "brought in off the street" to run the government. He said that all national, provincial and municipal leaders must be taught what to do in the event of an emergency and that they must be augmented by other trained people.

"We're a 'stay-put' area," said Col. Duffy. "Planes of the enemy wouldn't waste a bomb on us. We would be expected to care for others from the devastated area. And if you say, 'if I have food in my cellar, I'm not going to share it,' or 'it would be too crowded in my home to take others in,' I've got only the same answer. We're talking about survival.' Go home tonight and count how many pairs of trousers you have. They might keep someone from freezing."

Col. Duffy stressed the point that the Quinte area was much better prepared than might be thought for an emergency of any kind.

"If you survive, the nation will survive," he said.

IN MEMORIAM

MUNRO — In loving memory of Ida May Munro who passed away November 6th, 1961.
Your presence we miss,
Your memory we treasure;
Loving you always.
Forgetting you never.
—Always remembered by husband and family.

HOWE — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Albert Howe, who passed away November 6th, 1961.
You only left us for a while,
Patient, kind and sweet was your smile.
They have few in this world,
Who left so much good as you.
For all his loving kindness,
He asked nothing in return.
If all the world deserts you,
To your father you can turn.
Sadly missed by his daughter Thelma Wood and granddaughter Joyce.

TUI — In memory of my dear husband, Albert Wesley, who passed away, Nov. 6, 1961.
As years keep their watch up there,
Please, God, just let him know,
That we, down here, do not forget,
We loved and miss him so.
—Lovingly remembered, wife Norma and family.

HOWE — In loving memory of a dear husband, Albert T. Howe, who passed away November 6th, 1961.
Ever remembered and revered by his wife Ferola.

HOWE — In loving memory of a dear father, Albert Howe, who passed away one year ago, November 6th, 1961.
As the years roll on and the days go by,
Dear Dad, there's a memory we keep.
Of one I loved and will never forget.
—Ever remembered by his daughter Edna, son-in-law Lewerne and Sharon.

50 Building Permits Total $1,408,958

The permit for the construction of the new million-dollar addition at Quinte Secondary School gave a big boost to the October building total at city hall.

The school addition permit was for $1,072,000 with the total building list for the month amounting to $1,408,958.

Building Inspector Grant Stickle notes there were 50 permits during the month of which 39 were for new dwellings valued at $305,200.

Industrial and commercial construction during the month was almost nil. · ·

Trunk Sewers Will Soon Be Ready for Use

"For the want of a nail the shoe was lost" — or so goes the old nursery reader rhyme.

But the rhyme apparently also has its application with respect to the city's new trunk sewer system being put into operation.

Alderman Don Whalen raised the question at council noting that businesses along Dundas Street west were still being forced to use septic tanks although the main trunk sewer along the street had been completed several months ago.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the special sewage project committee said the holdup had resulted from the non-delivery of sewage pumps.

He said the pumps had now arrived in the city—but minus their control panel.

When the pumps were ready for operation connections with the sewer main would be possible although sewage would have to go into the bay until the treatment plant was ready.

Fire Department Visits Cement Works Twice

The Belleville city fire department was called twice to the Canada Cement Works at Point Anne Monday afternoon.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said apparently one of the coal silos near the cement works had caught fire while an unidentified man was at the top of the silo, 65 to 70 feet up in the air.

However, the man was rescued before the fire department arrived, uninjured.

The first call was received shortly after noon and the second alarm was answered around 4:00 p.m.

There was no damage. It is not known what caused the fire to start.

New Addition To Be Dedicated Early in Dec.

A dedication ceremony for early in December is planned for the new Christian Education Centre addition at Bridge Street United Church, it was learned today.

Construction of the new Church addition was commenced last spring with a tentative completion date of the middle of September but minor delays have set back the final completion date.

The completion date now expected is about the middle of November.

The new Church addition includes an assembly room, chapel, crib room and nursery, youth room and a church parlor as well as a number of Sunday School classrooms.

Will Attempt To Raise Bail By Thursday

Two Belleville youths charged with breaking, entering and theft of a city pool room, will attempt to raise bail by Thursday.

Robert Thomas Bennett, 19, and Leonard Clifford Wood, 28, were remanded by magistrate R. Wills Trumpour this morning after being hailed into court for the second offence at Lafferty's Pool Room, East Bridge Street, October 29.

The magistrate set Bennett's bail at $5,000 property.

Wood's was said he thought he could raise bail.

$3,000 and the magistrate. "Then I guess I'll be remanded," said Wood.

"I do not think anybody is going to quibble about $500," said magistrate Wills. "If you can get $2,500 that sounds reasonable.

Health Assoc. Will Form Area Branch

A meeting of the nominating committee for the newest branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association will be held Thursday, in the Recreation Centre.

As a result of a large public meeting held on October 27 in the Recreation Centre it was agreed that a branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association be formed in the Belleville area.

The branch will undertake to investigate existing mental health facilities in the Belleville area and provide community action where facilities are lacking.

Over 80 persons mostly school teachers, public health nurses, social workers and clergy attended the workshop on October 27. Guest speakers from Toronto led various group discussions and in the afternoon a general meeting was held. A close look at the facilities existing in Belleville disclosed a need for a more scientific approach to the organization of new associations and agencies and a study of those services which exist to overcome duplications and waste.

On the interim committee which will meet this week are: Dr. Charles Dondale, chairman; Mrs. Peggy Thompson, secretary; Miss Kay Abbott; Mr. L. A. Kells and Mrs. J. E. Pugh.

Also in attendance at this meeting will be Mr. Paul Azaroff, field representative of the Canadian Mental Health Association for Eastern Ontario. Mr. Azaroff will continue to provide leadership and counsel to the newly formed Branch in Belleville.

The Canadian Mental Health Association has over 20 Branches in Ontario of which six are in the eastern portion of the province (Oshawa, Peterborough, Brockville, Kingston, Smiths Falls and Ottawa).

Mixed Bonspiel Opens Season At Curling Club

On shimmering white ice bedecked with rings in red, white and blue with a green background, the curling season got under way on Monday night at the Quinte Curling Club. The occasion was a mixed bonspiel, which will conclude on Saturday night with a buffet supper and dance. At this time the prizes will be distributed to the lucky winners and the season will be officially declared open by the president Ev Gowsell.

Last night to start the bonspiel off on the right foot, Stuart Robb, deputy chairman of the bonspiel committee, acted in the absence of Edward Lewis, the chairman, by throwing the first rock with the president, Ev Gowsell, and the president of the women's section, Mrs. Patsy Wamboldt, and other members of the committee looking on. Before the start, Mr. Robb thanked all for their entry into the mixed spiel and hoped that all would have a good time and fine curling.

Immediately the ice were a hive of industry and it looked as if some of the curlers had been practising secretly during the summer because some excellent shots were made. There were a number of new curlers on hand and they were not disgraced in their efforts. A little more practice and they will be curling bugs like the rest of the members. As usual the inside skips started their quips when the first stone was delivered and no doubt many opinions will be expressed before the season again closes.

A great deal of credit is due to Everett Black and his icemaker, Jack Clearwater, for the fine ice which was available. A word of thanks also should be expressed to the hardy souls who worked through the weekend painting the rings. It was a terrific job and many complimentary remarks were heard around the clubhouse. The lounge room took on a new look, due to the efforts of the women and all in all it augurs well for another fine season of this popular pastime.

Next week the first games of the men's section will take place and then the fur will fly. The teams have been drawn, the members are taking practise shots and the members of the rinks getting acquainted for they will be together throughout the season.

Ald. Robert Temple Will Seek Liberal Nomination, Others Will Be in Field

A federal flavor is tincturing traditional municipal ingredients as local politics grow more begin their annual simmering in the Belleville area.

The first seasoning of national ambitions was added to the pot Monday night by Alderman Robert Temple. The councillor announced his retirement from civic affairs with the reservation that he is not quitting the public arena.

He later confirmed he would once again seek the Liberal nomination for South Hastings, when the riding association convenes November 27 to choose its candidate for a federal election some time in the future.

The convention comes just one week before city elections and already speculation has started on the likely opponents to Alderman Temple's bid for favor.

Among those queried last night by the Ontario Intelligencer on their possible intentions were Frank Follwell, who held the riding for the Liberals from 1949-57 when he was defeated by incumbent Conservative M.P. Lee Grills, and Roy Sills, president of South Hastings Liberals.

Mr. Follwell said he was keeping an open mind on the possibility of once again placing himself before the association as its choice for political standard bearer.

Mr. Sills, one of those who contested Mr. Temple's choice as party candidate for the last federal election, said his "main interest" was that there should be a contest "for the nomination.

WILL GO TO BALLOT

"If I am nominated I will go to the ballot," he promised.

"I am hoping that there will be several nominations at the convention, since only a candidate chosen by the delegates would have a chance of success."

Alderman Temple, a Belleville lawyer, successfully contested the last nomination over Mr. Sills and Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto. With a total of 10 years' city council service, including a very successful bid for the mayoralty — it was Mr. Temple's first venture in the field of federal campaigning.

He won over a total of 13,888 votes from the electorate to lose to Mr. Grills by 1,800.

Another name also mentioned as a possible nominee before the convention delegates was that of Belleville mayor A. McLean Haig.

Mayor Haig, however, publicly confirmed his intention Monday night of seeking a third term as the city's chief magistrate.

Of his possible bid for the Liberal candidacy he told The Ontario Intelligencer Tuesday: "At the moment I am not interested."

Campbellford, Tweed Clubs Visit Kinsmen

The Belleville Kinsmen Club played host to visiting Kinsmen from the Tweed and Campbellford clubs at the regular meeting held at the Shrine Club Monday evening.

Among guests present were Deputy-Governor Ken Thompson and Past Deputy-Governor Bernie Parker. Another guest were Jack Murphy, chairman of the Kingston Kinsmen's Club's "South Pacific Committee" with Pat Arber, Joan MacIntosh and Sam Campbell, of the "South Pacific" cast.

This musical, South Pacific, will be seen at BCIVS on Monday, November 26th. A preview of the show was seen by members at last night's meeting.

Mr. Campbell who stars as Lieut. Joseph Cable, sang "Younger Than Springtime" and "Carefully Taught." Pat Arber portraying Ensign Nellie Forbish, favored the members with "Cockeyed Optimist" and "Honeybun." Both were accompanied by Joan MacIntosh at the piano.

Past Deputy-Governor Bernie Hamlin presented the Joe Kloos Trophy for the club with the best attendance in District Six to Dante Turco, president of the Campbellford Kinsmen Club.

Mr. Pace was further congratulated by the present Deputy-Governor of District 6, Ken Thompson, for this outstanding achievement. Deputy-Governor Thompson went on to thank the members of the Belleville club and of other clubs present, for their efficiency.

The Deputy-Governor also displayed a plaque presented by himself, to the club for first attaining the most inter-club visits at the end of the Kinship.

Members Monday night voted on and approved the membership applications from the following new Kinsmen: Ron Fralick, Robert Barlow, Wayne Flindall, William MacKenzie, Robert Swain, John Joynt, Chris Akey and Cyril Bender.

Mayor A. M. Haig Declares He Will Seek Re-election

A contest for the mayoralty in the December 3rd Belleville municipal elections was assured yesterday, with Mayor A. M. Haig announcing that he would seek re-election.

Earlier yesterday Alderman William E. Jarvah had announced his intention of contesting the mayoralty.

Mayor Haig made the announcement at the close of the regular council meeting. He said he had decided to allow his name to stand but only after considerable thought.

CITES TWO PROJECTS

He was doing so, he said, in order that he might see the completion of two important projects in which he had a keen personal interest.

One of these was the construction of the proposed new hospital wing and the other was the proposed removal of the railway tracks from Pinnacle Street.

As chairman of the joint city-county hospital committee he said he had worked hard to bring about the agreement under which the county was to become a partner in hospital ownership.

He reported slow progress on the proposal to have the railway tracks removed from Pinnacle Street. The city had an agreement but the CPR showed some hesitancy regarding the proposal. Mayor Haig said he expected something constructive could soon be expected.

TEMPLE RETURNING

And Robert Temple, council veteran of ten years' standing, announced at the meeting that he was retiring from municipal politics although he expected to continue in politics on the federal level.

MAYOR A.M. HAIG

"I just feel that I could not do justice to both," he said.

Council's appreciation to Alderman Temple for his long service to the city was extended by Alderman John Ireland.

In lighter vein, however, he referred to Mr. Temple's expectation of continuing in federal politics and suggested others might have something to say about this matter. Ald. Temple is a Liberal, Ald. Ireland a Progressive Conservative.

Policeman's Lot Not Happy One

Although Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan meant the above title to be somewhat satirical or, at least, humorous, it would appear from recent news stories that in a small Ontario town a policeman's lot is exactly that.

In two towns within about 20 miles between them we see the police virtually accused of cowardice and neglect of duty on one hand and on the other they are accused of brutality and having chips on their shoulders. In the first instance the chief of police is in his sixties and considered as being overdue for retirement. In the second case the chief of police is in his twenties and is considered over-efficient. In both cases their detractors insist that they are really fine chaps.

Some small towns have a lengthy history of repeated hiring and firing of police officials usually because the local authorities feel that the police fail to "adjust" themselves to the community. This adjustment can range, it would appear, from relying solely upon the local mayor, reeve or commission for direction to being a friend of all the people and ignoring any or all infractions of the laws made by certain citizens.

A police administration which might satisfy one town council one year might incur the disfavor of a different council the next. This situation is not good. It leaves police work, which should be both efficient and impartial, too much in the hands of inexperienced politicians who either are thinking of next year's votes or their own invulnerability. It means that the manner of enforcing the law varies greatly from one community to the next.

It would appear that much might be gained by Ontario police setting up a system like Great Britain where local constables are subject to the control of a central authority and form an efficient network which has proven both humane and effective in the past.

If such a system were adopted here in Ontario municipalities would undoubtedly have a more uniform police administration and might also experience a considerable reduction in police costs through such benefits as central purchasing. Each community would contribute on a pro rata basis.

Most important though would be the fact that instead of having either inexperienced men or tired veterans of small town enforcement agencies on hand to maintain law and order there should be a trained and knowledgeable force in every community.

With such a system there should be fewer instances of juveniles terrorizing some small community or resort area and a greater respect for the law created amongst our citizens both young and old.

Certainly a serious investigation of the possibility and advantages of such a system should be effected by our provincial authorities before a rapidly expanding population and municipal growth makes the adoption of same more costly or difficult.

Three Year Plan

There has been a suggestion that Ontario may issue motor vehicle plates on a three-year basis, requiring only tags for the second and third year of issue. This would come after a proposed plan to issue three-year driving licences is implemented.

After observing the condition which some license plates are in following but a year of use we wonder how legible they might be if pressed into use for a three-year period.

Nevertheless, the move would probably be welcomed by any person who has stood in line suffering the gusty March weather if such a move would bring an end to him paying the price for his own tardiness.

Roundabout

A report comes from across the "pond" of the Englishman who headed for the police station to report the theft of his bicycle. Upon arrival this worthy found not only his bike but also the "thief," its original owner from whom the party of the first part had stolen the bike the week before.

The guilty man was fined.

All of which suggests that the wheels had turned full circle in the interests of justice.

It is exceedingly difficult for the leading men of the nation to be knaves, and the inferior sort to be honest; for the former to be cheats, and the latter to rest satisfied with being only dupes.—Montesquieu, French historian and philosopher.

The world is a comedy to those that think, a tragedy to those who feel.—Horace Walpole.

Russian Bashes Second To None--if Guests Come

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Bash-wise, tomorrow's the night the Canadian Capital usually — but not always — ties one on.

His Excellency, Amazasp Alexandre Aroutunian, the Russian Ambassador, is entertaining at what Moscow chooses to call its "Great October Revolution" celebration which is always held in November.

In Ottawa, for the past 30 years, this biggest of bashes along the Rideau, good-living, hard-drinking Diplomatic Row, has been one of the OCCASIONS to attend.

Except, that is, in certain years when the world's international fever for Canada has been running dangerously high.

The Russians first established their towering reputation for throwing the knockdown-barred hospitality the Fall following Hitler's '42 invasion of the Soviet.

Liquor was rationed, meat, too — but not along Diplomatic Row where people live a favored life apart from the common tax-paying herd.

So the Russians threw open their new Ottawa Embassy — they had taken over the former home, of storied Canadian lumber brain, Col. Booth, a palatial place, made to order for parties — and invited in the town.

GREAT STAMPEDE

They laid out bars in three big rooms on the three floors of the embassy, with groaning tables of whole glazed salmon, whole smoked turkey, sculpture mountains of gleaming black caviar.

It was eating and drinking fit for the Czar, and the Capital responded heartily with an enthusiastic mob scene of better than 2,000.

And so it has been, almost every year since — a mass storming of the Red Embassy by an army of Good Time Charlies — the biggest the Fall when Igor Gouzenko ran away with the Russian spy papers, the Autumn the Communists did in Hungary, and the several times Moscow has put the squeeze on Berlin.

Then the crowd dropped off to an embarrassed trickle, with the Embassy trimming its guest list, and with those who remained on it staying away in droves.

At such times of tension, not more than 300 die-hard partygoers have been rattling around in the big Embassy trying to make merry on what were far from merry occasions.

This year the Embassy is playing it safe.

Only some 500 are being invited so that the Russians won't run such a risk of being embarrassed by more of their invited guests cold - shouldering their hospitality than accepting it.

THE PM "REGRETS"

Still, it will be interesting to see who goes.

For this, if there ever was one, has been a Fall when the Russians have come out to play the dangerous game of "Chicken" with world peace, and not every Canadian invited to the Embassy will be quite ready to drink under breath.

On such diplomatic state occasions — the Americans have their July 4, we have our Dominion Day, the French their Bastille Day, and the British, Victoria's Birthday — the PM, from the Prime Minister down, usually attend.

But not the Russian bash.

Not since back nearly 10 years ago when a quick-tiring news item was given Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, glass in hand, toasting the Russians under the unwelcoming oil painting of the terrorist Red dictator, Joseph P. Stalin.

Few things embarrassed the prim, prissy, Victorian Louis more than that, and from then on he shunned the Russian Embassy like a pest-house.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has never shown at the Great October Revolution" whoop-up, and in all probability, won't be among those present tomorrow night.

But apart from the abstemious PM, on the size of the crowd and its "Who's Who" contact, you will always be able to take the world's diplomatic-political temperature reading in the Cold War, at least through official Canadian eyes.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 6th, 1942.

Armed with rifles and a limited supply of cartridges, the usual grubstaker and his dog, optimism, the annual deer hunting brigade left over the weekend for the northern sections of the district. One of the largest parties to leave included Mayor Bowslee, the Rev. A. B. Payne, Joe Shortt, Russell White, A. J. Allen of this city and Mr. Guy Bennett of Toronto. The party will hunt in the vicinity of Weslemkon Lake.

Sirens shrilled an alarm in a brief traffic squadron headquarters on Saturday night; the raiders were over England in force. Young pilots dashed to their waiting Beaufighter machines. Within a few seconds they were soaring aloft, keen minds alert for the enemy. Among them was a moreal Young man. He probably smiled at his teammates as they took off into the blackness of night, confident, courageous and eager to fight. He was Pilot Officer George T. Pepper, D.F.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pepper of Chatham Street. Before the ballet-scarred fighter plane touched its undercarriage to the runway a little while later, three Nazi planes had crashed before the blazing guns of Pepper.

George is serving with the banner of Belleville and Canada. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross last August, but this has not affected him or changed his mode of action. This city is proud and rightly so of the exploits of one of her sons.

30 YEARS AGO

At the weekly meeting of the Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, a resolution was passed unanimously suggesting that no municipal elections be held this year in the money expended, approximately $1,000, could be used for other worthy purposes. The directors were agreed that the present council had handled wisely handled the affairs of the city, and that the present council should be returned by acclamation.

The Hon. Rev. Monsignor French, D.S.O., of Renfrew, was a guest at St. Michael's Rectory last evening.

Mrs. G. Whitney of Toronto spent yesterday in the city with her brother, Mr. Fred Teale of Boswell Street.

Dr. G. D. Noble of this city has been elected one of the five members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

Mrs. Harry Smith, Church Street, is in Hamilton to visit Miss Wyman, nurse-in-training at the Hamilton General Hospital.

Mr. Norman Clarke, son of Dr. M. J. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke of this city, and formerly on the staff of the Bank of Montreal here, has been transferred from the Plenty branch of the bank to Toronto.

Strictly Personal

Understanding Requires Solid Ground

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the chief reasons that people don't get the right answers is that they don't ask the right questions. Then they think they are being serious when they are merely being solemn.

The other evening, at a little gathering, a man turned to me and asked what I thought about the congressional election in Ireside. I murmured some polite evasion. He then asked me about the Common Market. I shrugged noncommittally.

He became exasperated and charged me with a refusal to be "serious." I said I would rather play bridge than engage in the kind of intellectual exercise he was proposing. And I told him why.

Like most people, he thinks that the Big Questions of the day are the important ones. But he never stops to ask the Little Questions that are forever at the bottom of all fruitful discussions.

How can we have an effective dialogue about the election or the Cuban situation, or any other large subject, until we agree on some common aim? Unless we both comprehend what is meant by "the good life," we will be arguing about a cross-purposes all night — and most political debates end exactly where they begin.

The serious man is not the one who keeps trying to interpret news events, or analyze trends, or discover working patterns. The serious man is the one who examines the underlying foundations of his beliefs and convictions. And in this respect, not one person out of a thousand is truly serious.

What is the nature of the human animal, his limitations and his potentialities? Is it possible to have peace without justice, or justice without virtue? And what do these words actually mean, if anything?

Until we can begin to answer some of the fundamental questions, we can't decide what the purpose of society ought to be. And until we can decide what the purpose of society ought to be, we can't know what we are voting for, or fighting for, or arguing about.

The man who thought I was frivolous because I preferred bridge to an election analysis couldn't realize that I preferred bridge because I was serious and it was frivolous, and I refused to pretend that the highly important questions when he was only massaging his ego.

It is better to play a game and know you are playing than to play and think you are in earnest — because in the latter case you are never really earnest, but only using phrases in the pompous, pontifical, pedantic commentator sense. When I do be two years, everyone at the table knows exactly what I mean.

Truth a Demon To Red Sermon

Ottawa Journal

Mr. Khrushchev, mounting the pulpit and preaching a sermon, said in his letter to Bertrand Russell:

"It is well known that if one tries to nullify a robber by giving him first one's purse, then one's coat, etc., the robber will not become more modest, will not stop robbing. On the contrary, he will become increasingly insolent. Therefore it is necessary to curb this highwayman in order to prevent the jungle law from becoming the law governing relations between civilized people and states."

What will the oppressed Lithuanians, Estonians and Latvians think of these words, if they ever hear them?

Will the Hungarians identify Mr. Khrushchev as the highwayman—or Mr. Khrushchev himself?

When Soviet satellites hear of "jungle law" will they confuse it with Russian justice?

When nations in the path of Russian conquest hear that a successful robber grows increasingly insolent will they think of the robbers' lair being in Washington—or in Moscow?

The basic weakness of Mr. Khrushchev's propaganda is that it assumes that no one remembers beyond yesterday.

Blood Pressure Can Vary And Still Be Normal

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can low blood pressure affect a person's mentality or memory? Do people who have it live longer than those with high blood pressure? — M.A.F.

Low blood pressure isn't a disease. It is just a physical finding such as the color of your skin, your weight, or temperature.

Too often people imply or fear that it is a cause of this, that or another complaint.

Blood pressure can vary rather widely and still be normal. We can (and do) find an average for a given age level, but everybody can't be average. Some are higher and others lower — yet normal.

Temperament can affect it. An easy-going, phlegmatic, perhaps slightly-built person will be on the low side; a more active person on the high side.

True, unduly low pressure can reflect cerebral damage, infection, debilitating ailments, low thyroid or adrenal activity.

There is also a condition known as orthostatic hypotension, in which the pressure drops to a low level when the person stands. Such individuals are subject to dizziness or lightheadedness. The same thing can at times occur with drugs used to lower high blood pressure.

But these are quite different from cases in which the blood pressure is low but within normal ranges.

If, however, a person with low blood pressure feels draggy, listless, tired, it is merely a symptom of the underlying condition. The pathology is correcting. The blood pressure will take care of itself.

No, low blood pressure does not affect mentality or memory.

Yes, persons with pressure in the lower normal ranges tend to live longer than those with higher readings which remain within normal ranges.

Dear Dr. Molner: Don't you think some of the teen-agers dress fads can be really harmful? Aren't the youngsters inviting future trouble by shoes they insist upon wearing? Also is it advisable for girls to wear bras all the time? My daughter certainly needs need support and I can't understand why she, doesn't welcome a chance to get out of wearing clothing as soon as she gets home from school. — M.V.

Most teen-age clothing fads are of relatively short duration and they do not harm. Some current footwear doesn't add to their appearance, it seems to me, but the slippers are only two jumps away from going barefoot, and that is not harmful.

As to bras, again no harm. We may think it doesn't make much sense but the teen-agers want to act grown up. If your daughter can stand it, let it go and she soon don't wear them early enough.)

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 18, has Bell's Palsy. We have never heard of this before. He is under the care of a physician. We can (and do) find an average for a given age level, but everybody can't be average. Some are higher and others lower — yet normal.

Bell's Palsy is the name applied to neuritis in a branch of the nerve in the face. Causes vary from infection to exposure to drafts to injury, to various forms of intoxications.

As long as the young man is making good progress, complete regeneration of the nerve, without aftereffects, is quite likely.

Recovery usually is slow, varying from a few weeks to years. In some, a mild paralysis of part of the face becomes permanent. The steady recovery in your son's case is an excellent sign, however.

Note to Mrs. A.L.: No, seven if varicose veins extend the full length of the leg having them stripped or removed will not interfere in any way with the reproductive organs.

Count your calories the easy way. To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 136, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling.

Letter To The Editor

Seeks Photographs Of Railway Brigade

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I wonder if you would please accord to me a little space concerning the railway unit of local Belleville history, which for a period of 18 years was a living part of your community, from 27th April, 1866 when it was first formed until the disbanding of the unit on the 17th of June, 1881. This Unit was Number 7 Company of the 3rd Battalion of the Grand Trunk Railway Brigade commanded by Captain Nunn, whose head quarters were in Belleville.

Belleville has for a great number of years been a large and busy railway marshalling centre and between 1866 and 1881 was a hive of activity for the Grand Trunk Railway. I am a military historian, and I would be interested to see any of the old railway families of Belleville or vicinity, whose family history goes back to many generations of service with the Grand Trunk Railway, if they would check their family records and possessions and see if they have any old photographs of the officers or other ranks of Number 7 Company of the 3rd Battalion of the Grand Trunk Railway Brigade, commanded by Captain Nunn. Any parts of the uniform, such as shakos, (headdress) tunics, buttons, cap badges, shoulder belt plates, shoulder belt pouch ornamentals, swords, and rifles.

I am attempting to paint a picture of how the Belleville Company actually appeared and I would welcome any correspondence on this subject from any families in Belleville whose railroading history goes back to the 1860's on till the 1880's, or from any military historians in the Belleville area.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The time is approaching when large numbers of people will be piling into their cars and heading south. What they should do, of course, is leave their cars at home, take the train or rented car in anywhere, when finished.

No matter how determined they may be to avoid big cities and always take the coasters around them, sooner or later they are going to have to surrender to the wife's repeated pleas that motels and her longing for a few days in a great big civilized city where she need not cook can be had in bed, and with lovely little shops right in the hotel itself.

Therefore:, when you are faced with the necessity of driving into a city, especially, silly, with all its one way streets, unfamiliar traffic signs and other complications, pull into a service station on the outskirts, call a taxi, tell the taxi driver to drive in front of you, and lead you to the hotel you want. And for the price of a few taxi fare, there you are — by the safest route, at the front door, and a doorman to take your bags, show you in, and look after your car.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP)—Lacking the influence of United States stock markets, Toronto stocks rallied through early trading today in trendless fashion.

With U.S. exchanges closed during election day, all sections at Toronto showed minor moves.

Fractional advances held a slight edge among industrials, with Imperial Oil, Walker-Goodeham, Algoma Steel, Massey-Ferguson and Power Corporation all rising in a ⅛ to ¼ range.

Interprovincial Pipe Line slipped ⅛, while Trans-Canada Pipelines gained ⅛.

Losses of ¼ went to Steel Company of Canada, Canadian Breweries, Atlas Steel and Bank of Montreal.

On the exchange index, industrials rose .25 to 143.25, golds .05 at 89.01, and base metals .28 at 180.09. Western oils dipped .06 to 117.20. The 11 a.m. volume was 453,000 shares compared with 544,000 at the same time Monday.

Among base metals, Labrador Iron Corp. climbed one point and Hudson Bay Mining ¼. International Nickel climbed sharply Monday.

Inco boosted its dividend by 10 cents to 50 cents and tacked on a 10-cent extra. The stock jumped 2½ to 64½.

Other base metal issues shared the Inco enthusiasm, as did Falconbridge gained 2¾, Hudson Bay Mining 1¾, Noranda 1¼ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¾.

In the main list, Interprovincial Pipe Line climbed ¾, Algoma Steel ¼, Massey-Ferguson and Trans-Canada Pipeline ¼ each, and Massey-Ferguson and Dominion Bridge and Steel ¼ each.

Banks strengthened with Royal ahead ¼, Toronto-Dominion ¼ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ½. Bank of Montreal ignored the trend, dropping ½.

Deer Hunters Are Getting Ideal Conditions in North

Deer hunters in their happy hundreds Tuesday continued to fan themselves with their blankets with no clear picture of the kill success yet emerged.

However, Department of Land and Forests officials at Tweed said conditions are ideal for the hunt and that is —south for Highway 7.

"The ground is snow-covered at the north end of the district," a game warden reported. "These are the weather conditions hunters have been seeking for years."

Deer also ought to be fairly plentiful, he said.

The number of hunters is expected to be slightly higher than last year when some 20,000 secured 5,000 kills.

TWO CHECK POINTS

This year's success ratings will be more closely known after weekend after kills are checked by game wardens at Kaladar and Bannockburn.

Elsewhere, in the united Counties of Northumberland and Durham, where large numbers of deer have been reported during the summer, the hunting force was heavy, but there were few reports of kills by Monday night.

At least one area decided hunters were a menace and moved to keep them out. Hope Township council recently passed a by-law banning the discharge of firearms for the first 15 days of November. It followed complaints by farmers of recklessness by hunters.

The township enrolled a fourman squad of special constables to enforce its by-laws.

To Tuesday' morning there were no reports of serious hunting accidents in the Tweed district.

'The Creation' Given Fine Rendition by Bridge Street Church Choir and Artists

By EUGENE LANG

A sizeable audience was in attendance at Bridge Street United Church Monday evening to hear a performance of Parts One and Two of Joseph Haydn's immortal Oratorio, "The Creation" as given by Bridge Street United Church choir with soloists Hazelanne Reid, soprano; Dan Pocienkiewicz, tenor; William Perry, baritone, assisted by the Eastern Ontario String Quartet and accompanied by Miss Dorothy Sr. Mr. S. Alec Gordon, all of these forces being under the direction of Robert Reid.

This was the first time in a decade that this great religious work has been given by a local choir and can be considered one of the outstanding musical attractions of this present fall and winter season for Belleville and district.

This Oratorio was the fruit of Haydn's old age, being based jointly on a text featuring sections from the Book of Genesis and Milton's "Paradise Lost." It took the composer eighteen months to write this composition with which he infused rare religious humility and devotion in every one of its many selections.

First performed in Vienna on April 29th, 1798, with the composer conducting and since then the acclaim of this Oratorio has been universal.

Following the opening overture which is an eloquent tonal depiction of the resolution of primeval chaos into order and the conversion of darkness into light there follows the full story of the Creation through the six days, told musically with reverence and majesty, sometimes with literalness, and at other times with pervading spiritual beauty.

Of the thirty-four sections of the Oratorio only the last five selections comprising the Third Part were omitted last evening. Dr. Haydn added lustre to the instrumental accompaniment usually heard on the organ only) by having the first and second violin parts of the original orchestral score blend in with the organ. The four members of the Eastern Ontario String Quartet consisting of Messrs. Stephen Lang, William A. Grant, Joachim Reimann and Mrs. Marion Stretton provided excellent string additions to Mr. Gordon's organ assistings, giving new tonal paintings to the solidities of the organ that enhanced all parts of the orchestra that they were featured in. Mr. Gordon can always be depended upon for sterling work and again he exhibited his prowess throughout.

The choir's work came through with extremely fine performances both in their individual offerings and in the trio outpourings. Haslanne Reid is the possessor of a truly lovely lyrical soprano voice embellished with coloraturas when needed, all facts of her vocal capabilities being ably demonstrated in her crowning performances of last evening. Her singing of the aries "With Verdure Clad" and "On Might Pens Uplifted Soars" were touched with fervent feeling and emotional devotion. Dan Pocienkiewicz highlighted his singing with his closing aria "In Native Worth and Honor Clad" which he sang beautifully with wrought phrasings. William Perry gave full vent to his resonant baritone voice in his rendition of the aria "Now Heaven In Fullest Glory Shone" which he capped with sincerity in his interpretation of this. The trio work by the three soloists was exceptional in every instance, bringing together the colorful blendings of their voices in writings that gave them every chance to exhibit their individual qualities, which they realized with warmth and compassion in their vocalizings.

The two male singers are both from the Royal Conservatory in Toronto and Haslanne Reid is the wife of the director, Mr. Robert Reid.

The choir's three dozen participants were ably trained and rehearsed by Robert Reid, the result being that they sang with gusto in the more exuberant choruses and losing any of the power and majesty which the composer set forth in every. Of special note was their rendition of "The Heavens are Telling" and the fine chorus "Achieved is the Glorious Work," even though the tenors did become a bit nuncoal in some phrases of the latter chorus.

Mr. Reid is to be congratulated for his assured directing and his fine leadership in molding all the forces at his command to produce such an overall excellent and compelling performance of this oratorio. Under his astute guidance we can look forward in the future to other splendid productions of the great religious music of the masters of the past.

The opening introductory remarks and prayer were said by Rev. R. M. Bowman, pastor of Bridge Street United Church who welcomed all in attendance to the fine musical event that was given.

Optical Firm Will Expand, Rotarians Told

Local Rotarians were taken on a tour of the American Optical firm's Belleville plant yesterday afternoon as the guests of members serving in Wakeling, controller of the firm, who was giving his classification address.

Prior to the tour, which proved a most interesting event, Mr. Wakeling stated that the local plant was a part of the largest, less m a n factoring firm in the world, and that it was recognized as being the finest in North America.

Various plant officials explained some of the historical aspects of the plant and of its current activities. A large export business is conducted by the local plant to such countries as Australia, Indonesia and Mexico. It was expected that the local assembly lines or production capacity would be expanded by 30 percent within the next year to meet both the export market and the requirements of some newly developed products, one of the latest mentioned.

The tour of the plant was made in small groups and each was given the opportunity of observing the precision of lenses on a step by step basis and questioning any of the phases that the most interesting facets of the tour was undoubtedly the screw hardening line which is currently in a full stage of operation. Rotarian witnessed the spectacular means of testing these lenses, the repeated dropping of a steel ball upon the lens from increasing heights.

Prior to the tour the Rotary Club held a brief business meeting conducted by vice-president Ron Cass in the latter's "officiaria" where a box lunch was served the club members.

UNICEF Gets $1478 From Collections

The country's smallest coin—the penny—can still make a sizable hoard in a good cause.

UNICEF Hallowe'en collections in Belleville this year so far total $1,478.

This counts mainly the downtown collections made by city youngsters during their traditional shellout rounds.

Still to be counted in the full total are collections made in the city's separate schools and the Hallowe'en dance held at the Belleville Armouries.

Sidewalk on W. Dundas St. Turned Down by Council

Construction of a new four-foot sidewalk on the north side of West Dundas Street from Sidney Street to the north limits of the Ontario School for the Deaf property and from West limits of the OSD to the city limits has been turned down by council, despite objection from Avondale district residents.

After being approved earlier in council this year by recommendation, construction of the walk was turned down yesterday when the covering by-law was presented.

Intention of council was to have the cost come from born on an area basis but yesterday a delegation from Wright Avenue and Avondale Terrace came to the proposed procedure. Petitions from the delegation which presented a petition bearing roughly 100 names, was read by Mayor Ellis.

The Dundas Street walk has been a contentious issue in city council for many months with its proponents asking for the walk for safety reasons.

But payment for the walk on a local improvement frontage basis was refused, while payment out of the general rate would, as alderman put it, "be dynamite."

ASKS FOR PASSAGE

Alderman Ellis then asked council to pass the by-law for the sake of children's safety.

He said that the walk could now be constructed only under the area payment basis, as construction under local improvements had been turned down by the municipal board.

The cost would not be excessive with homeowners in the area being assessed only about 25 cents per month in their taxes.

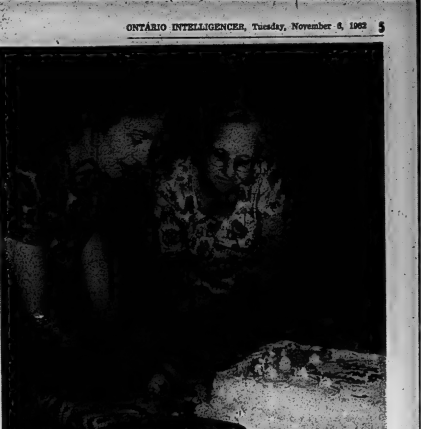
Alderman Les Digby called for a recorded vote on the declaratory by-law.

"A good idea," returned Alex Ellis. "It would be interesting to know who is interested in saving the lives of few children."

Voting for the by-law were Aldermen Ellis, Harrison and Lowen. Opposing were Mayor Haig, and Aldermen Rollay, Clarke, Digby, Chamberland, Jarvah, Haycroft, Robb, Temple and Whalen.

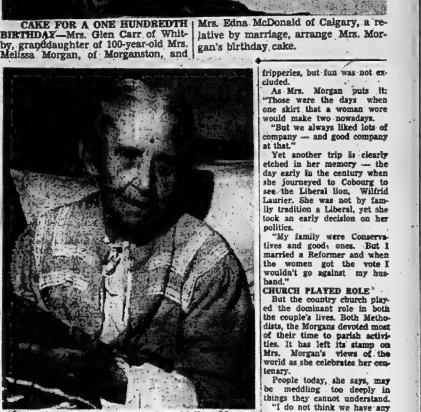
Storm Sewer Projects Will Cost $100,000

Council approval for the construction of storm sewer district projects at a total cost of approximately $100,000 was given yesterday.



One of the projects is in the Ontario Municipal Board, sale-Southview district costing $45,500 to be carried out as a capital works project.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told the court of the assessment had already been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, but a further specific application would have to be made before the work was undertaken.



The storm sewer project on Evans Street, recommended from Alderman Siu Robb who noted that was the detour route for traffic in the event of the reconstruction of the North Murray Street Railway bridge. He suggested that traffic in and out of the city should not have to go by this sewer constructed.

Cheese Board Plans Addition To Warehouse

Construction of a new addition to their present warehouse property on Willis Street to be used by the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board.

Chairman of the Board, Mr. Hector Arnold of Campbellford, today confirmed that plans for the addition had been prepared but it was undecided whether to proceed with construction this fall or wait until spring.

The addition would be an extension to the west of the present warehouse, it was stated.

The extension would include artificial cooling space as well as refrigerated storage and would almost double the present warehouse capacity.

Three Park Lots Stripped Of Topsoil

Can a city subdivider builder strip topsoil from lots allocated to the city for park purposes?

Alderman Ross Bailey asked the question in city council yesterday noting that three lots in the Applewood Acres subdivision had been stripped of top soil and were now nothing but mudholes.

"Can they do it legally?" he asked.

The city manager said he would look into the matter.

Mrs. Melissa Morgan Celebrates 100th Birthday At Her Home in Morganston

Melissa Morgan will never again know another day quite like this Tuesday — one she has spent many times as a Canadian does.

Today, this offspring of Quaker pioneer stock who settles in Brighton Township, celebrates her 100th birthday.

She received the day expectantly on the Morganston farmstead 10 miles north of Brighton, where she has spent most of her life. For, although wrapped in her 75 years she is far from lost in them.

She was born when the charge of the Light Brigade was a contemporary epic, when Keith-sharp was still unknown in history. Yet her keen memory is matched by an interest in current events — an interest evinced by the transistor radio she keeps by her bedside.

Her conversation is a mixture of vivid recollection and current comment.

"I remember as a child we were afraid of the Fenians", she recalls of the year 1866. "We were so scared they would come down to our place in Brighton Township."

Coming up to the moment after hearing a transistorized newscast she commented: "I sometimes think we are quite near another war. I was hoping I would never have to see another.

Mrs. Morgan was born on Brighton Township's third concession, one of the third generation in family line founded by Dutch pioneer farmer Peter H. Maybee.

She has hardly left the environs of rolling Northumberland County since.

TWO STORY JOURNEYS

Earlier in life she visited Toronto, The Thousand Islands, her honeymoon trip was a journey to Rochester, New York. Among the more memorable was a childhood excursion from Brighton to nearby Smithfield with an uncle to see one of the first trains through the community.

"We stood and watched it. It was a wonderful sight to us."

But the most important move was made only a few miles north from her birthplace in 1881 — when she married John Morgan of Cramahe Township.

"We were married in a pair sonage. They didn't have Hoyle's church weddings then," recalls Mrs. Morgan.

There was little time for fripperies, but fun was not excluded.

As Mrs. Morgan puts it: "Those were the days when one shirt that a man wore would make two nowadays."

"But we always liked lots of company — and good company at that."

Yet another trip is clearly etched in her memory — the day early in the century when she journeyed to Cobourg to see the royal lion, Wilfrid Laurier. She was not by family tradition a Liberal, yet she took an early decision on her politics.

"My family were Conservatives and good ones. But I married a Reformer and when the women got the vote I wouldn't be against my husband."

CHURCH PLAYED ROLE

But the country church played the dominant role in both the couple's lives. Both Methodists, the Morgans devoted most of their time to parish activities. It has left its stamp on Mrs. Morgan's views of the world as she celebrates her centenary.

People today, she says, may be meeting too deeply in things they cannot understand.

"I do not think we have any right to pry into things made for our comfort and safety . . . to make something that will destroy it all".

"It might be a better life if we left well enough alone".

"Yet", she continues, "I've seen wonderful changes.

"And some are for the better. "You wouldn't want to see things stand still and not go ahead".

Until a short time ago she was still able to move with ease around home. Her sight in recent years has failed rapidly, but although now confined mainly to bed she still enjoys an enduring capacity for company. For two days before her birthday she had been receiving callers and well-wishers.

The greetings also have flowed in by mail, among the more notable being congratulations from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, a framed scroll from the Ontario Government and congratulatory messages from various local public figures.

Mrs. Morgan was the second oldest in a family of seven sons and two boys. One brother, 81-year-old Nelson Maybee, in Vancouver, is the only other survivor of the family.

Her husband died 34 years ago. By that time the two children the couple had adopted also had settled down to marriage of their own. Today on the family homestead Mrs. Morgan is cared for by one of them, Mrs. Evart Haycock.

And thereby is another celebration in the offing. The Haycocks will celebrate their 52nd wedding anniversary in December. Mrs. Morgan is also anticipating that event.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Salisbury Steaks; Tomato Gravy; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Green Beans with Nutmeg Butter; Orange and Seedless Green Grape Fruit Cup; Mocha Cake; Tea.

Two short blocks from my house is a farm market. This is a great blessing to folks in this community and we appreciate it too. The owner, Harold Clarke, is a friendly man always ready to help me with canning, pickling, shipping or any of my miscellaneous projects.

I talked to him about squashes yesterday because he had five different varieties in bushel baskets outside. I wanted to use pepper or acorn squashes because they are adaptable to several ways of cooking. He said pepper and acorn squashes are available the year round because later in the winter they are imported from the South.

I like squashes because 1) they keep so well and 2) when you are desperate for time you can throw one in the oven after just washing it and it requires very little attention at serving time.

BAKED SQUASH:

1) Simple: Wash a medium pepper squash and put in oven of 400 deg. Fahr. and bake 1 hour. Near serving time remove from oven and cut in half with very sharp knife. Carefully remove seed and fibre portions with a big spoon and discard. Scoop out tender pulp right to the green skin and mash it in a bowl with some butter and salt and pepper. A medium-sized pepper squash mashed, serves 2 or 3.

2) Stuffed: a) Cut pepper or acorn squash in halves lengthwise. Remove seeds. Place cut side down in shallow baking dish. Add hot water to ½" depth. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Turn cut side up and fill with genagously buttered and salted cubed fresh white bread and return to oven and bake until squash is tender and bread cubes are golden or b) fill with cooked and seasoned lima beans moistened with sour cream seasoned with chives. Return to oven and bake until squash is tender.

BAKED STUFFED MAIN COURSE SQUASH:

1) Cut pepper or acorn squash in halves lengthwise. Scrape out seeds. Place cut side down in shallow baking dish. Add hot water to ½" depth. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Turn cut side up and fill with this Stuffing: (Amount will fill 4 halves from 2 medium-sized acorn or pepper squash.) Gently saute 2 tablespoons chopped onion and ½ cup finely chopped celery in 3 tablespoons butter until soaked with butter but not brown. Remove from heat. Add 3 slices crustless white bread which have been cut into ¼" dice, and generous shake of salt and pepper. Drain liquid from one 8-oz. can oysters (35c) and cut oysters in halves. (Reserve liquid to add to cream soup for another meal.) Add oysters to stuffing and toss to mix. Add a little squeeze of lemon juice. Turn into partially baked squash halves, piling lightly and finish baking at 400 deg. Fahr. until squash is tender and crumbs are golden. A delicious main course dish for those who observe "fast" days.

2) Fill centres of partially baked squash with partially cooked sausage meat. Return to oven and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until squash is tender and sausage is cooked and top is crisp and gold.

MAIL CALL

QUESTION: One afternoon recently I had occasion to return a book to an acquaintance. Although I have known this particular woman a number of years, this was the first time I had been in her home. After speaking to her for a few minutes, I remarked how lovely her home was and asked if I could see the rest of it. After a few moments of hesitation she said she would show me around.

When I told this to my husband, he said I was wrong. He felt it was up to Mrs. M. to offer to show me the house. I feel, though, that unless people ask to see your home they are really not particularly interested in it. May I have your comments? — N.M., Union, N.J.

Answer: Complimenting a woman on her home and her decorating sense is one thing — it's gracious and polite and the sort of thing any proud homemaker loves to hear. But asking for a tour is another. It puts a woman on a spot, especially if she knows the beds aren't made and the morning's dishes are still in the sink. But while this wasn't the case during your call your husband is right: it would have been more polite to let the invitation come from the woman involved instead of nudging her into it.

QUESTION: A neighbor's daughter is being married in our local church next month. I have not been invited to the wedding, but would like to see the ceremony, since I have known the girl since she was a youngster. Would it be permissible for me to attend without a formal invitation? — Mrs. H.W., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Well-wishers often attend the wedding of an acquaintance, but usually take seats other than those reserved for invited guests of both bride and groom.

What every wife should know about her husband!

Like most married women you probably hesitate to talk to your husband about his life insurance. You dread thinking of existing without him. Yet, much as you hate to think of it, you probably know a number of young widows who have a real problem maintaining a home and bringing up their children.

Perhaps he is aware of your reluctance to talk about life insurance—and hesitates to bring up the subject.

You owe it to yourself and to your children to discuss with your husband what his present life insurance programme would provide in income to raise your family. Further, what his permanent personal policies would be worth in case of emergencies.

We suggest you and your husband enlist the friendly and helpful advice of The Excelsior Life representative in your neighbourhood—who was selected and trained to help people with problems such as yours to plan their own "Blueprint for Security".

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. P.R. — We must set a ceiling on the annual cost of her clothing.

Bonnie R. — That's impossible! I can't tell in advance what I'll need.

Mrs. P.R.: We have a 15-year old daughter who's just mad over clothes. She's slim and graceful and, of course, everything looks well on her. And she tries to keep up with the college girls she meets at parties, as well as with her high school bunch, in appearing with "the newest thing." So life at home has become a battle between Bonnie and our pocketbook.

To keep her feet on the ground we've decided to give her a flat sum as a clothing allowance to tide her over a full year. In view of the fact that she has a new winter coat and a new suit, we've set the figure at $200. In addition she gets a $5-a-week allowance, and often doubles that with baby-sitting. This should certainly keep her in both necessities and "nonsense."

Bonnie R.: First my parents remind me that I'm still a child and need direction. Then they decide I'm old enough to take charge of purchasing hundreds of dollars worth of clothes! Well I don't agree. There are some things a teenage girl can use help with, and her wardrobe is one of them.

It's been hard enough making wise purchases, even without the clothes-budget idea. I always try to economize, look for markdowns and sales. But many times I get gypped, bring something home that's defective or useless, and never wear it. I'm willing to compromise. If my parents will continue to pay my clothing bills as they arise, I'll leave it to my mother to make the final decisions on what I really need. I may kick, but I'll give in.

The Council: No, Bonnie. One budget is worth a hundred blowups! Even though you promise to "give in" more readily, resist the Bikini, take back the platinum wig — you'll still argue with your mother. And her excellent idea is that you argue with yourself and the budget, not with her and your dad.

And dollar-and-cents disagreements which can be settled by simple arithmetic save a lot of wasted emotion. Mrs. R.'s proposal is aimed at just that. She and Bonnie can use their emotional energy for other problems—the kind that don't settle into neat income and Outgo columns.

Bonnie's the sly one, indeed, to be pleading youth and helplessness now. Behind her bid for Mom to continue in charge of bill-paying is the obvious hope that Mom will weaken when the allowance is used up and pad it quietly. Faced with two dream dresses and other irresistibles, Mom won't make her choose. "Take both," she may possibly say.

Introducing a debt limit on clothing expenditures not only saves money, but teaches Bonnie many useful tactics. For instance, she learns to ponder, wait and weigh each purchase carefully. If I want that red velvet raincoat, she'll ask herself, can I afford purple Bermudas? Or should I make do with last year's green slacks, shorten them, perhaps? There'll be less impulse buying, less follow-the-leader aping of other girls' getups.

The amount sounds okay, Mrs. R. is not deserting Bonnie. She'll still be on tap to advise, warn, question. She'll still offer what every teenager loves — an argument! Bonnie will still be able to "kick" against her mother's reasoning. But the final decisions will have to be her own.

This plot should accomplish what Mrs. R. wishes — keep Bonnie's feet on the ground, even though they're encased in outlandish platform shoes she's having fun with. It's fun she gave serious thought to, first

Parkdale M.A. To Hold 'Coffee Breaks'

The Parkdale Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Vera Moon, for their October meeting. Eleven members were present.

A discussion was held regarding money-making projects for the coming year. It was decided to start the ball rolling with a few "Coffee Breaks," the first to be held on November 1st, at the home of Mrs. Moon, 545 Sydney Street. It is hoped that the Auxiliary ladies and their friends will lay down dusters around ten o'clock and drop in for their coffee break. Just come as you are, the silver collection is for a good cause.

Subsequent coffee breaks will be held at the following homes: November 8th — (afternoon) Mrs. Conley, 532 Sydney St.; 13th — (afternoon) Mrs. Nickel, 48 Lemoine St.; 21st — (afternoon) Mrs. Whitney, 539 Sydney St.; 28th — (morning) Mrs. Hyatt, 7 Parkdale Drive.

President, Mrs. Hyatt, extended a vote of thanks to Eileen Brooks, Betty Sloat and Babs Drennon, who assisted Akela with the Cubs weiner roast which was held at the beginning of October. A lunch, provided by Earle Whitney, Vera Moon, and Agnes Hyatt, was served at the close of the meeting.

Auxiliary meetings for ensuing months are scheduled as follows: November — Mrs. Hyatt, 7 Parkdale Drive; December — Mrs. Weagant, 567 Sydney St.; January — Mrs. Nickel, 48 Lemoine St.; February — Mrs. Andrews, 102 Pitcher St.; March — Mrs. Whitney, 539 Sydney St.; April — Mrs. Lajoie, 636 Sydney St.; May — Mrs. Rae, 542 Sydney St.; and June — Mrs. Blute, 646 Sydney St.

U.C.W. Meeting

COLLEGE HILL U.C.W.

The general meeting of the College Hill United Church U.C.W. was opened by the president, Mrs. Bailey, who read the correspondence.

The worship service included the reading of the Scripture from St. Luke 17: 11-19. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Dafoe on "Thanksgiving" and an inspiring poem read by Mrs. Doug Watson. Mrs. Sandra Van Luntven favored with a solo, and Mrs. Vessey showed a film on "The Land of the Morning Calm," which gave an inside story on Christian life.

A short discussion period was held afterward on the film.

Following the service, a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

PLOEGMAN — VOSS

Maranatha Christian Reformed Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 20 at seven p.m., for a very pretty fall wedding when Hilda Wilhelmina Vos, of R.R. 1, Corbyville, daughter of the Mr and Mrs. Rikkert Vos, became the bride of Clarence Ploegman, of R.R. 1 Ameliasburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ploegman. The Reverend J. Zantingh of Bloomfield, officiated before a background of snapdragons and mums, in shades of pink and white.

Mr. John De Vries, of Stirling, presided at the organ, and rendered the traditional wedding hymns.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Rikkert Vos, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white satin fashioned in floor-length with fitted bodice having a back bow. She wore a shoulder-length veil of silk tulle illusion, with petal pillbox type headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of white mums mingled with Sweetheart roses and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Stella DeVries of Belleville, R.R. 3, attended her sister as matron of honor, gowned in pink brocaded satin fashioned in princess style with matching pillbox headdress and face veil. Miss Glenda Gunter of Ormsby, Ontario, as bridesmaid, was attired in moss green brocaded satin also fashioned in princess style; with matching pillbox headdress and veil. The senior attendants carried white mums, pink Sweetheart roses and ivy. The little flower girl, Miss Juaihta Linda Vos, sister of the bride, wore a yellow nylon frock with white lace apron, and carried a basket of white mums and pink roses. Her headdress was in yellow.

Mr. Peter Ploegman of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. James Vos, of Corbyville, R.R. 1, ushered the guests.

The ring bearer was Master Wally Vos, brother of the bride, natty in his white sports jacket and black trousers with white boutonniere, and carrying the rings on a white satin pillow with streamers.

The reception was held in Gilead Community Centre, at Corbyville.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask linen and centred by a three-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Irene Kitcheson, and flanked by tall candles in silver holders. The bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial note.

The bride's mother, wearing a blue lace sheath gown with corsage of pink mums, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in a blue flowered sheath with white mum corsage.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a red suit with black accessories and corsage of white mums.

Guests were present from London, Harriston, Brantford, Cornwall, Brockville, Williamsburg, Marysville, Plainfield, Corbyville, Stirling and Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was honored by the presentation of an electric clock by the staff of the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants at Plainfield, Ont.

The happy couple are residing at 118½ Catherine Street, Belleville.

Mrs. Myrtle Cross, the newly installed Worthy Matron, briefly outlining her motto and pledge for the coming year, asking for the continued support of the members. Mr. Douglas Simpson, the newly installed Worthy Patron also spoke requesting the continued support.

Mrs. Phyllis Berry, P.M. presented Mrs. Pearl Johnston with her Past Matron's Jewel, complimenting her on her loyalty and services to the Chapter during the past year, to which Mrs. Johnston replied. Mr. Cyril McMullen, P.P., presented Mr. Blake Cross with his Past Patron's Jewel and also complimented him on his loyalty during the past year.

Kiwanis L.A. Donates $115, Lists Officers

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary met at the Kiwanis Centre on November 1 for its monthly meeting with president Barbara Floyd in the chair.

The members thoroughly enjoyed this evening as Helen MacDonald showed beautiful slides of her recent trip to Europe.

During the business meeting the following members were elected as directors for 1963: hon. president — Harriet Edwards; past president — Barbara Floyd; president — Mary Denton; vice-president —Gwen Brain; treasurer — Helen McDonald; secretary — ina Bellstedt, other directors — Ella Moffat, Gladys Melie, Mickey MacDonald and Carm Mott.

It was decided to buy Christmas gifts for the White Cane Club for the sum of $40. and to donate $75 to the Kiwanians toward their Christmas toy project.

Ella Trepanier and Carm Mott, the conveners of the bridge marathon, announced that the playing would start on January 2, 1963.

The December meeting will be a pot-luck supper and there will be a demonstration of cooking with small electrical equipment. The members of the Kingston Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary have been invited to attend the December meeting.

Mother of Four Only Woman On Board

WINNIPEG (CP) — A little light reading for Eleanor Milne of Winnipeg might be the latest report of the Canadian Test Foundation.

Where once she read reports of this nature only out of interest, she now studies them as part of her job.

The mother of four daughters and thrice a grandmother is the only person from Manitoba and the only woman appointed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the six-member royal commission on taxation.

Her interest in finances started early, when she was elected treasurer of her church's girls' auxiliary. She then was 11.

This interest followed her to the altar and beyond as she met chartered accountant Stanley Milne while she was in charge of preparing the audit of a mortgage and loan company. She was secretary to the managing director of the company at the time.

Mrs. Milne later became Western Canadian branch manager of an international insurance company before getting married in 1932 and starting on her family of four daughters.

Six years ago, with the girls growing up, she went back to work as a part-time secretary in the debit and credit world.

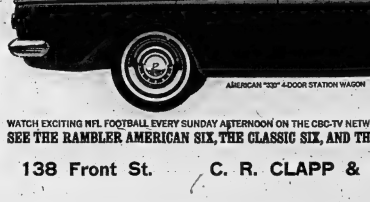
Even with four girls, two married and two still in school, Mrs. Milne found time for many outside interests, including a three-term as treasurer of the National Council of Women. She also is vice - president of the Manitoba Council of Women and treasurer of the John Howard and Elisabeth Fry Society.

GUARANTEED

The 1963 Rambler American Six is the only Compact that fully guarantees its battery, coolant and muffler

The new 1963 Rambler American Six is more than just the lowest priced North American compact. It's the best Compact car value you can buy. Its value is in quality construction, proven operating economy and exclusive standard features. Features so good they come to you with exceptional guarantees.

Most automotive guarantees vanish into their fine print. Not so with the Rambler American. In addition to normal automotive warranties Rambler fully guarantees its battery, coolant and muffler. Each guarantee means exactly what it says. The American's exclusive Ceramic-Armoured muffler is guaranteed for as long as you own the car. Nothing could be more simple and straightforward than that.



The Rambler-Gard all-season radiator coolant not only protects against rust and corrosion in the cooling system, it means that you never have to add water or anti-freeze. With normal check-ups, the coolant is guaranteed for two full years.

The reliable Power-Gard 24 battery offers you performance that needs no qualifications. Guaranteed for two years, it will be replaced free of charge by your Rambler Dealer if it fails to operate during that period.

There you are, three Rambler guarantees available at no other compact. Proof of Rambler's policy of 'maximum usefulness to the user'. And another indication of the Rambler American's exceptional value. Visit your Rambler Dealer soon.

Take a feature-check drive in Canada's most guaranteed Compact, the 1963 Rambler American Six.

NEW YORK NOTES

Glimpses of spring 1963 can be seen in the early sportswear showings in New York. Shorts are going to be shorter, if possible, teamed with long, long pullovers of cotton knit. Floor-length wrap-around skirts in bright prints are offered for patio and pool side wear. The shift dress takes on a subtle shape for the coming season, through slight darts. Still the shift, but with a difference. Colors for sportswear include plenty of sunshine yellow and sea aqua.

Reptile shoes and handbags both real and fake, are every where, at every price in Gotham. The shoes usually have stacked leather heels and are styled on the classic pump slipper line. The bags range from stupidly small, about six inches wide, to the giant portfolio.

GLIMPSE OF SPRING

More glimpses of spring are seen in stitched, brimmed hats of silk shantung (remember Olivia de Haviland's wonderful chapeaux in Light on the Piazza?). Soft, crushable, packable travel hats are a sure thing for the new season.

A new cosmetic called blush-on intrigued us. The product of a big name in the industry, it consists of a compact of pressed powder-like substance, tinted in a range of peach to tan shades, plus a giant size blush brush. It is to be applied over the usual foundation and can be worn just as a cheek rouge. Used to cover the whole face, it "produces a healthy glow" — I quote the salesperson who showed it to me! This looks like the sort of thing that calls for a few practice sessions, under a strong light, before a public appearance. It is a good idea for those wan days . . . who doesn't get them?

BRA COMPASS

The New York shops are full of what are called "bra gowns" and "sleep bras." The first is a night gown, either waltz or floor length, with its own built-in soft brassiere. The styling of the gowns is graceful, with many high-waisted silhouettes being shown. The "bras" are comfortably soft and minus stiff bones and tight elastics. The "sleep bras", hooks up the front, with shoulder straps and necklines edged in lace. It is made of nylon, dries in a jiffy and comes in cup sizes so that it is really comfortable. Two very good ideas! Why didn't somebody thing of them before this?

The big question in New York as in Canada is "shall I cut my hair?" Hair stylists are besieged with requests for cuts ranging all the way from the short Eton crop to the chin-length chop. The advent of wigs and wig-lets has removed the finality from the hair cut decision. The feeling seems to be — "if I don't like it, I can always cover it up with a wig, until it grows again."

RCs to Make Church Symbols More Meaningful

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A handclasp, a smile, a tilt of eyebrow.

These are parts of an unspoken and unwritten vocabulary that no dictionary can fully define and no linguist translate. Yet they carry, for all men, a wealth of meaning.

This in a similar way, is the kind of voiceless language that the Roman Catholic Church is examining today in an effort to make the expressions more vivid and significant to modern man.

The church has its own special terminology — the bowed head, the genuflection, the shared "bread," the fingered water, the incense, statues, candles, bells, the hands that trace the symbol of the cross.

There are many other wordless phrases, throughout the liturgical lexicon of the church.

"The objective is to make them more understandable and more comprehensible," said Rev. Frederick McManus, of Washington, a liturgical consultant to the Vatican ecumenical council.

For two weeks, the world-wide assembly of more than 2,200 bishops, archbishops and cardinals have been weighing proposed revisions in the various practices of worship.

"We want to get rid of those things that detract and that are without real meaning," Father McManus said. "Some things simply are not understood or make no point to most people."

The signs and sequences of the church are regarded as carrying powerful meanings and connotations irreducible to mere words.

Yet only those versed in the heritage can grasp the full import and the content.

Under one proposal, Catholic worshippers would receive communion in both bread and wine, in celebrating of the Lord's Supper.

At present they receive only bread, while the consecrating priest takes both bread and wine. Christ is believed to be fully present in both elements.

"If everyone received both the bread and wine, it would bring out more vividly the unity of priest and people, said Rev. Eugene H. Maly, of Cincinnati, also a council liturgical expert.

However, various objections are raised to it by some bishops, such as the extra time that would be required in administering it, and the hygiene issues raised by passing the common cup.

Anglicans still use the common cup. Most Protestants use separate small glasses.

One bishop, on the council floor, was quoted as saying: "I've heard all kinds of reasons why our people should not receive in both kinds—inconvenience, hygiene and other things. But let us go back to the Bible. Our Lord said, 'This is My body, and He distributed the bread and He said, 'This is My blood and He also distributed the wine.'

Speaker Rules Out of Order Question Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons saw another dust-up Monday between Speaker Marcel Lambert and opposition MPs.

The Speaker ruled out of order a question by Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver Burrard) concerning the Canadian maritime commission and cut off Mr. Berger's protest in mid-sentence.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) observed curtly that the Speaker should be the servant not the master of the Commons. Mr. Berger should at least be allowed to state his point of order against disallowance of his question, Mr. Chevrier said.

Speaker Lambert said he is not the servant of the views of individual members.

An unidentified NDP member called out: "You didn't even listen."

"The Speaker has the floor," Speaker Lambert said sharply.

Mr. Chevrier restated his point. The Speaker said he wasn't going to get into an argument on the matter and again ruled Mr. Berger's question out of order.

Rash of Minor Accidents Keeps Policemen Busy

PICTON — Provincial Police were called upon to investigate a rash of minor accidents over the weekend but only two persons were injured, and these not seriously.

Leo E. Preyer, 20, of Downview, lost control of his car, Sunday afternoon as he approached the CNR tracks on highway 33, near the Hydro office.

The car went into the ditch. Preyer and a passenger, Sharon Ayton, also of Downview, suffered lacerations, but did not require hospitalization. Damage to car was about $250.

Earl Bradshaw, storekeeper at Consecon, escaped injury when his car went into the ditch and struck a culvert three miles west of Redners-ville on County road No. 3.

Snow on the road caused a car driven by David W. Clapp of Milford to overturn in the ditch on Talbot Street, Saturday night. The top was crushed down to the seat but the driver was not hurt. Property damage was $350.

A slippery road was said to be the cause of a car driven by Gerald Norman Jones, R.R. 1 Carrying Place, leaving the road just west of Redneersville, early Sunday morning. Property damage was $250.

Involved in an accident Sunday were cars driven by W. Carl Farley, R.R. 2 Bath and Merritta Rose Grieg, Lake St., Picton. Scene of the mishap was on highway 33, Glenora Road.

With three inches of snow falling Saturday night, motorists were forced to drive carefully. One driver required an hour to drive from Belleville. Roads where traffic did not keep the snow chopped up were very slippery, but Sunday saw most of the snow gone from the roads.

FEWER WORKLESS

Unemployment in Australia showed a drop in September, 1962, to about 76,000, or 1.8 per cent of the work force.

Two Inspiring Services Held At Cherry Valley

PICTON—Centennial services continued at Cherry Valley United Church with two inspiring services on Sunday. The observance concludes next Sunday morning when a Remembrance Day service is held at 10.30 a.m. Guest preacher will be Rev. Waldo Smith, M.C., former chaplain with the 1st Canadian Armoured Brigade in Italy during World War II.

Also part of the observance is a turkey supper Wednesday night with a "sell-out" of more than three hundred. An old time program will follow in the township hall.

President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, Dr. Elias Andrews, Principal of Queen's Theological College, spoke at the morning service on Sunday, giving an inspiring and timely sermon on the topic "The Nature of the Church," based on the text found in Genesis 28, the vision of Jacob's ladder. The church is the place where God reveals Himself and makes known His vision, said the preacher who emphasized the significance of this church's centenary and the challenge it presents.

Present at the service were Rev. P. T. Gardiner and Mrs. Gardiner of Port Hope, who were on Athol circuit 23 years ago.

Anthems by the senior and junior choirs, directed by organist, Miss Evelyn Moore added to the impressive service.

In the evening, speaker was Dr. Donald Mathers of Kingston, author of the religious best seller "The Word and the Way" whose topic was "Careful for Nothing." A double quartet from Picton United Church added to the service with two beautiful selections.

MANY DIE

BANGKOK (Reuters) — A total of 769 people died, 252 were badly injured and 142 are missing in the tropical storm which battered nine southern Thai provinces last week, the official Radio Thailand reported today. A total of 43,000 houses were destroyed, the radio said.

Cost of Living

1, 1961.

September brought higher prices for eggs, beef, pork, citrus fruits, tomatoes and lettuce, though prices were lower for most other fresh vegetables, apples, ham and turkey.

The housing price index increased to 135.4 from 135.2. Rents were unchanged, but home - ownership costs were higher.

The index on health and personal care costs rose to 160 from 159.3 due to higher fees for doctors, dentists and optical care.

Meanwhile, wholesale prices have been tending downwards. The index of 30 industrial materials declined to 248.1 from 248.4 in the four weeks Sept. 28 to Oct. 26.

Curling Club Now in Action For Season

PICTON — Prince Edward Curling Club swung into action Monday night for another active season at the County Centre and the fairgrounds.

Men's Monday night draw sees fourteen teams; Wednesday afternoon, eight teams; Wednesday night, twenty teams of mixed.

This Wednesday night, fourenders are being played as practise and a social get together held in the hall for all members.

Officers for the year are Dan Keeler, president, Frank Wait, vice-president; Arthur Hamblin, Chairman of property and ice; Jack Colden and Don Andrews, draw committee chairmen; Dr. R. F. Evans, rating and rules; Don Walker and Sam Gentile, bonspiel chairmen; R. L. Perrin, membership committee chairman; Frank Wait, chairman of building and trust. Mrs. Don Stanton is secretary-treasurer.

It is expected the membership will be increased for the second draws, and several more men are needed for Monday night's draw. When the Canadian Guards arrive here from Germany at the end of the year, the club expects to add many new members.

Successful Living

Loves to Work With Animals

DEAR DORIS—My husband is not happy in his work. He would love to work with cattle; he did this at many different farms and ranches before he married, but then felt that working as a hired hand was not secure enough for a family. He really enjoys hard, physical labor, which his present job lacks. He seldom complains, but I know he is discontented, and often feels bored, unhappy and vaguely unfulfilled. He is 34 years old and has grade ten education.

His past employers have all been more than pleased with his work and were sorry to see him leave, as "such willing, hard-working men are hard to find." I wonder if there is anywhere he could apply for work with livestock. (He loves animals of all kinds.)

I am no farm girl myself, but would willingly follow him anywhere where he would be happy, as he is a kind and loving husband and father.—STYMIED.

DEAR STYMIED—His work should be his fun, and with the main traffic going the other way (from farm to city) someone must be looking for him.

Try everything. Write to your provincial department of agriculture about land settlement schemes; see the National Employment Service about work with animals; advertise in a farm paper for his kind of work.

DEAR DORIS—We are three thirteen-year-old girls. We are dying to have our first mixed party. Two of our mothers say they would let us have one, except for the noise disturbing neighbors, and because of very limited space.

The one left cannot afford to fix up the room, although we have offered to do it ourselves. She doesn't believe we can. (We do.)

We have had hen parties and we are sure other thirteen-year-old girls have this problem too. Could you please publish this with a solution to our problem.—THIRTEEN AND DEPRESSED.

DEAR THIRTEEN—Mother Number Three knows she will be involved in any things needed, no matter how willing you are. But with good cheer and good companions you could have a whale of a party in a barn!

Since Mothers Numbers One and Two are sympathetic, have a conference with them. Then if all three mothers got heads together, you could win the day.

(Let Doris give you her point of view. Remember that stamped envelope when you write.)

haven't done in five previous confidence tests since Parliament opened Sept. 27.

The combined opposition cut-numbers government MPs 149 to 116. There are 100 Liberals, 30 Social Credit MPs and 19 New Democrats.

Among the opposition leaders, only Mr. Thompson indicated Monday how his group will vote. Reiterating his party's stand that the time is not right for an election and that the government should be permitted to show its legislation, he made it clear he will not support the Liberal motion.

Mr. Pearson, who said there still is no sign of the government's promised long-term economic remedies, did not disclose how the Liberals will react to the Social Credit motion.

New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas, prohibited by Commons rules from introducing a third non-confidence proposal in this debate, also was silent on the Social Credit sub-amendment. He referred to the Liberal motion as negative.

Finance Minister Nowlan also called Mr. Pearson's non-confidence motion negative and "an act of utter political irresponsibility."

He repeated the government's declaration that the surcharges on imports were temporary and the intention to remove them as soon as was possible and practicable.

Mr. Nowlan said an estimated $225,000,000 will be saved by the import surcharges during the period in which they have been imposed and during the time they will continue, "which will be for a reasonable time."

Interest rates had been steadily declining and there is "clear evidence that the monetary situ-last two months." He pledged the government will not follow policies resulting in a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The public relations tovariches of the Soviet Union public relations department got their noggins together and decided to inform the western world that their hockey representatives due to tour Canada this month is a team "without stars."

The dose of Russian oil may be swallowed in some parts of the hockey universe but the Reds tipped their hands slightly when they forwarded a picture with the story.

For in the back row with smiling face is the bloodhatred popular Nikolai Solegubov—Solly to his many friends during former Olympic battles and world tournaments—and set a few others who rate stardom in the books of Canadian teams they met and played against.

Some names familiar to players and sports editors who covered the world battles in Europe and the United States are missing but some others are known to them by experience and reputation to be topflight players in international hockey.

The name and picture of "Solly" in the Russian lineup comes as something of a surprise to the people who met, played against and liked him. For the big, likeable blonde was supposed to be "over the hill" back in 1959 when the Belleville McFarlands whomped the Russ 3-1 in a thriller-diller.

In fact Solly was a visitor to the Macs' dressing room —he spoke good English—and intimated there once or twice that he might be hanging up his gear at the end of the tournament.

As Len (Kitchener Record) Taylor says: "One of the surprises is the appearance of Solly, a veteran defenceman whose career was thought to be over. Solly is probably included because he is a drawing card. He is also one of the older players of world hockey, born in 1934 which makes him going on 39. The last time I saw him was in Geneva when the Trail Smoke Eaters of the Canadian a thrilling tournament windup. He looked then to be at the end of the road."

"He might be getting this trip as a reward for long and distinguished service. Whatever it is, he will find his Canadian friends waiting to give him a warm welcome, including the Whitby Dunlops and the McFarlands."

And there's Ivan Tregubov, the other half of the sturdy Russian defence who with Solly picked up a lot of western know-how from Canadian and other exponents of the rugged style of hockey. Treg and Sol learned quickly. They picked up the art of bodychecking and weren't afraid to use it.

Treg played in the 1961 world tournament and was voted the best defenceman in the event, but there were some who thought it was merely a gesture of international amity than for what it really meant.

Six other players are on the roster who have had plenty of experience in world hockey. The Russ have bolstered defence with younger players and will pick up a lot of "savvy" in the "test" tour and who probably will be all ready to go at the Stockholm tournament next March 7-17th.

Included are the young brothers, Boros and Victor Majurov who looked exceptionally good in 1961 and showed a lot of promise at Denver. Another is Alexie Ragulin. Victor Starsinov has made the grade and will be ready.

Missing from the line-up is the veteran goalie Nicolai Puchkov, who was a thorn in the side to our clubs over the years and who has been replaced by Vladimir Chisev.

The Russian release seems to want to convey the impression they are sending a team over here merely for tryout purposes but under their system of selection they will pick the best available.

In other words the Reds are sending over here a top flight hockey club, perhaps as good a one as they can assemble. They have been rebuilding since 1959 and from here it looks as though the "test" will be both a tryout of opposition and Russian ability.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Turcotte rode the White Oak stables That'sCritter to victory in the featured Hiram Purse before a crowd of 7,529 at Old Woodbine Monday, his third victory of the afternoon and 206th win in the 13 days of the present 30-day fall meeting.

At the 45-day New Woodbine fall meeting the 21-year-old New Brunswicker rode 73 winners. He now has ridden 92 winners in the last 55 racing days.

Turcotte had 30 winners this season prior to the New Woodbine fall meeting. He now is Eastern Canadas leading rider with 151 victories, and rapidly is closing ground on Sandy Shields, who closed out the Western racing season with 155 wins. Since Turcotte still has 17 racing days before the close of Ontario's season he appears certain to be Canada's top jockey. Remarkably, he had never won a race until last mid-April at Fort Erie.

Turcotte scored on two 7-to-1 outsiders Monday, Michalena in the second race and Critter caught by Pic N Pie or Nothing Sacred, the closest challengers in the field of nine juveniles.

SHATTERS RECORD

LEEDS, England (CP)—Leroy Jeffrey of Saginaw, Mich., shattered the unbeaten record of Howard Winstone, British featherweight boxing champion, stopping him in the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder Monday night. Jeffrey weighed 126 and Winstone 127.

MONTREAL (CP)—A talent-heavy forward line of National Hockey League veterans, put together by Detroit coach Sid Abel, stretched the Red Wings' unbeaten streak to 10 games last week and earned top positions in the individual scoring race in the process.

Official NHL statistics released today show Detroit's top forward line — Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Parker MacDonald—picked up a total of six goals and eight assists in three games.

MacDonald's four goals and two assists earned him both the goal-scoring leadership and a first-place tie for total points.

With 12 to his credit, deadlocked with Delvecchio and Montreal's Henri Richard, but ranks first because he has netted most goals.

Richard's record is 6-7 and Delvecchio's 5-10. Delvecchio is tops in assists.

HOWE MAKES MOVE

Howe gleaned two goals and three assists to enter a four-way tie for fifth place. Also with 11 points are Chicago's Ab McDonald, Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion and Boston's Cliff Pennington.

Bill Red Hay of Chicago is alone in fourth spot with 12.

Detroit tops the standings with eight wins, no losses and two ties for 18 points, five ahead of second-place Chicago with two games in hand.

Red Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk marked up his third shutout of the season last Thursday, blanking the visiting New York Rangers 6-0.

Sawchuk has allowed only 12 goals in 10 games and leads the NHL goaltenders with a 1.20 goals - against average. ohkWe goals - against average.

Chicago Black Hawks continued as the bad boys of the NHL with a total of 170 minutes in penalties in 12 games. Most penalized player is Detroit defenceman-Howie Young, with 30 minutes.

Rolled Up Record 1,520

Dixon Averaged 7 Yards

TORONTO (CP) — George Dixon, Montreal Alouettes' lightning-fast, halfback, averaged an even seven yards every time he carried the ball in the Eastern Football Conference.

The 195-pound former University of Connecticut star rolled up a record 1,320 yards in 216 ground plays to win the individual rushing title in addition to the scoring championship, which he took with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

Official league statistics released Monday show that Dixon beat by 315 yards the former EFC ground-gaining record of 1,407 yards, set by Dave Thelen of Ottawa Rough Riders in 1960. His longest run was 75 yards and 12 of his touchdowns came from ground plays and three off passes.

Halfback Bobby Kuntz of Hamilton Tiger-Cats finished way behind Dixon for second place in the rushing race. Kuntz picked up 813 yards in 151 carries for an average gain of 5.4 yards to edge out halfbacks Gerry McDougall of Toronto Argonauts and Ernie White of Ottawa for the runnerup spot.

GAINED 810 YARDS

McDougall gained 810 yards, with an average of 5.3 yards in 147 carries, and White ran for 804, averaging an even six yards in 139 ball-carrying efforts.

Quarterback Tobin Rote who played out his option with Toronto Argonauts and will not be back next season, was the top passer in the league.

Rote, who played 10 years in the National Football League with Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions—and three seasons with Argos, completed 168 passes in 349 attempts for a total of 2,338 yards and 13 touchdowns. He had a completion percentage of .339 and an average gain of 7.3 yards. He had 17 passes intercepted, tops by one over quarterback Sandy Stephens of Montreal.

Quarterback Joe Zuger of Hamilton, who set a league record of eight touchdown passes in one game, finished with a total of 15, the most of any of the passers.

WINS RECEIVING TITLE

Dick Shatto, Argos' veteran halfback, won the pass receiving title, catching 48 for a total of 814 yards and an average gain of 17 yards. End Hal Patterson of Hamilton and halfback Dave Mann of Toronto tied for second, each with 39 pass catches, but Patterson gained 581 yards for an even age of 22.6 yards against Mann's 410 yards for an average gain of 10.5 yards.

In pass interceptions Don Sutherin of Hamilton was tops with eight, followed by Joe Poirier of Ottawa and Art Johnson and Jim Rountree, each with five.

Tommy Grant of Hamilton, led in kickoff returns with a total of 615 yards for an average return of 30.8 yards. Joe Hermandez of Toronto, was second with 594 yards and an average of 27.3 and in third place was Millard Flemming of Ottawa with 523 yards and an average of 27.5.

Ed Learn of Montreal, finished first in punt returns with 279 yards, with an average of 8.1 yards on each return. Lynn Bottoms was second with 219 yards and a six-yard average and Whit Tucker of Ottawa followed him with 208 yards and an 8.8 average.

Hann, the league leading punter for the last several seasons, was given a close battle this time by Roger Ha-

Confident Will Win

Patterson Wants Liston

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson would like to fight Sonny Liston again, for the heavyweight championship, promoter Tom Bolan said Monday night.

The vice-president of Championship Sports Inc., said he had talked with Patterson and the ex-champion had expressed confidence he would regain the title in a return match.

Patterson lost the heavyweight title to Liston in a first-round knockout in Chicago Sept. 25.

Not Much Opposition

Dixon Tops All The Way

TORONTO (CP)—Two years ago Gerry Dixon was the hopes for the Eastern Football Conference scoring championship—and he did in the last game of the season.

This season he has taken the honors with fewer points and just a rustle of opposition.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the Montreal Alouettes' halfback with 90 points on 15 touchdowns in 14 games, 11 points ahead of runnerup Moe Racine of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Back in 1960, his first year with the Alouettes Dixon entered the last game-of the season against Toronto Argonauts with 108 points. He was held scoreless and Toronto Argonauts Cookie Gilchrist scored 27 points to jump from third place to the championship with 115 points.

TOOK OVER LEAD

There were no such dramatics this season. Dixon took over the lead in early September after five games and, although he never opened a wide spread, he didn't let the contenders get too close.

Racine, like third-place Don Sutherin of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, picked up all his points kicking. The Ottawa tackle kicked 36 converts, 12 field goals and a record single for his 79 points and Sutherin, one point behind, put the toe to 37 converts, 13 field goals and five singles.

Sutherin won the scoring title last year with only 69 points. Dixon, plagued by injuries, had only 48 and Racine, who took over the kicking chores this season from Gary Schreiber, didn't even get on the scoring list.

Bills, Chargers Make Bids

AL Clubs Seek Rote, McDougall

TORONTO (CP) — Buffalo Bills and San Diego Chargers have made bids to quarterback Tobin Rote and halfback Gerry McDougall of Toronto Argonauts to play out the rest of the American Football League season in the United States.

The Argonauts were eliminated from the Eastern Football Conference playoffs Saturday, and McDougall and Rote have played out their contracts and now are free agents.

Chargers have made offers to both to join San Diego for the balance of the current season. Buffalo general manager Dick Gallagher said Monday night his team definitely wants Rote and would be interested in McDougall if McDougall would leave the Canadian Football League permanently.

McDougall said Monday night he would agree to play the remainder of the season with San Diego only if he could retain his free agency afterwards.

WANTS TIME

"I want the winter to make up my mind on staying in Canada," he said. "After all, I've spent six years getting established here."

McDougall claims personal and family reasons moved him to play out his option with Argos. He has discused long-range terms with them.

McDougall, who came to Toronto this season in a trade with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, is a 225-pound runner who rushed 810 times for 4,300 yards with an average of 5.5 yards a carry. His running accounted for almost half of Toronto's total ground offence.

Rote announced recently that he wouldn't return to Argos and also said he might be interested in playing in the AFL, but added: "It would have to be a pretty good offer."

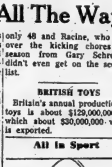
The second game will be played at Winnipeg Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m. CST, (9 p.m. EST). A third game, if necessary, will be played at Winnipeg, Saturday, Nov. 24, at 2.30 p.m. CST. (3.30 p.m. EST.)

Baby Habs Top Scorers



TORONTO (CP) — A pair of sharpshooters from Montreal, Bill Inglis and Norm Dennis, had a field day during the last week in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Junior Canadiens linemates took over the top two spots in the scoring race. A week ago, Inglis was unranked and Dennis was 11th.

But in four games Dennis scored five goals and two assists, and Inglis had three goals and three assists Sunday against Guelph Royals.

Inglis has four goals and eight assists for 12 points, one more than Dennis, the top sniper, who has seven goals and four assists.

Wayne Maxner of Niagara Falls Flyers, a good scorer last year and last week's leafer, is in third place, with no goals but with ten assists.

'Carry Back' Throws Challenge

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Jack Price, outspoken trainer of Carry Back, has challenged other contenders for horse-of-the-year honors to decide the issue in a match race "for peanuts, a cigar or a drink of water" if necessary.

Price dropped the challenge while preparing Carry Back for the Washington, D.C., International here next Monday.

Price said he doesn't think the outcome of the International — inwhich horse-of-the - year contenders Carry Back, Beau Purple and Kelso make up the United States representation—should have any bearing on the title.

"If Carry Back comes out of the international in good shape," said Price, "I'd like to challenge any remaining horse-of - the - year contenders to a match race on a dirt track at the classic mile-and-a-quarter distance."

"Price money wouldn't be a factor. I just would like to decide the title. I'd have Carry Back competing for peanuts, a cigar or a drink of whisky.

Carry Back isn't the best, but I don't want him to be voted the best horse. Some others apparently want the title on technicalities or racing luck."

Bower Figures A Shakeup

Don Simmons To 'Strengthen' Leafs

TORONTO (CP)— Manager-coach Punch Imlach brought netgoallie Don Simmons from Toronto's farm club in Rochester Monday for "strengthen" the Maple Leafs' goaltending, but veteran Leaf netminder Johnny Bower figures it was part of a shakeup.

Imlach denied that Bower was being relegated to second string with the Stanley Cup champions. The acquisition advance to the National Hockey League follows Saturday's 7-3 humiliation of the Stanley Cup champion Leafs by league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

"Simmons will be used to strengthen our goaltending situation, but Bower has not lost the job", Imlach said Monday.

He said Simmons, 32, who replaced Bower for the last two games of the Stanley Cup final last spring, may replace Bower for Wednesday night's encounter with the Rangers in New York.

Jerry Cheevers will move from Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional League to Rochester, Imlach said, but is certain who would replace Cheevers at Sudbury.

Simmons did not show up here for Leaf's practice Monday.

Imlach said he wouldn't know until "about five minutes before the game" Wednesday whether he would use Simmons or Bower. "But I can tell you that Simmons will play. I don't get a chance to see him in practice before then".

SEES A BAKEUP

Bower said he thought Simmons would replace him for the next three or four games, maybe more.

"Imlach had to make a shakeup. Simmons looked like I guess I'm getting tired", said Bower, who celebrates his 39th birthday Nov. 8 and is the oldest player in the NHL.

Imlach said he had originally intended to give the two goalies on hand this season but Simmons had been sent to Rochester at Gerr McNamara, out with a cheek injury.

Bower was last taken from the Leaf net while healthy in the 1958-59 season, his first with Toronto, when Ed Chadwick took his place.

He won the job back that time and went on to take the Vezina Trophy as the top NHL goalie in the 1960-61 season.

Four Teams Face Barrier

City League Opens Wed.

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

What appears to be four even-ly-matched clubs will pry the lid off the new Belleville City Hockey League in the form of a double-header at Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

Tagged by some as the "balance-of-hell" loop, the league has welcomed most of the city and district's top hockey players into its fold and distributed them among the four teams.

Joyce-Rollins Combines, the Pepsi's, Trudeau Motors and Welbank Motors will battle it out for the beautiful new Labatt Trophy, donated recently by Nick Stefan on behalf of his company.

The trophy, pictured here, will be on display in addition, going to the playoff champions. It is hoped to add a trophy for the leading scorers and others for the scoring champ and for the top goalie.

Tomorrow night's games pit Joyce-Rollins against Welbanks at 7.45 and Pepsi's vs Trudeaus at 9.15. Twin-bills will be played each Wednesday night from now until February 13, followed by playoffs.

Admission prices have been set at half a buck for adults and a quarter for children, and that gets you in for both games. All games will consist of three straight- time periods and one stop-time period.

A promotion city official is expected to drop the puck at tomorrow night's official opening ceremonies.

Cliff Belch, president of the league, said yesterday: "We are all set to go and we expect that all four teams are ready for the player sale and to draft. The executive, especially vice-president Russ Soule and secretary-treasurer Jim Fullarton have done a good job in organizing the loop. We hope to give the Belleville hockey fans a hockey at a very reasonable price", he added.

A preview of the teams' line-ups shows a number of seasoned veterans, including ex-pros, top junior and over-age junior players, and many others, most well-known on the local hockey front, stocking clubs.

The Trudeau Motors entry has Ed Plata as playing coach with Ron Pacific as manager. This club should be a tough one to score on with Don "Turi" Barclay as goal and solid five-man defence consisting of Plata, Big Vern Goyer, Barry Titterson, Milt Pukancik and Bruce Gelsthorpe.

Included among the forwards are Eddie Marineau, "Pug" Kellar, Wayne Fox, Junior Day, Hugh Morris, Doug "Nobbey" Day, Gordie St. Louis, Ray Allen and Frank Cris. Manager Frankie said yesterday that he hoped to add a couple Junior players shortly.

Welbanks Motors looks to be another strong defensive club. Manager Bob Power and coach Ray Lazzaro have the masked Bobby Green in goal with a rock-ribbed defence made up of Floyd Crawford, Earl Cousins, Paul Zakos and Gary Reid.

Lazzaro's first two lines have looked real sharp in practice. One combo has Bucky Ehlker between Ron Hall and Jerry Mober while another has Bradley Lee pivoting for Wayne "Wiener" Brown and Bill Verfeilt. Other forwards include Rod Turner, Norm Richards and Pete Emerson.

Joyce-Rollins Combines is coached by Doug Bone, who led Joyces to the Industrial league schedule and playoff crowns last year, and managed by Pat Shannon.

Gordie Parker, a standout in the team's exhibition game against RCAF Globetrotters, will handle the goal-tending job. Hall defence is the present combo consists of big Gordie Green, veteran "Hunk" Reeves, junior Ted Rowbotham and Dave Tenney.

Two forward units set to go promise plenty of scoring punch. Hylie Bryant, last year's I.H.L. scoring champ, teams up with big Bob Taylor and Jim Sheridan on one line while Ron Hull, Jackie Elliott and Duke Doran form another. Both Ehler and Ron Ruffett and Bert Faulkner also available for front-line duty and Bone figures on signing two or three more established players in the near future.

The Pepsi's, coached by Fiori Goegan, with manager Ken Shaw, have come up with what could be a powerhouse.

Clarke Carr, top goalie of the Industrial loop last winter, will be between the pipes. On defence are Barry Murray, Jack Brooks, Doug Moreau, Howard Skelly and Sam McGee.

Bill Hunt and Bill Lee and a couple extras complete the 18-man roster. Dave Jones centres John Hendrickson Baker and a "Whitey" Hull on what could be a dangerous top trio. Another line has speedster Jack Hughes working with John Trendell and the old warhorse, Pat Marcle, while George Jacklin, Chuck Rowbotham and Wayne "Weinie" Brown form another combo. Bill McGuire and Phil Cornell, plus sub goalie Jack Gilby, round out the lineup.

Blair Appeals Sentence

KINGSTON (CP) — Wren Blair, general manager of Oshawa Generals of the Metro Toronto Junior A League, said Monday he will appeal a $50 fine and a one-game suspension his presence at or near the players' bench.

"All I did was shout at a referee," said Blair in an interview.

The incident occurred during the Eastern Canada Finals in Oshawa Tuesday night between Oshawa and Toronto Marlboros. The decision was handed down by Ontario Hockey Association president Jim Hunt Saturday after a meeting of the OHA executive.

Blair, who didn't have a hearing at the meeting, said Pollock had permitted him to be absent from the session and promised

Ready For Big One

Moss Takes No Chances

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Perry Moss Monday night gave his Montreal Alouettes a free evening as he called practices for the four nights leading to Saturday's Eastern Football Conference semi - final in Ottawa against the Rough Riders.

The Alouette front office meanwhile, flushed with its key 32-8 win over Toronto Argonauts here Saturday, was obviously in a light mood.

Danny Pickett, the director of player personnel, issued a statement acknowledging fan support in the Toronto game and hoped the club heed it would continue "in our four remaining games."

Against Toronto, for perhaps the first time since 1960 when Montreal dealt away Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson, the crowd at Molson Stadium roared support for the Als all the way.

M. E. (Ted) Workman, club president, said he was even besieged by autograph seekers after the game, an experience denied experience for him since the Etcheverry-Patterson deal.

Pickett's statement, however, noted that in Montreal's three games with Ottawa this season, the Als salvaged only a single point for a tie, losing twice.

Barons Call up Al Cullen

CLEVELAND (AP)—Hockey fans here will have a chance to see whether the pugilistic performance of Al Cullen, 21-year-old amateur relief goaltender was a fluke.

Cullen, from Woodstock, Ont., will handle the job for Cleveland Barons against Pittsburgh Hornets in an American Hockey League battle Wednesday night. Les Binkley, the regular goaltender, is in hospital recovering after collapsing in the dressing room following Cleveland's defeat by Quebec Aces Saturday night.

Diagnosis of Binkley's condition, presumably from a blow on the head, has not been completed. Tests have failed to show any skull fracture or concussion.

Cullen played 10 games for Cleveland when Binkley, a native of Owen Sound, Ont., was injured early during the season's stretch. the Barons won five straight games—three by shutouts—and then were more than Cullen allowed only 18 goals in the 10 games for a 1.80 average.

Cullen, the semi-final playoff series with Springfield Indians when Binkley injured his knee. Cullen allowed an average of 3.33 goals a game as the Barons were eliminated 4-3 in the best-of-seven set.

Eastern Clubs Quiet

Grid Union Plan Flops

CALGARY (CP)—Lawyer Ted Duncan says fans of a new Canadian football players association are floundering, and he'll take some of the blame for it.

Duncan, former quarterback and punter with British Columbia Lions, Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference, spoke enthusiastically about the proposed Canadian's first union of football players.

The plan included pay for exhibition games, pension protection against injury and minimum salaries. He said Monday night players on four of the five teams in the western league voted to meet and discuss the proposal but only one of the four teams in the Eastern Football Conference thought it was a good idea.

The association would have patterned its objectives after those of the players association of the National Football League, which was organized by Kyle Rote.

"Everybody knew and respected Rote, said the lawyer. "He's got a lot more personality to attract people to a union."

SEEKS MINIMUM SALARY

Such a meeting would be held immediately after the end of the football season.

Duncan said a minimum salary clause would be the toughest to get past management. However, he says it is necessary.

He said while football clubs boast of contracts for $15,000 or $19,000, he knows of a Canadian who received $1,000 for a full season's play.

Duncan said he also knows of a 26-year-old import who came to play in May with his wife and children but never made the squad.

He didn't have the experience or talent, really," said Duncan, admitting maybe the scout who recruited him had been a little too enthusiastic. What I mean is, the club wasn't to blame."

"The fellow finally was let go because he couldn't find a job as a $50 a week office boy. Maybe the association could stop things like that, maybe it could help," he said. "Maybe we'll never know."

Edge Trenton 1-0

BCI Juniors Win Title

By PETER CARVER

BCI's underdog Junior Collegians won the Bay of Quinte COSSA crown by virtue of a 1-0 win over Trenton yesterday in a sudden-death playoff game. Both teams finished their schedule with 10 points, forcing the playoff at Trenton.

BCI will now meet the winners of the Lindsay-Oshawa playoff for the COSSA crown. Coach Jack McBride captured the title two years ago and would like nothing better than to bring it back to Belleville.

The game was a defensive battle from start to finish, with neither team threatening to score, although BCI had several passes batted down in the end zone.

The winners clicked on four of twelve pass attempts while Trenton completed three for nine. Both teams intercepted twice.

On several occasions BCI were saved Trenton's wayward line but either penalties or a heavy Tiger rush snuffed out their end zone ambitions.

A Belleville interception put the ball in play at the Trenton 25-yard line late in the second period but the collegians couldn't move. Wally Walsh punted to the end zone where the Trenton safety back conceded the single point. That was the game.

Late in the last game of consecutive passes to Mott put BCI on the Trenton 13, but a holding penalty moved them out of danger.

'Has Wonderful Arm'

'The Rifle' Likes Johnson

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Etcheverry used to be the toast of Montreal. He never did become the toast of St. Louis. Demoted from No. 1 to second-string quarterback behind 23-year-old Charley Johnson, the old pro spoke politely, and almost sadly, Monday about his successor and roommate.

The scene was the Monday luncheon of the Pro Quarterback Club. Etcheverry had been invited to be guest speaker some time ago. Nobody guessed he would be No. 2 at this stage. It was a tough spot for Sam but he rose to the occasion.

"Johnson has a wonderful arm," Etcheverry said. "He can be an outstanding quarterback in this league with protection." He said the "with protection" bit as though it had been written in capital letters.

"He gets rid of the ball without getting trapped . . . like some fellows do.

"For a young man he has a lot of poise. The coaches kept harping at him to drop back deep when he throws. He didn't get far enough against Detroit (last week) on that play. But he has been practicing every day, dropping back eight to 10 yards before he sets to throw."

Kyle Rote, backfield coach of New York Giants who just barely beat St. Louis Sunday 21-20, recalled Etcheverry's great years in Canadian football. "He was almost a legend in Montreal where he played with the Alouettes for nine years and threw 183 touchdown passes.

Etcheverry was bothered by a sore arm all last season, his first in the National Football League. When the club lost three of its first four games this season, new coach Wally Lemm shifted from Etcheverry to Johnson, second-year man from New Mexico State. The only time Sam gets in a game is to punt or hold a placement try.

"How can a club with all the talent of the Cardinals have a 2-5 won-lost record?" an irreverent listener asked in the question and answer period.

"Well, Washington beat us when I had four passes intercepted and John David Crow fumbled four times," said Etcheverry. "Then we played Green Bay. And they're not 5-0 for nothing. We held them 3-0 in the first half, our best defensive effort. In the Cleveland game they intercepted three. They were due anyhow after losing a few. In the first game with the Giants we started well but they caught us in the end. You all know how it was yesterday. We thought we should have won but the old pros beat us."

What is the difference playing under Wally Lemm and Pop Ivy?" somebody asked.

"Lemm doesn't criticize anybody," said Sam. "He takes all the blame. Lemm is a little more standoffish with the players. I guess you would say Lemm gets closer to the men on the club."

Who'll start the race?"

"We thought we could win it until yesterday. Now, maybe we'll have to settle for No. 2. We played Dallas last week. They have a wonderful offence but their defence is not as strong as their offence. They're like Washington. The Giants should go on to win the division championship, but we'll be trying our best to beat them all."

Ottawa Confident

OTTAWA (CP)—The gridiron at Lansdowne Park — home grounds of the Ottawa Rough Riders—is in mid-season condition, head groundskeeper Eddie Friel said Monday night.

Barring the worst kind of storms, Friel said the field will be almost perfect when Riders meet Montreal Alouettes in the sudden-death Eastern Football Conference semi-final here Saturday.

Ottawa doesn't have a tarpaulin for its field. Snow which fell over the weekend was plowed off Monday.

Meanwhile Riders began workouts in preparation for the Saturday game with head coach Frank Clair and assistant Bill Smyth in optimistic moods.

Said Clair:

"I've said this Montreal club can beat any team in the country on any one day . . . but we know what our kids can do too and I don't think these kids (Ottawa) will let Montreal run all over them."

Smyth was right to the point: "I don't think Montreal can beat our guys," he said.

HORSEMAN DIES

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Patrick H. Downey, 90, internationally known racer of harness horses, died Monday in a nursing home where he had lived for about a year. He was the owner of the famed horse, Billy Direct, sometimes called the King of Kings in harness racing, who set a pacing record of one minute, 55 seconds for the one mile in 1939.

Ding Dong School Teacher Now With Publishing Co.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—You may have wondered whatever became of Miss Frances, who once conducted Ding Dong School, a television program well regarded by experts in child-bearing. She has been appointed director of children's activities of the Curtis Publishing Company.

After the program was dropped by network television, Miss Frances—educationist Dr. Frances R. Horwich—tried to sell the program to individual stations with a modest degree of success. Now, apparently, she has retired from broadcasting—and at a time when all three networks say they are trying so hard to improve the quality of programming for small-try.

George Barnard Shaw's Pygmalion, with Julie Harris playing Eliza Doolittle, will be the NBC Hall of Fame show for February. The 90-minute adaptation will be the fourth Shaw play in the series, and is one of his most famous—particularly since it was the story on which My Fair Lady was built into record-breaking Broadway hit.

CBS is warming up an hour-long version of Rod Sterling's Twilight Zone for possible replacement of a faltering series or, perhaps, for next season . . . Dave Garroway currently is making a scientific series for showing on educational television stations.

Film Industries of Other Countries in Bad Shape

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Hollywood may find consolation in the fact that film industries of other countries are facing the same problems—and managing to survive.

The large delegation from Brazil to the San Francisco Film Festival reflects the vigor of that country's cinema industry. What appeared at first to be a blight—television—turned into a blessing, according to the Brazilian delegates.

Before television, most of the native films were carnival-type musicals featuring radio stars. When television came in, these old movies flooded the channels. Affluent Brazilians who could afford TV sets were so fed up with the shoddy musicals they were driven back to the theatres.

This has created a whole new market for intelligent dramas. Brazil is enjoying a "new cinema" flowering, akin to France's "new wave." Two of the results are being shown at the festival: Keeper of Promises and The No Good Ones. The latter has a five-minute nude scene that may limit its chance of being exhibited.

Japan's film industry, largest in the world, is having problems. This word comes from Mrs. Kashiko Kawakita, Japanese film importer and a judge of the San Francisco festival.

Last year the number of Japanese films dipped to slightly less than 500, about double Hollywood's, she reported. This year they will number about 420.

"The film industry has been hurt not only by television," said Mrs. Kawakita, "but by all the other competition for recreational time. There are sports and driving—the young people love to get out in their motor cars."

Japan has had its own new wave of realistic film makers, but she reported that many have been discouraged by lack of support. She is helping to promote the introduction of art theatres that will provide a market for avant garde directors.

At the Belle

Brilliant Cast of Today's Young Stars in "The Interns"

Probing into the private and professional lives of young doctors interning at a great hospital "The Interns," is continuing its successful engagement at the Belle Theatre. According to filmdom, "The Interns" is one of the outstanding motion pictures of the year. A wild New Year's Eve party of interns and nurses, and the birth of a baby are sharply contrasting dramatic highlights in the film.

The large brilliant cast of Today's Young stars includes Michael Callan, Cliff Robertson, James MacArthur and Nick Adams as the interns; Suzy Parker, Haya Harareet, Anne Helm and Stefanie Powers as the girls; Buddy Ebsen, Telly Savalas and Kay Stephens.

Callan, dancer-turned actor, plays an opportunistic young doctor who romances an older woman, to help him make a valuable contact in the medical world, even as he has an affair with Miss Helm.

Robertson, on the other hand, throws away his career for love of the beautiful Suzy Parker, who plays a fashion model who has become pregnant. MacArthur, Robertson's friend and fellow doctor, is responsible for Robertson's expulsion from the hospital and from medicine when he reveals his roommate has stolen drugs to help Miss Parker halt her pregnancy.

Nick Adams, of the "Rebel" TV fame, plays a moneyhungry young doctor who is changed by a brief encounter with a beautiful, but incurable patient. Haya Harareet the Israel actress who flashed to world prominence in "Ben-Hur," is seen as a European doctor who must fight to overcome the prejudice against women surgeons on the part of the hospital chief of surgery, Telly Savalas.

Stefanie Powers, as the student nurse who falls in love with MacArthur; Buddy Ebsen as the hospital's medical supervisor; and Kay Stephens as a flip nurse, also star.

"The Interns," holding over for a few more days at the Belle Theatre, is based on Richard's Frede's best-selling novel.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this impressive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" and among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mighty Skirl of Bagpipes Heard Each Evening As Sen. Reid Marches in Corridors

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Every evening just as the Peace Tower bells are pealing out 6:30 p.m. and most senators and Commons members are settling down in the parliamentary restaurant, the mighty skirl of bagpipes echoes through the stone corridors of the Parliament building.

"There goes Senator Reid," says just about everyone within earshot.

And for the next 30 minutes—no more, no less — Senator Thomas R. Reid, puffs out the best tunes from his native Scotland, enjoying himself enormously as his political worries dissipate through the drones over his shoulder.

"That's why I do it," says the crackling little Scot from North Surrey, B.C. "For 30 minutes I forget all about politics — good for my health, too."

After watching the fiery, outspoken Liberal senator punch home his arguments in the Senate and on various Senate committees, a reporter suggested that anyone complaining about the noisy bleat of the pipes might perhaps be met with a rip-roaring highland reception.

NO COMPLAINTS

"No indeed,' replied the senator quietly. "You see, the pipes are very personal (pronounced "pare-sonal") with me and I am very sensitive about them. If anyone minded, I wouldn't continue playing."

There was no doubt about his sincerity.

But when the independent Scot dons his mitts inside the political arena it's clear that no one is going to sneak through his guard to the sensitive spots.

"Oh, yes, on a political matter I don't hesitate to jump to my feet," he says in one of his better understatements. "That, of course, is a different thing."

Since 1930 when he first entered the House of Commons, Senator Reid has been jumping to his feet with remarkable regularity, and he hasn't slowed down much since his entry to the Senate in 1949.

"It's like this," he says as his bright, piercing eyes stare out through his glasses. "I am a servant of the people. If I feel the interests of those people are not being served, I have a right and a duty to do something."

HASN'T ANY REGRETS

He got this urge to serve the people back in 1922 when he became a council member of the municipality of Surrey, and later became reeve. When he saw a chance to become a Liberal member of Parliament, he grabbed it.

"And if I had my life to live over again, I'd go right back into public life. I love it."

The vibrant, sharp - featured Presbyterian whose light frame was never seen by a doctor until last year, has reluctantly become an institution on Parliament Hill. The bagpipes no doubt contributed, but there are other reasons.

He is a dogged worker, arriving in his office every morning at 8:30 sharp, leaving at 6:45 p.m. sharp. He attends virtually every sitting, and can be seen walking from his office to the cafeteria at 5:15 p.m. sharp.

From 1930 to 1935, he says, he was outside the Commons for only two hours while it was sitting. He has never read a speech.

Until recently he walked nearly two miles to work every morning from the same apartment he has had since 1931. He has crossed Canada 54 times by trains and "countless" times by plane.

RETAINS ACCENT

He's in love with Canada, although his deceiving accent would indicate he hasn't been here long. An immediate reaction is to look for heather in his cuffs.

"Its a funny thing about that. People who come from my area (Ayreshire) never seem to lose their accents if they are over 21 when they learn there."

"I didn't realize my accent was so strong until I heard myself on the radio not long ago. I was amazed, yes amazed."

What did he regard as his greatest accomplishment?

Senator Reid looked at the ceiling in his cluttered office. "I think it was my work as chairman of the International Sockeye Salmon Association," working for the preservation of salmon.

When he was in hospital last year for a kidney operation, he received a card from H. R. MacMillan, retired chairman of MacMillan and Bloedel Limited, with this postscript scribbled on the bottom: "But for you the Fraser River would have had dams and the salmon wiped out."

The senator also likes to recall the time he defended five men in court for ransacking down a lumber company's fence that blocked a river path.

He had had no legal training.

"Then why did you defend them?" a reporter asked.

Senator Reid's eyes twinkled. "I guess perhaps it was because I advised them to smash the fence. They had been using the path for 20 years, you see."

He got them off with such distinction that two men who were at the trial asked him later to defend them on horse-stealing charges.

He didn't.

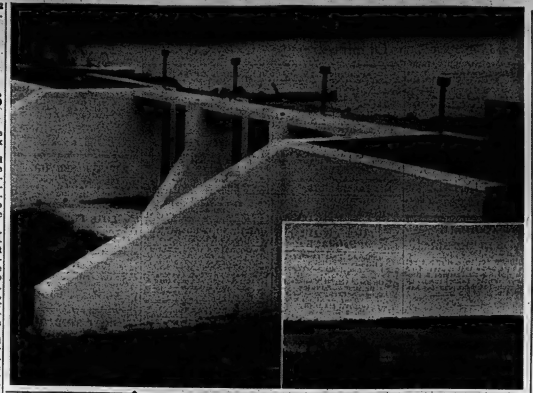
Would he prefer to be back in the Commons where there is more infighting?

"Yes, sir, I would.

"But I had no choice. When Prime Minister St. Laurent called me over to his desk in 1949 and said I was going to the Senate, I pleaded with him to wait.

"He said, 'No, it has to be now.'"

Senator Reid rested his wrinkled chin on his hands for a moment before he spoke in his finest tongue.



"You know I never hesitated to criticize the prime minister when I thought it was necessary."

GET SIGNALS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet astronomers have picked up radio signals from the planet Venus on a wavelength of three centimetres, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Sunday. The astronomers used the world's biggest radio telescope at Pulkovo observatory, near Leningrad. Their object was to establish more accurately the physical conditions existing on the cloud-shrouded planet, Tass said.

SENATORIAL SKIRL—Senator Thomas R. Reid gets up wind for one of his daily 30-minute piping sessions in his office in the Parliament Building. Continuing a practice he started in 1931 when he was a member of the Commons, the outspoken Liberal senator from North Surrey, B.C., plays the bagpipes every day between 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. It gets his mind off politics, he says, and it's good for the health.

Tyendinaga Reserve Scene First Waterfowl Project in Ontario by Ducks Unlimited

Proof that the white man occasionally makes "good medicine" may be seen in the first Ducks Unlimited waterfowl development in Ontario — a duck project established in 1962 on an Indian reserve, domain of some of Canada's original citizens.

The Tyendinaga project, completed in October, is a 1Fpe, marshy basin on Mud Creek, which flows into Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario. Project is located on the Tyendinaga (Mohawk) Indian Reserve — some 27 square miles or 17,000 acres of rich agricultural land on Bay of Quinte's north shore.

With water at full supply level, the project will encompass approximately 1,000 acres and about eight miles of shoreline. Area is located due south of Shannonville, while is a few miles east of Belleville on number two highway.

Mohawk chroniclers on the reserve say that "many years ago" the area was a breeding place for large numbers of ducks, especially the black duck and the mallard. During migrations, the native savants claim that the north shoreline of the bay was "like a carpet of black ducks."

HAVE OTHER PLANS

Some say that those days are gone forever, but D.U. has other plans. It is hoped to develop the Tyendinaga into a real producer of black ducks, whose restoration in the area is keenly sought by district residents. It is certain that an improved project area will be attractive to mallards and other species as well as the blacks.

Exact reasons for shunning of the area in recent years by waterfowl are far from clear, but ecological investigation should provide some of the answers.

Old Mohawk hunters on the reserve insist that the marsh's large population of snapping turtles may be a primary reason for disappearance of waterfowl breeding stock. They also claim that the snappers, which go to 43 pounds, were in the area as long as Indian memories can recall and probably before that.

D.U. arranged to have the snappers trapped out of the area as a start on development work. Up to the time when marsh snappers stopped biting, the trappers had taken more than one ton — which sold largely to a soup company. Trapping operations will be resumed in the spring. It is estimated that the project area contained (before construction began in '62) at least three tons of snapping turtles.

FLOODS RECUR

BARCELONA, Spain (Reuters)—Torrential rains fell Sunday in the Barcelona area where floods killed nearly 800 persons last September. At Moncada and Las Arenas de Tarrasa, flood waters swept over roads and carried away two provisional railroad bridges erected after the September disaster. No casualties were reported.

Cuban Situation Takes Critical Turn

Step Up Effort To Make Mr. K Keep His Pledge

Balky Castro Thwarts Progress on Settlement

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The U.S. drive to get Soviet offensive weapons out of Cuba and international inspection of the withdrawal appeared today to have taken a critical turn.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said after a five-hour meeting Tuesday night with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, "This one was not fruitful."

"The ministers are moving out the talks are moving on," Stevenson said. But he gave no indication that the airstrikes and jet bombers were leaving Cuban soil.

The U.S. delegation kept a tight lid on what took place in the talks, but it was apparent the pledge to remove missiles and all other offensive weapons and ship them back to the Soviet Union.

Main stumbling block has been Prime Minister Fidel Castro's refusal to permit on-the-spot inspection of the missile sites by the United Nations, the International Committee of the Red Cross or any other foreign agency.

U.S. WON'T ACCEPT

The United States has told the Soviet Union it will not accept Castro's defiant stand as an excuse for the Russians not living up to Khrushchev's pledge.

The Russians have informed the Americans the promise still stands but cited Castro in drawing with the balky Cuban leader.

Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, met with Castro in Havana Tuesday night for possibly his last attempt to get Castro to fall in line.

There was no official indication of how the four-day talks were progressing, but the impression in Havana was that Mikoyan would leave for Moscow soon to be on hand for his wife's funeral Friday.

One bright spot in the picture was indication that the plan for Red Cross inspection of Cuba-bound Soviet ships was about set.

Hotel Guest Gives Bum's Brighter Day

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Hal Hues leaned out of his hotel room window Tuesday, shouted to a man hurrying across the street, then poured down a fistful of silver coins.

The man grabbed them up. Others started moving in from the city's skid road area one block away. Soon about 100 men were under Hues' window, fisking up.

"That's when I called the bellhop and sent him out for rolls of nickels and quarters," said Hues, an Oak Harbor, Wash., businessman.

He got some cigarettes, too, and dropped an occasional package. The crowd overflowed the side walk and spilled out into the street. Police took a look and told the hotel management to put a stop to Hues' philanthropy. It did by cutting off his bellhop service.

Hues said he spent about $50. Why?

"Who looks out for the bum? I figured that three solid hours of pennies from heaven would brighten their day."

It did, said Jim Ming, unemployed truck driver. "I was broke. But now I got a half buck and a pack of smokes."

SAILS LAST VOYAGE

SEATTLE (AP)—The Dominion Monarch, onetime queen of the South Pacific passenger trade, sailed under her own power for Osaka, Japan, today to be cut up for scrap. Mitsui and Company Limited of Japan bought the ship last spring for a reported $1,200,000. The 562-foot, 27,000 ton vessel was built in 1939 to be flagship of the Pacific fleet of the Shaw, Savill and Albion Company Limited of London.

New Soviet Naval Missile Seen As Russia Parades Rocket Might

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A new Soviet naval missile went on show for the first time publicly today as Russia paraded its rocket might through Moscow's Red Square to mark the 45th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

The 60-foot-long dark green rocket hauled on a tracked vehicle manned by a dozen sailors highlighted a 45-minute military parade that rolled through the squarein front of the Kremlin, past Premier Khrushchev and other Russian leaders as they stood on the reviewing stand atop the Lenin Mausoleum.

Western observers estimated the missile would have a range of about 200 miles if it were launched from a land site.

In all, six types of missiles were shown to the cheering thousands of Moscow residents and foreign guests who have streamed into the capital for the three-day anniversary celebration of the 1917 revolution that brought the Communists to power.

Among them were silvery, 30-foot-long missiles which are believed here to be among the types supplied to Cuba. When the Soviet Union first tested a-bomb Sergei Semyonovich Biryuzov, introduced as the commander-in-chief of Soviet rocket forces, took over the radio command.

He said the rocket forces were equipped with "ultra-modern weapons" and in a state of "highest battle readiness . . . the preparedness of Soviet rocket troops is a reliable bulwark to lovers of military adventures."

The parade showed three kinds of ground-to-ground missiles, among them monsters more than 60 feet long that a television commentator called "younger sisters" of the Soviet space probes. Western military observers also saw an improved type of anti-tank missile.

Today's Chuckle

To make a long story short, there's nothing like having the boss walk in.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Winds from the southwest will sweep mild air into Ontario tomorrow today. Afternoon temperatures will be near 55 with cloudy skies and scattered showers. A low pressure area now over western Lake Superior is forecast to move eastward across Northern Ontario today. Following the disturbance a northerly circulation will bring cold air into this area accompanied by snow.

Key Indian Post Of Chusul Held

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru today announced the resignation of Defence Production Minister V. K. Krishna Menon — replaced by Nehru last week as Defence minister.

Nehru made the announcement at a meeting of the ruling Congress party here. Menon had been the subject of mounting criticism for his handling of the smouldering Sino-Indian border crisis.

His critics had blamed him for the poor equipment supplied to Indian troops fighting on the border and said his attitude indicated that the airstrikes had lulled him and the nation into a false sense of security.

Eighteen of the 24 members of the ruling Congress party executive were reported to have asked for Mr. Nehru's urging Menon's withdrawal from the cabinet and referring to charges that he was unprepared to meet the Chinese offensive.

WRITES RESIGNATION

Menon, defence friend and adviser of Nehru, offered to resign his defence ministry post Monday Oct. 26 and in writing Oct. 30. He was removed the next day and assigned to defence production.

Party sources quoted Menon as saying in Oct. 30 letter that "in the situation which faces our country as the result of the unprovoked invasion of our territories by China, I submit that it is appropriate and necessary that the portfolio of

China Offers To Draw Back In Eastern Area

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China announced today its readiness to withdraw certain positions —to withdraw its troops 12½ miles north of the McMahon line on the eastern sector of India's border.

The McMahon line, drawn by a British diplomat in 1914, is regarded by India as her border with Tibet, now occupied by Red China.

The two sides do not agree just where the McMahon line lies, however.

On the eastern sector of the border in Ladakh, Red China's premier Chou En-lai said the line should be where troops have advanced "contrasides in the main with the traditional customary line which has been consistently pointed out by China."

The Red Chinese are estimated to have taken about 2,500 square miles in their current offensive, and now control all but about 500 miles of the 15,000 square miles they claim in the area.

SENDS LETTER

Red China's proposal was made in a letter from Premier Chou which the New China news agency said was sent to Prime Minister Nehru Nov. 4.

It was described as an elaboration on Peking meant in its Oct. 24 proposal to withdraw to the "actual line of control" with disengage by withdrawing 12½ miles from all line as claimed.

"To put it concretely, in the eastern sector it coincides in the main with the so-called McMahon line," Chou's letter said.

Chou, however, reiterated Peking's claim that the McMahon line starts at the Bhutan border at 27 degrees 44.6 minutes north latitude instead of 27 degrees 48 minutes as claimed by India.

The differences according to a previous Chinese calculation, came to about five miles.

Govt. Survives Two Votes With NPD and Socred Help

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative minority government weathered two more confidence tests Tuesday night in the Commons but faces an a perhaps-significant weakening in the voting base on which it has relied to stay in office.

The Social Credit party, which in the last six weeks has united with the government against Liberal non-confidence motions, failed to do so this time.

Two Social Credit MPs voted with the Liberals and four others — including Deputy Leader Real Caouette—deliberately abstained as the motion was defeated 121 to 108. The remaining 15 Social Credit MPs present teamed up with 106 Conservatives against their two dissident colleagues, 91 Liberal members and 15 New Democrats.

Just before this, the Liberals and their three votes behind a Social Credit non-confidence motion—only to watch the New Democrats help the government. That count was 121 to 118 against the motion—technically, a Socred victory compared to the main Liberal motion.

The eight-vote margin was the closest the government has undergone this Parliament of minorities, opened Sept. 27.

The final count: 91 Liberals and 23 Social Credit in favor of the motion, 106 Conservatives and 15 New Democrats against.

The galleries were packed for the high-roll-and-voting which lasted for 1¼ hours including lengthy periods during which the government and opposition whips saw that all available hands were in their places.

Despite the crucial character of the votes, members were in a generally carefree mood, small groups of Liberals and Social Credit MPs singing Alouette and Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here while awaiting the first vote.

Another knot of Liberals sang Good Night Tories to the tune of Good Night Ladies.

Interest in the voting spurted through the House's dinner-hour adjournment when Mr. Caouette told a reporter that the 26 Social Credit MPs from Quebec might possibly vote with the Liberals. This statement held out the prospect of a government defeat since the New Democrats had already announced their intention of doing the same.

Mr. Caouette said the Quebec bench would hold an emergency caucus during the meal break and decide a course of action. How-

Govt. May Trim Dairy Price Supports Next Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Inability of a royal commission to examine Ontario milk producers to agree on their own instrument for controlling production has been a more evidence that the federal government will trim dairy price support next year.

Ontario and Quebec dairy farmers — who provide 70 per cent of Canada's bountiful milk supply — asked for a year's grace last spring to set their own houses in order.

The alternative, as Agriculture Minister Hamilton has been saying pointedly, is drastic federal action to cope with a heavy surplus of butter and cheese.

Most surplus milk winds up as surplus butter in government stores, while farmers get 64 cents a pound for top grades and Ottawa consumers pay 89¢ to 56 to 39 cents retail across the country in the strength of a $42,000,000 annual consumer subsidy initiated last May 1.

It was reported Tuesday that the Dairy Farmers of Canada has retreated in the towel-in their attempt to establish their own producer board, capable of curbing production on a voluntary basis.

A provisional Ontario milk marketing board recommended

UN Asks Trade, Diplomatic Boycotts of South Africa

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly has recommended several trade and diplomatic boycotts of South Africa with the aim of bringing an end to that country's white supremacy policies.

If such punitive steps fail, the assembly recommended Tuesday, the Security Council should consider whether South Africa be expelled from the United Nations.

An almost solid Asian-African-Soviet bloc was reflected in the 67 to 16 vote on a resolution sponsored by the Afro-Asian group. A similar measure failed last year in the assembly for lack of a two-thirds majority.

Among those voting against this year were the United States, Canada, Britain and most Western European countries, Japan, New Zealand, Australia and Turkey.

Britain and Canada said during debate expulsion of South Africa might worsen rather than improve the situation and also might harm the UN itself. Sanctions could well worsen the plight of the non-white population of South Africa, rather than improve it.

Opponents of the punitive clauses failed by three votes to get a separate vote for those clauses. The vote was 49 for, including Canada, 52 against, five abstaining and four absent.

Then the resolution itself, 23 countries abstained, most of them on grounds that they abstained from all racial segregation) but opposed punitive measures to fight it. Some also questioned whether the trade boycotts could be effective.

The vote was overwhelmingly for, but not by the two-thirds majority of those present and voting. Abstentions are not counted.

Under the resolution, the assembly deplores South Africa's refusal to heed pleas of the United Nations since 1946 to abandon its racist policies and asks UN members to act separately or collectively—to carry out boycotts against South Africa.

These would include breaking diplomatic relations, closing all

MIDDLE EAST STEP CLOSER TO SHOOTING WAR

Saudi Arabia Breaks With UAR

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Middle East moved a step closer to an Arab shooting war today as Saudi Arabia accused the United Arab Republic of attacks by jet and air and massed troops to battle a threatened invasion.

Saudi Arabia announced it has broken diplomatic relations with Cairo in the deepening crisis touched off in September when a revolution backed by U.A.R. President Nasser toppled the monarchy in Yemen.

Saudi Arabia and Jordan, both monarchies, have been supporting royalist Yemeni warriors seeking to crush the revolution while the U.A.R. has been pouring men, planes and tanks into Yemen to back the republican regime.

Saudi Premier Prince Faisal said "Great fatal casualties and property losses were caused by a U.A.R. bombardment of villages near the important Saudi Red Sea port of Qizan Tuesday.

WANTS YS SEIZE

Faisal said the bombardment had not been accompanied by troop landings so far, but the revolutionary president of neighboring Yemen announced that he has decided to seize the port and also Najran, a border town 150 miles inland. The two cities are occupied by 1,000 forces of the late King Ibn Saud is a short war with Yemen.

Saudi communiques said U.A.R. planes and three naval units attacked the villages of Mouwaven and Khalaf near the port. Faisal said the attacking naval units were destroyers. He also said a press correspondence his government will supply tanks and planes if requested by Imam Mohammad Al-Badr, deposed king of Yemen whose tribal warriors have been fighting to recapture the throne.

As the situation worsened, President Nasser, 43, ruler of Syria called for pan-Arab mediation by the kings or other heads of state of Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, Sudan, Lebanon and Iraq, none of whom is involved in the Yemeni dispute.

LACKS MANPOWER

Military experts and impartial diplomats say Nasser holds the key to whether ground fighting expands into anything greater than action inside Yemen. They say Sallal, despite the assistance that has given manpower to carry out organized military operations on a large scale.

In Beirut, reliable informants said planes and pilots from Yemen thus far have lost 200 killed and an unknown number of wounded and that Nasser's prestige thus is deeply committed.

Nixon Defeated In California, Rockefeller Wins

Big Industrial States Won by Republicans

WASHINGTON (CP) — Democrats retained their one-sided control of Congress in United States elections Tuesday and eliminated Richard M. Nixon in California, a big plum in their 1964 presidential plans.

But the Republicans snatched the governorships of New York, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania—a big bastion of power for the opposition in 1964.

For President Kennedy, the congressional outcome was a victory in that it bucked the tradition that the party in power normally loses a sizable block of congressional seats in mid - term elections when the president is not running.

The president appeared also to have a strengthened hand in the Senate with increased Democratic strength there and the addition of such warm supporters of his program as his brother, Senator Edward Kennedy, elected in Massachusetts, and former Interior Secretary Abraham Ribicoff, elected in Connecticut.

But the liberal vs. conservative division in the house, where Kennedy's legislative proposals have encountered their toughest going, apparently was little changed.

NO CLEAR TREND

The balloting seemingly reflected no clear trend—except voter readiness to split tickets and cross party lines with abandon.

While Nixon, the unsuccessful Republican presidential nominee against Kennedy in 1960, was turned down for governor by California voters, they re-elected Republican senator Thomas H. Kuchel.

Democratic Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown defeated Nixon in the California campaign. Nixon refused to concede defeat.

On the other side of the continent, Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller was re-elected with a resounding margin of re-election a parade of Republican victories in governors' offices from the politically-potent industrial states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

These four offer a Republican launching pad for 1964 — anything greater than action inside Yemen. They say Sallal, despite the assistance that has given manpower to carry out organized military operations on a large scale.

Quebec Leaders Cannot Agree On What Newsmen to Choose

MONTREAL (CP) — A planned television debate Sunday between Premier Jean Lesage and Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale, party, has run into another obstacle.

The parties agreed that six newspaper men should be chosen to question the two leaders after they make their formal statements. But now they cannot agree on who should pick the newspaper men.

The governing Liberals offered to let the CBC choose the six. The Union Nationale refused. It then was proposed that the six be those who have questioned Mr. Lesage and Mr. Johnson on French - language CBC press conference program in recent weeks. The Union Nationale again refused. The Union Nationale then suggested that each party name three newspaper men.

The Liberals agreed but when the party leaders met again to appear on the program, they refused on grounds they did not wish to be used as the guests of a political party.

The Liberals then asked L'Union Canadienne des Journalistes de Langue Francaise (Canadian Union of French-Language Journalists) to name three. The union said it was prepared to name a whole team of six, but not half of them.

The Union Nationale has yet to react to the union's suggestion.

Two or Three New Council Members Possible Next Year

With one of the present members of council to retire in an another having announced his intention of contesting the mayoralty, there will be at least two new faces on city council next year.

Seven sitting members are to be elected in the December municipal elections, along with public and separate school board members and a public utilities member.

Nomination is still a fortnight away but this week saw the election campaign get away to an early start as Alderman William R. Jarvis on Monday announced he would run for the office of mayor.

The same day Mayor A. M. Haig said he would run for re-election. Ald. Robert Temple, ten-year veteran of city council, said he was bowing out of municipal politics.

This leaves five present councillors whose terms will be up at the end of December. They are: Aldermen Eugene Harrison, George Wishart, Don Whalen, Ross Bailey and Jack Ireland.

SOME MAY DROP OUT

It is anybody's guess whether all five will seek re-election, although Alderman Harrison is rumored to be dropping out of council.

Also Alderman Whalen said considered entering the race for the mayoralty.

If the above rumors prove true this would leave only three present aldermen up for re-election.

Rumor has it that two former councillors—John H. Denyes and Rev. David—are thinking of re-entering municipal politics.

How many other local residents have ambitions towards municipal politics will be learned on Nomination Day, Nov. 21.

Weekly Notes From ANAF

The Christmas Tree Committee of the Army, Navy and Airforce Unit 203, in Belleville announced that all plans had been made as far as possible for the Children's Christmas Party. It will now be up to the members to co-operate with their Committees by filling in the form, which will be enclosed with the monthly letter. Please print children's names and ages plainly and either mail them in or deliver them to the ANAF at the club just as soon as possible. There will be a considerable amount of work started but they lacked a quorum. The first was held in October.

H. J. McFarland, chairman, said the firm will explore other ways of raising the required funds. He said it is hoped the company will try again to get a quorum of debenture holders.

Three bands, Trenton RCAF; Army and Navy Pipe Band and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Band will support the parade for the parade. The Salvation Army Band will not parade but will supply music for the memorial service.

Also in the parade will be the area cadets, boy scouts, the ladies' auxiliaries of the Royal Canadian Legion and ANAF and then the Legion branch of the ladies division No. 587.

HONOUR FALLEN HEROES

Markers, bandmasters and the color parties will report to the parade marshal at 10.30 a.m. at the Bridge Street armouries. The parade will fall in at 10.45 and march off at 10.35. The route is from the armouries to Bridge to Pinnacle to Station street and to the cenotaph. The service will begin at 10.55 a.m.

Following the parade will be the color parties, the parade marshal and representatives of the provincial and municipal governments.

Following the service wreaths will be deposited at the foot of the cenotaph. They will be laid in the following order: government of Canada; province of Ontario; city of Belleville; Royal Canadian Navy, Canadian Army (Hasty Feets) Royal Canadian Air Force; AN and AF Veterans, Naval Veterans, RCAF Association, Royal Canadian Legion branches and auxiliaries and other organizations and individuals.

In the event of rain the services will be held in the Bridge Street Armouries.

Officials in charge of the observances and parade are The Ven. Archdeacon, A. S. McConnell, MBE; Major M. Imbroff and Bram Humphreys.

Will Add Names At Sitting on November 13

Court of revision for adding of names to the municipal voters' list and for making any corrections necessary will be held in the city hall council chambers on the evening of Tuesday, November 13, as announced today by city clerk Adam S. Stalker.

County Judge J. C. Anderson will preside over the court of revision from 7.30 until 9 p.m.

In order that their names appear correctly on the voters' list, Mr. Stalker urged all residents to check any of the lists posted at various places about the city.

Lists are posted at city hall, all public and separate schools, at the courthouse, police station and at the post office.

"A great number of people forget to check the voters' list and then on election day find their names have been omitted," stated Mr. Stalker.

He stated that the voters' list is compiled from the assessment roll and although personnel from the assessment department are out during the summer and early fall, there are many changes of address from then until election day.

Revision Court To Hear Appeals

Local property owners with a complaint regarding assessment will be heard at court of revision to be held at city hall on November 12th and 13th.

A number of appeals are slated for hearing, it has been announced from city hall.

Sitting on the court of revision will be Sheriff Roscoe Robson, John O'Flynn Jr., and L. E. McLean.

Lacks Quorum, Cement Firm Delays Plans

Plans for a $6,000,000 expansion program at the Picton plant of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd. will be postponed because the firm has been unable to get enough debenture holders together at one time to approve issuing more debentures.

A meeting of debenture holders was held in Toronto yesterday but was unable to discuss business because quorum was lacking. This is the second meeting that has lacked a quorum. The first was held in October.

H. J. McFarland, chairman, said the firm will explore other ways of raising the required funds. He said it is hoped the company will try again to get a quorum of debenture holders.

Help Requested To Put Over Santa Parade

Another year has rolled around, and it is time to organize and make plans if a worthwhile Santa Claus parade is expected to be staged in Belleville this year.

The executive of the Santa Claus Parade committee feel that it is worth the effort and expense but hope that they will do better than previous years. Ald. Ross Bailey, parade chairman of the parade committee, called a meeting for Monday night with a view to having a Santa Claus parade in Belleville, on September 24th, at Norris Hall.

The response at that time was small, but a good deal was promised. This is a big job and the support, both in personnel and money is expected if a good parade is expected. Three meetings have been held since October 24th and the response to date has been fairly good.

Organizations and committees are set up and working, but the parade will depend on the number of people in it and the amount of money it takes to put on such a parade. As more volunteers are needed on the job, the committee will be increased.

NEED WORKING CAPITAL

These committees are now working to give Belleville the best Santa Claus parade ever. Money is needed and the committee is asking donations. Address to Mr. George Rutledge, treasurer, in care of the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 82 Highland Avenue, Belleville, Ontario.

Then, the committee will be able to plan their budget, and a receipt will be mailed to all donors. Also the name of any organization or individual is urgently needed and will be appreciated for the parade committee members.

It is hoped that there will be many more floats and entrants in the parade this year but there is still room for more floats. Any organization or all local merchants who wish to enter a float in the parade, to Capt. Ted Lowe, Editor or Deputy-Chief "Warpy" O'Brien at No. 2 Fire Hall.

Tag Day for the Santa Claus parade will be held on November 16 and 17. Volunteers are urgently needed and anyone wishing to help along this line is asked to contact Mrs. Ross Bailey WO 8-9707; Reg. Christopher at WO 2-7281 or Shirley Woodcock at WO 2-2926.

The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday evening at No. 2 Fire Hall to which everyone is invited to attend.

TWO KILLED

ADAN (Reuters)—Two Americans employed by the United States Recon Oil Company were killed Tuesday when their airliner crashed on takeoff at Tizz airport in the Yemen, company representatives here said today.

Downtown Businessmen Want to Retain Store Hours

Belleville's downtown business leaders talked action, shop yesterday and the result is a new brand of organization to fight any extension of city store hours.

The new group, known as the Downtown Businessmen's Association — formed itself at a meeting of the retail business section of the Chamber of Commerce and incorporates the Belleville Shopping Centre Association into the new structure.

It is the latest move in a mounting campaign against city store-hour regulations to allow late-night opening twice weekly, be-coming divisive city businessmen into two groups: merchants at the new Belleville mall on Bell Boulevard in the centre favoring a change in the city's by-law; downtown businessmen are in opposition.

President of the new downtown organization, Irv Shulman, expressed opposition to any change in the city ordinance which now permits late night shopping on Friday only.

DON'T WANT CHANGE

"The merchants have gone on record to advise city council they are not in favor of any change," he said.

"We feel we have been able to give service to the public at all times under the current circumstances."

The present one-night-only opening also is acceptable to staffs of downtown stores, said Mr. Shulman. Extending the hours would only jeopardize their free time, he added.

Meantime the new group's opposition — in the shape of the Belleville Plaza Merchants' Association — already has made representations to council. Monday night mayor A. McLean Haig appointed a special committee to review the closing bylaw and scrutinize proposals from the Plaza merchants.

But the committee also will hear from the new downtown group.

"We are going to make direct recommendations to the special committee," Mr. Shulman promised.

Short Believed Cause of Blaze In Parked Car

A short in the wiring was believed to have been the cause of a blaze in a car owned by Mr. N. Moran of the 6th of Sidney, while the vehicle was parked on Coleman Street in front of Circle TV, Tuesday afternoon.

The Belleville city fire department was called to the scene of the blaze, which did little damage, was quickly extinguished. The call was received at the fire department around two o'clock.

Then at 5.30 p.m., Tuesday night, the department was called to 252 Foster Avenue, to investigate escaping oil fumes. Fire Chief Gerald Vance said there was no fire.

IN MEMORIAM

ORR — In loving memory of my dear father, Frank Orr, who passed away November 7th, 1961. God saw you getting weary,
And knew you had to rest,
He came and stood beside you,
And whispered, "Come with me."
And without one word of farewell,
He's gone a goodbye,
To those he loved most dear,
Like the fragrance of a rose,
God made his memory last.
Till our own lives shall close,
Then we shall be reunited,
Never loved more,
By wife, son, daughter and Brothers
Sadly missed by wife Evelyn and daughter Marion and families.

ORR — In loving memory of a beloved husband and dear father, Bereaved by his wife, Evelyn. Where the loveliest never die.
Where the fair flowers bloom,
With the blue and gold of the sky,
Where it is true and fair,
To a higher life above,
Where there is no pain or sorrow,
As beautiful as they are,
But God in his effort to help us,
Has made us all understand,
In death there is life everlasting,
For God's promise is true.
—Loving wife and family.

ORR — In loving memory of my dear Dad Frank Orr, who passed away Nov. 7, 1961.
Dad's gone a wonderful father,
Dad's gone a friend to all,
He fashioned his smile out of sunshine,
He moulded his heart of pure gold,
He used a rare clay in heaven,
A beautiful light to shine,
So out of this life of sorrow,
He chose the way of God of mine.
He always remembered by daughter Marion, son-in-law Ross and grandchildren.

ORR — In loving memory of our dear Dad Frank Orr who passed away Nov. 7, 1961.
Dad walks with us down the quiet lanes,
He speaks to us and we talk,
For the magic powers of memory,
Give him back to us.
He was more because we loved him,
He was dearer than silver and gold,
No treasure on earth can replace him,
He was our father,
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten by daughter Mrs. Gordon Gilbert and grandchildren.

ORR — In loving memory of our dear father, Frank Orr who passed away one year ago today.
We think of you dear father,
We miss you more and more,
We little know when we woke that morn,
The sorrow day would bring,
For the call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear,
—Ever remembered by grandsons Larry and Buddy.

Veterans Prepare to Parade To Cenotaph on Sunday

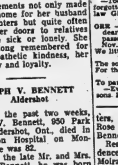
War veterans' organizations with representatives of the militia and service units will join other bodies in the annual Remembrance Day observance here Sunday, November 11th.

Branch 99 Royal Canadian Legion, Unit No. 203 Army, Navy, Airforce Veterans, Naval Veterans Association, 418 Wing, RCAF Association will be joined by an RCAF flight and a detachment of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and civilian organizations in a memorial parade to the Station Street Cenotaph.

Rounding out their observances the ANAF unit here is holding an Armistice Day Ball—quiet dignified evening at seven o'clock with Lieut. Col. Angus Duffy (ret.) speaker.

The Royal Canadian Legion branch will hold its annual Remembrance Day dinner on Friday, November 16th with Lieut. Col. W. Blade of the Hasty Fees delivering the main address.

Kenneth Hall, Belleville, was elected president of the Ontario Association of Architects at the annual meeting held in Toronto last week.



Mr. Hall succeeds Mr. Ernest Cormier, Montreal, who has served as president for the past two years.

Mr. Hall is a graduate of the University of Toronto and has been in practice in Belleville since 1946.

Mr. Hall is a member of the Belleville Rotary Club and the Belleville Yacht Club.

Mr. Hall is married to the former Miss Jean Hall of Toronto and they have two children, Peter and Jane.

Mr. Hall is also a member of the Belleville Public Library Board.

Dutch Organist Feike Asma Delights Large Audience

By EUGENE LANG

For the second time within two years the celebrated Dutch organist, Feike Asma enthralled a large audience in Christ Church with his masterful playing of the king of instruments. This renowned musician is now making his third tour of Canada and the U.S.-during which time, he will be appearing in over 30 recitals from coast to coast. The hundreds who filled the pews of Christ Church were not only from Belleville and nearby district but also from many points of Ontario east of Toronto. Mr. Asma makes his permanent home in The Hague in th Netherlands where he is recognized as one of Europe's finest organists. Besides recital tours, he is a well-known recording artist, just recently having waxed his latest disc at the famed organ of St. Sulpice in Paris.

His program consisted of works by Bach, Handel,Franck and various Dutch composers of the present century, including one composition by himself. His own teacher in former years, the renowned Jan Zwart was represented by three numbers, two of which opened and closed the recital. The Variations and Choral on "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" was given a foreceful reading in which the decorative lacework of each variation was articulated clearly to reveal the mighty theme of this famed old German Chorale. Two Choral Preludes by this same composer demonstrated the more mellow tones of the organ in the simple purity of their harmonizations. Zwart's "Postlude and Fugue Psalm 72" was a piece of considerable stateliness in which the organist displayed his uncanny skill in blending the various classes of powerful registrations of tonal splendor.

IMPECCABLY PLAYED

The Handel Concerto No. Five in F Major was impeccably played and within this composer's writing potential perused in a precise style of rhythmic vitality in the andside movements and solemn endearment in the slow section. Two Choral Preludes of J. S. Bach. "Hark My Soul, it is the Lord" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" were witnessed in this same composer's familiar "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor." In the first choral mentioned above the artist gave a memorable instrument in his rendition of same, but his performance of the "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" was marred by a disjointed and uneven flow of the melodic triplets that clothe this lovely chorale. It reminded one of a singer running out of breath with distinctive demarcations in the continuous melodic lines that left the hearer with an impression of a jig saw puzzle that just wouldn't resolve itself as intended. The popular Toccata and Fugue in D Minor was given a powerful interpretation mixed with virtuosic display in the Toccata and the closing measures of the Fugue. The duplets occurring in the opening of the Toccata spilled between the triplet runs were slurred in such a way to detract from the symmetry usually associated with these passages. The fugue was handled at a brisk pace which never lagged, being capped by a tremendous tonal outburst at the end that brought this avid favorite to its impressive conclusion. Some of the final pedalum chords were more of a squeal than music in their clipped form as played last evening.

Cesar Franck's Choral No. Three was woven and twisted into a close throughout the rich fabric with bewildering skill by Mr. Asma that demonstrated his great gifts in playing music by this French master. The "Passacaglia, Choral and Fugue" by the Dutch composer Dirk Cornelis de Wolf was an excellent composition in both organist and audience alike. The opening Passacaglia was very impressionistic as a beautiful piece in this form, but spoke with new meaning in de Wolf's interpretation. The Choral was a piece in this form, but spoke with new meaning in de Wolf's interpretation. The Choral was the most mellow tones of the organ in the simple purity of their harmonizations. Zwart's "Postlude and Fugue Psalm 72" was a piece of considerable stateliness in which the organist displayed his uncanny skill in blending the various classes of powerful registrations of tonal splendor.

TRENTON — Six RCAF Dakota aircraft left Number 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, Tuesday on the first leg of their long flight to India.

Flown by crews from 129 Reinforcement and Ferry Flight, Trenton, Air Material Command, Ottawa and Air Transport Command Trenton the six aircraft will route through Goose Bay, Labrador; Keflavik, Iceland; Prestwick, Scotland, to the RCAF air base at Marville, France.

On arrival at Marville, crews will be briefed on their onward route to India. The Dakotas are accompanied by a North Star aircraft carrying spares and additional maintenance men.

Flight Lieutenant W. L. 'Tex' Weatherbee of Ottawa and Belleville (inset) is the officer in charge of the eight-day flight. After turning the six Dakotas and the large store of spare parts over to the Indian representatives, he and ground crews will leave India aboard the North Star mother ship.

Five of the aircraft left Tuesday morning. The sixth was delayed several hours when one of its engines failed to deliver full power. The machines are veterans of thousands of flying hours with the RCAF and are fitted for either passenger or cargo operation. They will be used to supply Indian troops.

The pilots of the 129 Acceptance and Ferry Flight are unique in that one day they fly jets and the next piston-engine aircraft. They are responsible for manufacturers acceptance tests and the ferrying of all RCAF aircraft. Last year the group moved 1,447 aircraft.

Flt.-Lt. W. L. (Tex) Weatherbee is a senior pilot with 129. He has flown everything from the little two-seater Chipmunk trainer to the supersonic F-104 Starfighter. For FO Malcolm Niblett of Edmonton, the groups' engineering officer, the delivery flight is a trip home. He was born and raised near Bombay, emigrating here after the Second World War.

China Shows Its Hand

The most recent developments in the border war between China and India may require some to revise their outlook on the dispute.

Although little prominence has been given it in the Western world, the Chinese have had a reasonable argument to support their intrusion into areas long considered part of India.

The border in this wild and sparsely inhabited area was arbitrarily drawn by a Briton. Tibet was at the time separated from China and China itself was unable to make any effective protest.

With Chinese control of Tibet re-established and with China itself a military power it was not surprising some revision of the boundary between China and India should be demanded.

That, in any event, is how the Chinese can present their case—or rather how they could have presented it before an Associated Press news story from New Delhi on Monday of this week. This story reported the Chinese troops have crossed what they claim to be the border with India.

They have thus invaded India. No longer is it a case of the opposing armies fighting to seize control of disputed territory. Chinese forces now stand on soil which they themselves admit belongs to India. The only possible defence which they can advance for this action is that the nature of the terrain made it militarily necessary to seize some points in India in order to defend effectively other points which they consider are in China.

But this is an argument which will fail to impress most observers. China's case would have been much stronger if her troops stopped at what she maintains constitutes the rightful boundary between the two countries. Once the first Chinese soldiers stepped onto land universally acknowledged as Indian, the struggle took on a different complexion. It is no longer a question of which country has the right to disputed border area, of little value in itself except, possibly, with respect to one river and the potential it possesses for generating electricity.

The question which the world is now asking is one which, perhaps, the Indians themselves have been pondering all along. Where do the Chinese propose to halt their drive? Are they just seeking a little additional territory for their teeming millions? Or do they propose to drive to the heart of the sub-continent, overthrow its government and set up a puppet "people's republic" under communist domination? The latter is the real Chinese objective. It may be confronted with serious political, as well as military, obstacles. The Indian communist party has denounced China's invasion. It may be, of course, this is just a subterfuge. But with the split between the Russian and Chinese branches of the party apparently steadily widening, it would be surprising if pride of race did not drive the Indian communists into the Russian camp and thus provide an ideological foundation for India's Reds joining with others of their countrymen in opposing the Chinese aggression.

Horse Trading

Senator David Croll has introduced a bill to the Senate designed to protect Canadians from the easy credit system they have set up for themselves. This is his fourth attempt to obtain similar legislation.

The current bill would leave the credit vendor who did not tell his customer the total eventual cost, and the rate of interest being charged, unable to collect any finance charges.

Laws such as this should not be required in an enlightened society with the apparent standards of ours. Business is good enough in most areas that merchants should have no need to mislead their customers to make a living, and our standard of education is high enough that the average citizen should be able to take care of himself. But, as Senator Croll seems to have learned, even educated people are often foolish in handling their own money, and someone will always appear to take advantage of foolishness.

Senator Croll's bill, if it is passed, would serve a useful function, but it is not a final solution. Legal loopholes are inevitable, and the dishonest merchant, or money lender, has more ingenuity finding loopholes than the government has for plugging them. In the long run, the main assurance a consumer has of getting a fair deal is to take a long, hard look at the product, the merchant's reputation, and the price. If any one of these factors appears out of line, there are other products, other merchants, and other prices available.

Why work yourself to an early grave in preparing for your old age?—(St. Catharines Standard).

A Partnership Canada Needs

Windsor Star

Mr. John Carroll, an international labor representative who also is a member of the National Productivity Council, made some very interesting observations in a speech to the Windsor Chamber of Commerce. He was relating information obtained by a labor-management and government delegation which recently visited Western Europe.

He said there are three essential things which constitute harmonious labor-management relationships in Western Europe. They are communications, trust and co-operation. The order in which he named these is significant.

Labor and management, in their various committees and organizations, meet and talk. (They don't talk only when quarrelling over contracts.) This contact is based in one another. It is then possible to get co-operation.

One has but to state these elements to see the difference there than here where there is a lack of amicable discussions between labor and management; a lack of trust and thus a lack of co-operation.

Over there they regard themselves as partners, not opponents. Of course, they do not always agree on specific issues but, as partners, they do agree on objectives of common concern and advantage.

Mr. Carroll made another interesting point. When wages or other issues are considered in Western Europe, the consumers are also considered. For instance, when productivity is increased, owners can expect to benefit in profits; workers in wages—and there is the idea the consumers also should benefit by lower prices. How often are consumers considered in labor-management disputes on this continent?

Love That Line Wash for Love

Stratford Beacon-Herald

In the solemn waffleiak that so many people use as a cover-up for a lazy brain, one may hear a speaker (or read a reading from a prepared script) say something like this:

"To maximize the advantages obtainable from markets with the geographically expansionist nature which is characteristic of modern merchandising situations, it is necessary to adopt a flexible attitude in the application of sales techniques to varied problems of consumer resistance."

A little story is worth a pound of such bilge. It is typified the story about the North American washing machine company that was looking around to set up a new market in Western Europe.

The company's advertising experts started off with the selling methods that had been effective in Canada and the United States. The only real change made in the message, was to translate it from English, to French or Italian. The company spread the word in big type, in European newspapers and magazines, that its washing machine is modern, efficient, saves labor, has batteries of push-buttons to make it jiggle spin, suck in water or spew out water, has a load of room and. Its advertisements showed cool and competent housewives, pleased with how the wash with the flick of a finger.

There was no rush to buy washing machines. European readers were not impressed by a gleaming enamelled steel as a status symbol, by the price and efficiency as lures to buyers.

"Adopting a flexible attitude in the application of sales techniques" in this case meant calling in a European to tell the Madison Avenue boys what was wrong with their advertising.

The new series of advertisements made small mention of the machine's merits, and played up the slogan: "More Time For Love." The curve on the sales chart began to rise.

'Liberal' Policy

Charlottetown Guardian

Liberalism is one of the most abused terms in the vocabulary of politics. But few people can have had such a painful introduction to the word as those of the remote Arab Kingdom of Yemen.

Since the revolution in Yemen, the leaders of the coup used the official radio to introduce themselves to the public. They were, they said, a liberal revolutionary army group and they were out to get rid of tyranny.

Then they issued their first liberal decree: anyone found on the streets after the broadcast would be shot.

Members of the Women's Canadian Club were honored to have as their guest speaker on Thursday evening Nancy Pyper, brilliant writer, actress and speaker who has just been chosen by the Wartime Information Board to go to the United States on a lecture tour, to tell the people of that country what Canadian women are doing in this war. This was the subject of her address and when Mrs. Pyper came to the end of her inspiring and entertaining address her audience could not help but share her pride, and wondered if many of the women of the Dominion were contributing to the war effort.

One of the heaviest pre-winter snowstorms in years swept the northern section of Prince County on Tuesday afternoon with travelling conditions the depth of about four inches covering the ground in the Bancroft district as far east as Eldorado. Two inches of snow fell in parts of Prince Edward County and it was learned today with Picton being the centre of the storm. This city saw a few flakes fall in a lone flurry about two o'clock.

Indifference Aids Spread Of Communism

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Like a dilatory patient who goes to see the doctor six years after the onset of a hacking and throatic cough, the American public is concerned only with symptoms and not with diseases, only with cures and not with causes.

We are now looking for a pill to cure our cosmic cancer.

"What can be done about Cuba?" asks the worried citizen, and then simply is no satisfactory answer any more. Six years ago or more, when the corrupt and repressive Batista government was ruining the country we asked no questions about Cuba.

When it was perfectly evident that Hitler was about to overrun all of Europe, we asked "What can we do about the Nazis?" The only answers were war or surrender, the disease had progressed too far and too fast.

Nobody was much concerned about Germany in the years between the formation of the First World War and the depression — years when the Nazis were preparing the most evil of Germany's impoverished condition. Likewise, by the time the Bolsheviks took over Russia in 1918, it was already too late for the world to do anything but fight or accede to it.

Preventive medicine has been encouraged in the last few decades; but there still is no preventive statesmanship, no inoculation against the virus of war and tyranny and revolution.

We supported, both actively and passively, Batista's rotten administration in Cuba. Anyone with a grain of political sense could have foreseen that the pendulum would some day swing to the other extreme — that a tantro is the natural outgrowth of a Batista, as the terrible excesses of the French Revolution followed the excesses of the French monarchy.

In physics every schoolboy knows that "action and reaction are equal." The same is true in the political world of mankind. The repressive Czarism was followed by the even more repressive Bolshevism; indeed, no nation with a history of democracy has ever voluntarily become totalitarian. Both communism and facism have succeeded only where liberty had never been known before.

Cuba is a symptom, not a disease; Berlin is a symptom, not a disease; Korea and Vietnam and a half-dozen others are all symptoms and not diseases. And there is little that one can do about a symptom while the disease persists.

They are all symptoms of the world's appalling indifference its narrow self-interest, its unwillingness to face the obvious fact that preventive statesmanship is the only way to keep the peace. Whatever we "do" about Cuba today will be wrong.

Harmony a Remedy

As the Cuba crisis mounted, Khrushchev went to the opera. It was the proper thing to do, if he felt his savage breast needed soothing.

Parliament Overlooked

Montreal Gazette

Mr. Douglas Fisher, the New Party member for Port Arthur has pointed out a curious gap in the recent Glassco Royal Commission's report. Nowhere, he says, can he find a word about Parliament's role in the administration. "You would think the administration was in one limbo and we were in the other."

In his opinion, the power of the executive is becoming "dangerously great." He believes that "the huge increase in administration has not been paralleled by an increase in Parliament's capacity to examine and criticize the bureaucracy."

Mr. Fisher's anxiety is well-founded. The reality of the problem was described a few years ago in an article in The Queen's Quarterly by Dr. John J. Deutsch, the Vice Principal of Queen's University.

Dr. Deutsch, who had had experience in the government service, put it this way: "I believe that Parliament is "suffering an ever-deepening sense of frustration." The impossibility of setting out all the technical details and administrative problems involved in new legislation has resulted in passage of more and more legislation which is confined to broad objectives.

Power, in these general terms is delegated to the executive and its servants to make regulations and to exercise discretionary powers. In many cases, Parliament had even gone further. It has created administrative boards limited precisely for the purpose of plans and crown companies, that form of boards, without establishing a high degree of administrative independence from parliamentary and political control.

"The relation of Parliament to the executive," says Mr. Deutsch, "is even more remote than it is to the sprawling and complex government departments."

The problem is further complicated by the fact—that Parliament is not a technical body; it is not a gathering of experts. When very time when the functions of government have become increasingly complex, technical and pervasive, Parliament continues to give its attention to general principles.

This is the old tradition and a fine one it can often be. But it provides no answer to the question of how the new "lines-boss" are to be related to each other.

It is, to be sure, an old problem. The London journal, The Economist, forecast it clearly enough in 1937 when it ventured that cabinet ministers, like other members of Parliament, would be "increasingly" on entering their several departments, in the hands of a body of permanent officials, tied and tied together in one close fraternity — through whom all business must flow — and who have their own resolute notions of the right ways of doing it."

To a great extent, the enlargement of state control has involved the weakening of control by Parliament, or by the people through Parliament. This has been the trend and it will continue to be the trend, until Parliament, theoretically the master of all, finds some way of making its liability real.

Don't Move Person If Fracture Is Suspected

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently my aunt fell down some stairs. She was in great pain and unable to stand up. People came to her assistance, helped her walk up and into a car and took her to the hospital.

X-rays showed she had a broken hip. Although she fell on a Thursday, she was not operated on until Saturday. The surgeon said it was a very bad break. Pins were used to hold the bones in place, plus traction.

Although the people assisting her meant well, did they really offer proper first aid? Also I thought a broken bone had to be set as soon as possible. Can you give me a reason for the delay? — Mrs. J.W.

If there is a possibility of fracture or internal injury — and in this case either or both could be suspected — the patient should be made as comfortable as possible but should not be moved.

A rolled up coat or pillow may be placed under the head, a blanket can be laid over the body. A tight collar may be gently loosened, but the doctor can be summoned at once, fine.

If not, call an ambulance. Trained attendants, on a stretcher can transport a patient to the hospital with the least pain, and what is more important, the least movement of broken bones.

I can't say whether your aunt was harmed, but she surely must have suffered.

As for waiting two days for surgery, I don't know the circumstances, however there are several valid possibilities. You don't rush into an operation of this sort blindly. You take X-rays, and study them thoroughly, to see the fracture and know in advance what procedure will be needed once the operation is in progress.

There can be considerable shock in such an injury. The patient, especially if elderly, may need time to rest before the surgery which, of course, is a physical shock in itself.

It is foolhardy to rush into the operating room without knowing the condition of the patient's heart and circulation and blood type. Further, some delay can let blood clots, swelling and muscle spasm subside.

True, it may be wise to set a simple fracture of an arm or leg as soon as possible to minimize pain, to protect against further injury from movement, and to permit the limbs to start immediately.

The pinning of a hip is considerably different. And with the patient in the hospital, there's protection against further damage while waiting.

When elderly persons fall and complain of pain in the leg or hip, or the foot is found to be turned out at an unusual angle, they should see a doctor. Keep them warm and comfortable until they can be moved properly. Prudent delay in setting a fracture is a matter of the surgeon's judgment and the nature of the break.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the consequences of drinking low-calorie soft drinks for dieting? I have heard that the artificial sweeteners will harm the kidneys — Mrs. A.W.

I don't know of anything harmful, and suspect that you have merely heard a modern version of another old wives' tale.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could give a person a constant fever? It goes up in 99.6 then down to 98. — M.D.

Every effort should be made to rule out infection — TB sinus trouble, tonsils, undulant fever or a host of others. Any persistent infection can cause this sort of fever.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 625, Dunkirk, Ill. for the booklet "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15c in coin and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope.

Two Sides To Freedom

St. Catharines Standard

"The validity of the struggle for freedom in which the Anglo-Saxon democracies are now engaged against Soviet and Chinese communism rests ultimately upon the Christian-evaluation of human personalities being cited".

The above timely words were spoken recently by Rev. L. H. Taylor, M.A., LTh., of Caledon East. Continuing Mr. Taylor declared:

"If Canadians won't have God for their Lord, they too will finish up being tyrants is their masters, because it is only God Himself who can subject the powerful politicians, judges, police, employers and workers, doctors and teachers, to consistent, without such an enlightened conscience, a conscience enlightened by God's Holy Spirit they can be no abiding defence against injustice".

It is a timely warning in a world in which our so-called "liberal" conception form of society has tried to give expression to a negative concept of freedom.

Freedom is a positive value, not something merely negative; and the mere absence of compulsion, but the capacity to express one's own true nature in action, is the very essence of an enlightened conscience.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Power is what all living creatures crave, whether they live in the jungle, the sea or the trees. There are, of course, unambitious men, bulls, roosters and bears, but they are not much thought of. Those men with little ambition are content with a small salary and authority over their wives and families, with a little more, they are satisfied with power over a few of their fellow workers in shop or office, in community or church association or local political group. As we go up the scale of ambition, we find those content only with mastery of a big business.

Long ago, battle axes were the instruments of power. Later money became the instrument. But recently, money has gone out of fashion, like the battle axe. So more and more men of targe and strong will turn to politics. Government is the biggest business of all, and its income and expenditure vastly outclassing any other industry. Thus we see political parties becoming major business enterprises.

To conceive and create a political party with no competitor at all, like the Communist party, is to achieve a power so satisfying to the ego that it becomes god-like.

That's where they step out of their weight class.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were thoroughly mixed amid light morning trading on the stock market today.

All index sections moved within extremely narrow ranges with all but industrials declining slightly.

In the main list, losses in ¼ to ¼ range went to Abitibi, Imperial Oil, Canadian Husky, Canadian Imperial Bank Commerce and BC Power.

Alcoma Steel, Bank of Montreal, Shawinigan and Dominion Foundries and Steel all advanced ¼.

Investors Syndicate A gained ⅛, and Power Corporation, CPR and Walker-Gooderham all ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials rose 18 to 546.60 Golds dipped .25 to 97.85, base metals .54 at 180.80 and western oils .38 to 117.25. The 11 a.m volume was 638,000 shares compared with 433,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Among base metals, Falconbridge dropped 1¼, International Nickel ½ and Noranda ¼. Hudson Bay Mining gained ⅛ of a point in the North gate decline 20 cents $5.55.

In western oils, Home B and Pacific Petroleum both fell ¼, while Dome advanced ¼ and Bailey-Selburn A 15 cents to $9.90.

Lacking the influence of Wall Street markets, which were closed for U.S. elections, Toronto stocks idled through most of the morning but jumped to life in the afternoon.

In the last hour, industrials climbed more than two points on index. Base metals also all closed strongly, registering a one-point gain in the final hour.

Interprovincial Pipe Line paced the main list, rising 1¼ to 49½. Gains in a ¼ to ⅝ range went to Calgary Power, Consumers' Gas, Massey-Ferguson, Walker-Gooderham and Trans-Canada Pipeline.

On the exchange index, industrials gained 3.42 to 546.42. Golds .01 at 97.97 and base metals 1.53 at 181.34. Western oils dipped .02 to 117.64. Closing volume was 2,285,000 shares compared with 1,963,000 Monday.

Among base metals, International Nickel climbed ⅛ and Falconbridge ¼. Hudson Mining and Smelting, Noranda and Newworth rise five cents to 24 cents and San Antonio Gold Mines eight cents to 40 cents.

Wait for Wire For Herchimer Traffic Lights

Delay in the delivery of a special type wire from Montreal will mean that the new traffic lights at the corner of Bridge Street and Herchimer Ave., will not go into operation for possibly another two weeks.

City Engineer W. C. Purcell noted today that the installation of the lights was practically completed and Finkle Electric, who are doing the actual installation are now waiting for the special type wire.

The lights were supplied by Northern Electric Company.

The city public works department built the concrete bases for the light standards and also placed the conduit beneath the roadway.

Burying of the conduit means there will be no control wires running overhead between the lights.

When the new lights go into operation Bridge Street will become the "through" street instead of Herchimer, as at present. The lights will be traffic actuated on Herchimer Ave. This means that east and west traffic on Bridge Street will have the green light until north or south bound traffic on Herchimer trips the mechanism and changes the signal.

The lights are similar to those at present installed at the intersection of North, Front and College Streets.

Foundry Worker Hit by Falling Scrap Metal

A 62-year-old foundry foreman at Stephens - Adamson Manufactury Company in Belleville suffered head injuries on Tuesday when struck by a piece of falling scrap metal.

In Belleville General Hospital with head cuts is Harry Rose of Rossmore. He is in comfortable condition. A hospital spokesman said first X-rays showed no fractures.

Mr. Rose was checking equipment of the foundry's smelting process when he was struck by the metal which dropped from an overhead skip-hoist conveying scrap metal.

The blow knocked him unconscious. He was rushed to hospital by ambulance.

Guns Displayed At Meeting Of Society

At last week's meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society held in the Corby Library Auditorium, the guest speaker was C. W. Smith of Redeemerville. A noted collector of antique weapons, Mr. Smith spoke on the history of guns with particular attention to the role of guns in Canadian history.

Since you must have gunpowder for guns, Mr. Smith began his address by noting that the development of gunpowder was made in China at an early date. How the invention reached the West is not known for certain, however the first records of the use of gunpowder in European military operations date from 1313 A.D.

Three methods of ignition have been used in the Americas from the days of the early explorers. The first explorers used firelocks - a simple method of ignition whereby through an opening in the barrel, a "slow match" was introduced. It was almost impossible to keep this match lit in a strong wind or rain, so this method of setting off the charge was not too reliable. Moreover, the firelock weapons were large and heavy. The firelock had little impact on Canada.

IMPROVED METHOD

Then an improved method was developed. A clockwork mechanism spun a toothed wheel. The wheel spun against a piece of iron pyrite, and the resulting sparks were fed into a pan and hence the powder was ignited. This was the wheel-lock. These spring-wound guns were often out of order, and the spring-winding wrenches were easily lost.

About the time colonization of the Americas began in earnest, a third type of ignition was developed - an early flintlock. This employed the accident method. The flint struck a piece of steel and the sparks produced flew into a pan of powder.

Early flintlocks involved several mechanical problems, but later they were all combined in an easy operation. Wet powder and misfires were hazards of the flintlock.

The flintlock mechanism was in common use longer than any other; even today it is used in muzzle-loading guns.

The uses of these weapons in Canadian history are many and varied. The English used them to wrest Canada from the French. Colonists repulsed the American invaders in the War of 1812. The trading companies (especially the Hudson Bay Company, and the North-West Company) used them in trade.

Mr. Smith then displayed an authentic Hudson Bay Company trade gun. This peculiar weapon had been shortened by an Indian to make it handy in the bush, and the brass plate on the butt has been removed, probably for use as a bite-scraper.

Both the explorers and the settlers used a flintlock for game and protection. A flintlock was part of every settler's furniture.

The United Empire Loyalists brought a variety of flintlocks with them. Since these weapons were well used, they are extremely scarce.

Then about 1836-1840, a new type of ignition was employed. A Scottish clergyman secured a patent on a fulminate method of ignition. An English artist living in Philadelphia improved upon the invention and developed the percussion cap - is much the same form as it is used today.

Where did the weapons used in Canada come from? The biggest suppliers were England, Belgium, Germany, Holland and France.

With the percussion period, some Canadian gunsmiths in Upper and Lower Canada began to produce guns. According to a Toronto gun expert, James Goodhig, close to 300 gunsmiths in these provinces have been recorded. Mr. Goodhig plans to publish a book on the gunsmiths shortly.

Military weapons are another topic, Mr. Smith noted. The old smoothbore flintlock was used by the Royal forces into the nineteenth century. Soldiers from regiments mustered out in Canada were often given free land and the flintlock muskets. This accounts for many Flintlock Tower and other muskets being used for hunting in Ontario's past years.

Mr. Smith used several personal anecdotes to enliven his talk. He also displayed several guns, including an 1848 Samuel Colt Six Shot Model Loading percussion shotgun; and a gun made by Creiss, a Canniff-Haight gunsmith of the 20th century.

Tom Ransom extended the appreciation of the Historical Society to Mr. Smith for his educational and entertaining address.

Prior to Mr. Smith's address, members had a chance to visit the special antique gun display in the county museum. This display continues each evening this week until Friday from 7 to 9 and Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5.

George Romney New Governor Of Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Automaker George Romney — a new face in political horizons — captured Michigan's governorship today, ending 14 years of Democratic rule.

The 55-year-old Romney defeated Democrat John B. Swainson, a 37-year-old legless veteran of the Second World War, by cutting sharply into the traditionally Democratic stronghold of Wayne (Detroit) County.

By defeating Swainson, native of Windsor, Ont., who had the all-out backing of the powerful AFL-CIO organization, Romney automatically became a darkhorse contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Although Romney has steadfastly denied that he will be an active candidate for the nomination, he also had dodged questions about whether he would accept a draft.

The former president of American Motors chalked up about 40 per cent of the vote in Wayne County, where labor leaders had hoped to hold the Republican total below 34 per cent.

With 5,049 of the state's 5,109 voting districts reported unofficial totals gave Romney 1,377,262 and Swainson 1,313,216.

Must Declare Nature of Gifts Sent to Britain

Canadians who want their Christmas gifts to arrive safely in Britain will have to be sure that customs declarations are completely filled out and properly attached to each parcel, it was pointed out today by Postmaster General Allen Fairclough. She said information has been received from the British Post Office that many parcels from Canada are being delayed at ports of entry because of faulty customs declarations. Many Canadians use general terms such as "toys" "clothing" or "Christmas gifts" on the declaration. This is not a proper declaration. The British regulations require that the exact nature of the contents must be indicated as well as their value.

Mrs. Fairclough pointed out that improper completion of the customs declarations can easily result in gifts being delayed and may even lead to seizure of the parcels or imposition of penalties. If the declaration does not provide sufficient information, the package must be opened by British customs officers or the addressee has to be asked to provide further details.

By following regulations, she said Canadians can rest assured that their parcels will arrive at destination without difficulty or delay.

ports to South African vessels, prohibiting their own ships from entering South African ports, boycotting all South African goods and barring ports of such goods, arms and ammunition to South Africa, and barring South African planes from their territory.

The assembly can only recommend penalties. The Security Council can order them.

Eric Louw, South African foreign minister who was the object of an unprecedented assembly vote of censure last year, reiterated his charges that many of the accusers had a double standard.

He said hatred of the white man as such was behind the drive to punish South Africa.

Expect Recount In Maine Race

PORTLAND, Me. (AP) — Republican Governor John H. Reed held a precarious election victory today, teetering on the microscopic margin of .09 per cent.

A recount of the race for governor appeared almost certain. With only three of 631 voting districts unreported, Reed polled 146,336 votes to Democrat Maynard C. Dolloff's 146,063.

Rockefeller Wins Easily But Margin Cut

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson Rockefeller crushed his Democratic opponent by nearly 500,000 votes in winning re-election and staying in the front ranks of Republican presidential contenders.

But his majority fell approximately 85,000 short of his 1958 election margin and it was further tarnished by a far more impressive showing by Rockefeller's running mate, Senator Jacob K. Javits.

Javits won by nearly 1,000,000 votes and joined the few Republicans in the state ticket who have carried New York city, a Democratic stronghold that Rockefeller long has tried to crack.

In addition, Rockefeller was jolted by Democratic comptroller Arthur Levitt, who not only won re-election despite Rockefeller's efforts to replace him with a Republican but also ran ahead of the Governor.

Rockefeller defeated Democrat Robert Morgenthau, 43, a newcomer to state politics, 3,966,112 to 2,578,076, a margin of 488,036 in near - complete returns.

Judo Considered Manly Art, Not Taught Women

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—In Japan, where it originated, judo still is considered a manly art and is not taught to women.

But women who learn judo can acquire "a sense of poise that not even a charm school can provide,' says Vern Fagan, a judo instructor in Toronto.

Women in Europe, the United States and Canada who study judo do so basically for self-defence and for physical exercise, but one of the most important things they gain is self-confidence, he said.

And this feeling of physical self-sufficiency can be valuable for city women who are constantly rushing on and off buses, up and down stairs and escalators, across busy streets.

"If they know how to fall, they falls instinctively and properly, they are often protected against injury," says Mr. Fagan.

Co - ordination of mind and body is the ultimate in judo. "As well as the ability to execute a technique, it is necessary to be trained mentally to outthink and out-manoeuvre an opponent."

REMOVES TENSIONS

And judo, if practised regularly, encourages—a healthy mental disposition as well as good physical well-being. "Because Judo requires complete co-ordination of mind and body a person is rid of all tension, emotion and frustration with 15 or 20 minutes of exercise."

Judo pupils are first taught how to fall and break the shock of the fall with their hands "Slapping the mat sounds hard but there is a knack to it and it is soft and easy."

Then the exercises to develop co-ordination followed by the basic holds, throws, and striking techniques are taught. Once these are learned, there is a great deal of room for individual interpretation and expression, says Mr. Fagan. "It's the same as writing. You learn the basic technique and then you develop your own style."

Women are taught to develop smooth quick movements with good balance and finesse and are not encouraged to use their strength as much as men, says Mr. Fagan.

"By the time students reach the green belt (third) stage, the male depends on a strength which the female does not have. And at this point, if you took away a man's strength, it is unachievement."

likely that he could throw a woman at the same level of chievement.'

COLORED BELTS

The grades of achievement in judo are signified by colored belts—yellow for the lowest, then orange, green, blue, brown and black for the highest. Novices wear white belts.

"You dont necessarily have to be quick and sharp to do judo," Mr. Fagan says. "You just bring your whole personality to it. You don't first have to fit into some prescribed mould. Some people are slow, others are very heavy or awkward but often when confronted by an opponent, these, can be an advantage."

Mr. Fagan's women pupils range in age from 18 to 30 years, "but you're never too old to learn." He was referring to a lady in France who began to learn the art when she was 80 and had earned her black belt by the time she was 60.

And to be competent, he said, one should remain with judo until the black belt has been earned. He started at 18, and won his first degree black belt four years later, in 1954.

Sixty Years' Missionary Work Marked

By VERA WINSTON

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening Mrs. George Noble, president of St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Stirling, Woman's Auxiliary, and the members, commemorated 60 years of missionary work. All of their money is raised by systematic givings, special offerings, cent-a-day, and much has been accomplished through the years.

Women from the area were invited and included St. Paul's, Stirling United Church Women and their president, Mrs. David Duffin; St. Andrew's Presbyterian WMS, Stirling, and the president, Mrs. James Johnston; Mount Pleasant-Rawdon UCW and their president, Mrs. Milford Wrightman; St. Thomas' Anglican WA eighth concession Stirling, president Mrs. Ted Preston, and other groups, and guests were in attendance from Trenta, Tweed, Bonarlaw, and Eggleton churches.

The dignitaries in attendance were the Diocesan president, Mrs. H. D. Mitchell; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. A. Krafts; Little Helpers' secretary, Mrs. A. C. McCullum; president of Hastings deanery, Mrs. E. R. Colleton. The WA has two life members, Mrs. H. H. Alger and Mrs. Hiram Rodgers.

A choral church service was held in the church at 7.30 p.m. under the direction of the rector the Rev. F. F. Downing, rural dean of Hastings. He was assisted in the service by the Rev. H. C. Secker of Kingston and the Rev. L. E. Hawkes of Tweed.

The special message was given by the Rev. A. C. McCullum M.B.E. of Kingston who was a former missionary in the Yukon diocese. His son is now serving in the same field of endeavor. Mrs. R. Johnson of Madoc was the organist and a full choir led in the service. Among the visitors were the Rev. F. A. Crook, Stirling, assistant minister at St. John's.

The Centennial Memorial Window 1860-1960 was dedicated by the Ven. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E. Archdeacon of Ontario.

Mrs. George Noble presided over the social hour in the parish hall. Introductions were made and a movie film recorded the event for future enjoyment.

A three-tier anniversary cake was made by Mrs. Frank Harding and it occupied a central place with its lovely decorations. Mrs. Hiram Rodgers placed the knife in the cake and later it was sampled by the guests.

A dainty lunch was served by St. John's Ladies League and all enjoyed a social half hour. A special guest book was used to record the names of those who were in attendance.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. L.J. — She absolutely refuses to do a thing around the house.

Helen J. — My studies come first. The house doesn't matter to me.

Mr. L.J.: My wife and I put in a hard day's work. I run a hubbard a shabby and my wife comes in to relieve me for lunch and to help out when I get busy. We have an 18-year-old daughter who attends college.

Everything about Helen is satisfactory except for one blind spot. She won't lift a finger to help her mother with the housework. Her marks at school are excellent, her friends are the cream of the nice kids on tap she is respectful and friendly towards us. But if my wife is late getting supper, Helen would rather go without eating than start the meal herself. Her bed is never made. Her room looks like a bayloft.

Whenever I remind her of her duty, she threatens to move out and go to live with her two girl friends who have their own apartment.

Helen J.: I think I'm easy to live with and get along with. I never complain and I make no demands. If my mother has been late in getting meals before, I slip out of the house and have breakfast at the drugstore. As for my room, it doesn't bother me. Why does it bother my parents to have books and papers all over the place? I know where things are.

In all the years I've known my mother she never expected me to pitch in with housework. All I heard was, "Study hard. Get good marks. That's your job. Leave my job to me." She and Dad bragged about all the A's on my report card, and the prizes I won. Maybe all their friends are tired of hearing about me and the honor roll, so my parents want to brag about what a good cook I am? Well, they can't have it both ways. My courses take all my attention.

The Council: As consolation to Mrs. J. and warning to Helen we venture to say that the latter probably wouldn't last long in her friends' apartment as well. She'd be back home fast, evicted for non-payment of chores!

There's a rude awakening in store for Helen because her parents didn't make it the gradual introduction to reality she was entitled to. She'll learn that it's thanks to somebody's scrubbing that floors are clean, and somebody's planning keeps milk in the refrigerator and clean towels in the bathroom. These "constants" don't just happen.

At present the state of the house clearly interest Helen, doesn't "bother" her. But if she and the condition of her room lured wiser strangers, or even alone, she'd have to maintain what average, civilized folk call minimum standards of cleanliness and neatness. Or else she'd be bothered by cobwebs, vermin and eventually a team of inspectors from the Sanitation Department!

And if there's a Prince Charming in Helen's dreams, between book reports and term papers, he won't stay charming very long when he discovers he must put up with the lens of dirt and rubble which don't disturb her at all. She'd have to find a Sloppy-Joe type to settle down with in a coalbin built for two!

No, Helen. At present your parents' greatest and belated kindness to you would be insistence upon your carrying out a few light, but important, chores on a regular schedule. For example, you might be asked to leave the living room looking the way your parents want it to look when they entertain their friends, not the any-old-way that's A-OK with you.

A healthy life is a balanced one. All study and no pitching-in at home can produce a lopsided daughter, Mr. J., perched on a bubble in a dream world. Bring Helen down to earth via the sobering facts of housework.

'Open Season' Declared on Furs, Feathers

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — French milliners have declared an "open season" on fur and feathers.

Almost every beast and bird from the African jungles to the local zoo will appear in the guise of a Paris hat this winter.

The vogue for long - haired bulky fur toques will continue together with matching collars of the same fur.

Mink, ermine, fox, mitzis and leopard will lead the parade. Nina Ricci, however, makes a fetish of such simple furs as grey squirrel, while Marc Bohan of Dior goes all - out for mink, though he also uses river otter or wild opossum for berets and caps.

Fur-trimmed hats and hoods are as popular as the all-fur hat.

Pierre Cardin braids black and white mink skins into bands to edge the brims of sombreros. He also shows a black velvet mandarin cap trimmed with two Chinese pigtails of black mink.

Every designer features hoods this season and 99 per cent of them are edged with fur. Nina Ricci is showing cowled hoods bordered with mink, sable, fox or squirrel.

Most hoods, either evolved in one piece from the back of the dress or coat, or cut separately like a shawl, are fashioned with semi - monastic effects. Others appear slightly medieval — like Ricci's pink faille hood, which hugs the head like a coat of mail and rings the face from chin to hairline with pastel toned mink.

Yves St. Laurent and Guy Laroche both favor sleek, sophisticated turbans, made of fur.

Laroche's are styled like scarf headdresses, wrapped round the face, with royal crowns. St. Laurent has developed his Indian rajah theme with sarafs swami turbans edged with mink or ermine.

Other attractions in St. Laurent's collection are the black brimmed Greta Garbo cloches made of pony skin with black-and-white markings which imitate zebra skin.

4-H Clubs Hear Talk on First Aid

Recently the Mountain View, Albury and Ameliasburg 4-H Clubs met together for a special meeting with the St. John Ambulance at Mountain View Church.

The representative of this organization, Mr. James told of the many aspects of first aid. Many times the knowledge of a little first aid has saved a life. The items needed most in an emergency may not always be available but one can improvise. A nylon stocking makes an effective constricted bandage. The rope may be used as a splint for a broken bone, and a sling may be made from a belt, a tie or a shirt.

Mr. James explained the causes of shock and the relief for same. He also told of methods used in the stoppage of bleeding and what to do for poisons and how to remove small objects from the eye. The speaker also showed the method of artificial mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Thanks and appreciation were expressed to Mr. James for a most interesting and informative talk, after which refreshments were served.

Another meeting of the Ameliasburg Town and County Club was held at the home of Margaret and Mary Montgomery at which time various items were discussed such as keeping mentally fit, spending time off and also covered many points on first aid.

In the course of the meeting members were shown how to tie a reef knot and also the versatile uses of the triangular bandage. Among its uses are the head bandage, the sling, or knee bandage.

At the close of the meeting the hostesses served delicious refreshments.

SMOOTH BUFFET PARTY REQUIRES CAREFUL PLANNING

Planning a buffet?

We know one woman who definitely is not. Her husband has set a limit. No more than eight people for dinner at once, and everyone's going to sit down at a proper table and be served by a maid, if his wife hasn't gumption enough to tackle the job after so many years of letting guests serve themselves.

Well, each to his own limits. Actually, though, a buffet can be a gracious way to serve eight or eighteen. The above-mentioned husband probably acquired his negative attitude from attending too many buffet parties where the "hot" food was tepid and he almost tripped over guests while trying to get a service even of that. Proper planning helps eliminate such problems.

Take the arrangement of the table, for instance. An inexpert hostess, working with a table placed against a wall, might group dinner plates, silver and napkins in the middle and arrange the food at either end. This she may visualize as proper balance, but it's enough to unbalance her line of traffic.

To make things proceed smoothly and efficiently, the dinner plates should be stacked at one end, and the food arranged in proper sequence in the centre, with silver and napkins at the other end. A floral arrangement, properly placed can take up any visual slack as far as balance of highs and lows is concerned.

Naturally, when guests can go down the table with plate in hand and take food in the right order — rice, then curry, then condiments, then salad, then roll, for example — there's no back-tracking involved, which kills off one main objection of those who are vehemently anti-buffet.

To eliminate another gripe, the wise hostess serves foods that stand up well over warmers, without getting parched and losing their flavor. Casseroles are the best solution, and some like beef in wine sauce, shrimp creole and coq au vin, actually seem to master more flavor over the warmers. If turkey or ham are to be served, the carving should be done in the kitchen to prevent traffic jams that usually arise when it's done on the spot.

Warm plates enhance the flavor of any food, whether it's served buffet or sit-down. They can be placed in a warm oven and set on the side-board just before dinner is announced. Or, if you have a dishwasher, you can do as we do and load the plates on the rack, set the dial at "dry" or plate warmer," if it's marked, then push the button and let the machine bring them to the proper piping temperature.

Seating — another major obstacle — also can be adroitly masterminded by making sure that the tops of cocktail and end tables are cleared, so guests can rest plates on them. Pre-arranged card tables, or even lap trays, provide the feeling of maximum security one doesn't usually get when balancing a plate cushioned on the knee.

Proper planning eliminates all the hazards of buffet service, and has ever been known to convert some skeptical husbands to the belief that it can be as gay and gracious as more traditional types of dinner service.

Above-Knee Skirts Still Popular in B.C.

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's west coast is a land of natural beauties — towering mountains, lofty trees, sea and sand.

It is also one of the last strongholds where other natural beauties still cling to the above-the-knee skirt.

Or, to be more precise, the above-the-knee skirt still clings to the natural beauties because — broadly speaking — the A line is for grandmothers.

Jack Perel is a man who knows about such things. A Polish-born tailor, Jack has been raising and lowering hemlines here for 11 years.

He is one of very few who specializes strictly in skirts and makes every one of the garments he sells in his two stores from cloth he cuts to his own patterns.

He credits the advent of the "yah yah" skirt for the acceptance of higher hemlines on the west coast. The yah yah was a caricature of a style which developed in Europe in the early 1950s.

Jack says another factor is the subtropical climate, claiming that in most places the hemlines fall in direct ratio to the temperature.

Jack caters to the younger set as the style leaders in his business.

"From about 35 on, women seem to settle for a longer skirt. It's the young girls, about 14 through to 25, who want the skirts short."

That Vancouver is no style leader as a city, Jack agrees. But he sees it becoming more style-conscious by the year.

"Five years ago it took about two years for a New York style to become accepted here."

Lately, with more specialty stores opening up, style is becoming more of a selling point.

WANT THEM SHORT

Among women teen - agers. They go in for novelty. And while Jack doesn't necessarily agree with all the novelties, he finds himself drawn along.

"I make most of my skirts 16 inches above the floor. I think that's about the right length. That brings the hemline down to the last button of the knee."

But most of the youngsters who patronize his shops ask for them to be raised one or two inches. Many of those who don't ask take the skirt home and raise it themselves.

"I try to tell them that when they sit down the whole knee will be showing," he says. "But that seems to be what they want."

The A line—featuring a flaring look out from the waist—and "cut" for west coast youngsters.

"They want the skirt cut tight, following the line of the body."

Curiously, Jack sees a growing acceptance of school uniforms as a contributing factor to extremes in clothing among young girls. A school uniform is strictly for school and a school-girl can generally wheedle her parents into allowing her a more liberal street wardrobe than she could get away with in class.

U.C.W. Meetings

SHANNONVILLE U.C.W.

SHANNONVILLE — On Thursday afternoon at the Shannonville United Church hall the U.C.W. held their regular meeting.

The president, Mrs. A. Cook presided and opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Chas. Wood took charge of the devotional. Mrs. S. S. Elliott led in prayer. The Scripture was read by Mrs. W. D. Robertson. The meditation was given by Mrs. George Osborne and Mrs. Wood concluded the worship service with an appropriate prayer.

Mrs. Cook conducted the business session. Reports on the turkey supper and catering at the Belleville livestock sale were given. Mrs. Vivian read the correspondence. Invitations were received from the following societies — Melrose U.C.W. to their bazaar on the evening of November 7; Shannonville Trinity Anglican Guild to their autumn bazaar on November 16. The 1963 officers, chairmen of standing committees and their assistants were re-appointed for 1963. The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. Charles Wood prepared an interesting program on "The strength of the Nation — Mechanical Mice or Men".

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

The next regular meeting will be held December 6 at 8 p.m.

Belleville Theatre Guild Gives Report on Coming Productions

At a recent general meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild presided over by President Mrs. Harry Blanks, members were interested to hear a full report on the coming fall production.

Business manager, Mrs. Charles Wilson stated that rehearsals and construction of sets were well underway at the Campbell Street workshop.

Volunteers are needed at the present moment for sewing costumes, for special effects, and to assist with the many facets of publicity.

Mrs. Wilson informed members that the fall production, a melodrama with music entitled "Love Rides the Rails or Will the Mailtrain Run Tonight," is to be presented from November 27th to December 1st at the Hotel Quinte. Opening night of the production is to be sponsored by Gamma Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

WORKSHOP ACTIVITIES

Mr. Rodger Greig, technical director of the Theatre Guild was called upon for a report of workshop activities. He indicated that sessions are being held each Tuesday at Campbell St. At the present time, voice and movement lessons are being studied with play readings being held on Sundays with members and visitors invited to attend. Mr. Grieg stated that a part of the workshop program would be presented for all members at each general meeting.

A report from the Theatre Parties division was given by Mrs. Charles Wilson, who stated that few tickets remain for the bus tours to "My Fair Lady," at the O'Keefe Centre in Toronto. She also stated that early reservations were advisable for the productions of "Oliver" and "School for Scandal," also taking place at the O'Keefe Centre.

ONE-ACT PLAY

Corresponding secretary Mrs. John Lewis, read to the members an invitation to participate in a One-Act Play Festival that is to take place in Peterborough. She was instructed to decline as dates conflict with plans for the fall production in Belleville.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Greig, who led members in a series of Stage movements designed to establish immediate contact between actors. An interesting voice exercise was also undertaken during the program.

At the conclusion, the president, Mrs. Blanks, announced that the next general meeting would be held at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle St. on December 12, with a special program and Christmas theme.

The meeting concluded with a social hour with refreshments served by members of the executive.

Mysterious Woman Leaves Banff Unusual Paintings

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—A mysterious woman has left this Rocky Mountain resort town a heritage of powerful, unusual oil paintings.

Mrs. N. Drummond - Davis, who came to Banff at the close of the First World War, painted big game animals and scenes of the old west.

The woman, barely five feet tall, used the signature "N. Drummond" on her canvases of grizzly bear, buffalo, moose, mountain goat, mountain sheep and elk.

She managed to capture much of the inherent power and wildness of the beasts. Her most powerful painting, The Prairie Fire, shows a herd of Buffalo stampeding in wild-eyed terror. Pronged deer, coyote and rabbits, their big, soft eyes wide with fright, bound through the dry grasses.

Personal history of the artist is sketchy.

The little place she called home was a rough cabin usually overrun by dogs. Some neighbors say there were as many as 15 cats at a time. But in later years her "cabin" was a modern home and three Airedale dogs.

CHARGED LITTLE

Old timers say she kept herself poor by asking unnecessarily low prices for her work. It was a policy difficult to understand because people wanted her big, colorful paintings and usually there was a ready market for them.

None knew why she came to Banff in the first place.

After husband, an Englishman described as a person with a flare for doing nothing, arrived in the mountain resort shortly after she settled in Banff but soon returned to England. Few people met him and he left no particular impression of himself other than being "the artist's husband."

She was quite independent, did all her own chores, chopped her own wood, patched the cabin roof when it leaked and, as one old-timer remarked, "didn't seem to have too much use for men."

She was a familiar sight in the town of Banff—a small woman on a big horse followed by the three Airedales and a mounting box hung from the saddle by a rope. She needed the box to get on and off the big horse.

Mrs. Drummond-Davis retired to Victoria in 1927 and died there in 1950.

What brought her back to attention was the purchase of her paintings by the Glenbow Foundation of Calgary, a historical research organization devoted to the collection and preservation of western Canadiana.

STUDENT TO DIE

Women's Activities

EGGLETON U.C.W.

MADOC JCT. — Mrs. Warren Harlow was hostess for the November meeting of the Eggleton U.C.W. last Thursday afternoon when 12 adults and one child in attendance.

The president opened the meeting with a hymn of worship and prayer.

Mrs. W. McMullen, the program convener, then took charge and presided over the devotional period. Scripture was read, with the theme "Prayer."

The Scripture reading from St. Matthew 6: 1-14 was given by Mrs. Reid Johnson, followed by the meditation on the lesson read by Mrs. S. Bird.

Offering was gathered by Mrs. Bird Briggs and dedicated with prayer by the minister, Mr. G. Dyson.

The Bible study period, based on, St. John 6: 35-40; Philippians 2: 5-11; and John 14: 1-6, was conducted by Mrs. Bruce Stapley.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Stapley with the program to be governed by Mrs. Warren Harlow.

Mrs. McMullen presented bills for fuel oil for church; gifts and other items.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley reported on calls made. Three get well cards were sent out and one box of fruit.

Mrs. Clarence Fitchett is to order the study book "The Word and the Way," also the Study Guide.

The president requested the members to bring or send in their monthly mite boxes to the December meeting.

The union meeting of the Madoc U.C.W. group of Thanksburg circuit are to meet on next Tuesday afternoon, the 20th at Eggleton United Church.

Mrs. Forde Stapley read a letter of thanks for cards and parcel sent away.

Mrs. Gordon Nelson thanked Eggleton U.C.W. for gift.

Mrs. Harlow thanked Mrs. McMullen, who had prepared the program and Mr. Dyson and all others assisting on the program.

Two poems, "The Trusting Child" and "World Peace" were read by Mrs. Nelson.

The closing prayer from the study book, "Outside the Church's Door" was given by Mrs. McMullen.

The hostess served a dainty lunch and social cup of tea.

WEDDINGS

BROADWORTH — FOX

Baskets of pink gladioli and white Shasta daisies, interspersed with ferns adorned the altar of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, On. tario and white satin bows the guest pews for the marriage of Elizabeth Sally May Fox, of Stirling to Ray Ketchabaw Broadworth, of Madoc, Ontario, at a recent noon ceremony performed by the Rev. W. E. V. Walker, of Belleville, former pastor of the church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Fox of Madoc, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Broadworth, also of Madoc, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Earl Fox, the bride was radiantly lovely in her long, white brocaded satin bridal gown featuring long lily-point sleeves and fitted bodice with round neckline. She wore a matching headdress, white mink stole and a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, a quet of red roses mingled with white stephanotis.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Beverley Hackett, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, gowned in a street-length gown of moss-green nylon tulle; Mrs. Dale Ellis, of Belleville, as senior bride's maid, wore a street-length gown of wild honey nylon tulle; and Miss Barbara Broadworth, sister of the bridegroom, wore a street-length gown of candlelight yellow nylon tulle. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids' flowers were nosegays of white Shasta 'mums centred with yellow roses.

The flower girls were the Misses Laurie and Lynn Broadworth, cousins of the groom. Miss Sharon MacDonald of Glen Miller, and Miss Beth Ann Ketchabaw, of Madoc. All four girls are nieces of the bride, and were dressed in short length of green wool, accented by fur-trimmed collars and cuffs. They wore green velvet ribbon headbands, and carried little baskets of yellow Shasta daisies and 'mums.

William Broadworth of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, attended the bridegroom, brother, while Mr. Bev Hackett of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Allan Broadworth of Beaverton, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers for the guests.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the church parlor, served by the Ladies' Guild.

The bridal table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask linen, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, iced and topped by tall white candles in silver candelabra. The bridal bouquet was completed by the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother; the former in autumn green crepe with black accessories, and a corsage of bronze sweetheart roses, and the latter in blue flowered crepe with blue accessories, and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For travelling to Toronto, Niagara Falls, Waterloo and other points in Western Ontario, the bride wore a blue flowered satin dress with beige accessories and coat, with corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from: Peterborough, Blenheim, Madoc, Campbellford, Beaverton, Guelph, Waterloo, Harold, Glen Miller, Trenton, Toronto and Belleville.

The bride was the honored guest, prior to her marriage, at a miscellaneous shower held at the Belleville apartment of Miss Jean Sutherland and Miss Lynda Taylor, as hostesses, when she was honored by her classmates of the Belleville General Hospital.

Also at the home of Mrs. Francis Jeffrey, of Belleville, with Mrs. Dale Ellis, as hostess, for a miscellaneous shower.

Following the marriage, the bride and bridegroom were honored at a shower held by friends and neighbors of the Madoc community, when they were presented with two end-tables and a coffee table.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadworth are residing in Madoc.

MARK DATE

BERLIN (Reuters) — More than 400 Russians, including an ambassador, three generals, a guard of honor and a band, today paraded at the Soviet war memorial in the British sector of Berlin on the 45th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

BRENNAN — BUCKLEY

A recent lovely wedding was solemnized by the Reverend W. Hamilton in the church of St. Charles Borromeo, Read, Ontario, when Patricia Noreen Buckley of Roslin, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Buckley, was united in marriage to Donald Raymond Brennan, of Marysville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brennan. Multi-colored gladioli and ferns formed a pretty background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Helen Callaghan, organist, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Kathleen Horrigan as she sang a number of wedding hymns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over taffeta featuring a moulded bodice having a Sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves. She wore a crown headdress and fingertip veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her twin sister, Miss Doreen Buckley, of Roslin, and by Mrs. Josephine Hillis, also a sister of the bride, and by Miss Alberta Brennan, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. All were attired in floor-length gowns of de-soie and were pearl neck-laces, the gifts of the bride. Little Miss Barbara Ann Buckley, of Peterborough, niece of the bridegroom, as flowergirl, was charming in her white organdy and lace frock with nosegay of white 'mums.

Master Patrick Buckley, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Gerald Brennan, of Peterborough, Ontario, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Timothy Brennan of London, brother of the bridegroom and by Mr. Harold Buckley, of Shannonville, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in the Read Legion Hall, where the bridal table was daintily appointed with white damask and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by a four-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and centred by a four-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by flickering candles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robert LaMorre are shown following their recent marriage in Saint Peter-in-Chains Church, Trenton, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Jean Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bronson of Tweed, Ontario. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaMorre, also of Trenton.

LAMORRE — BRONSON

Tall standards of assorted fall blooms formed a lovely setting in Saint Peter-in-Chains Church, Trenton, Ontario, for the recent marriage of Marilyn Jean Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bronson of Tweed, to John Robert LaMorre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaMorre of Trenton. The Rev. H. Dunphy officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. Bill Long, Trenton, and included "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in a bridal gown of lily-of-the-valley lace over satin featuring a scalloped neckline accented with seeded pearls and sequins accented by long lily-point sleeves. The back of her dress featured ruffles of lily-of-the-valley lace over net flowing down the back. She wore a rose crown with finger-tip veil set with seed pearls and carried a bouquet of white carnations edged in blue centred with a mauve orchid.

As matron of honor, the bride's sister, Mrs. Glenn Franks of Tweed, was dressed in a floor-length taffeta gown with plain bodice and pleated waistline. She wore a matching headdress and carried a bouquet. Mrs. Bronson of Madoc, sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Nancy LaMorre of Trenton, sister of the bridegroom were attired similarly to the matron of honor. All three carried crescent bouquets of white carnations tied with royal blue taffeta ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. LaMorre are residing at 60A North Park Street, Belleville.

Gamma Mu Hears Talk On Hobbies

The regularly bi-weekly meeting of Gamma Mu was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Heaven.

After the business session a most interesting talk was given by Mrs. George Whitman on, "Beads, Work and Play". She showed part of her rock and gem collection.

She commented made cancer dressings and assembled packages of Christmas tags to be sold for the benefit.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tom Bailey.

The sorority also held a preferential tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hugh Murray, Special guests included Mrs. Victor White an honorary member of the chapter, Mrs. Eben James, a former member of the chapter and the new pledges.

Delicious food was furnished by Mrs. Ed Woodland, Mrs. J. Lewis, Miss Beth Klein, Mrs. Roy Jeffery and Mrs. George Whitman. President Mrs. Roy Jeffery poured tea and the refreshments were served by the social committee, consisting of Mrs. Kenneth Willcocks, Miss Elizabeth Black and Mrs. William Heaven.

Quinte Secondary H-S Assoc. Hears Various Worthy Reports

The November meeting of the Quinte Secondary Home and School Association was held in one of the larger school rooms as the Quinte Secondary is undergoing vast construction. Mr. Cranston presided as chairman.

Mr. Cranston said that several thank-you notes had been received from the various students of awards at commencement and asked whether the association would like to make a motion regarding the reduction of the Dominion Provincial Grant to those who win the Matriculation Scholarship. The decision was to refer the matter to the executive for investigation.

FAR-REACHING RESULTS

Mr. Cranston thanked the principal and staff of Quinte for the efforts they put forth in the commencement exercises. He said that the pupils should realize that the effort of all the pupils, not just those who won awards were of utmost importance as it has far-reaching results in the future.

Mr. Sisson, physical education teacher and coach of the senior football team was the first speaker. His topic was "To Play Or Not To Play." Mr. Sisson gave a most impressive argument for the continuance of football in high schools. He maintained that it fosters the boys responsibility and team play, and stated various instances where the play-ers of the team made up a large percentage of the graduates of high school. He says that there is an element of danger, but no more so than boys are sprinting in automobiles and in swimming. A football team uses all types of physicality and mental agility and thereby promotes the welfare and outlook of those boys.

GUIDANCE WORK

Mr. L. Reid, principal of Quinte gave a talk on the work of the guidance teachers in the course of his remarks, Mr. Reid stated that with the rapidly changing opportunities and the courses now laid before all the students, it is of vital importance that the student choose the vocation best suited to his talents and ability, and the guidance teachers thoroughly acquainted in the individual students, with tests for aptitude and learning capacity, may be able to channel the student into the course suited to him.

Mr. Cranston thanked the speakers, and a short film was shown on the dangers of smoking with relation to cancer. The group then retired to the hostess room where refreshments of tea and biscuits were served and the group held smaller discussions among themselves. Mr. Cranston asked if anyone had anything further to add the gentleman suggested that football be made a Canadian game because of the fact that the likelihood of injuries. It was suggested that a similar film be shown, especially to the students on the ill effects of alcohol.

The executive was reminded of the meeting the third Monday of December, but there will be no meeting held until the 'open house' in January.

Alpha Lambda Chapter Enjoys Masquerade

Members of Alpha Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and their husbands, were welcomed by an intriguing scarecrow at the entrance of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brett's home on the occasion of the sorority's Hallowe'en costume masquerade.

Gay costumes and fantastic disguises along with appropriate decorations added to the festivities.

The social committee, under Mrs. G. Mutlers direction, had prepared a terrifying "Ghost Walk." After screaming and shuddering through the ghost walk, members were impressed with Mr. Brett's realistic Hallowe'en story.

Costumes were judged and Mrs. T. Borelski as "the Beatnik" was selected as the best-dressed woman. Mr. T. Shaw as the "Highwayman" was judged as have the best man's costume. Suitable awards were presented and much hilarity followed.

Sorority members and their husbands enjoyed dancing. A buffet supper was served from a table presided over by a happy - looking jack-o-lantern, flanked by flickering candles.

Missionary Tells of Need

Centre United Church, Amelias burg was filled to capacity last Sunday morning for anniversary services when the guest speaker was the Rev. Stanley Hawley, missionary from Pusan, Korea.

Mr. Hawley, his wife and children are home on furlough after being in Korea for the past five years.

He gave an inspiring message, telling of the great work being done in that country and of the great work yet to be accomplished. He referred to the need for money in intensive study of the language in this country. It cost about one million dollars to build a hospital, he says, but how far that amount could go in the mission fields to help those in need.

Mr. Hawley said that 'last year one person died every 12 minutes from tuberculosis in Korea and many lack the funds for medicine and help to try to combat the disease.

In that small heavenly populated country where every seven per cent are Christians, much is being done by the United Church and other churches, but the need is still great. Not only should one give what he can in money, but the prayers of each one are needed too.

Mr. Hawley his, wife and three children spent the week-end with the former's parents Mr. Ronald Giles and family of Ameliasburg.

He will left the service feeling that they were not grateful enough for what they had.

WEDDING

PARKS — DOREY

DESERONTO — On Saturday, November 2, at 10:30 a.m. a lovely fall wedding was solemnized in St. Vincent De Paul Church, Deseronto, when Therese Anne Delores Dorey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Dorey was united in marriage to Mr. Douglas Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Parks of Napanee.

White 'mums adorned the altar for the double ring ceremony, when the Rev. J. E. Farrell officiated. Also in the sanctuary were the Rev. G. T. Martin of Kingston and the Rev. Rev. Feeney of Enterprise.

The Nuptial Mass was served by the bride's cousins, Mr. Michael Rivers of Belleville, and Mr. Daniel Horrigan of Roslin.

White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. C. J. Edwards rendered the wedding music and sang "Ave Maria," "O Perfect Love," "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" and "He Shall Feed Thy Flocks."

The little flower girl, Miss Charlene Doyle of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was demure in an ice blue peau de soi frock with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of white 'mums.

Mr. J. Francis, brother-in-law, was groomsman, while Mr. Herb Parks, brother of the bridegroom, and Andre McMillan of Corbyville, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at St. Charles, Read, Parish hall, where the bride's table was centred with wedding cake flanked by the bridal bouquets.

The guests were received by the bride's mother attired in champagne brocaded satin two-piece dress with brown fur trim and brown accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom's mother, who assisted in the receiving line was gowned in brocaded taffeta sheath beige dress with matching accessories, and corsage of red roses.

The Rev. Leo Bryne of Wolfe Island, was toastmaster.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in floor-length white brocade satin bridal gown, featuring a bell-shaped skirt, extending to a chapel train, fitted bodice, with round neckline, and long sheath like lily-point sleeves.

A pearl coronet, held in place her shoulder length silk illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and trailing ivy, centred with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. J. Francis of Toronto was matron of honor, wearing ice blue street-length dress of peau de soie with full skirt, with matching headdress and carried white 'mums. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Melville Hagerty of Tamworth, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Catharine Larkin of Plainfield who wore bronze peau de soie in Ballerina length, with pill box headdresses to match and carried white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and points east, the bride chose a two-piece brown double knit suit with velvet hat and beige accessories and mauve orchid corsage.

Guests were in attendance from Deseronto, Napanee, Read, Long's Head, Toronto, Hamilton, Corbyville, Belleville, Point Anne, Ottawa, La Salette, Ont., Plainfield, Montreal, Que., Kempiville and Rochester, N.Y.

St. George's Guild Holds Successful Autumn Tea

By two's, three's, and in groups the guests, many in number, visited St. George's Chapel on Station Street yesterday afternoon to enjoy the dainty tea and bazaar sponsored by St. George's Guild.

Receiving at the door was the president, Mrs. E. R. Walsh, and receiving the dues, Mrs. W. Searn, both of whom extended a most gracious welcome into an atmosphere teeming with activity, the delicious aroma of freshly baked pies, of several different varieties: lemon, coconut cream, raspberry, apple and coconut-pineapple date and orange tarts; mouth-watering rum-berry tarts and taffy tarts; homemade brown bread; buns; nut-topped maple-leaf loaf cake edged with whole walnut meats; date squares; and cinnamon buns. Mrs. L. Garrow assisted by Mrs. L. Collins, and Mrs. S. Turner were kept busy packaging these confections.

LUSCIOUS MAPLE CREAMS

The candy booth had a number of little red-covered cups filled with dainty chocolate fudge; luscious maple creams and peanut brittle. There were also cellophane bags containing these varieties, all most tempting. Convening these were, Mrs. H. Sharp, Miss A. Doctor and Mrs. H. Armstrong.

On the apron counter one could find almost any type and color of apron: some in ball designs, and others of the all-purpose, and all-over type so much appreciated by the busy housewife. Other articles included lovely crib quilts; knit socks for children; mitts of many colors, red, grey, green, black, brown and yellow; any pair of these would be most welcome for snow playing. There were little dressed dolls, all seated in a circle, in blues and pinks, in knit costumes, and one doll, a gown-up lady doll, was in pink; dainty crocheted bath towels and some with pink roses on a white background, with fringed edges; sets of dolls' wear-ables; pillow slips embroidered; and on the wall, big red Christmas stockings, a gentle reminder that Christmas was peeping out at everyone from just around the corner. In charge of these fine articles were: Mrs. R. Clegg, Mrs. W. Ferguson, Mrs. A. Howe and Mrs. C. Matthews.

Mrs. W. Collyer and Mrs. Hall had charge of the flowers and vegetables which included packaged winter bouquets of colorful everlasting flowers, Japanese lanterns, baby's breath, bright bittersweet, purple Statis, money flowers with their paper-white tissue seed pods; as well as cut flowers of wine, white and dark russet chrysanthemums. The vegetables were six-quart baskets of golden-orange carrots.

The touch-and-take had an assortment of bundles of colorful ball point pens, and a bottle of shampoo, convened by the candy conveners.

After the patrons had made their purchases, they were escorted to the little quartet tables, each one with its white cloth and centrepiece of a tiny Japanese lantern, where they were served by Mrs. F. Askey, Mrs. L. Quick, Miss Ann Briens, Mrs. M. Coleman, Mrs. Markle and Mrs. Anderson.

REFRESHING

Those who replenished the oft-emptied trays of tiny cakes and sandwiches were Mrs. G. McLeod, Mrs. A. Briens, Mrs. G. Jenkinson, while making tea were Mrs. G. Gulliver, Mrs. G. Button and Miss Towner.

Those who presided at the prettily appointed tea table with its white damask cloth, centred by a tall white vase containing beautiful pink snapdragons and lovely dark red velvety roses and at either end the gleaming silver services were Mrs. R. Fleming, wife of the rector of Christ Church; Mrs. E. P. Smith, wife of the assistant rector of Christ Church; Mrs. G. G. Wright, wife of the late G. G. Wright, former rector of Christ Church, and Mrs. E. Hickey.

Appreciative thanks go to Mrs. D. Domsely, convener of the tea room for a delightful and dainty tea.

Brunette Ballet Dancer Likes Jive, Twist and Jazz

By IRA DRYSDALE

HALIFAX (CP) — Roberta Mills is a slight brunette ballet dancer just out of high school who likes jiving, jazz and the twist.

Shes 18 and already has her own business—teaching ballet to 150 children in the Halifax-Dartmouth area. Its a six-day-a-week job but still leaves her time to take a few courses at Dalhousie University.

Born in Montreal, Roberta started dancing when she was four. She explains that her mother sent her to dancing school then because she was born in December. She was a little too young to start grade school with her playmates and her mother decided to give her dancing lessons "for something to do.

She has studied ballet in Montreal, Toronto, New York and Halifax, where she is still taking instruction.

The five-foothree, 110pound dancer disagrees with those who think its bad to start ballet young. If it is properly taught, four or five years old is not too young, she says.

HELPS POSTURE

"It helps posture, provides grace . . . and can take off inches.' If improperly taught, however, it would do serious harm, causing muscular and bone damage.

"Ballet is the most important thing for me," Roberta says, "but I don't eat, drink and sleep ballet. I go to dances and twist and jive, and enjoy it just as much as any other teen-ager."

However, she regards these dances as "passing fancies" and feels that two or three twists an evening are plenty.

Bobby, as her friends call her, says that dancing is more demanding than most office jobs available to a girl her age. "You've got to give everything you have. It takes a lot of planning and worrying . . . You've got to be dedicated or not a success at all."

Business has been good but while she makes enough to pay her mother board, buy her clothes and neatly cover expenses, she's got to be careful not to throw her profits away.

Interest in ballet has been on the rise here and she hopes that with the opening of a repertory theatre there may be more chances for her and her pupils to perform publicly.

WOODLEY FURRIERS

58th

ANNIVERSARY FUR SALE

BEGINS TOMORROW MORNING AT 9 O'CLOCK

A long time ago, in October 1904 to be exact, the Woodley Fur Business was opened in a house on Charlotte Street in Belleville. It quickly outgrew this modest beginning and in the spring of 1905 it moved to its present location. A few years later the store next door was added to take care of the ever increasing business. Many changes have taken place in this time. The one thing that has not changed is the policy established by Mr. George T. Woodley of having their customers' interests of first importance. Their thousands of customers have proved the wisdom of this policy. The sons, who now carry on this family business, abide strictly by the principles established by their father 58 years ago. Their way of saying "thank you" is the outstanding values they are now offering during their Great 58th Anniversary Fur Sale.

United Church Presents Variety Show

WELLINGTON — On a recent Saturday evening the Orange Hall in Allisonville was filled to see the Variety Show put on by the Wellington United Church Hi C Club.

Mr. Ben Gibson acted as chairman and welcomed all. The program consisted of various acts and numbers, as follows: a duet, "Love Ma Tender" and "Hello Mary Lou" by Elaine Bishop and Sharon McNeill; comedy number by Don Ward; solo, "Roses Are Red", by Judy Pettingill; dance routine by the Stepettes, Elaine Bishop, Sharon McNeill, Brenda Burley and Connie Allison; duet, "Just A Closer Walk With Thee", by Madeline Rverall and Chuck Rutter; musical selections by the Everalls; dance "Mr. Tap Toe", by Carol and Connie Allison; a skit, "Jane's Bright Idea", by Velma Vanderwater.

The Barber Shop Trio, Don Ward, Bill Moore and David Gatehouse sang, "There's A Tavern In the Town", a pantomime by Beverley Hicks, "Her First Trip to the Movies"; "Ghost Dance" by Patsy Allison and Ann Miller; a solo, Beverly Wannamaker; "Echo Valley", Dave, Dick, Dennis Dick with John Rolston as the echo; Baton Twist, by the Stepettes; solo, "Stranger on the Shore", Barbara Shortt; duet by Madeline Everall and Chuck Rutter; "Making A Pie" Mr. Dart; piano solo "Alley Cat", by Velma Vanderwater and finally a song by the Barber Shop Trio.

All later enjoyed a sing-song around the piano.

The performers did such a fine job that the judges, Miss Valleau, Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. Burr had quite a time to decide on the prize winners, who are as follows; seniors, The Everalls, with their musical selections came first; the Barber Shop Trio, second; and Don Ward with his comedy numbers took third prize.

In the junior numbers, Patsy Allison and Ann Miller, with their Ghost Dance, took first Elaine Bishop and Sharon McNeill, singing a duet, were second and the dance routine by the Steppettes came third.

A special prize went to Judy Pettingell for her singing, which everyone there enjoyed.

Women's Institutes

WALLBRIDGE W. I.

WALLBRIDGE—The regular meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Nicolson, with the president, Mrs. Morley Phillips in the chair.

Following the secretary's report several business matters were dealt with. A $10 donation was voted to Bunnymede Hospital for polio.

The leaders and assistants for the fall Homemaking Club "Separates for Summer" were appointed as follows: Wallbridge 1., Mrs. O. Chisholm, Mrs. H. Knight and Mrs. L. J. Ketchenson. Wallbridge II., Mrs. D. Shorey and Mrs. G. Garrison.

Mrs. C. Fair, Mrs. H. Phillips, Mrs. G. Evans and Mrs. A. Carleton were appointed to canvas for the blind.

Mrs. A. Spencer gave the topic on historical research, also current events.

The draw was won by Mrs. H. Ketchenson. The meeting was closed after which the hostess and committee served refreshments.

ALBURY W. I.

ALBURY — The Redners-ville Women's Institute held the recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Weese with about 35 being present. The president, Mrs. Mac Wallbridge, presided.

A letter was read from the W.I.'s boy in Hong Kong whom the W.I. is sponsoring.

The convenors, Mrs. Harry Adams, for "Canadian Industries," took charge and gave "Current Events," and also introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Jack Tweed, of Port Hope who showed pictures and told of the Nickolson File Company, giving each lady a file. He also showed other films.

Miss Linda Peck gave the highlights of her trip to Washington and New York on the United Nations tour, which everyone enjoyed.

An auction sale, "Something I've Made, Sewn or Grown," caused much humor.

The hostess and her assistants served lunch.

A vote of thanks was extended to hostess and everyone who helped with the program and lunch.

OPENS BUILDING

LONDON (CP) — The Queen opened the new Commonwealth Institute building here Tuesday and toured the permanent exhibition of Commonwealth geography and history. The new building, valued at $1,800,000, was built with contributions from all the Commonwealth countries.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Secret Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Honor Student Can't Afford University

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My June examination average was 77 per cent. My father cannot afford to give me more education. I want to go in for a dietitian. If I do go to university, I will have to work for a year first anyway to earn some money. By the time I'm finished the course I would be 24. Do you think this is too old?

One big problem that is bothering me is that I have never gone out with a boy in my life, and I have don't want to be an old maid. Do you think if I went to university I would get a chance to date much?—LOVE TO COOK.

DEAR LOVE—Don't give up university without a struggle. You have the I.Q. for it and the urge! Working for a year is all to the good. No age (well, hardly any) is too old to graduate; certainly not 24.

It's folly to attend college just for dates. But when you get there, enjoy them. It's a fertile source of marriages; happy ones, to boot!

DEAR DORIS—My husband drinks a lot and has since before we were married ten years ago. I have given up hope that he will quit and since he provides well for me and the children, I pay little attention to it.

What worries me is this: He talks about me to anyone that is willing to listen. He is constantly trying to belittle me and insinuates that I am having affairs with other men. Moreover, he does most of his drinking in some public place and I am not there to correct these lies.

Lately I have noticed people looking at me rather oddly when I go uptown and a number of women friends no longer call. I have asked him to stop but it does no good. Have you any ideas?—BELITTLED AND WORRIED.

DEAR BELITTLED—He belittles, he accuses, he drinks, because he feels inferior. His lies about you reflect upon himself, though he doesn't realize this.

Could you persuade him that he is important to you? Perhaps a contact with the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Foundation, 24 Harbord Street, Toronto 5, Ontario, would help you see his real problem.

DEAR DORIS—How should a newly wed wife act on finding out, after only four weeks of marriage, that her 37-year-old husband is definitely carrying on an affair with another married, experienced and apparently passionate woman?

My husband and I had agreed that we would do everything to lead our marriage to the highest possible standard. How is this possible under these circumstances? Infidelity in my opinion is low, mean and dirty. How can two persons grow together towards their noble goal if a third person takes such an important place?—CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED — It's beyond me. We don't have harems in Canada and I can't see any noble goal ahead where there is such an obstacle to hurdle. In this case, there is no substitute for a frank discussion. Your marriage should not have to withstand this kind of competition.

P.S.—A stamped, self-addressed envelope would get you a more detailed reply to this by mail.

(Do you wonder why people act the way they do? Ask Doris about it. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

N.B. Woman To Represent All Mothers

CARAQUET, N.B. (CP)—Mrs. Dominique Lamontelgne, 75, is the first New Brunswick woman to represent Canadian mothers in Remembrance Day wreath-placing ceremonies at the National War Memorial in Ottawa.

She was selected for the Nov. 11 observance by the dominion command of the Royal Canadian Legion. Three of her sons were killed in action in 1944, and two others were wounded.

The date—Nov. 11—is also the 94th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lamontelgne. She and her 83-year-old husband both enjoy good health in their home in this community in northeast New Brunswick, where Mrs. Lamontelgne was born. Eight of their 13 children are living, with 41 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The three sons killed in the summer of 1944 were Jean Baptiste, of La Chaudiere Regiment; Philippe of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps and Arthur, of the Royal 22nd Regiment. The two wounded were Daniel, Maisonneuve Regiment, and Lucien, Montreal Fusiliers.

Daniel lives here and Lucien in Montreal. Other members of the family are sons Jean-Eudes and Michel, Montreal, and Alexandre of Salmon Lake, Que., and daughters Mrs. Hugh Johnson, Mrs. Fernand Carpentier and Mrs. Fred Bouchard, all of Montreal. Two children died in infancy.

ACTRESS IS PRESENT

LONDON (Reuters)—English actress Dame Peggy Ashcroft was present Monday night to inaugurate a £300,000 ($840,000) theatre named after her in suburban Croydon, her birthplace.

Christmas Baking Is In Progress

by Mary Moore

Since we are all members of the same Canadian cooking club you should be told by the chairman that fruit cakes are being made in our kitchen. We have a temporary addition to our staff — an opthalmologist-on-leave no less — my niece Beverley. She is making our experimental white fruit cakes. I must add quickly that our featured fruit cake for 1962 is almost black though. It is an old-fashioned recipe and is moist and chuck full of fruits and nuts and other good stuff.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Pan-Fried Pickerel Fillets; Lemon; Boiled White Onions with Cheese Sauce; Carrot Coins in Parsley Butter; Relish Tray: Cucumber Slices and Green Pepper Rings; Mince Pie; Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

Today I want to give you the starter white fruit cake that Beverley made. Slices of it are on our desks right now since we are doing some last minute tasting — what a delicious duty! This cake is notable for the universal popularity of its flavor and its slicing quality and the beauty of the slices. We are making another light fruit cake too, that calls for an abundance of pecans — but that will come to you later in the month.

Do you want to get going on some Christmas baking?

STARTER WHITE FRUIT CAKE:

1 cup butter, 1 cup white sugar, 5 eggs, 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup blanched almonds, 1 cup finely sliced citron peel (see below), ½ cup red candied cherries, sliced, ½ cup green candied cherries, sliced, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Cream the butter until pale and fluffy, then gradually add the sugar as you beat. When butter-sugar mixture is airy and light beat in eggs one at a time, beating each one in thoroughly. Mix ½ cup of the required flour with all of the fruits and nuts until they are coated. (Beverley found that shredding the citron peel on the ¼" wide shredder was most efficient. Chopping or slicing a "cup" of citron by hand takes too long and the ready-cut dice seemed too chunk to me.) Sift sifted flour, baking powder and salt over batter and mix in. Add lemon rind and juice. Fold in floured fruits and nuts and stir well. Line 9 x 5 x 4" loaf pan with three thicknesses of wax paper and butter the top one. Turn in batter and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2¼ hours, having water pan below during baking. Cool in pan. Turn out on cake rack to glaze (if desired): Combine ½ cup sifted icing sugar with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, and 1 tablespoon water. Beat well. Brush on top of cooled cake.

EXPANDS KNOWLEDGE — Mrs. Howard Green, wife of Canada's external affairs minister, is adding to her long-time interest in Canadian history. Before her marriage in 1956, she was a biochemist and later taught micrology at the University of British Columbia. Since moving to Ottawa, Mrs. Green has turned to reading many books on history.—(CP Photo).

Mrs. H. Green Takes New Interest in History

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP) — Since her husband became Canada's external affairs minister, Mrs. Howard Green has taken a new interest in history — but still tries to keep abreast of developments in scientific fields which she specialized before her marriage.

Mrs. Green, a soft-spoken woman who wins friends with her quiet charm, has read many books on Canadian history since coming to Ottawa.

"I think one is more conscious of history here and one becomes more interested in it," she said in an interview.

Before her 1956 marriage, Mrs. Green taught micrology at the University of British Columbia. Her classes from 1951 to 1956 were composed of advanced students and "that kept me on my toes."

She still attempts to keep up with the science but finds less and less time to devote to the papers and journals she would like to read.

TRAVELS WIDELY

Much of her time is spent accompanying Mr. Green to sessions of the United Nations in New York, disarmament conferences in Geneva and NATO meetings in various European centres. She has found this "an education."

In Ottawa, the Greens attend many diplomatic functions. Among them are parties marking the national days of various countries represented in Canada.

"These become more interesting as time goes on because you get to know so many more people.' But one disadvantage of diplomatic life is that friends are always being moved away and "I just hate to see them go."

The former Donna Enid Kerr she was born to Scottish parents in Rossland in the British Columbia interior, where her father was a dentist. She was educated there and at Victoria before enrolling as one of three girls in the chemistry course at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

After graduation she became interested in medical chemistry while working at the Vancouver General Hospital and later became the hospital's chief biochemist.

BACTERIOLOGY EXPERT

Her interest then shifted to bacteriology and she worked for a time at the Prince Albert Sanitarium before becoming assistant director and a chemist with the B.C. provincial health laboratories. Later she dropped chemistry to become a specialist in bacteriology and from there she moved to the field of micrology.

Much of her heavy correspondence is with former employees and students who tell her about their work. She gets reprints of research work and a number of scientific journals.

When in New York, she takes advantage of free mornings or afternoons to visit libraries, museums and art galleries.

"No one need be lonesome in New York," she says.

But she doesn't visit the shops. "I'm a poor shopper and shop only when I have to."

She buys most of her clothes in Vancouver, because she knows the stores there and likes to buy Canadian goods.

In winter Mrs. Green enjoys curling—she took it up about three years ago as a substitute for skiing—and in summer she plays golf. "I don't golf nearly as much as I'd like to and my game has deteriorated."

She shares with her husband a great love for the outdoors and they often take a picnic supper up to the nearby Gatineau Park on warm summer days. She also likes to play bridge—"serious bridge."

Mr. Green's hometown of Kaslo is near her native Rossland and she was a college classmate of his first wife, the former Marion Jean Mounce, who died in 1953.

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Card Party

STIRLING — On Friday evening, November 2nd, Mrs. Ross Bush, Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh and Mrs. Vernon Harry were in charge of the initial card party sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute at the school.

There were 12 tables in play and the proceeds amounted to almost $18. with 22 guests in attendance from Stirling, English Line, Carmel, Marsh Hill, Mount Pleasant and other points.

The prizes were awarded as follows: ladies' high — Mrs. J. R. Donohoe low — Miss Sally McAdam; men's high — John Kane, and low — Lloyd Dafoe.

At the close of the card playing, refreshments were served with Messrs. Ross Bush and Sheldon McIntosh assisting with the serving. There will be four more card parties this month.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

Many taxpayers become confused regarding what claim they should make, if any, for foster children. A foster child is one whom the taxpayer has both the custody and control, and if he can satisfy the tax department that both of these conditions are complied with, then an exemption for such a child would be allowed.

A case in point would be where a taxpayer has taken in an orphan to raise and educate and in no way received any remuneration on behalf of the child.

A case where he would not be allowed an exemption would be where a child is boarded in a private home by the Children's Aid Society. In these cases the Children's Aid Society retain the control of the child and may remove it at anytime they wish. The taxpayer would not have full custody and control, thus prohibiting any claim for exemption on behalf of the child.

The allowable exemption where the child qualifies is $250 if under sixteen years of age and $500 if over. If the taxpayer is single, divorced, legally separated or a widow(er) the claim for equivalent exemption of $1000 would be in order. This would apply where a widow maintaining a home took in foster children to raise and educate them.

When in doubt as to the validity of a claim consult with your nearest Income Tax Office or write a full explanation on a separate sheet of paper and attach it to your tax return.

QUESTIONS

Question 1—We have taken a child from an orphanage with the intention of adopting it if both of us are mutually agreeable. Can we claim any exemption for the child?

Answer — No. When the child is legally adopted you will be entitled to a claim.

Question 2—We have been awarded custody of a child from a broken home, as neither parent is considered fit and proper person to raise the child. Can we claim exemption for this child?

Answer—Yes, you may claim exemption for such a child until such time as the courts decide otherwise as to custody.

ANIMAL TROUBLE

Blind 'Newsy' Sold to Many Politicians

OTTAWA (CP) — George Blake, a 64 - year - old blind "newsy," will retire Friday after 40 years of selling newspapers to many of Canada's leading politicians.

From his booth in the Confederation Building near Parliament Hill, he got to know such men as Mackenzie King and former agriculture minister Charles Gardiner.

More recently he's counted Agriculture Minister Hamilton, Labor Minister Starr and Justice Minister Fleming among his friends.

"Mr. Fleming became a great pal of mine while he was finance minister," Mr. Blake said. "We used to chat every morning." Mr. Fleming moved out of the building when he changed his portfolio.

In 40 years of dealing with the public, Mr. Blake hasn't become cynical. "A few people will always try to cheat you," he said. "But by and large people are pretty good."

TIPS DWINDLED

His best years were during the Second World War when papers sold for two cents and most people gave him a nickle and told him to "keep the change.' Though tips have since dwindled, he's proud that he's paid his way and never had to live on a blind pension.

Over the years he discovered that older people were interested in war news but younger people got more excited about a murder.

"But the biggest attention-getter of all is (mayor) Charlotte Whitton. I never have to worry selling my papers the day she's in the headlines."

SAUDIS FREE SLAVES

Child of Three Guides Blind Glasgow Couple

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) A blind man and his almost blind wife have a child to lead them. She's only three years old.

Wearing a leather harness, Marjory Proffitt leads her mother and father along the neighborhood's streets, across traffic intersections and in and out of stores.

"I trust her judgment," said Edward Proffitt, 37, who is totally blind.

"She is a golden blessing to us both," said Mrs. Proffitt, 25. "My eyesight is very poor. I can only just see. I couldn't go out in safety without Marjory."

In her harness, with one of her parents holding a lead attached to it, Marjory has become a familiar sight in her part of Glasgow.

Policemen salute her and hold up traffic. Store managers and sales people treat her with special consideration.

"We don't know how she understands," said her mother, "but she does."

She will lead her mother to the newsstand and say "papers." Then she will enter a grocery, walk to a counter and say "potatoes."

And then to the cashier where she'll say "pay money, mommie."

Marjory has been her mother's and father's eyes for more than six months.

LIFT JEWELS

ROME (AP)—Three bandits Monday made off with $64,000 in jewels in a daylight raid on one of Rome's most fashionable jewelry stores. One bandit smashed the store window. He and a friend grabbed a batch of jewels and rushed to the car, where the third bandit waited, ported to have led one Los An-

Housewife Wanted to Return Groceries After Crisis Passed

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—At the height of the Cuban crisis, when scores realized this highly sensitive nuclear target crept to the edge of panic and then retreated, an element of sad humor tended to diffuse terror of the bomb.

Picture the irate housewife who indignantly demanded her money back when it became evident the crisis was receding.

"Not on your life," said the manager of a big food store when the housewife tried to return $20 worth of canned goods the day after Soviet Premier Khrushchev agreed to withdraw the missiles from Cuba.

"You bought the groceries and you'll keep them," he said.

The housewife was one of a vast number of Washingtonians who rushed the food stores after President Kennedy announced the Caribbean naval blockade. On Friday and Saturday of that dangerous week they stood in long lines, waiting to get through the cashiers with huge stacks of tinned food, including many fish and meat.

One woman was seen looking frantically for canned bread which she had overlooked.

STRIPPED STORE

"They just about stripped my store of canned goods," said one supermarket manager. "I never saw anything like it."

He said one woman purchased $60 worth of groceries on Saturday—the day Khrushchev appeared to agree to the price, demanding Turkey missile withdrawals in exchange—and then drove off, forgetting to take the groceries with her.

It appeared to be the same kind of uneasiness that was re-geles housewif to buy a dozen cartons of detergents with her groceries—for what purpose no one seemed to know.

Tension trends were far removed, however, from the anti-social feelings that accompanied the Berlin crisis a year ago. At that time many Washington residents didn't think so much of food as fallout shelters and the urgent need to buy rifles to shoot down neighbors who might try to get in.

Yet an element of unreality persisted. Newspapers bemoaned the fact that Washington had decided to build a $10,000,000 aquarium — but didn't have enough money in its treasury to provision makeshift fallout shelters for its schoolchildren.

Gore

GORE — Mr. Bert Hatfield is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Dr. Dempsey's many friends are sorry to know she is a patient in the hospital and trust she may make a prompt and complete recovery.

Mrs. Bray Noyes has returned home after sometime in the hospital.

The schools entertained the pupils to Hallowe'en fun on Wednesday afternoon. In the evening, Victoria S.S. sponsored a party in the church basement for the community. A large crowd gathered and enjoyed a hilarious time ending with a lunch of sandwiches, doughnuts and cider.

Thanks are extended to Mrs. Weatherd, Mrs. Montgomery and Mr. Bruce Vandlief who planned the evening's fun.

Mr. Melvin Pulver was in Picton during the week on jury duty.

New Post Office Will Be Built In Odessa

ODESSA (Special) — This village is to have a new federal building — to be erected this winter.

A. Doug Alkenbrack, M.P., Prince - Edward - Lennox, announced Tuesday that tenders on the new post office building — the first of its kind in Kreestown Township, will be called immediately.

The site — with-a- 100-foot frontage is on the south side of the village's main street.

The building will be a modern brick structure, similar to the Wellington post office in Prince Edward County.

It will be built under the winter works program.

Meantime, Mr. Alkenbrack also has announced a Picton firm as the low bidder in tenders called for dredging Long Point harbor, at the southwest tip of Amherst Island.

The successful bid was entered by Meintzch Bros., of Picton and Milford.

The Amherst Island project is expected to be concluded before the winter freeze-up.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1962

Arsenic control program is biggest and costliest phase of clean-up operations now underway at the closed down plant of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Ltd. Here men and machines work to cover with earth the plant arsenite refuse deposit. The refuse deposit is 60 per cent lime and 40 per cent arsenic.

Plant Closed Down in '61 Once Employed 500 People, Deloro Village Refuses to Die

Deloro village in Centre Hastings has ceased to exist as an industrial centre, but as a municipality it has refused to die.

Less than a decade ago, in 1953, to be exact, the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. Ltd. employed approximately 500 persons of whom 100 key personnel and workers lived in the company owned village.

Then when production of cobalt became no longer profitable, the company decided to throw in the sponge on its Deloro operations which had flourished for more than half a century.

In March 1961 the plant was closed down following a tapering off process and today only about 25 men are working on demolition and clean-up operations.

Although still far from completion even this work will shortly be closed out for the winter months.

OFFERED FOR SALE

When plant operations shut down about 18 months ago the 45 houses in the company-owned village were put for sale and were snapped up at prices ranging up to $900.

Many of the purchasers were retired people, while other buyers included people now working at Marmoraton Mines or in Marmora village. All houses in the village, with the exception of the manager's residence and plant staff house have been sold and these will be sold for demolition.

During the heyday of plant operations the reeve of the company owned-village has traditionally been the plant manager. But with the closing of the plant and resultant sale of the houses the residents have named their own reeve and council.

They see no reason why the village cannot continue as a separate municipality, this despite the fact that with the cessation of plant operations and demolition of buildings the village assessment has decreased from $290,000 to $160,000.

And the feeling is shared by Reeve William Regan, long-time plant employee and resident of the village.

HAVE GENERAL STORE

The Deloro General Store, now owned and operated by Mrs. Claude Nichol and her mother Mrs. Gertrude Kelly, still continues to be the meeting place for village residents. Mrs. Nichol also acts as postmaster. And the two-roomed village public school which only two years ago saw its enrolment swindle to 17 students, now has 65 pupils registered.

The reason for this is that the village is "selling" education to Marmora township, which transports its children primarily closed small rural schools to the Deloro school.

And the village has taken an option on the former company manager's house which is being used for municipal offices and as a village hall.

"The village is renting the building with the option of purchase," village solicitor William Regan.

The purchasing agent for the Deloro company, Reeve Regan is supervising demolition of arsenic contaminated buildings and clean-up operations.

BIG ARSENIC DEPOSIT

One of the biggest and costliest phases of the general clean-up at Deloro is its program of arsenic control which eventually will see a large refuse area of arsenite covered over with arsenic free earth.

The white arsenite deposit, actually residue from years of gold mining, is 60 per cent lime and 40 per cent arsenic and if left uncovered would be a potential health danger.

The general clean-up operation is expected to take at least another year. All plant buildings will not be immediately demolished however.

Remaining will be the chemical and research laboratory buildings built about 30 years ago and also the primary treatment plant also of more modern construction than the structures which already have gone under the wreckers' hammer.

The two laboratory buildings, either of which could have many potential private uses, are up for sale as are the manager's residence and the staff house. The latter two structures will be sold for demolition.

The history of Deloro goes back well before the turn of the century and commenced with the operation of a gold mine which operated until 1903.

The gold mine was of high arsenic content and a special type mill was constructed for its processing. The later operation of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company grew from the operation of the original gold mine.

In later years, however, all ore processed at Deloro was shipped in from Cobalt, Ont. and later from French Morocco. Morroco ore had been used almost exclusively in recent years.

Peak operation at the plant saw about 500 persons employed in 1953, following which operations tapered off and there were but 150 working when the plant closed.

The village was incorporated in 1918. Since then its Reeve has attended Hastings county council. Traditionally the plant manager had always been the reeve.

Assessment in the village was only for services since the mine company owned all the houses and properties and paid all the bills. The houses were rented out to employees at a nominal figure.

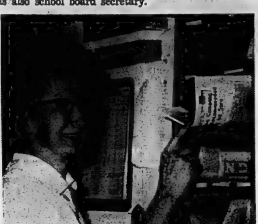
HAD FINE BALL TEAM

In recent years the Deloro reeve has been Charles Buskard (now retired) with Carl Whittemore being the last manager-reeve (1961).

A subsidiary of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company is Deloro Stellite in Belleville which manufactures heat resistant castings. When the Stellite division was moved to Belleville some years ago, employees in this division were given the opportunity of continuing their jobs at the new location.

To the sports minded, possibly the name of Deloro is best remembered by the Deloro Smelters baseball team for many years contenders for the Ontario senior baseball championship.

In fact the present reeve was one of the few "resident" players on the team. Many of the team players were university students who worked at the plant during the summer season. Mr. Regan played third base for the Smelters. He came to Deloro shortly after World War I.



Transformation of the village from a plant owned municipality into the conventional set-up of council, school board and other bodies has meant a lot of work and Reeve Regan has enjoyed the experience.

He says council will continue as reeve is a question. At least Mrs. Regan feels he should not.

"It's too much for him", she says.

Deloro Reeve, William Regan, and clerk, Michael Corrigan, check papers on plant clean-up operations. In addition to clerk position Mr. Corrigan is also school board secretary.

Deloro "postmaster" Mrs. Claude Nichol, sorts mail for the 45 householders in the village.

Election Briefs

BOSTON (AP)—A 41-year-old Polish refugee, arrested Monday night for ringing a bell outside the hotel where President Kennedy was staying before voting in the U.S. election, explained in court Tuesday he wanted to "warn the president and the American people of the dangers of communism." Josef Miot-Miros was fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

Chief Justice Elijah Adlow told Miot-Miros: "You are not going to drive communism away that way."

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon cast his ballot early Tuesday, breakfasted in a $200,000 home - turned - polling place, and gave an impromptu five-minute piano recital.

Among the tunes: Missouri Waltz, Home on the Range, Merrily We Roll Along and Battle Hymn of the Republic.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of alleged violations of election laws were received Tuesday from at least five states, the justice department reported.

For a general election, the number of complaints was about average, officials indicated.

The department said complaints had come from California, Florida, West Virginia, Kentucky, Utah and possibly some others. These usually involved charges that "unsigned scurrilous" campaign literature had been used.

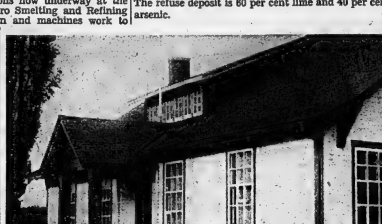
READSBORO, Vt. (AP)—Mrs. Kenalene Collins, running on what she termed a "crooked platform," won election Tuesday to the Vermont state legislature.

Mrs. Collins, a Republican, defeated independent Raymond Crosier 143 to 122.

The woman campaigned on having Highway 8-100 straightened. The four-mile stretch of highway has 35 curves, 22 of them blind.

RCAF Plane Lands Safely At Marville

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCAF North Star transport plane that developed engine trouble over the Atlantic landed safely at Marville, France, the RCAF said Tuesday night.



The plane landed at the RCAF base, its original destination, after the pilot had radioed that he would land at Ireland's Shannon Airport with one of the four engines shut down.

Later he reported that the emergency was cancelled.

The plane carried 18 passengers.

CHOOSY EATER

Not content with acorns, the red squirrel gathers mushrooms and lets them dry out for winter eating.

Former plant general office is now being used by village residents as recreational building. Village is renting buildings with option of buying.

Grey Cup Telecast Still Up in Air

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of Broadcast Governors goes into a private huddle here Tuesday over one of the season's most controversial off - field football squabbles.

Out of the board's closed-door session—failing a prior settlement—may emerge the television fate of the 1962 Grey Cup game.

With less than four weeks left before the Dec. 1 football classic in Toronto, no agreement has yet been reached between the publicly-owned CBC and the private CTV television network in their festering dispute over the telecast of the game.

The BBG — regulatory body in Canadian broadcasting — stands firm on its contention that the public interest can be served only if it is possible for TV viewers to see the game in all parts of the country.

CTV OWNS RIGHTS

CTV owns the TV rights to the game but if the Grey Cup is to have a national audience it will have to be carried on the CBC network.

In August the BBG proposed a regulation, not yet put into force, that would require the CBC and its privately-owned affiliated stations to carry the CTV telecast complete with the CTV commercials.

The CBC, acting on an opinion offered by the federal justice department, contends the BBG exceeded its authority in proposing such a rule. The BBG says opinion obtained from two outside legal sources supports the board's stand.

Meanwhile, top-level negotiations between the networks were reported to be continuing right down to the wire to find a way out of the impasse.

State Secretary Halpenny, minister responsible for broadcasting, said Tuesday the government is not going to interfere in the dispute.

Vermont and N. Hampshire Elect Democrat Governors Nixon Beaten in California

WASHINGTON (AP) — This was a catch-as-catch-can United States election.

It showed no sign of any real change toward the government in Washington, but it did reveal a lot of discontent among voters toward their state parties or individuals.

The country's national mood was expressed in 1960 when the Democrats were given control of the federal government. Voters could have swept them out Tuesday, if they were dissatisfied, and given the Republicans control of Congress.

This didn't happen.

The Democrats went into the election with huge majorities in House of Representatives and Senate. As predicted, when the election was over they still retained them.

SEE NO REAL ISSUE

The reason was pretty clear: In this campaign there was no real issue dividing the country or compelling the voters to seek a new national direction. This much was probably good news for President Kennedy.

But it won't make his task of trying to get Congress to accept his homestic programs any easier. The Democratic-run Congress was conservative before the election. It remains so because the changes there were so few.

It was in the states that the discontent and upsets showed. They were most startling in those rock - ribbed Republican states of Vermont and New Hampshire where Democrats, for the first time in generations, were elected governors.

In Vermont it was Phillip H. Hoff, the first Democrat sent to the state House in 109 years. In New Hampshire it was John W. King, the first Democrat so chosen in 40 years.

GO OTHER WAY

But in Michigan and Oklahoma the upsets went the other way. In Michigan George Romney was the first Republican elected governor in 14 years. In Oklahoma the first Republican ever was made governor. This was Henry Bellmon.

Former president Eisenhower had campaigned in New Hampshire, Kennedy in Michigan. But Kennedy also went to Connecticut where his friend and fellow-Democrat, Abraham Ribicoff, was elected to the Senate. And Eisenhower talked in Pennsylvania where a Republican, William M. Scranton, was elected governor.

This didn't happen.

The Democrats went into the election with huge majorities in House of Representatives and Senate. As predicted, when the election was over they still retained them.

The biggest casualty of the election was former vice-president Richard M. Nixon who sought the governorship of California held by Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, and flopped.

It was taken for granted, before Nixon ever made his bid there, that if he lost he was through as a national political figure.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, by his re-election as governor of New York, seemed as of now to have the inside track for the Republican presidential nomination two years from now.

South African Negro Leader Given 5 Years

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Nelson Mandela, 44-year-old former underground leader of the banned African National Congress party, today was sentenced to five years in jail for incitement and illegally leaving South Africa.

A special court sentenced Mandela to three years on the incitement charge and two years for leaving the country. The court magistrate said there was no doubt Mandela, "a man of black pigmentation" because he eluded police for more than a year, was "organizer, manager and master-mind" behind a nation-wide strike of African workers in May, 1961.

Scores of police cordoned off the area around the court and prevented crowds from gathering as the conviction was handed down.

India Arrests Red

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — B. T. Ranadive, one of the leaders of the pro-China faction of the Communist party, was arrested here today.

Further arrests of Communists were reported from Bombay and Nagpur.

CLEAR OUT CATS

AUBURN, Mass. (AP)—Monday was moving day for 159 cats. That number was removed from the home of three elderly women on orders of the Auburn welfare department. Police chief Edgar S. Campbell said the removal was ordered for health reasons.

Organized Labor in Ont. Wants Medical Care Plan

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Organized labor in Ontario has committed itself to an all-out campaign to press for a provincial medical care plan.

Some 900 delegates to the convention of the 500,000-member Ontario Federation of Labor Tuesday authorized the executive to use the federation's resources for the campaign.

President David Archer said it would be one of the greatest campaigns ever launched by the labor movement, and that the federation would make medical care a major issue in the next provincial election.

Both the New Democratic Party and the Liberal party have made medical care a major part of their election programs.

The federation's report on the matter said nothing short of a comprehensive plan would satisfy the needs of the people.

WARNS OF RESISTANCE

The report warned that commercial interests, such as insurance companies, would give strong resistance to a government-sponsored plan.

"These people are in the long run more dangerous opponents than the doctors themselves," the report said.

The resolution said it is unlikely the federal government would introduce a medical care scheme, and Ontario, the richest province, can afford anything that Saskatchewan, one of the poorest provinces, can afford.

Keith Ross, United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said the proposed increase in the rates of Physicians Services Incorporated is a major argument for a government plan.

"A married man with children now pays the PSI about $120 for what we get in Saskatchewan for $36," Mr. Ross said.

WILL DISCUSS

In its campaign the federation will hold discussions with the medical profession; stimulate action within the trade union movement; press members of the legislature for their support; and encourage support of other organizations representing important sections of the community.

Delegates also voted to make the 30-hour week the official goal of organized labor in Ontario.

At the same time, the government was urged to enforce a maximum 40-hour week. Maximum legal work week in the province now is 48 hours, with 100 hours overtime a year.

The onus of attaining the 30-hour week was put on the federations affiliates. However, the individual unions are autonomous, and would not necessarily be required to press for the shorter work week in their bargaining with management.

For instance, organized labor in the United States recently set a 35-hour week as its goal, but the United Steelworkers of America, one of the largest unions, preferred to emphasize longer vacations as a means of reducing unemployment.

PLEDGES SUPPORT

HONG KONG (AP) — Assurances of continuing support by the Anglican Church of Canada for the diocese of Hong Kong was given here Tuesday night by Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Anglican Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada. He leaves today for Canada with a one-day stopover at Honolulu.

ARTILLERYMEN LAUNCH ATTACK — Canadian artillerymen are set to launch an attack from a ruined village in the battle of Leamy Ridge during the First World War. By 1918, Canadian artillery under the command of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton was recognized as the most proficient on the Western Front.—(CP from National Defence).

"Battlefield Looks Bad" Was Way Sir Arthur Currie Described Passchendaele

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—On Oct. 17, 1917, Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian Corps in Flanders, noted in his diary: "Battlefield looks bad."

This must rank as one of the classic understatements of all time. The battlefield Gen. Currie was referring to was Passchendaele and the diary notation was made before the Canadian assault through the mud.

Apart possibly from the Nazi death ovens, the 1914-18 Western Front was the greatest charnel house in human history. Both sides committed "infantry cide"—genocide confined to young men—on a 500-mile front which never moved 10 miles in either direction until the battles of the last Hundred Days.

Canada's part in this human abattoir has, at long last, been recorded in painstaking detail in a single volume, Canadian Expeditionary Force 1914-1919 (Queen's Printer), published today, four days before the anniversary of the 1918 armistice.

HEAVY CASUALTIES

The author is Col. G. W. L. Nicholson, recently retired head of the army historical section. The book was authorized in 1956 by former defence minister Ralph Campney after earlier attempts to write a comprehensive history had been abandoned. The 536 pages attest to a magnificent job of research.

Col. Nicholson says in the preface that he hopes the book, which includes photographs, maps, appendices and index, will be of particular interest to survivors of the four - division Canadian Corps. The amazing thing, it seems after reading the history, is that there were any survivors at all.

A total of 60,661 Canadian servicemen perished in the First World War, 9.28 per cent of all enlisted. In the Second World War, fatal casualties numbered 31,992 or 3.86 per cent.

Col. Nicholson is not one of those military historians who in recent years have condemned out of hand the First World War generals as butchers.

But even he cannot stomach the generalship of Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of all British forces in France, in the battles of the Somme in 1916 in which the Allies suffered 624,000 casualties, the Germans 680,000. The Canadian casualty toll was 23,554.

'MASS BUTCHERY'

Col. Nicholson says that after all has been said in vindication of Haig, "we cannot close our eyes to the horror of the mass butchery to which Haig's tactics had condemned the troops under his command."

In the old film All Quiet on the Western Front, there is a scene in which only a man's hands and wrists are shown swinging on the barbed wire. Col. Nicholson doesn't set out to shock but he paints similar scenes in words throughout the book, especially when he records how each Canadian Victoria Cross was won. Nearly all were awarded posthumously.

In contrast to other generals, Sir Arthur Currie, only Canadian commander of the corps, receives praise. Col. Nicholson says Gen. Currie was determined that the Canadians be spared unnecessary casualties and that he exploited gunpower to save infantrymen's lives.

By 1918 the Canadian artillery was the most proficient on the Western Front. It was commanded by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, who became chief of Canada's overseas army in the Second World War.

Politically, the most interesting chapter in the book deals with the 1917 conscription crisis and the general election of that year with conscription the issue.

ACT WASN'T FAILURE

Col. Nicholson says the coalition government of Sir Robert Borden tried to have the Canadian Corps taken out of the Third Battle of Ypres Passchendaele to vote. As it turned out, the battle ended before the election but Gen. Currie resented attempts to get him mixed up in politics.

Col. Nicholson's conclusion on conscription: "The administration of the Military Service Act was often inefficient and attended by many gross malpractices (but) the act itself was neither a failure nor ineffective. Statistics show that it did produce the military results (reinforcements) which it was designed to produce."

He questions Borden's figures that up to March 31, 1918, a total of 147,562 Canadians of "British descent" and only 16,268 of "French descent" had been sent overseas. He says it is impossible to authenticate (figures on enlistments by French-speaking Canadians because in official military records all Canadian-born were treated alike as "Canadian."

Col. Nicholson also says that of the first volunteers, 65 per cent had been born in Britain and that claims for exemption from conscription were 93.7 per cent of total registration in Canada.

MOVED QUICKLY

In contrast to recent times, when the government has obtained parliamentary approval before sending a contingent abroad for United Nations duty, Canada's lightning response to Britain's call to arms in 1914 seems almost incredible.

In 1914, in fact, the Governor-General, the Duke of Connaught, on his own initiative, immediately advised London that Canada would go to war and asked assurances that Canadians would be sent to the front as soon as sufficiently trained.

Canada originally committed 25,000 to the expeditionary force. This grew later to 250,000 men. In 1917, Borden promised a force of 500,000 men in the field but this figure was never met and Canada had to rely on conscription to meet the reinforcement needs of the four divisions.

The Canadian government had to be resolute to keep the corps intact as a single fighting unit and to put Canadians in the senior command posts. Lord Kitchener, British war secretary, wanted British officers for the Canadian troops.

Currie on occasion was critical of his British superiors. Gen. John Pershing, U.S. Army commander, recorded after a talk with Currie that the Canadian general was bitter that in the 1918 German offensive the British lost Passchendaele in a few hours after his corps had lost 16,000 men in a series of bloody battles to win it.

The early experiences of the 1st Canadian Division in Flanders read like an unending tragedy; the first German gas attack of April 22, 1915, the shelling of Canadian troops by Canadian artillery, incorrect intelligence reports, the jamming Ross rifle, faulty ammunition, the lack of preparation for attack and contradictory orders.

Despite all this, Col. Nicholson says, the Canadian Corps was welded into a highly efficient fighting machine with high morale and confidence in Gen. Currie.

As the chilling tale of horror continues through the accounts of the battles of the St. Eloi craters, Regina Trench, Vimy, Hill 70, Passchendaele and Amiens, one is left wondering why the Canadian footslogger didn't mutiny, as the French did.

Mutiny, in fact, did come, but only after the war and on a small scale. Riots erupted over the method of repatriating the troops and in one incident in England five soldiers were killed and 23 wounded. There were 13 such disturbances.

Haig insisted on a war of attrition and even Prime Minister David Lloyd George couldn't stop him. This meant, simply, killing Germans. But it also meant, as in the case of Regina Trench, that when the final objective was reached, at dreadful human cost, it was not worth having because it had been blown to bits. It is little wonder, as Col. Nicholson records, that the armistice was accepted by Canadian troops in almost utter silence.

'Girlie' Mag Held Obscene

WINNIPEG (CP) — A recent issue of a "girlie" magazine seized from a newsstand here has been found obscene by Winnipeg county court.

Judge A. R. Macdonnell ruled that a dominant characteristic of the September, 1962, publication of Dude was "an undue exploitation of sex."

He said in a written judgment that copies of the magazine seized from Dominion News Limited in downtown Winnipeg will be forfeited to the crown. No liability was attached to the news agency.

Judge Macdonnell ruled:

"A thing is obscene if, considered as a whole, it unduly goes beyond customary limits of candor in description or representation.

"The obscene has always been regarded as something wholly lacking any redeeming social importance.

"But while there is universal agreement obscenity should be restrained, it should be realized that all ideas having even the slightest social importance are, and should be, protected, no matter how controversial, unorthodox or hateful to prevailing opinion.

Man Charged With Carrying Unlisted Gun

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A man was charged with carrying an unregistered firearm today following a shooting incident in a Buffalo-bound bus near here.

Charged was John Kopczykski, 47, of Medill, Okla., and Governor, Tex.

Police said a man discharged a 22-calibre semi-automatic pistol aboard a Greyhound bus following an argument with another passenger, identified as Theodore Purves-Smith of New York city. They said the bullet landed in an empty seat.

None of the 20 passengers in the bus was injured. The bus, driven by Norman A. Forbes of Riverside, Ont., was on an overnight run from Detroit.

Police said the passengers pacified the man until the bus reached the Canadian end of the Peace bridge linking Fort Erie and Buffalo, where police were summoned.

Seek to Arrange Safeguards in Insect Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Another step will be taken at Rome next week on setting up international safeguards against steadily-expanding use of chemical poisons to protect crops from insects and disease.

It's an issue increasingly in the public gaze in Canada and elsewhere, most recently under the impetus of a book by American author Rachel Carson.

The hazards to humans from pesticides constitute her latest subject, prompting a rash of newspaper and general public discussion and concern. Some of this reaction has been landing on the desk of the federal agriculture department.

The Rome meeting Nov. 12-17 involves member nations of the Food and Agriculture Organization, (FAO) a United Nations agency.

Paul Pender Torres Bout Called Off

BOSTON (AP) — The Paul Pender - Jose Torres middleweight title fight scheduled for Nov. 15 was called off Tuesday night when challenger Torres' manager, Cus D'Amato, was unable to come up with a $100,000 guarantee.

D'Amato attended a press conference with Torres, who was unbeaten in 28 pro starts and was to challenge Pender for the latter's share of the 160-pound crown recognized in two states and Europe.

D'Amato said he had thought everything was set for him to produce the $95,000 balance he owed on the money guaranteed Pender to make the defence. D'Amato now forfeits the $5,000 he had deposited to Pender.

The fight had previously been postponed from its originally scheduled Nov. 2 date.

D'Amato explained the guarantee money was to have come from his share of the proceeds of the recent Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson world heavyweight title bout in Chicago. D'Amato is manager of ex-champion Patterson.

The amount due to D'Amato from his share of the Chicago fight is estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000. The Bureau of Internal Revenue is holding up the purse "because of a situation with the promoters," D'Amato said.

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association swung into action for the 1962-63 season at Memorial Arena last night with a full slate of Squirt and Midget division games.

West. Backs Set Records

REGINA (CP) — Passing records tumbled during the 1962 Western Football Conference season as three quarterbacks established four new marks.

Final WFC statistics released Tuesday night show quarterback Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers set two passing records. Bob Ptacek of Saskatchewan Roughriders and Joe Kapp of British Columbia Lions each rewrote the record book in one department.

Ploen was successful on 137 of 208 passes for a 65.8 completion average, bettering the mark of 61.48 set by Frank Tripucka of Roughriders in 1955. Ploen had only four of his throws intercepted, two better than the previous mark in this department established by Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos in 1955.

Ptacek averaged 11.25 yards on the 125 passes he completed in his 206 attempts, a shade better than the 11.1 - yard average passes completed by Edmonton's Don Getty in 1957.

Kapp set a record for total yardage, completing 197 throws for 3,279 yards, five yards more than Tripucka in 1956. He also threw the most touchdown passes, 28, and had the most intercepted, 18.

COFFEY TOPS RECEIVERS

Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton was the leading receiver, catching 65 passes for 951 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Ray Purdin of Saskatchewan had the best average pass at 22.7 yards and teammate Jack Gotta led in completion average, catching 39 of 42 serials for 92 per cent.

Fullback Nub Beamer of the Lions was the leading ground-gainer, netting 1,181 yards in 208 carries.

Halfback Willie Fleming of Lions had the best average gain at 7.1 yards.

Ferdy Burket of Roughriders led the way in punting with a 45.2-yard average on 136 kicks.

Henry Janzen of Winnipeg and Harvey Wylie and Bill Miller of Calgary shared the lead in punt returns, each with a 6.2-yard average.

Wylie led in kickoff returns with a 31.2-yard average on 28 runbacks and a record 876 yards, breaking the old mark of 854 yards set by Lewis in 1957. Jene Wisniuk of Riders and Wylie were tops in pass interceptions with five each.

SET CURLING DATES

TORONTO (CP) — The 1963 Canadian women's curling championship will be decided in a 10-province round-robin final series at Saint John, N.B., Feb. 25-Mar. 1, it was announced Tuesday. The Ontario championship, won last year by Mrs. Fern Irwin's rink from Toronto, is scheduled in North Bay Feb. 11-15.

Western Hockey

EDMONTON (CP) — Seattle Totems defeated Edmonton Flyers 4-2 Tuesday night in a Western Hockey League game that strengthened Seattle's hold on third place in the Northern Division. The Totems are two points behind Flyers, who lost a chance to go into a first-place tie with Vancouver Canucks.

Seattle scorers were Jim Hay, Wayne Hall, George Konik and Bill MacFarland. Keith Walsh and Doug Messier tallied for Edmonton.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — McGregor Glen captured the featured Pepin Purse for three-year-old colts and fillies by half a length Tuesday at Old Woodbine. Bay Sovereign finished second, a length ahead of Capiross.

McGregor Glen completed the seven furlongs in 1:25 1-5 to return $27.40.

Call Me Charlie, winner of the first, coupled with Jeannie Doc, winner of the second, in the daily double returned $67.20.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some hockey wisenheimer "experts" in the city have dubbed it that "no-and-so" outfit, but a nickel gets you a silver dollar that the newborn City Hockey League gets the approval of the "man-on-the-street" before the bugles sound playoffs taps.

It's a well-known fact the brand of hockey to be tossed up by the guys in the loop will be a long way from the National League brand, nor will it be senior "A", or senior "B" and possibly not intermediate "A" but there are a lot of fellows going out to have a lot of fun—and the brand of hockey they will dish up will be well worth the half-a-buck admission tab.

After all, what do you expect for four bits. After looking at the lineups of the clubs it looks from here as though the pewsters are in for a good season of hockey. Besides the boys are all hometowners; some over the hump, some not; the majority going out to see to it that everybody enjoys themselves.

Some of the oldtimers from back in the former city league, senior "B" and senior "A" days are back in the fray and will add a lot of experience and color to the games. The first doubleheader of the schedule gets under way tonight and it is expected a large crowd will be on hand to see the opener.

President Cliff Belch, secretary Bert Faulkner and their executive have done an outstanding job, ably assisted by the various sponsors. They deserve a lot of credit for getting the new league off to a fine start.

And I believe the league executive with the approval of all concerned made the right move when they set the box-office tab at fifty cents. The Joe on the street hasn't many loose shekels rattling in his pocket and if he wants to take the missus and the kids to a couple hours of interesting hockey it will be well within his financial limits. It's surprising how many more the box office will attract at a nominal price.

And don't be surprised to see some other senior "A" centres within the next year or so finding themselves—like Belleville—starting again from "scratch."

I talked with a few people at the Ontario Minor Hockey Association convention about things other than minor hockey and from what I gathered the box-office turnstiles are not clicking as merrily as first anticipated in some of the pay-and-play spots.

After all $50,000 just "ain't hay" when you have to lay it on the line, depending on how Joe Fan greets your show. And I'm told the optimists who resurrected the paid-player idea with the assumption the fans would get a better brand of hockey are beginning to see the error of their ways.

The hockey may be better, it is true, but the increase in calibre is not bringing fans through the box-office—not by a long shot.

And the grapevine has it that the Eastern Professional League which tottered back from grave-brink last spring is not putting out, the SRO signs in at least one of its centres.

In fact a report out of Sudbury has it that attendance is up in two of the four cities making up this years' edition of the pro loop. Perhaps the loop officials are whistling in the dark for at this early stage of the game they state the league will operate again next year. In the same breath, the story goes, they admit the year's new entry, Syracuse, is losing its shirt, so to speak.

Like Kitchener's Len Taylor I find the statement about the EPHL operating again next year smacking of something. Leagues don't usually come out with a statement like that this early in the season unless half the loop is in danger of folding.

Aces Whip Amerks 6-1 Indians Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces, rolling along in first place in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League, have been invincible at home this season.

They whipped Rochester Americans 6-1 Tuesday night for their fifth victory in five starts on Quebec ice.

Springfield Indians extended their winning streak to five games with a 2-1 triumph over Baltimore Clippers.

The Aces built up a 3-1 first-period lead over Rochester and never headed. Guy Rousseau, Terry Gray, Danny Lewicki, Michel Harvey, Jean-Marie Cosette and Bill Dineen were the Quebec marksmen. Johnny MacMillan averted a shutout for the Americans.

Goals by Bruce Cline and Jim Anderson in the first two periods gave Springfield a 2-0 lead before Mel Pearson scored Baltimore's lone tally in the middle period. Jacques Caron, the Indians' goal tender, made 28 saves and staved off the Clippers in the final period.

Quebec holds a six-point lead over Springfield and Providence Reds in the east. The Indians, in winning, moved into a tie for second place with the idle Reds. Rochester, runner-up in the Western Division, remained six points behind the pace-setting Buffalo Bisons.

Lucky Lews whipped the Legion Wildcats 10-1 in one of the seven Belleville Dart League games played this week.

In other action Hobby Shop downed Landscapers 8-3, Corby's Specials took a 7-4 decision from Jim's Place, Will's City Service defeated ANAF 9-2, Dover's topped A. and P. 7-4, Skylines won over Bendusters 9 -2 and Macinnes Men copped a 7-4 win over El Ranchos.

Prize Money Is Big Issue

East, West Curlers Split On Ethics

By PAUL RIMSTEAD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Curling, a sport known for having sedate and gentlemanly competitors, finds itself in an East - West controversy which will come to a head in March.

It involves a code of ethics proposed to members of the Dominion Curling Association by Colin Campbell of Toronto, a past president of the DCA.

The code says prizes at bonspiels must be limited to $150 a curler or $600 a rink. Anyone receiving more, in cash or prizes, would be unable to compete in the Dominion finals or other DCA competition.

Actually, the idea isn't Campbell's alone. It has been suggested for the last two years by various eastern curlers.

The DCA will hold its annual meeting at Brandon, Man., in March and members of the DCA executive plus delegates from the 20 member associations will be asked to vote on it.

There are other issues in the code, including eligibility of curlers paid for writing about curling and a minimum entry money for curlers' expenses, etc.

But, the big issue is the prize money.

EAST OPPOSES WEST

The country is split down the middle.

If delegates vote as now planned, the code will be adopted, much to the disgust of western provinces.

The West has a more active and competitive curling program and this, invariably, leads to larger prizes.

Automobile prizes, in which the East has offered as prizes, became famous. They've died out now. The most recent was last winter at Vancouver, but it wasn't a solid success.

Westerners, because they have lucrative bonspiels, are solidly against the code. Easterners, because they haven't anything in that class now and hope to keep professionalism out of the roarin' game, are in favor.

The last East - West controversy was 10 years ago. That's when the East objected to the long slide used by curlers in the West. The vote was close, but the East, because of a larger number of associations and a larger number of votes, won. It could happen again this year.

Last season there was talk about a new professional curling association which would be sponsored by a national company.

People in the West say the code of ethics will open the door for a pro organization if put into effect.

Riders Big Problem

How To Stop Clark, Dixon

OTTAWA (CP)—With a four-inch layer of snow still disappearing fast, the Rough Riders took to the field Tuesday night for their first pre-playoff workout.

Lansdowne Park officials said the field will be in excellent condition for Saturday's sudden-death semi-final with Montreal Alouettes, provided the sunny weather continues.

The players watched films of the Alouettes and discussed strategy Monday night. They voted on the club's most valuable player award and gave the nod to Ernie White, 26-year-old lineman who scored 10 touchdowns this year, finishing seventh in the Eastern Football Conference scoring race with 60 points.

The club said George Brancato will return, to the lineup Saturday as a defensive halfback. Brancato had been replaced temporarily by Dick Cobbee, obtained from Montreal, but Cobee was placed on waivers with no claims.

Riders picked up tackle Roger Kramer on waivers from the Als, but Kramer will not be eligible in the playoffs.

Rider coach Frank Clair said his main problem will be to stop Montreal's outside - inside running attack, spearheaded by Don Clark and George Dixon.

"They are the only club in the league that can hit you just that way. They have runners who can go inside or outside, and go all the way. So they'll be tough."

Cards Brass In Hassle

Musial "Won't Retire"

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial plans to play baseball next season despite Branch Rickey's proposal to St. Louis Cardinals that the great outfielder retire.

The proposal apparently set off a major disagreement between Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, and Rickey, hired recently as a senior consultant on player development for the Cardinals.

Cardinal President August A. Busch Jr. said Tuesday Musial, 42 this month, not only will play with the Cardinals in the National League in 1963 but will become a club vice-president when he decides to retire.

"We need Stan's bat," Busch said. "He'll let us know when he's ready to quit . . . since when do you ask a .320 hitter to retire unless you have equal to replace him."

Musial is in St. Petersburg, Fla., with the Cardinals helping in the instruction league for young players.

When he learned of the Rickey proposal, Musial said: "I won't retire. If the Cardinals don't want me, there are some other clubs that do."

Leafs, Blues Battle For Fourth

By BRUCE STOVEL

Home ice is usually considered a big advantage in the National Hockey League, but you wouldn't know it this season.

Of the 32 games played so far, the home team has won only 12. The visitors have taken 13 and seven have been ties.

Playing on a more familiar rink and having an enthusiastic crowd behind them, home players are generally conceded to have an edge over their opponents.

In fact, strong "homers" like Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs just didn't lose at home.

This year, though, the Leafs have won only one of their five home games and tied another. Canadiens have done somewhat better by winning three and tying one at home.

The trend reflects the big surprise of this—NHL season—the 10-game unbeaten streak by Detroit Red Wings and stumbling showings by the league champion Canadiens and the Stanley Cup champion Leafs.

Toronto, with a record of four wins and a tie in 11 games, plays in New York tonight. A Ranger win would shoot them past Leafs into fourth place with 10 points.

If Leafs take the game they'll have 11 points, enough for a third-place tie with Canadiens.

In tonight's other game, the last-place Boston Bruins take on the Black Hawks in Chicago. Chicago has 13 points, five less than the first-place Red Wings, while Boston has only five points.

Detroit and Montreal, both idle tonight, meet for the first time this season in the Forum Wednesday night. The Wings will be opening a six-game road trip.

Rod Laver Turns Pro

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Melbourne Herald reports that Rod Laver, Australia's "grand slam" lawn tennis champion, has decided to turn professional under a contract worth £49,000 Australian ($109,760).

PALMER STILL TOPS

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Doug Sanders was the only professional golfer on the list of top money winners to make any significant advance last week. Sanders increased his total winnings by $800 in the Jacksonville Open but remained in seventh place on the list with $39,163. Arnold Palmer remains tops of the list, released by the Professional Golfers' Association, with $81,448.

Whip Tigers, Maroons Beaten

Galt Still Undefeated

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Defending champion Galt Terriers scored three unanswered last-period goals Tuesday night, defeating Kitchener - Waterloo Tigers 4-1 and remaining undefeated in the young Ontario Hockey Association senior A season.

In the only other league action Tuesday night, Woodstock Athletics moved into a third-place tie with Windsor Bulldogs, shutting out second-place Chatham Maroons 3-0.

League-leading Galt, with a 4-0 won-lost record, spotted visiting Kitchener a goal in the second period as Joe Hogan tallied for the Tigers but the Terriers quickly came back to tie the game on Bob Seager's goal.

In the third period Kitchener was putting the pressure on the Terriers when Galt's Rick Hay broke loose to slam home the winning goal at 4:20. Larry Litzgus scored the final two Galt markers.

Woodstock was in control all the way in its home win over Chatham.

Playing - coach Rio Caron came through with the winning goal in the first period and Butch Graham fired two third-period goals to complete the scoring.

Sam Snead Fires 64, Palmer 70

SAN ISIDRO, Argentina (AP) Veteran Sam Snead, playing with a bandaged right foot, fired a six-under-par 64 Tuesday in a practice round for the 10th annual Canada Cup golf competition.

Arnold Palmer, who with Snead is favored to carry the United States to its third consecutive championship, shot a par 70.

Snead shot 32-32 on the swanky, 6,746-yard Jockey Club course where the international tournament opens Thursday with representatives from 34 countries. Palmer, who fired a three-under-par 67 Monday, said he had trouble with his long shots Tuesday.

Snead, suffering from a pinched nerve, said he was in considerable pain. "It came on two months ago and is gradually getting worse."

The two Americans played with two other leading contenders for the cup, Roberto de Vincenzo and Fidel de Luca of Argentina, who both shot par 70. The other top threats figure to be the South African team of Gary Player and Denis Hutchinson and the Australian two-some of Kel Nagle and Peter Thomson.

Purdin Led Saskys to Fine Year

REGINA (CP) — Halfback Ray Purdin blossomed into an outstanding player in the Western Football Conference this year.

In the process, the 23-year-old sport almost singlehandedly carried Saskatchewan Roughriders' offence as the club enjoyed its best season in six years.

Purdin, a graduate of Northwestern University, burst from the ranks of the ordinary to score 14 touchdowns, 10 of them on plays that went more than 60 yards each time.

Three of the touchdown romps won games—one against Calgary Stampeders two weeks ago which clinched a playoff position for the Riders, another in the last minute of play against Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference and the third against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Purdin was among the leaders in rushing, pass catching, scoring and kickoff returns.

"This was my best season in football," he said in an interview in describing his second season of Canadian professional action.

Purdin scored 84 points, good for a third-place tie in individual scoring statistics. He caught 34 of 71 passes thrown to him for 771 yards and rushed for 809 net yards.

Ernie Davis Chances Appear Slim

There are indications that coach Paul Brown wants to pick up a player on waivers to replace injured safety man Bobby Franklin.

"Nothing will be done on Bobby's status until he is checked further," Brown said Tuesday night. "There is a possibility Franklin, out with a broken collarbone, will be placed on the injured reserve list.

"Meanwhile, we'll be scanning the waivers to see if anybody we think can help will turn up," Brown said.

The league would be required to give its approval before Davis, a star backfielder who has a complete remission from leukemia, could be put on the active list. Davis was hit with the disease during pre-season workouts.

Dixon, Coffey Finalists For Award

MONTREAL (CP) — George Dixon of Montreal Alouettes and Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton Eskimos, scoring leaders in the East and West, to day were named finalists for the Canadian Professional Football Player of the Year Award.

The winner is to be announced in Toronto Nov. 26, three days before the Grey Cup game.

A distillery sponsors the award. Nominations come from each of the nine teams in the Canadian Football League and the winner is determined through progressive balloting by picked selectors in each city.

Dixon led the Eastern Conference with 90 points in 14 games while Coffey topped the games.

Quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders and defensive halfback Harvey Wylie of Calgary Stampeders were selected finalists for the Outstanding Canadian Award.

Wylie, who attended Montana State College, is the first to qualify under a rule change admitting players who took part in the college football in Canada.

Previously, only players with all their football experience in Canada qualified for the Canadian award.

Defensive tackle John Barrow of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and linebacker Wayne Harris of the Stampeders were nominated for lineman of the year.

The awards carry a total of $5,000 in Canada Savings Bonds as prize money. The outstanding player gets $2,000 and the other two winners $1,500 each.

Whats' Wrong With Arf-and-Arf?

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (AP) — It all started with a few mugs of ale as a joke in a local pub—where else?

Citizens of this town of 30,000 have decided to buy a race horse. They want to purchase a jumper to start in the world famous Grand National steeplechase at Aintree.

Norman Pearson, 54-year-old owner of the tavern, said some of his customers were joking about owning a horse.

"I said we should buy our own horse," said Pearson. "Everyone jumped at the idea. Soon everybody knew about the plan, and thousands wanted to get into the act."

Residents are buying 100 shares at 10 pounds (28) to get up enough money to purchase the steeplechaser. Some with only a few shillings to spare are forming syndicates to buy 10-pound shares.

Applications to join the list of owners are pouring in—from cab drivers, teachers, antique dealers, shop keepers, housewives, and others. The racing silks will be royal blue and gold.

What would they name the horse?

Tunbridge Wells, of course.

Petes, Hawks Tie 4-4

Flyers Dump Royals 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers narrowed Montreal Junior Canadiens' runaway lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series to four points Tuesday night when they dumped Guelph Royals 5-3.

The win left Flyers alone in second place with three wins and a tie in five games; Canadiens are undefeated with four wins and three ties.

Peterborough Petes and St. Catharines Black Hawks played to a 4-4 tie in the league's only other game Tuesday night. The game left St. Catharines in fourth place, one point ahead of the Petes.

Never more than a goal apart, the clube scored a goal apiece in the first and third periods and two each in the second in the game played at St. Catharines.

Rookie Danny Grant and Dan O'Shea each scored twice for the Petes, while the four Black Hawks goals were shared by Chuck Kelly, Don Snider, Ken Hodge and John Brenneman.

FLYERS LEAD EARLY

At the Falls, the Flyers jumped into an early 3-0 lead on goals by Ron Hergott, Gary Dornhoefer and Terry Crisp. Two of the goals came while Royals were short-handed. A goal by Leo Martel left the score 3-1 into the second period.

The teams were scoreless in the second and Flyers stretched their lead to 5-1 on goals by Harmer and Ron Shock before Flyers John Makins and Len Bazay scored the scoring.

Only the work of Andy Brown in the Guelph nets kept the Flyers from running away with the game. He turned back 17 shots in the third period alone.

Three assists on the night gave Flyers' Wayne Maxner the league's point-getting lead crship with 13, all on assists. Shock's goal was his eighth of the year, also tops in the league.

In OHA Metro Junior A play last night Scarborough downed Whitby Dunlops 8-4 in a game at Whitby. Don Fuller and Bob Jarrett each scored twice for the winners, Don Westbrook, Doug Earl, Jim Jago and Brian Bradley scoring the others. Julie Kowalski got three goals for Whitby, Bob Everett adding the fourth.

Next action in the provincial league is Thursday, when the Flyers meet Hamilton Red Wings in Hamilton and Peterborough plays host to St. Catharines.

UBC OARSMEN TO TOUR

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia rowing team has confirmed plans to make a goodwill tour of New Zealand following the British Empire Games at Perth, Australia. The crews will arrive in NewZealand Dec. 5 and compete in four races before returning home Dec. 16.

WARN SPORTSMEN

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip said Tuesday night indiscriminate hunting and fishing have already caused the extinction of several species of wildlife and "many more are in danger." He told the World Wildlife Fund dinner the extermination of a species of animal life "like the destruction of a unique work of art. Prince Bernard of The Netherlands said nature everywhere is in "a state of emergency" and "we almost cease our war against it."

Beverly Hillbillies Most Popular Television Program

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — There must be some deep significance in the new Nielsen ratings, which estimate the size of television audiences, released Tuesday.

They reveal that a comedy show, unblushingly loaded with corny humor and preposterous situations, Beverly Hillbillies, now is the most popular television program in the United States. They say such worthy, complimented and "better" programs as the musical Voice of Firestone are hopelessly floundering near the bottom of the list.

There is a sharp indication in the ratings that the television public turns on its sets primarily in hope of being amused. In the listing of the 11 most popular programs, seven are straight comedy.

The top two are Beverly Hillbillies, followed closely by The Lucy Show, another comedy with a base of broad humor.

Others are Red Skelton, Candid Camera, Danny Thomas, Andy Griffith and Dick Van Dyke. There are also two medical shows on the list—Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare—and one western, Bonanza.

Students of television will find it hard to explain the success of Beverly Hillbillies, which received an unmerciful drubbing in the hands of critics earlier in the season. It relies mostly on contrast for its laughs. The device on which the show is constructed is that of putting an illiterate, primitive southern mountain family in a manicured, formal millionaire's mansion, courtesy of an oil fortune.

Rolls High 10-Pin Score

Bill Kirkham, bowling for the Northern Electric team, has came up with the highest ten-pin score in the relatively short history of the game in this city.

Kirkham fired ten consecutive strikes before missing with his eleventh ball. He ended up with a 286 score. A perfect game is ten-pins for 300.

This is only the second year that the game has been played to any great extent in Belleville and so far no one has been able to enter the charmed "perfect-game" circle.

"The Great Waltz" Romantic Musical with Glamorous Viennese Background

Romantic Vienna of the days of Franz Joseph, the haunting waltzes of Johann Strauss, the poignant romance of the life and loves of a great composer, blend with the pomp and pageantry of Europe's gayest court, in the "The Great Waltz", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's musical drama of the life of the Waltz King.

Starring Louise Rainer, Fernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus, with Gravet portraying the composer, Miss Rainer his wife, Foldi, and Miss Korjus the brilliant Carla Donner, opera star of the day.

The story deals with Strauss' rise as a musician, his joining the revolution his opera triumph, his idealistic love for the singer to whom his devoted wife offers to surrender him, and the greatness of a woman who refuses the sacrifice.

Spectacular opera, palace, court and casino sequences present authentic background for much of it adapted to songs for Miss Korjus.

A 90-piece symphony orchestra conducted by Dr. Arthur Guttman, first conductor of the Strauss Theatre, in Vienna, modern version of the music by Dmitri Tiomkin, romantic harmonies in the Vienna Woods, presentation of an opera with a lavish Albertina Rasch ballet are among the musical highlights.

The revolution and Strauss' composing of the Revolutionary March, his day of love with the prima donna in the Vienna Woods, his debut at Dommayer's Casino, are among dramatic highlights. Much of the Vienna of the day was reproduced for the films lavish settings.

The action of "The Great Waltz" coming to the Belle Theatre, Belleville, Thursday evening, November 8th at 8.15, for one showing only, covers a period of half-a-century, with the principal characters starting as young people and progressing in old age in the final scenes in the court of Emperor Franz Joseph.

"DANGER IS MY BUSINESS"

Tony Leswick Found Howe Harder to Check Than Richard in Playing Days

By DENNIS ORCHARD

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—"Tony, love, you look so cute I could kiss you," said the coffee shop waitress.

"Come back in a week, maybe I'll shave by then," replied Tony Leswick, resplendent in fluorescent red bowler hat, orange - striped vest and painted handlebar moustache and two-day beard.

Whereupon the onetime hockey player and now hotel manager flipped a dime on the counter, tugged at his tie, and stepped out to help celebrate Old Fashioned Week in New Westminster.

It would even force a grin from Maurice Richard, who for a dozen years turned his surly side to Leswick. Those were the days when Tony's favorite checking target was the great National Hockey League scorer. Now Leswick is awaiting his 40th birthday, popular with almost everyone save perhaps ejected customers in the premises. He has transferred his hockey ambitions to New Westminster's small-fry ranks, where he is helping among youngsters who include sons Gary, 17, and Barry, 15.

PLENTY OF PENALTIES

But hockey is a Leswick family trademark and getting away from the active end wasn't easy.

Leswick once said he would never play in the minors after the NHL, but he reconsidered in 1956 and went to the Western League Edmonton Flyers, as player-coach for two years and coach for another.

Even in 1959 he couldn't refuse Art Chapman's request to help out Vancouver Canucks in the last 15 games of the season.

Business and family life still leave him escapes for summertime golf —"two or three times a week, in the 80s—wintertime curling and gossip time for everybody 'round.

Leswick still talks and walks with the speed of a player winning final sweet with his coach as he steps on the ice. There's a lot of mellowing still left in the checking-line demon of New York Rangers (1948-50), Detroit (1950-55) and Chicago Black Hawks.

In those years he was rarely penalized for less than 70 minutes a season, and occasionally exceeded 100. The five-foot-six hardrock frame that carried 145 pounds through his playing days hasn't visibly rounded out.

ADMIRES HOWE

It remains a source of pride to him that he never missed an NHL game from injuries, despite the burden of Richards' frustrated attacks and the task of shadowing another man he admires even more—Detroit's Gordie Howe.

"Richard was a lot easier to check than Howe," he says wick. "You could stick with Richard — he wasn't a top passer — but Howe has a broken ankled early on. But Howe would lose you, he'd pass the puck away and pitch you and get it back.

"Richard was dynamite from the blueline in, but Howe is the greatest hockey player of all time."

Howe was an old boyhood friend from Saskatoon days and Leswick says he's been fearless and only the occasional retaliatory punch in the face. But Richard would take the constant harrying.

"He swung at me a lot of times, and the old marks show more every year," says Leswick "from one thing or another in hockey I've probably got 200 to 300 stitches."

EDMONTON (CP) — It's easier to climb mountains than is write books, says Sir Edmund Hillary, 43-year-old New Zealand author and explorer and the first man to scale Mount Everest, the world's highest peak.

He made the comment when asked about his latest book, High in the Cold Thin Air, which documents Sir Edmund's last visit to the Himalayas to investigate the existence of the legendary Abominable Snowman.

"I think we proved no such thing exists, at least to our satisfaction. It's rather a negative subject until someone comes and finds such a creature. Whether people will believe our findings, I can't say.

"Sherpa legend has it that the Snowman can disappear when he smells someone coming.

"We found tracks the Snowmen was supposed to have made and after following them found they were tracks made by small mountain animals in the region. The tracks had grown in size as the snow melted."

Sir Edmund, here as part of World Wildlife lecture tour, said it's the hobbyist who has conquered most of the major peaks.

PLACE TO RELAX

"A great many are professional people, who want to get away from the nerve - tensing work of their office and into the relaxed atmosphere of the mountains."

Why did he climb Mount Everest?

"It wish I had been the man to say . . . 'because it's there.' Unfortunately I wasn't, and it's rather difficult to say why you do such a thing. I know the climb was a matter of accomplishment, was a personal challenge and even a frightening experience at times.

"But I found it a lot easier to climb Mount Everest than to write about the climb later."

Sir Edmund says since he and his Sherpa guide Tensing Norkay scaled Everest, May 29, 1953, there has been a marked interest in climbing in all countries.

This has resulted in improved equipment and in high altitude climbs and new climbing techniques, which together have made possible manoeuvres not possible when Everest was conquered, he said.

"Today an improved spike allows a mountaineer to hurdle a rock overhang. The spikes can be driven into rock crevices. Rope ladders then are attached to the spikes and the climber moves under and over the rock."

MORE ACCIDENTS

The added interest has resulted in many more inexperienced climbers participating in the sport and an increased number of climbing accidents.

But Sir Edmund said he was "opposed to any attempt to regiment mountain climbing."

He added that one of the most important fundamentals was the ability to look after yourself in the outdoors. "A skill anyone can acquire through such groups as the Boy Scouts."

The tall, spirit climber, who last summer drove through the Rocky Mountains with his family as part of a continent-wide camping trip, says there are many peaks in Banff National Park that interest him, but he has no immediate plans to tackle one.

Neither has he any immediate plans for an expedition to the

Must Lose 20 Pounds Or Else...

KINGSTON (CP)—The 215-pound goalie of Kingston Frontenacs has been ordered to lose 20 pounds in the next three weeks or leave the club's payroll.

Manager-coach Wren Blair said goalie Bruce Gamble must trim his weight to 195 pounds — five pounds more than he weighed when he reported to Boston Bruins in the 1960-61 season.

Meanwhile, rookie goaltender Wayne Rutledge will man the Frontenac net when the club meets Hull-Ottawa Canadiens tonight in a game which could decide first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Whether Gamble returns to the nets, said Blair, depends on Rutledge's play and Gamble's avoirdupois.

Rutledge, a graduate from Niagara Falls Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A loop, played for Frontenacs Sunday and helped them register a 3-1 victory over Syracuse Braves.

Do-It-Yourself System Offers New Film Source

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Product-starved theatre exhibitors can look with some hope on the new do-it-yourself trend of film production in New York. With Hollywood production on a constant decline for the last decade, theatre owners have had to scramble for new sources of movies. They have tried imports and reissues with fair success.

The sole U.S. feature entry at the San Francisco Film Festival was a film called David and Lisa. It is a case history of two emotionally upset young people and it cost $200,000.

The film's artistic merits were rated high by the festival audience.

The producer of David and Lisa, Paul Heller, explained how the film came to be.

Frank Perry, a stage director, and his wife Eleanore, a script writer, had come across a fictional case history, Lisa and David, by Dr. Theodore Rubin. They bought the rights and Mrs. Perry fashioned a screen play. They showed it to Frank Teller, a longtime friend who had been a television and film art director.

"Frank said he'd like to direct it as a movie, because he had never directed a film before," said Heller. "I decided I would produce it, because I had never produced a film before."

They went after anyone they could think of to raise money. Contributions ranged from $300 to $15,000. Heller said they might have been financed faster, but they declined big offers that would have undercut their artistic control.

"We were going to make it our way or not at all," the young film maker said resolutely.

They found a large mansion near Philadelphia that had once been used for a school. The film was shot there in five weeks.

Now Heller is in the happy position of entertaining offers from three big companies that want to release the film and order more.

Astrological Forecast

For November 8
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Your own capabilities far outweigh promises made by associates. Stress self-reliance. Be conservative, sure. A number of restrictions could be lifted. Be ready, alert, willing.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Expect opposition, but accept it as challenge. Your Taurus determination shines through. Be versatile, showing that you can take more than one path to achieve goal.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Keep tight rein on financial situation. Make sure you are getting "fair share" for your money. Tendency is for others to try to offer bargains. Stick to your own standards. Stress quality.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Change, travel, opportunity for romance — all highlighted today. You are inspired by experience in reading, or by example set by friend. No time to limit experience. Ask questions.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Tendency to rush should be overcome. Make each step a sure one. Older individual demands certain results. Best to listen and put forth best effort. Follow lead of one who's experienced.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Day for activity; change, travel, contacts, communication. Take care when it comes to letter writing, signing of legal agreements. Penalty does not come from waiting.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Money matters dominate. Make certain you are spending for "right" product. Double check needs. If purchasing gift, take time to be sure you are not buying duplicate.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Good for spreading influence expressing love, appreciation. No time to be wallflower. Let others know where you stand and hope to go. Family member "saves the day."

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Loyalty may be tested. Be forthright. Say what you mean. Stress independence, originality. Don't follow the crowd for the sake of "company." Be firm, stand strong. You will win.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Proceed with caution, especially where automobile trips are concerned. Check directions. Realize others may not be as careful as they should be. Surprise visit due.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Person in authority "backs you up." Good day to assert self. But fight for what is right. In any case, state position. Changing at last minute results in prestige loss.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Take long-range view, especially where finances are concerned. Invest wisely, rather than on get-rich-quick scheme. In domestic relations, be wise, reasonable and act on fair basis.

Rye Champion Of P.E. County Entered Again

TORONTO (CP) — The hopes of hundreds of farmers around the world will be dashed or realized today when the judging classes of 20 judges who will pick and pinch more than 1,000 entries to the field crops division of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Six of the 16 growers who won world titles at last year's Royal have submitted samples of their crops this year, and an 11th world title—flax king—has been added for the 34th annual edition of Canada's largest fair.

Ontario rye grower Harry N. Gordon, who last year won the world championship for the second time, has entered again.

Krishna Menon

defence be taken over by you."

Menon's defence production resignation came as an Indian defence official reported Indian troops had shelled Chinese reinforcements near Walong at the eastern end of the disputed northeast frontier.

He added that the Chinese troops were continuing to build up strength in Chusul, Ladakh, at the western end of the frontier. No fighting was reported there.

A Congress party spokesman said Nehru told today's meeting he has received representations from party members in India supporting and opposing Menon's retention in the cabinet.

ARREST 17

In another development, 17 members of the Indian Communist party, including a leader of the party's executive council, were arrested today here and in Bombay and Nagpur.

The Indian Communist party has officially come out unreservedly in support of the government and against Communist China since the border conflict broke into a shooting war last month, although some party members reportedly opposed the move.

Nehru told the Congress Party executive today the key Indian post of Chushul in Northern Ladakh on the northwestern end of the disputed border was in Indian hands and was being well guarded.

Govt.

ever, the caucus never came off —though there seemed to be a lot of informal strategy talks on the Commons floor as the party wings before the votes were taken.

As it turned out, the only two Social Credit MPs who supported the Liberal motion were Gerard Laroy (St. Antoine-Dorchester) and Henri Latulippe (Compton-Frontenac).

Mr. Lay said later that his vote did not indicate his support of the "Liberal rot that brought our country for 22 years." He had voted against the "Conservative rot" that was doing the same thing now.

DECLINES COMMENT

Mr. Caouette declined to comment on his abstention except whether it indicated a split between him and Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson. He voted with the government.

The Liberal motion, introduced during the Opposition Leader Pearson, was the traditional non-confidence amendment motion that the House resolve itself into committee of supply. It reads:

"This House is of the opinion that the emergency austerity program of tariff increases and tight money, introduced on June 24 of this year, should be stopped at once."

The Social Credit amendment to this added these words: "... and replaced with a policy of debt-free money and constructive proposals for tax reform to foster a balanced economy economy and balanced international trade."

Liberal members Walter Gordon (Toronto Davenport) and Paul Martin (Essex East) emphasized before the votes were taken that in supporting the Social Credit amendment they would not be endorsing that party's monetary theories. Liberals say the term "debt-free money" in a different light than the Social Credit party, they explained.

After the votes were disposed of, the House heard Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) attack the government for extending its wage freeze on civil servants to prevailing-rate employees.

These are workers engaged by the government for part-time work.

to get under way.

U Thant, leading UN secretary-general, scheduled meetings today with envoys of the United States, the Soviet Union and Cuba to iron out final arrangements for the operation.

TALKS WITH RED CROSS

Thant met for 70 minutes Tuesday night with Paul Ruegger, former president of the International Committee of the Red Cross, and Melchior Borsinger, secretary of ICRC executive board, who flew here from Geneva.

A UN spokesman said Thant and the Red Cross representatives discussed ways of carrying out the inspection along the lines of the agreement reached by the United States and Russia.

After conferring with Thant, the Geneva officials set up an office at UN headquarters and began tying up loose ends in the plans for the operation.

Meanwhile, developments in the Cuban crisis remained hidden from view under a lid of secrecy. Inquiries on the progress of diplomatic negotiations and on weapons withdrawal are met with an official shrug of "no comment."

Responsible U.S. government sources did make known to reporters, however, that they discount first-hand reports of Cuban exiles that dozens of underground installations and caves are being used on the island to hide missiles and nuclear weapons.

Eusebio Mujal Burniol, former secretary-general of the Cuban Confederation of Labor, has confirmed such reports from underground sources in Cuba that caves are being used to hide missiles and nuclear weapons.

But U.S. government sources said such reports are not provable.

sonalities rather than issues, Democrats have pointed to California, the middle west, and in New England. They made some state gains and picked up a few House of Representatives seats in the southern states.

Democrats and Republicans traded governors' jobs at a fairly even pace. Republicans recovered governorships in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wyoming, Colorado and Connecticut. Democrats retaliated by taking Republican governorships in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Iowa and Hawaii.

A Democratic sweep in New England seemed geared to the landslide which elected Edmund G. Brown governor of California, while Democrat Robert Kennedy won the Senate seat older brother John F. Kennedy gave up to become president. It left the Republicans in control of the governor's office only in Maine. And last contest so close a recount might be ordered.

There was ample evidence that voters made their decisions on personalities rather than on party. For in a pinch, they elected a Republican governor and a Democratic senator in Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. In Iowa, they chose a Democratic governor and a Republican lieutenant-governor and a Democrat to congress in an at-large seat.

BEATS WINDSOR MAN

In Michigan, Romney, the liberal conquest car maker, cut into the traditional Democratic stronghold of the industrial area by knocking Democratic Governor John B. Swainson, a native of Windsor, Ont., out of office.

In Ohio, state auditor James A. Rhodes turned out Democratic Governor Michael V. DiSalle. Robert Taft Jr. brought Republican name back to Ohio politics by winning a congress at-large race. Democratic Senator Frank J. Lausche, often a critic of Kennedy's legislative proposals won re-election easily.

Multi - millionaire Scranton made a bid — or seem to be — for reckoned with in the Republican party by winning the governorship in a battle with Democrat Richardson Dilworth. But Democratic Senator Joseph S. Clark weathered the Republican storm to win re-election.

Six Horses Die

BOSTON (AP) — Six horses died early today in a fire that destroyed a barn at Suffolk Downs race track. Many other animals were led to safety by stable hands, police and firemen.

The fire was discovered two hours after 8,000 persons had left night harness racing.

Has Not Sold Business, Not Bankrupt Says Mayor

PICTON — Rumors that he had sold out his business, McFarland Construction Co., or gone bankrupt, were discounted by Mayor H. J. McFarland at town council meeting Monday night.

"I have been hearing such reports for a long time," he commented as he spoke of difficulty experienced in collecting monies.

The town's problem in this regard was mentioned by treasurer W. D. McArthur and the mayor said business was experiencing the same difficulty. "Four million dollars is owing my company for work done and if I could get my price I would sell," Mr. McFarland commented. "In all my years of business, I have never found it more difficult to collect money than now."

Though the mayor did not elaborate, it is understood that the firm is cutting down on its building department, but not in highway construction.

The mayor also told council that seasonal layoffs in his firm would see one thousand employees laid off in the next few weeks.

DEFEND ACTION

Council instructed Solicitor R. E. Nourse to represent the town and defend the action for damages brought by former engineer H. L. Gray who was dismissed "for cause."

Though a survey has been completed of buildings suggested as permanent town offices, Councillor Robert Walmsley stated the report will not be presented until the December meeting.

Assessor Leonard Tripp reported tax collections to date as totalling $262,774, or $2,465 more than at this time last year.

Building permits revealed that the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 272, plans to erect a hall on Talbot Street.

Councillor Andrew Jarvis expressed disappointment that the recently-formed Merchants' Association had by-passed council in setting its own closing hours. He felt it set a bad example regarding respect for authority. Council agreed to review store closing by-law with the Merchants' Association. (Several stores have been disregarding the by-law.)

The hawkers' and peddlers' by-law is to be amended.

Further steps to set up a Municipal Recreation Committee will await appointment of members when 1963 committees are named.

Premier Robarts To Visit Riding On December 10

PICTON — Prince Edward-Lennox Progressive Conservatives are to be favored with two visits by Premier John Robarts of Ontario, according to an announcement here today. The Premier will be in attendance at a workshop to be held in Napanee on November 17, when the ridings of East Hastings, South Hastings, Picton, Edward-Lennox, Kingston-Addington will send Kingston and the Islands and Prontenac-Addington will send representatives to discuss organization and procedure.

A tentative date of Dec. 10 has been set for a visit to Picton by Premier Robarts. On this occasion, a banquet is planned. The new Premier has yet to visit this riding.

Napanee Jrs. Win Over Picton 7-5

PICTON — Napanee "Redwings" evened their exhibition series with the Picton "Merchants" Monday night in Napanee by virtue of their 7 to 5 victory.

With team captain Larry "Pocket" Penn unable to attend this game, and the high scoring centre, Carl Stacey injuring his back early in the game, the "Redwings" scored 2 goals in the final 20 minutes to break a 5 all tie and sail away the victory.

Picton coach Bob Fawcett has suggested a Turk Broda treatment for his netminder Don Branscombe, (about 20 lbs. worth), results not guaranteed.

Thursday night the Cobourg Jr. "C" club arrive at the County Centre for an exhibition tilt, game time 8.30.

Reserved season tickets may be obtained the same night, while they last. Only $6.50.

Cornelius Langschmitt Sent To Trial on Criminal Negligence Charge, Child Is Killed

PICTON (Special) — Toronto man, Cornelius Langschmitt, has been ordered to stand trial on a criminal negligence charge in the traffic death of a three-year-old Belleville girl.

Langschmitt was committed for trial at the end of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

He was charged after an automobile accident August 26 at the Highway 14-Scoharie Road intersection at Huff's Corners, took the life of Susan Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Williams, Belleville.

Mr. Williams, a Northern Electric technician, told the hearing his daughter and wife were in the front seat of their automobile when the accident happened.

"It was like being hit by lightning," he testified.

"All of a sudden I saw the blurred outline of a car cross in front of me and I said 'Oh my God, this is the end'"

His next recollection, said Mr. Williams, was of sitting on the shoulder of the road with chest injuries.

"I saw my daughter lying ten feet ahead of me lifeless". DID OTHER INTERSECTION

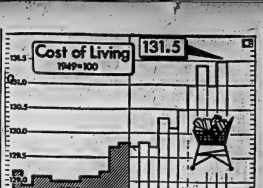
Cross-examined by defence counsel Louis Maraskas, of Belleville, Mr. Williams said he had not seen the highway intersection sign at the scene of the fatal crash.

He agreed there was nothing to prevent his view of cars approaching the highway from the Scoharie road, but he said he was watching the road directly ahead and not aware of any car approaching the intersection.

William White, a Kingston electrician said the Langschmitt car passed him on the Scoharie Road near a warning stop sign, just 565 feet from the intersection. He told the hearing the Langschmitt car did not stop at the intersection.

AGREES WITH COUNSEL

Ontario Provincial Police constable Don Byers, Belleville district headquarters identification officer who photographed the intersection, agreed with Mr. Maraskas that the Scoharie Road appears as if it continues unbroken across the intersection.



OPP constable Earl Graves, Picton detachment, said he thought the intersection was plainly visible. He admitted the warning stop sign could possibly be lost in a background of foliage and a service station sign.

The hearing lasted two hours until the magistrate decided there was sufficient evidence to send Langschmitt on trial.

Langschmitt did not testify. Present in the court with him were his wife and son. Mrs. Langschmitt is confined to a wheel chair as a result of the accident.

CHINA RENEWS ATTACK NEAR BURMA

Accept Red Plan To Tally Rockets Bound For Home

U.S. and Russia Agree On Inspection of Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—Blockading U.S. navy ships were ready to check homeward-bound Soviet vessels today for proof that they are hauling Russian missiles from Cuba.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told reporters Wednesday that 40 Soviet rockets had been dismantled in Cuba and probably were on their way back to Russia.

The Pentagon said that arrangements were being made with Soviet representatives for the navy to check on the number of dismantled missiles aboard the homeward - bound Russian ships.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant defence secretary for public affairs, declined comment when asked whether the Red Cross would play a part in the inspection procedure.

The administration has insisted on international verification of the missile pull-out.

At the United Nations, authoritative sources said Russia had accepted proposals that the U.S. navy inspect outbound Soviet ships. Agreement on details was reached late Wednesday, the sources said.

They added that Russia had made its proposal because of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's opposition to international inspectors in Cuba. The sources said the United States was "quite happy" with the agreement as far as it goes, but "it's not a complete substitute for on-theground inspection."

MRS. ROOSEVELT WITH PRESIDENT—This is one of the most recent public appearances of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who died last night at her New York home. The 78-year-old widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was a frequent visitor during a 1961 visit to the White House. (AP Wirephoto).

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Dies in N. Y., Ill Long Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose stature grew from the White House to the world, died in her Manhattan apartment Wednesday night.

The 78-year-old widow of the 32nd U.S. president and niece of the 26th president had suffered from what the family described as "a complicated type of anemia" for 2½ years.

Her health faded rapidly during the last six weeks, accelerated by tuberculosis which was not proved until Oct. 25.

Her physicians, expecting heart failure, were with her at the end, along with three of her five living children. Two sons were en route by plane from distant points. Nineteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive her.

"One of the great ladies in the history of this country has passed from the scene," said President Kennedy. "Her loss will be deeply felt by all those who admired her tireless idealism or benefited from her good works and counsel."

Leaders of the nation and the world joined in expressing sorrow and praise.

"I have lost an inspiration," said United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, the only person outside of the family to visit Mrs. Roosevelt during the final weeks of her illness. He went by invitation.

"She would rather light candles than curse the darkness," Stevenson said, "and her glow has warmed the world."

Private funeral services will be held at St. James Episcopal Church in Hyde Park, N.Y., north of New York City on the Hudson River, at 2 p.m. Saturday.

She will be buried in the rose garden of the family estate at Hyde Park, beside her husband, "in accordance with the joint wishes," the family said. His simple gravestone already

PLAN TO HAVE NATIONAL SONG 'TALKED OUT'

Socreds Wanted 'O Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — O Canada was No. 1 on the House of Commons hit parade Wednesday but a Social Credit MP's bid to make the French version of it Canada's official national anthem was "talked out."

A government member still was on his feet praising the idea when the Commons clock reached the 6 p.m. adjournment. Because the debate ran to adjournment, without reaching a vote, the resolution by Maurice Cote (SC—Chicoutimi) drops to the bottom of a list of private member's business and probably won't come up again this session.

Ten Social Credit members walked out of the House in protest when they saw the resolution would die without reaching a vote.

In his brief introduction to the measure Mr. Cote asked that his fellow MPs refrain from speaking so that a decision could be made. But members of all parties joined in a chorus of praise that took up the whole hour.

The main item of business in the Commons was a continuation of debate on a government bill to increase the lending authority of the Farm Credit Corporation to $400,000,000 from $300,000,000 and make more types of farms eligible.

Vincent Dumont (L — Argenteuil - Deux - Montagnes) charged that a corporation official, identified only as Mr. Allard, had denied a loan to a farmer in his riding because he was a prominent Liberal.

Agriculture Minister Hamilton said he would investigate the allegation "because if more than anyone else, want no suggestion of political" of that type.

ARGUE CRITICAL

In the same debate, Liberal farm critic Hazen Argue charged that the government was "choking off" loans to small farmers under the Farm Credit Act.

Loans to let small farmers increase their holdings were under the legislation are inadequate, he said.

Ill. Wm. Knowledge (NDP—Kootenay West) congratulated Mr. Argue for continuing to support the New Democratic Party policies he advocated while he was an MP in that group.

Earlier in the sitting, the daily oral question period again became the battleground for differences between opposition members and Speaker Marcel Lambert.

In his continuing campaign to keep questions short, pertinent

Week-Long Lull Broken By Drive East Of Bhutan

Defiant Nehru Cheered By Indian Parliament

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Chinese Communists have launched fresh attacks at the eastern end of the Himalayan battle line, the Indian defence ministry announced today. The action broke a lull of more than a week.

The fighting was at Walong, 15 miles from the Burma border, with the Communists making five shooting strikes in the last two days.

A defence ministry spokesman also reported an Indian patrol clashed with the Chinese outside Chang, one of the monastery town of Towang.

Towang, just east of the Bhutan border, was captured by the Chinese more than a week ago.

NEHRU CHEERED

Meantime, the Indian Parliament cheered Prime Minister Nehru as he said the Indian people will drive the "expansionist, imperialist - minded" Chinese invaders from "this sacred soil of India no matter how long and hard the struggle may be."

"No self - respecting country that loves its freedom and integrity can possibly submit to this challenge," Nehru told the crowded chamber. "Certainly we look."

His defiant statement in effect rejected a Communist Chinese offer to withdraw from the territory it has occupied on the northeast frontier if India would give up the Ladakh area adjoining Kashmir and Tibet in the northwest. India rejected a similar swap in 1959.

Peking's offer confirmed what many observers have felt was the Chinese aim in the last five years of border encroachment — to make India a secure connecting route between Tibet and the western Chinese province of Sinkiang. The Chinese already have built a road between Tibet and Sinkiang across Ladakh.

WARNS OF LONG FIGHT

Nehru warned Parliament the fight against the Communist "menace invasion" was not going to end soon—"we may have to face this for a number of years."

Outside Parliament 3,000 persons demonstrated with ban-

Toronto Factory Hand Almost Stole the Show

OTTAWA (CP) — A Toronto factory hand bearing a remarkable resemblance to Mr. Kiris Khrushchev almost stole the show at a Soviet Embassy reception Wednesday night marking the 45th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Many of the 300 to 400 guests at the gala affair took a first second look at 62-year-old Nick Koren to assure themselves he wasn't the Soviet premier.

Photographers were quick to spot the close resemblance and shepherded Mr. Koren about as they attempted to manoeuvre him into position for photographs with him shaking hands with Ambassador Anasgo Aroutunian—with a giant portrait of Mr. Khrushchev in the background.

They eventually succeeded after a stern word from the ambassador had foiled initial attempts.

"I'm always being mistaken for Mr. Khrushchev or told I greatly resemble him," said Mr. Koren, who has worked at electroplating in Toronto for the last 16 of his 35 years in Canada since emigrating from Poland.

WORLD WHEAT CROWN GOES TO ALBERTA FARMER

Wins Title After 2 Years on Farm

TORONTO (CP) — Fred W. Hallworth, a 54-year-old Taber, Alta., farmer who won the wheat king title in Chicago only two years after he took up farming, took the world title here Wednesday.

Mr. Hallworth, an electrician until 1951 when he switched to farming as "another way of making a living," won the world wheat championship at the field crop competition held in connection with the annual Royal Agricultural Winter Fair. The fair will be officially opened Friday.

The winning Chinook variety of hard red spring wheat was acclaimed by the judges as showing "general plumpness and good color; they (the grains) were well matured and deep red in color."

Mr. Hallworth, in an interview at his home, said he was "pretty happy" about taking the crown but doesn't feel he can afford the time to come here to accept the honors in person.

"There's a lot of work to do on the farm," he said.

HAS DOUBLE WIN

The pre-show judging also resulted in a double win by an Indians entrant; a feat unprecedented in the 34 - year - old Royal.

Floyd Hiner and Son of Lewisville, took the world championship in both ear corn and grain competition.

For the first time in at least 12 years the soybean award was taken out of Ontario with a Hiner entry of the Harosoy variety taking the title. The world corn championship was Hiner's third world crown in the division returning it to the state of Indiana for the fourth consecutive year. The variety entered was called Hiner's hybrid 850.

The soybean entry took the title from 1961 winner W. R. Sisson, Ridgetown, Ont.

Reserve champion this year was William H. Shanks, RR1, Wheatley, Ont.

The world potato champion was also declared Wednesday when an entry submitted by Anne MacAuley, East Baltic P.E.I. returned the title to that province for the first time in

Says Kennedy Unable to Control Military Advisers in Pentagon

MONTREAL (CP)—An American political science professor told students from 39 universities Wednesday night President Kennedy has been unable to control his military advisers in the Pentagon.

The remark has been a takeover of the United States by the military during the Kennedy administration, said Prof. F. L. Schuman of the University of Chicago.

Today's Chuckle

Classes may not make a man look more intelligent, but they do help him look.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — Cooler air is spreading southward across the province. The cooler air already covers most of Northern Ontario and temperatures through that area today will be near or below freezing. Snowflurries and possibly even a few snowsqualls will occur through the snowbelt area of Georgian Bay and Lake Huron today.

He told students at a conference on international affairs at Montreal's Sir George Williams university he was speaking "both as a United States citizen and as a supporter of President Kennedy."

Prof. Schuman said: "Mr. Kennedy has little talent for keeping the Pentagon down and is constantly being overruled."

He said the previous president, Gen.-ex-Dwight D. Eisenhower, had an understanding of military matters and was able to subdue and control the Pentagon. But Mr. Kennedy lacked this experience and understanding.

Referring to a recent novel in which a military coup in the U.S. is portrayed in 1972, he said: "I don't think we have to wait until 1972. I think a takeover has already come."

He said he thought there was a discrepancy between the president's speeches deploring the use of militarism, and his recent actions.

"We are far along the road to military rule — the question is whether we have come too far."

Book Reveals the Exploits Of Canada's Secret Agent

LONDON (CP) — After 17 tight-lipped years, a curtain was lifted today on the sensational cloak-and-dagger activities of Sir William Stephenson, perhaps Canada's top secret agent.

In a book called The Quiet Canadian, wartime colleague Montgomery Hyde tells for the first time the full, fantastic story of the intelligence operations Stephenson directed from a skyscraper office in New York's Rockefeller Centre.

Stephenson's net was cast wide. Hyde says the millionaire industrialist, born 66 years ago in the Fpint Douglas district of Winnipeg, played a key role in:

1. Persuading the Canadian government to act in the Igor Gouzenko spy case instead of doing nothing for fear of repercussions.

2. Setting-up a school in a quiet farmhouse near Oshawa, Ont., where more than 500 commandos, mostly Yugoslav-Canadians, were trained to kill silently and swiftly.

3. Preventing the Vichy French from setting up a wireless station in St. Pierre-Miquelon, off Newfoundland, that would have enabled Vichy to avoid British censorship.

4. "Feeding" information to U.S. newspaper columnists, such as Drew Pearson and Walter Winchell, that discredited Vichy and praised British efforts.

Stephenson had a headquarters staff of about 1,000 agents around the world and a laboratory in Canada that mixed secret inks and could duplicate letters produced by the most idiosyncratic typewriter.

Officially known as British Security Co-ordination, and ostensibly acting to protect British commercial interests, the Stephenson organization penetrated foreign embassies, frustrated a Nazi plot in Bolivia that might have helped the Nazis, caused Brazil to cancel an Italian airline contract that constituted the one big gap in the British blockade, trained double agents and trapped hundreds of foreign spies.

When the United States entered the war, Stephenson co-operated with his close friend William Donovan, later head of the office of Strategic Services, and J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Donovan once said:

"Bill Stephenson taught us all we ever knew about foreign intelligence."

U.S. author Robert Sherwood, who called Stephenson a "quiet Canadian" and inspired the book's title, also paid tribute to Stephenson, who in 1946 received the U.S. Medal for Merit,

Ballet Split, Girl Injured In Circus Act

MILAN (AP) — The crowd under the big top held its breath.

Kholdy Barlay, a sharpshooter from West Germany, aimed a carbine at his pretty 20-year - old wife, Annelise, and, one by one, picked off five balloons tied to her head. The audience roared approval. The tent rang with applause.

Across the city in a hospital operating room, doctors operated on 19-year-old Aline Althoff, shot a week ago when she substituted for Barlay's wife in the sharpshooting act.

The doctors were unable to save the girl's right eye, which had been injured by a bullet fragment that pierced the eye and lodged in the brain. But they reported that the girl was beginning to recover from the partial paralysis that followed her injury.

Barlay, 37, stunned by the mishap, said he had never missed the target balloons before. Police investigators found that the bullet, made of hard plastic, had split in flight. One piece hit the girl. The other burst the balloon.

Convict Estes Of Swindling Cotton Farmer

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A state court jury convicted Billie Sol Estes Wednesday of swindling a cotton farmer out of money in a mortgage transaction and set his sentence at eight years in prison.

District Judge Otis Dunagan permitted Estes to remain free on bond while his lawyers prepared a motion for a new trial.

As the jury's verdict was read, Estes' jaw clenched and he looked grim. His wife, who sat near him, appeared on the verge of tears. The jury deliberated for two hours and eight minutes.

De Gaulle's Attack on Parties Is Criticized by French Papers

PARIS (Reuters) — French newspapers today criticize President de Gaulle's denunciation Wednesday night of political "parties of yesterday" and his appeal to electors to vote for "political renovation."

In a television broadcast, de Gaulle said on the French people to confirm in the general elections Nov. 18 and 25 the verdict they gave in the Oct. 28 referendum in favor of direct popular election of the president, which he said disavowed the established parties.

In an editorial today, conservative Le Figaro says:

"The vehemence and attitudes the brutality of his attacks against the parties moved him to inaccuracies and to some unfairness at a time when, after the hard-won but clear victory of the referendum, he expected a call to reconciliation that is more necessary than ever."

Right-wing radical L'Aurore says de Gaulle asked the people to elect legislators who say "yes" to him, and not to represent them.

Communist L'Humanite says the president openly intervened in the electoral campaign as head of a party he wanted to make the only party.

In his speech, de Gaulle called for a "big majority for political renovation" and emphasized "it is absolutely necessary" that in his majority from the recent referendum on his presidential election plan should be retained "first of all that it should be established in Parliament."

In a stinging attack on the parties he said "the parties of yesterday do not represent the nation even when a common professional passion momentarily unites them."

"We saw this clearly and terribly when their regime abdicated in the disaster of 1940. We saw it again when in 1958 they handed over to me on the verge of anarchy, bankruptcy and civil war. We have just verified it again in 1962."

All parties except the Gaullist party united in opposing the referendum calling for election of presidents by popular vote instead of an electoral college but the proposal was approved by 62 per cent of those who voted.

Taxable Assessment Up Million Over Last Year

Taxable assessment in the city of Belleville for 1963 will be an estimated $31,500,000 or an increase of roughly $1,000,000 over that for 1962.

The above figures have been provided by Assessment Commissioner G. L. Thompson to City Manager J. R. Reynolds and are included in the manager's quarterly administrative report presented to council.

The report shows that $438,000 in assessment values was added to the collector's roll in the third quarter of 1962, this amount being made up of $162,040 in residential and $276,940 non-residential assessment.

Total assessment evaluation added to the roll as of September 30th was $1,062,580, an increase of $294,420 over the same period last year.

The re-assessment program of the department is reported to be on schedule, the new assessment figures to be available next year for the 1964 taxation period.

Committee Will Accept Briefs On Store Hours

Written briefs from interested persons or organizations will be invited by members of a special city council committee appointed to investigate the request of Belleville Pharmacists for a change in the store closing by-law to allow evening shopping two nights per week.

Chairman of the committee, Alderman Les Digby said a special meeting would be held at the city hall Nov. 15th at 8 p.m. at which the written briefs would be received.

The Belleville Plaza Merchants Association has requested a review of the existing early closing by-law, while this week the downtown merchants association say they are satisfied with the Friday evening late closing and want the by-law to remain as it is.

Committee members appointed to look into the matter are Alderman Les Digby, Don Whalen and George Wishart.

Pleads Guilty To Being Impaired, Fined

A Thurlow Township man pleaded guilty to being impaired after the charge had been reduced from drunk driving in magistrate's court this morning.

Arthur Marshall Bradshaw, resident of Thurlow's 4th Concession, was fined $75 and $20 costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

A three-month licence suspension is automatically imposed on conviction on the charge.

Mr. Bradshaw was charged October 13 after O.P.P. were called to the Concession road near Highway 37.

O.P.P. constable R. C. Lewis said he found the Bradshaw automobile off the road near a hydro pole.

Defence counsel Tom Lally said Mr. Bradshaw returned home leaving his car by the roadside, but was later driven back to the scene by his son where he was interviewed by the officer.

Start Demolition Of Property For Parking Lot

Demolition of the Don Harpell property on upper Front St. in the downtown area, is now underway with the expectation that the property will be available for additional off-street parking early in December.

The property has been acquired by the city parking authority which has arranged for the demolition of the several buildings in make way for the parking lot.

Another city landmark—the former Stobie building at the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell Street, is also soon to disappear, likewise to make way for additional off-street parking. Tenants of the building have been notified to vacate and tenders have been called for the demolition of the old residence, in recent years used for business offices.

City Hunters Getting Share In North Woods

With the deer-hunting season but a few days old, Lands and Forests Department officials at Tweed headquarters state the weather has co-operated with the hunter's prayer for "snow on the ground."

Conditions north of No. 7 Highway are said to be ideal with two to three inches of snow South of Number 7 there are only traces to be found.

It is too early to predict the outcome of the hunt but some residents south of Number 7 have reported less hunters in the bush than this year in comparison to last year.

But Bob Blaind of this city just returned from a successful hunting trip, and there are lots of deer in that part of the bush where he went hunting.

Blaind shot a nice 160-pound buck about nine a.m. the opening day while hunting near Cordova Mines north of Marmora. His first shot brought the animal down. A second just missed a doe.

He was hunting with Harry, Fred and Ken Hall and Bill Coates of the city who joined forces with a group from Cordova. Another member of the party accounted for a doe.

Jack Ruttan of the city is reported to have brought down an eight-point buck.

An unconfirmed report has it that another hunter shot three deer and missed a fourth.

Hunter traffic going north on Highways 41 and 62 from No. 7 was exceptionally heavy on the Saturday and Sunday preceding the opening date.

Conservation officers on the checking stations at Kaladar and Eldorado during the coming weekend will learn the details of hunter success.

Harry J. Clarke School to be Opened Nov. 14

The official opening of the Harry J. Clarke public school in East Hastings will be held Wednesday, November 14th, with R. E. Bornhold, assistant superintendent of elementary education, as the guest speak er.

The Harry J. Clarke school was constructed in two stages, the initial stage being largely completed before arrangements were made for the additional six rooms. The school now consists of 11 standard classrooms, a library, music room, home economics and industrial arts room.

Fencing of the east and south boundaries of the six-acre school site is now in progress while filling and grading of some parts of the site is still uncompleted.

T. Andre and Sons Ltd. of Belleville built the first section of the school at a cost of $229,777, while the additional wing was built by The Tatham Company at a cost of $121,785.

Two Youths Continue to Seek Bail

Two Belleville youths charged with breaking and entering continue to seek bail after yet another appearance in magistrate's court today.

Robert Thomas Bennett, 19, and 25-year-old Leonard Clifford Wood, were remanded for a week today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Bail was set for Bennett at $5,000 while Wood is asking $2,500. Today they were again remanded to November 23 by the magistrate.

The pair, arrested after a break-in at Lafferty's Pool Room, East Bridge Street, October 28, were represented in court by Belleville lawyer Louis Marsaksa.

Drunk Driving Charge Brings Twelve Days

A 21-year-old Trenton RCAF airman was sentenced to 12 days for drunk driving after appearing in T. Y. Wills today.

LAC Wendell Alan Robinson pleaded guilty to the charge, laid by Belleville OPP officers after the airman was stopped by police September 17.

OPP constable Don Thoms, describing the accused's condition at the time, testified Robinson also requested a blood test.

The test-taken three hours after his arrest, revealed 2.5 parts alcohol in his blood-stream. A conviction of 2.0 parts is considered fatal.

"Enough said, I guess," commented magistrate Wills.

Robinson, who said the car was owned by his brother, a resident of Moosonee, told the magistrate he had already seven days leave from the RCAF before appearing in court.

"I cannot let him off with seven days on this charge," said the magistrate. "As far as the car is concerned that is a matter for the Department of Transport."

A six-month licence suspension is automatic on a drunk driving conviction.

Senior Citizens Observe Club's Ninth Birthday

Last evening about one hundred members of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club assembled in the recreation rooms on Pinnacle Street to enjoy a somewhat belated Hallowe'en party, combined with the 9th annual birthday celebration of the organization of the club.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Charles L. Hyde, with the National Anthem, followed by the club theme song and Birthday greetings to several members who will be celebrating that occasion sometime during this month.

Mrs. Gist reported having visited quite a number of members who were ill and some confined to hospital. Two new members were welcomed by the president and also several visitors, three of whom were from the Trenton Senior Citizens' Club, including their president, Mrs. E. Pantier.

A singsong was enjoyed by all, under the direction of Mrs. Haley, with Mrs. Shirley at the piano, which included a solo by Mrs. Haley.

The president invited Mrs Panter and Mr. Fred Cook, one of the first presidents, to cut the lovely birthday cake, which was decorating in greetings of the occasion.

Mr. Charles Reynolds entertained the members with a number of impersonations.

Quite a large number of members arrived in appropriate costume and these persons were awarded prizes. Decorations in the rooms to suitable music provided by George Gulliver and Mrs. Donovan at the piano.

Prizes were awarded to those judged the best, as follows: Initial lady and Mrs. Fred Cook; best lady comic, Mrs. Murray; best men's comic, Arthur Lucas; best all-round lady, Mrs. Accerra; best all-round man, Mr. Frank Bedell; best couple, Mr. and Mrs. Lucas; doctor and nurse, Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Chambers. The judges were Mrs. Hilda Inman, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. E. Panter.

A musical program and dancing were enjoyed with Mrs. Donovan and George Gulliver at the piano and concertina.

Arrangements were completed for the annual Santa Claus Parade last held prepared by the Belleville firemen and also for the annual Christmas dinner which will be held on Dec. 19th.

Delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

12 Pictures Of City Scenes At Museum

For a limited time, the Hastings County Museum is showing a collection of 12 small pictures of Belleville scenes and citizens in 1860. The pictures, actually stereopticon slides, are loaned from a Montreal book company.

Although several of the pictures have not yet been identified, several have been. These include pictures of a train and crew at the old Grand Trunk Station here in 1860, a picture of Susanna Moodie (the noted Canadian authoress) in front of her home at the corner of West Bridge and Sinclair Streets, a view of the East Hill and a view looking north from Front Street up Victoria Avenue.

Those persons wishing to see these unusual pictures should do so immediately, since the pictures must shortly be returned. The museum is open Thursday and Friday evening of this week from 7 to 9, and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5.

Santa Claus Parade Movies Will Be Shown

Highlights of the 1961 Belleville Santa Claus Parade will be re-lived tonight at a meeting of this year's parade committee, being held at the Moira St. firehall.

Movies taken of last year's colorful parade will be shown at the meeting which is to get underway at 7.45 tonight.

Mr. George Rutledge, Santa Parade committee treasurer, urged a good turnout at the meeting.

"We need lots of help if this year's parade is to be a success, and everyone at all interested is invited to attend this evening's meeting," he said.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON — In loving memory of our dear brother, Pte. Wallace R. Anderson, killed in action while serving in England, November 8th, 1944.
Dearer still as time departs,
Your memory lives within our hearts.
No length of time can take away,
Thoughts of you from day to day.
—Never remembered by Mom, Dad, Gary and Helen.

ANDERSON — In loving memory of our dear brother, Wallace Anderson, killed in active service in England, November 8th, 1944.
Nothing can ever take away,
Memories we have from day to day.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance with you him keeps.
—Ever remembered by Keith, Ruth and children.

EMERSON — In loving memory of our dear brother, Charles Emerson who passed away on November 8th, 1961.
At night the silent stars look down,
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps one we can't forget.
The one we love so dear,
His memory is a keepsake,
With God for safe keeping,
We know he is in His keeping.
Lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers and sisters.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by wife Enid and daughter Pam.

PASCOE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Ernest F. Pascoe, who passed away November 7, 1961.
God gave us much we miss him
Never shall his memory fade
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the place where he is laid.
—Sadly missed by dad, brothers and sisters.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbours and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown to us in the loss of our beloved wife Annie Mason. A special thanks to Drs. Rusnak and Hamilton, also to Mr. John R. Bush and staff for the funeral service, to Rev. Arthur Deacon, J. R. Creegan, Rev. R. Pierce and Rev. E. Cooke for their comforting words, and for the floral tributes and those who loaned cars, also to the Masonic lodge, family of the late Mrs. Annie Mason.

I wish to extend my thanks to all my relatives, friends and neighbors for all the lovely cards and letters sent to me during my stay in both Belleville and Kingston General Hospitals.

OHA Launches New Plan in Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A community-wide prepaid prescription drug plan was launched today by the Ontario Hospital Association here.

The Blue Cross plan will cover doctors' prescriptions but patient or proprietary medicines. All of Owen Sound's 17,000 residents — regardless of age, previous illness, chronic conditions or whether employed or not—will be eligible for coverage by the plan.

Subscribers will pay premiums of $8 a year per person and $16 a year for a family of any size. There will be an amount of $25 deductible per person (not per family) that Blue Cross will pay for all drugs above this annual deduction.

The OHA hopes to extend the plan to all Ontario residents if satisfactory results are obtained from the Owen Sound project and other community tests expected to be undertaken in the next few months, said an OHA official.

AWAITS INFORMATION

Blue Cross announced its first interest into the study covering last June but the project limited to selected employee groups. Only the case effective Oct. 1, no actuarial information is yet available.

It will be about 18 months before much can be learned from the project in Owen Sound, because until subscribers' $25 deductible is used up cl·ims will not be submitted to Blue Cross.

"We don't know the answers yet, but we are putting a few dollars on the line to find out whether such a plan can be economically underwritten," said the OHA spokesman.

Blue Cross said it expects a majority of Owen Sound residents to enrol in the new plan.

Premier Roblin Had Astute Move Blow Up

By STAN McCABE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Duff Roblin made what appeared to be an astute move for his Progressive Conservative government Wednesday, but it blew up in his face.

The key figure was Rene Prefontaine, son of Edmond Prefontaine, Liberal member of the legislature for Carillon and a former Liberal-Progressive cabinet minister.

Mr. Roblin was all set to have Rene Prefontaine sworn in as municipal affairs minister. When the time came for the ceremony, reporters were ushered to Mr. Roblin's office and the premier said Mr. Prefontaine had declined the post for "family reasons."

The "family reasons" were not explained.

SOUGHT CANDIDATE

But this is how an informed source described the situation:

Six weeks ago, premier Roblin went to the southeastern riding of La Verendrye looking for a Progressive Conservative cabinet bye-election proposed for Dec. 12.

Party officials there said they would like to run Rene Prefontaine who lived in the neighboring riding of Carillon, represented in the legislature by Rene's father, Edmond.

After that, Mr. Roblin proposed the cabinet appointment before announcing the bye-election and Rene agreed.

He didn't tell his father, Edmond, about the deal until last Sunday night, according to the source. After a long discussion Tuesday night, Rene decided not to take the cabinet job.

It was not known precisely when he informed the premier of his decision, but it wasn't in time to call off the pre-arranged ceremony to which reporters had been summoned and for which Lieutenant-Governor Errick Willis was on hand to administer the oath of office.

Oversight

NEW YORK (AP) — A would-be customer posed for two photographs in a shop Wednesday night, then robbed the operator of $240.

But he forgot the negatives of his pictures.

Today police distributed 10,000 pictures of the robber.

MAKES GOOD FLIGHT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Atlas, a mainstay of U.S. military and space programs, has logged its 150th flight with a successful 5,000-mile strike down the Atlantic tracking range. The air force announced the rocket achieved all test goals on the flight Wednesday.

Minister's Letters to Spy Bring Demands He Resign

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan faced mounting demands today for the resignation of a government minister because of his letters to convicted spy John Vassall.

A white paper reviewed 23 letters, notes and telegrams from the former civil lord of the admiralty, Thomas G. Galbraith, to the $40-a-week admiralty clerk who spied for Russia.

Galbraith now is undersecretary of state for Scotland. He was Vassall's chief during the years he was at the admiralty. His government investigating committee reported Wednesday:

"Prima facie, the letters in themselves do not appear to contain any implication of a relationship constituting a security risk."

The letters were found in Vassall's luxury apartment after he was arrested. They revealed that Vassall tried to get a job in either No. 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's official residence, or in the cabinet office.

OFFERED HELP

Galbraith, who offered to help Vassall find another post, suggested in one letter he might become an official courier.

Another letter suggested Vassall should bring Galbraith a "secret dictation machine" in miniature.

Nothing sinister was contained in the letters but their tone indicated a personal friendship between the minister and his clerk. Opposition Labor MPs claim they show Galbraith had ample evidence that Vassall was living beyond his means yet made no report to his security men.

Vassall, 38, an admitted homosexual, was sentenced to 18 years in prison for espionage. The Russians paid him large sums for the secrets he passed to them.

Building Total For October Moves Higher

TRENTON — Building values for the month of October were up from those recorded in September, according to a report released yesterday by building inspector William Anderson.

During October, 14 permits were issued and the estimated value of this new building and repairs to existing buildings, was $90,575. September values stood at $35,102. On the other hand, October, 1961 values were registered at $222,780, the now completed addition to Queen Elizabeth public school accounting for $70,000 of this sum. In October, 1961, permits for 14 new homes were taken out, and values set at $141,970. In October of this year, permits for two new homes accounted for $23,500 of the month's total building values.

October, 1962, saw permits issued for an addition to an industrial plant, (Hinde and Dauch), and for two Canex Electronics plant in North Trenton and these were valued at $57,000.

Last month too, permits were issued for the building of new dressing rooms at the Trenton Community Gardens, ($5,000); two garages, ($800); repairs to two homes, ($600); two commercial repair jobs ($3,200) and the erection of two signs ($175).

Total of building for 1962 from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 is $2,238,384.00, as compared with last year's total for the same period of $1,064,296.00. With 1961 total year's values at $1,587,046.00, and two months to go, there seems to be a possibility that the new mark might be within a stone's throw of doubling last year's building mark.

Revision Court Hearings Set

TRENTON — Assessment Commissioner J. Allan Smith said today that the Trenton Court of Revision hearings would be held on the evening of Nov. 12, 13 and 14, starting at 7.30 p.m. each evening, in the council chambers.

Mr. Smith said that the appeals compared in numbers with those of 1961 (less than 100) and that for the most part, appeals concerned assessment on residential property.

The assessment commissioner said that figures on total assessment in the town would be released following the hearings before the court.

This year's chairman of the Court of Revision is Councillor Lloyd Worrall.

Ratepayers' Head Will Seek Council Seat

TRENTON — Alfred Vaughan, president of the Trenton Ratepayers' Association has announced his intention of running for a seat on 1963 council.

Mr. Vaughan was defeated in a similar bid last year.

To date Mr. Vaughan is the only town citizen to announce his intention of seeking public office. Voter will be asked to select three councillors, four board of education members and one commissioner for the PUC.

Load of Logs Shifts on Tractor Trailer

TRENTON—Thomas Lasher, 29, of 107 McFarlane Drive, Belleville, narrowly escaped injury yesterday, when a load of creosoted logs on a tractor trailer truck he was driving for Argosy Carriers Ltd., of Toronto and Belleville, shifted.

Lasher had separated the tractor from the trailer while the logs were loaded, at the Canada Creosoting plant, in Trenton. With the logs loaded, he stepped into the cab, and prepared to hitch the rig together again. If was while he was backing the tractor up to the trailer, but before the two were in contact, that the load shifted. The trailer rolled onto its left side, spilling the load across the ground and breaking the dolly wheels on which the trailer rested when not supported by the tractor. The stakes on the right side of the trailer broke off, causing further damage to the dolly wheels.

The damage to the trailer was estimated at about $1,000 The tractor, with Lasher inside, was not involved in the accident.

Air Cadets' Leader Receives Decoration

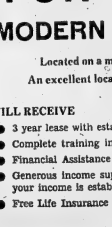
TRENTON — At a special Wings Parade of Trenton High School Air Cadet Squadron No. 178, Tuesday night, Squadron Leader G. A. Frost, who has served with the local squadron for the past two decades, was presented with the Canadian Forces Decoration by Wing Commander J. A. Arnett, chief administration officer at RCAF Station Trenton. The honor was in recognition of Mr. Frost's service with the squadron, and at air cadet summer camps at the Trenton air station over an extended period.

Police Dept. Probe Now Under Way

TRENTON (Special) A probe into the administration of the Trenton Police Department is being carried out by Inspector Vernon Whitley, Staff Inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police, it was stated today by Mayor James MacDonald.

It had been street rumor for several days that the investigation by the police inspector was underway and today Mayor MacDonald confirmed the rumor.

Some weeks ago Trenton town council retained the firm of Woods-Gordon to conduct a probe into the administrative practices as carried out in the town municipal office and public works department. This has been done but the report has not been submitted as yet.



The Trenton Police Commission, however, refused to allow the private firm to conduct the probe into the police department administration.

The Provincial Police inspector was called in lieu of the work being done by the private firm.

Quinte Seniors, Peterborough In COSSA Final

Quinte Secondary School senior footballers trek to Peterborough tomorrow afternoon where they meet the Adam Scott C. I. gridders in a sudden-death COSSA championship game.

The Peterborough team advanced to the final against Quinte by virtue of a convincing 31-14 defeat of Oshawa Central Collegiate in Peterborough this week.

The game was originally slated for Belleville but a last-minute change switched the game to Peterborough.

Phone Service To P.E. County Cut by Digger

Bell Telephone service from Belleville to Prince Edward County and toll service to Picton was partially disrupted Wednesday afternoon when a posthole digger accidentally pierced a buried cable.

Approximately 55 local service lines were cut by the digger, as well as service wires to Picton went out of commission when moisture got into the cable.

Telephone company officials said the break occurred about 2.15 in the afternoon and circuits were all repaired by 7.30.

Top Price Of 37 7-8 Paid for Cheese

A top price of 37¼ cents was paid for first grade colored cheese on the local cheese exchange this week.

The price range for first grade white was from 37 11-16 cents to 37 13-16 cents and for first grade colored from 37¼ cents to 37¾ cents. The average price for white was 37¾ and for colored was 37 13-16 cents.

There were 11,226 large cheese offered, 3,383 specials and 6,134 square cheese. Top price for square cheese was 37¾ for raw milk cheese and 37¼ for heat treated.

U.S. Reporters Allowed to Go To Guantanamo

WASHINGTON (CP) — Democrats amassed the greatest Senate strength in 24 years in the U.S. election which crushed the political hopes of Richard Nixon and raised the Republican spectre of New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller as a potential presidential challenger in 1964.

The public debate whether President Kennedy got the kind of mandate he wanted. The White House claimed the Senate gains and the slim GOP losses in the House of Representatives indicated a clear victory for the president's programs.

Significantly, some members of the ultr-conservative John Birch Society were among those in the Tuesday congressional fight. But veteran conservative Democrats who oppose Kennedy's welfare legislation got re-elected to remain in control of key committees.

It was evident, however, that Kennedy accomplished what has been achieved only once before in the last 50 years—the traditional mid-term erosion of the majority party's congressional strength was halted.

Democrats gained four Senate seats, giving them a total of 66 out of 100; the greatest number since the 1936 election when Democrats captured 69. Only 51 are required for control. This was a definite setback for the Republicans, who expected at least a few gains and instead were reduced in strength to 32 from 36.

CONTROL HOUSE

And in the 435-seat House of Representatives, where Republicans predicted minimum gains of 25 to 30 seats, vote tallies indicated a net Republican gain of just two—to 176 from 174. Democrats remain in control for the next two years with an indicated 259 seats. A total of 218 are needed for control.

Mid-term erosions of majority power in the House have averaged about 40 seats in each of the last 50 years.

But the Democrats lost control over some big states—such as Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio — and vote results indicated Republicans picked up strength in the big northern cities where Democrats usually draw their main support.

Republicans also picked up more votes in the southern states which traditionally support Democrats. The Democrats countered by taking over long-held Republican strongholds in the New England states.

Interest Grows In Emergency Measures Work

TRENTON — The Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization is beginning to make its weight felt, at least as far as Trenton is concerned.

In spite of a poor attendance at last week's EMO meeting in Trenton high school, various local groups are reported to be taking an active interest in community survival.

Instructor Frank Coleman of the Trenton Fire Department, is attending St. John Ambulance First Aid courses, which tie in with EMO planning, and he will pass this information on to other members of the department.

The St. John branch is sponsoring a special course in survival procedures. Tuesday night, branch members watched William James, branch secretary of the Belleville brigade, and Director Superintendent J. W. Hodgson, also of Belleville, demonstrate mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, assisted by "Resuci-Anne." Mr. Whitley, Staff Inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police, it was stated today by Mayor James MacDonald.

It had been street rumor for several days that the investigation by the police inspector was underway and today Mayor MacDonald confirmed the rumor.

Some weeks ago Trenton town council retained the firm of Woods-Gordon to conduct a probe into the administrative practices as carried out in the town municipal office and public works department. This has been done but the report has not been submitted as yet.

The Trenton Police Commission, however, refused to allow the private firm to conduct the probe into the police department administration.

The Provincial Police inspector was called in lieu of the work being done by the private firm.

Says Canada Not Ready for National Flag

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is not yet ready for a distinctive national flag, Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot said Wednesday.

"We are not ready for a Canadian flag, because we do not have a true Canadian citizenship showing our loyalty to the Queen of Canada," the veteran Quebec Liberal said in the Senate's throne speech debate.

Shortly after Senator Pouliot's speech in the Senate, the Commons debated — inconclusively — a Social Credit member's motion that O Canada be adopted as the official national anthem.

Senator Pouliot suggested that the Citizenship Act be changed to provide that Canadians be called "Canadian subjects of her majesty."

"At the present time we do not know what we are," he declared, arguing that under the act Czech one of us is at the same time a Canadian citizen, a British subject and a citizen of the Commonwealth."

Referring to the government's announced intention of sponsoring a federal-provincial conference to consider choosing a national flag and "other national symbols" Senator Pouliot said:

"My suggestion is that a flag, a national flag, a distinctive flag, should give to all people who see it the knowledge that it represents Canada. . . .

Senator Pouliot discounted suggestions that a national flag should represent the various Canadian races.

"The only way to have a national flag is to think of a single idea and to incorporate in the flag a national emblem of any color on a national background of any color. . . .

"You have to be able to see the emblem to recognize the flag, and in order to have an emblem large enough you can have only one on the flag. You cannot incorporate all the elements that are now on the Red Ensign, emblems which you cannot see, properly when the flag flies over the Peace Tower."

American View of Canada

Robert W. Ritzman was scientific liaison representative in Canada of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He wrote a letter to the Washington Post in which he took issue with an editorial in that newspaper praising Canada for quick support of U.S. action during the Cuban crisis. The letter was published Monday. Tuesday Ritzman's recall was announced.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, at the instigation of the U.S. state department, has acted with admirable promptness. Apparently the action was taken spontaneously, without any Canadian protest being made regarding the sentiments expressed in Ritzman's letter.

It seems to us that it now behooves Canadians to match U.S. performance and this can best be done not by merely considering the incident closed, but rather by studying the substance of Ritzman's complaints about us and deciding whether they contain a germ of truth and whether, if they are in any way true, the cause for these complaints needs remedying.

The Washington Post contended that Canada had quickly backed U.S. moves in the Cuban missile crisis. Ritzman replied this editorial "served to misinform your readers and further delude Canadians into thinking the United States doesn't really expect them to uphold their end of commitments." A Canadian search of a Russian plane seven hours before the U.S. quarantine of Cuba actually went into effect was merely an effort to catch up "in the event of a hot war" rather than "a performance in the spirit of wholehearted co-operation," he concluded.

"I think the American public should know more of the Canadian attitude," Ritzman wrote. "The image that Canada is our good friend to the north who can always be counted on, is not true. To be sure, Canada does try to be a commitment, but Canada is most happy to let the United States carry the entire burden of defending the North American continent. I believe our foreign policy should be changed to that of wooing friendly conviction while insisting that she uphold her end of commitments on all occasions."

Now this is not the sort of language which people in Ritzman's position should use, and certainly warrants his recall. But it is not a wholly unreasonable attitude. What annoys Canadians on many occasions is precisely the presumption of the U.S. that we should automatically follow their lead. In the sense that we are not prepared to do so, it is true we cannot "always be counted on." It is not true we let the U.S. carry the entire burden of continental defence, but it certainly is true that the proportion of this load which we are willing to shoulder is small, and this may not spring solely from the fact we lack the resources for a larger effort. It is probably also true the average Canadian regards the need for defence measures as less urgent than does the average American, and that this difference in public opinion is reflected in government policies.

There is no reason why the U.S. should not establish a policy of "wooing (our) friendly conviction" and no reason, either, why it should not insist that we uphold our end of commitments on all occasions. We hope, though, none of our commitments require us to support U.S. action automatically regardless of our beliefs as to its merits. "Many Canadians," wrote Ritzman in his letter to the Washington Post, "are criticizing their government's indecisive and delayed action." On the other hand, there are many Canadians who believe a policy of indecision and delay, where it can be followed without harm, is precisely the right course to take in any situation where a prompt decision, if its repercussions are inaccurately estimated, could prove fatal.

On the whole, we are rather inclined to agree with Mr. Ritzman's analysis of Canadian policy, but we see no reason why this policy should be changed.

That $228 million the government hopes to save by budget cuts looks small beside the amount it owes on borrowing last July to prop the dollar.

In addition there's the $250 million loan it has just raised with five U.S. insurance companies. No wonder some Canadians worry when the doctor tells them they're as sound as a dollar.—(Brantford Expositor.)

To Frank or Not to Frank, Annual Dilemma for Members

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — With Christmas now only 39 shopping days (murder, isn't it?) the Honorable Members of the House of Commons are preparing themselves for their annual wrestle with their conscience.

For comes up, in the next few weeks, the annual question: "To frank or not to frank?"

They are not supposed to, but human nature being what it is, a lot of them do, postage free, those hundreds of thousands of Christmas cards every MP dispatches to deserving constituents.

The Parliamentary postage frank, a privilege of ancient origin, happens to be a two-way affair, although not many taxpayers appear to know it.

While them on duty in sitting, and for 10 days after (this takes care of the hiatus of the Christmas recess), an MP may send mail, free of postage, to his constituents. And, by the same token, they may get a free ride for their mail to him.

That is, except for Christmas cards.

The traffic some years ago got so heavy, the railways all but had to run special trains and of course, to carry the loss of Parliamentary Christmas wishes.

So a halt was called — in theory, if not exactly in practice.

It became a matter of honor for an MP to pop for postage on his Christmas wishes.

THE GAL JUDY:

But $10,000, when you have to maintain a residence and handle a lot of extraordinary expenses, leaves you little actual take-home pay, so the MP, like anybody else caught in a financial squeeze, looks around for where he can.

And the Christmas mail is a good place for corner-cutting.

This year, the free-riders on the Merry Christmas mail trains will be keeping a wary eye out for Judy LaMarsh, the gift of the voters of Niagara Falls to the Liberal Party and the Canadian people.

La Judy has accused Parliamentarians of a scandalous abuse of their mail franking privilege during last Spring's election.

Specifically, she accused former Public Works Minister Davie Walker of using 16 Civil Servants to stuff 18,000 envelopes with an election plea to the voters of Toronto-Rosedale.

Mr. Walker, in turn, charged Liberal defence critic, Paul Hellyer, with mailing, postage-free, some 30,000 campaign folders.

There were other accusations, and La Judy was clear-eyed enough not to overlook some of her fellow Liberals - all of them, of course, like Hellyer, backed by Mr. Walker and Mr. Hellyer.

But why bother to deny the all but obvious? Mr. Walker, in the life of an MP does he need, and he is not alone, to usefully use his free mailing privilege more than in an election campaign?

PIKERS

La Judy crowned her crusade against the free Parliamentary frank by demanding its abolition and substituting for it a special MP mail allowance.

(Same thing in the end, a charge to the country.)

Nobody has been objecting to the practice of free-riding the Parliamentary mails . . . least of all the taxpayers who have not been enough aware of it to pay any heed. They could have of the privilege of dashing off a postage-clear letter to their MP.

Anyway, Canadian Parliamentarians are amateurs, sheer pikers, compared with their U.S. and British MPs once worked the postage frank.

All on the record — and it probably has had something to do with the placing of some limitations on the use or abuse of the frank — that an MP in Britain once "mailed" his family, wife, two daughters, a son, a red setter dog and a pet rabbit on holidays, from London to Dublin, and, naturally, return. All franked of course.

Then there was the other British MP who franked a pack of hounds and his horse from his home in Yorshire to the Sussex Downs for the London for a weekend fox hunt.

After that, the British Post Office ruled that Parliamentarians might frank only that kind of mail that could be stuffed into a post box, which, presumably, did away with mailing of entire families and assorted livestock at the taxpayers' expense.

Cost of the postage frank in Canada? Last year it ran $5,000,000, covering 133,000,000 pieces of mail, most of it free-riding stuff from Government departments, and only a negligible fraction from the Honorable Members of the House of Commons.

Cost Goes Up Twice Price

Oshawa Times

Montreal farmer John Dickson told the Milk Foundation annual meeting in Oshawa this week that the Foundation should spend more money on public relations. He thought a stronger public relations campaign would change people's "mistaken ideas" about butter.

We hate to disagree with him, but it's going to take a lot more than persuasive talk to change people's minds about the cost of butter to the housewife and the taxpayer. And the housewife has another beef — she has the irritating chore of mixing color into margarine because of the pressure of butter interests on timid politicians.

The federal government this year came up with the imdandy idea of bribing Canadians with their money to eat more butter. It was called a "consumer subsidy" and the cost for the year is $42 million, according to Pierre Cote, president of the National Dairy Council, there has been an increase of about 36 million pounds since the subsidy went into effect. That works out to an annual increase of about 36 million pounds. At this rate the Canadian people will be spending $42 million to increase the sale of butter by 36 million pounds — an expenditure of $1.17 per pound, or just about twice the retail price of butter.

This is the sort of nonsense that makes the butter situation as messy as it is. And as long as it continues, any attempt at public relations work is going to make it smell any sweeter.

Probe Results To Be Ignored?

Peterborough Examiner

Seven months and three days after it began, the Royal Commission on Crime in Ontario has ended its labors and it now remains for the Commissioner, Mr. Andrew D. Roach, to sift 6 days of evidence amounting to 2,500,000 words, receive the briefs of 128 witnesses and examine 297 exhibits before bringing in his report. It would be idle to speculate on the precise form that report will take, but it is probable that Mr. Justice Roach will attempt to determine the extent of organized crime in this province and suggest remedies which our law enforcement system to deal more successfully with it.

By now it is relatively clear despite the protestations of the former Attorney General Kelso Roberts, that such a commission was needed. In fact, we have known about

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market slipped mildly during light morning trading today.

All sections showed fractional declines on index as price swings were confined to extremely narrow ranges.

Among industrials, Abitibi, Canadian Breweries, Consumers' Gas, Toronto - Dominion Bank and CPR all gained ¼.

Losses in a ¼ to ⅝ range went to Royal Bank, Steel Company of Canada, International Nickel, Pipe Line and Bank of Montreal.

Interprovincial Building Credits jumped 1¼ to a 1962 high of 9¼ after receiving a takeover offer from Traders Finance Corp. Traders offered $9.75 a share for any or all outstanding Interprovincial shares.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .21 to 536.79, golds .21 at 87.58, base metals .06 at 181.08 and western oils .03 at 116.66. The 1 a.m. volume was 383,000 shares compared with 638,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Among base metals, Labrador gained ¼, while Falconbridge dropped ½, Noranda ¼ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛. Speculatives saw Coppercorp slip a penny to 34½ cents.

In western oil, Great Plains Development declined ½ and Home B and Dome ¼ each.

The market stretched its gain string to eight consecutive sessions Wednesday.

Industrials wavered unsteadily through the morning, picking up some enthusiasm from a higher Wall Street market early in the afternoon.

By the close, the main list had climbed 3½ points. All other sections, however, declined fractionally.

Steels were a major strength-ening factor among industrials, with Algoma and Dominion Foundries and Steel both gaining one point. Steel Company of Canada climbed ¼.

Banks also advanced, with Montreal ahead ⅝, Royal ½, and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ⅜.

Among base metals, International Nickel climbed one point and Falconbridge and Hudson Bay mining ½ each.
